1,700 WALK OUT TIE CORNWALL MILLS UP AGAIN

CORNWALL, Ont., Aug. 26 (CP)—Back to work for three days after a five-week strike, 1,700 workers at the three Cornwall plants of Canadian Cottons, Limited, walked out of the mills today for the second time and stopped production.

The walk-out was not authorized by the local Textile Union, officials insisted and they expressed concern in view of an agreement reached last week to end the initial strike.

The number of Cornwall strikers reached 2,000, counting the 300 workers who walked out of the Cornwall plants and Prince Clothing Company plant yesterday. There were reports of other plants being tied up by strikes.

No explanation for the walkout of the cotton workers was available because no one seemed to be a leader. One group claimed the reason was the refusal of the company to re-employ workers dismissed Monday. Others blamed the walkout on company foremen who, they said, had placed extra work on some union members.

"We are just protecting fellow-workers who are not getting a square deal," one striker explained.

Fifteen minutes after the Stormont mill opened this morning, workers left their machines. They paraded to the Dundas and Canada mills where other workers joined them, tying up production in the three plants.

LEGALIZED SWEEP VETOED BY LEGION

TIMMINS, Ont., Aug. 26 (CP)—Legalization of sweepstakes was not a matter concerning war veterans, the Ontario Command of the Canadian Legion was told by Gen. Alex. Ross, head of the Dominion command, and the ex-servicemen voted down a resolution calling for legalized sweepstakes at their convention's closing session last night.

"We are here primarily to discuss problems relative to the welfare of ex-servicemen and not to dictate to the government concerning its policy on sweepstakes," Gen. Ross said. "The name of the Canadian Legion means something in this country and would certainly object to seeing it used in connection with any such scheme."

A resolution asking inquiry into working conditions of attendants and nurses at government institutions was approved by the war veterans. Passed on the Dominion Command was another approved resolution calling for establishment of a national military museum for house paintings, relics and historical possessions of the Legion.

Next year's convention of the Ontario Command will be held at Brantford under the new president, Col. H. R. Alley, Toronto.

GOVERNOR SIGNS DEBT MORATORIUM

EDMONTON, Aug. 26—(CP)—Alberta's new moratorium on debts, aimed to prevent collection of money by financial institutions for transfer outside the province, protects all debtors with the exception of 21 specified types.

The moratorium order signed yesterday by Lieutenant-Governor J. C. Bowen was a sequel to federal disallowance of Albert bankers' licensing legislation. It postpones until March 1, 1939, payments of debts contracted prior to July 1, 1936, and owed to corporations.

Declared under authority of Postponement of Debts Act passed by the Legislature last June, the moratorium prohibits institution of court actions and provides for suspension of all debt actions now before the courts. It does not cover debts owing by companies where provision is made under the Albert Debt Adjustment Act.

Family Corporation

One exemption is a "family corporation," described as a corporation of which 75 per cent of the stock is owned or controlled directly or indirectly by members of one family. At least one member of the family must reside in Alberta and take active part in the corporation's business.

Under the same classification is a business of which 80 per cent of the stock is owned by persons actively employed in the business or by such persons and their families. Other exemptions include debts owing by individuals to individuals, to the Crown or guaranteed by the Crown; to hospitals; as wages; by a debtor resident outside the province.

All exemptions except the "individual to individual clause" are the same as those contained in the reduction and settlement of debts act found unconstitutional by Mr. Justice A. F. Ewing of Alberta Supreme Court last February.

WINNIPEG, August 26—(CP)—Nearly 5,000 cattle have been shipped from Saskatchewan drought areas in the first two weeks the Dominion Government Drought Area Marketing Service has been in operation, C. E. Bain, a member of the committee in charge of the service, announced to-day.

Two thousand will be grazed in the 10,000-acre pasture land at Carberry, Man., 100 miles west of Winnipeg. These cattle will be fattened for market while the other 3,000 animals have been sold either on the market or to packing plants.

Toronto Woman Stabbed, Dies, Tourist Camp

Hunted Butcher Found Dead, Ruins Of Burned Cottage

Mystery Deepens in Climax of Alleged Fight With Man's Estranged Wife.

MANBERT, Ont., Aug. 26—(CP)—Charred body of William J. Hamilton, alleged slayer of Mrs. George Buck, was found in the ruins of a fire-destroyed tourist camp cottage here to-day. The knife with which police said he had fatally stabbed the Toronto woman lay beside the body, but how the man died was not immediately determined.

Identification of the remains was made possible by the lack of teeth. The 62-year-old Parry Sound butcher was said to have been without his false teeth when he arrived at this isolated summer resort 40 miles north of Parry Sound yesterday to interview his wife, with whom he had been estranged.

Butcher Knife Used

Mrs. Buck was stabbed in the abdomen by a 16-inch butcher knife taken from the butcher shop in Parry Sound in which Hamilton had been employed. It was said she interceded in an altercation between Hamilton and his wife, who operated a tourist camp here under the name of a former husband, a Mr. Cunningham.

The stabbing occurred yesterday. Hamilton was said by police to have set the sumer cottage afire after the alleged murder. Mrs. Buck, mortally wounded, was rescued from the flames by Mrs. Hamilton and her adopted daughter and it was first thought Hamilton had fled in dense bush surrounding the settlement.

How Hamilton died could not be learned until Coroner Dr. S. B. Biehn of Parry Sound, who went to the scene and performed an unsuccessful operation upon Mrs. Buck last night had made an examination. It was possible the man had been shot for it was known two rifles belonging to the owners of the cottage were in the building.

Mrs. Buck was moved by boat the 900 yards from the cottage to Manbert Station. The wife of a Toronto railway employee, she died in the station before a train arrived to take her to a Parry Sound hospital. The body today lay in a funeral home in that town, awaiting shipment to Toronto tonight.

Hamilton's body was found today by policemen searching the ruins of the cottage on Six Mile Lake, where Mrs. Buck, with her son, Sidney, had been vacationing.

Girl Escapes in Boat.

Police reports were that Hamilton came from Parry Sound yesterday to interview his wife. An altercation ensued after Hamilton was reported to have chased Mrs. Hamilton's adopted daughter, who jumped into a rowboat and fled over the river. Hamilton was then said to have returned to his wife's cottage and resumed the argument.

Mrs. Hamilton, it was reported, ran into the Buck cottage, followed by her husband. Mrs. Buck was slashed in the abdomen in the ensuing altercation and Mrs. Hamilton fled. She followed the method of her adopted daughter, jumping into another boat and rowing down the river.

Dragged From Fire

Mrs. Hamilton and her adopted daughter returned a short time later and found the Buck cottage aflame and Mrs. Buck mortally wounded. The cottage was destroyed but the wounded woman was rescued from the fire by Mrs. Hamilton, who operates a tourist camp here under the name of her first husband, Mrs. Cunningham.

Mrs. Buck was a guest at the camp with her 3-year-old son, Sidney. The wife of a steam fitter in the Canadian Pacific Railway coach yards at Toronto, she had been spending a holiday at the Cunningham camp. The body will be forwarded to Toronto tonight.

Telegraphing Kisses Will Not Be Allowed

New York, Aug. 26.

A waggish New Yorker telegraphed a birthday kiss Tuesday to a friend vacationing at Atlantic City. James McGuigan, 17, who delivered it for "the honor of the service," received a dime tip from the surprised recipient.

But Mrs. Katharine Blocher Meigs, director of the telegraph company's personal service bureau, indicated today no more kiss orders would be accepted.

"Our messengers are such young boys it might lead to all sorts of difficulties," she said.

QUEBEC PREMIER IS WILLING TO ACT AS MEDIATOR

MONTREAL, Aug. 26. —(CP)—Premier Maurice Duplessis is willing to act as mediator in Quebec's textile strike if the disputing factions—the Dominion Textile Company and 10,000 members of the National Catholic Federation of Textile Workers—agree to a round-table conference for settlement of their differences.

The Quebec government head consented to assume the task of conciliator in the 24-day-old walkout, for union recognition and higher pay, when he consulted Cardinal Villeneuve on the strike situation, the Archbishop of Quebec announced last night.

The cardinal made the announcement in an appeal to company and strikers to come to an agreement in the interest of "social peace." Gravity of the strike situation—"an extremely dangerous state of affairs"—prompted him to make the appeal, he said.

Cardinal Villeneuve asked the Dominion Textile Company "in their munificence of humanity" to consider their employees requests for a collective labor agreement, and the workers of the National Catholic Federation, the strike situation's "lamentable extremity."

Respect Private Property.

He requested the opposing groups to halt their bombardment of accusations at each other, warning the strikers they should respect the right to private property and appealing to the company management to examine the strike problem from the workers' point of view.

"Before any move is made towards conciliation or a truce, a more serene atmosphere must be established which will permit precise and exact examination of the principles and the facts involved," said the Archbishop's communication.

"We ask that the interested parties discontinue their biting statements, harmful insinuations and accusations which exasperate and unfavorably bias the mind. Newspapers in particular should avoid publishing offensive articles both in their news and editorial columns, now that public opinion is sufficiently alert."

The Cardinal requested that the company admit its undertaking, while bringing it considerable benefit, has weighed heavily on the worker, and "wounded his human dignity . . . particularly by the influence of his salary."

England will submit a questionnaire to 30,000 families to obtain data upon which the cost of living index may be revised.

30 Recovered Victims Plan To Donate Blood

Two Doctors From Toronto Will Be in Peterborough on Friday.

Cooperating with the health authorities in a province-wide fight against infantile paralysis, about 30 recovered cases from the city and district have volunteered blood donations.

Friday morning two doctors from the Ontario Department of Health will be at the offices of the local medical officer of health, and will take 200 cubic centremetres (about 7-ounces) of blood from each of the donors.

Serum will be made from the blood donated and will be used in the scourge that is particularly prevalent in Toronto, and which has broken out in many other centres up and down the province. To the two cases of infantile paralysis previously reported in Peterborough, another case has been added in the district. The latest outbreak of the dread disease occurred at a Stoney Lake resort, the patient being a young Toronto woman who has been removed home by ambulance. She is under the care of Dr. C. E. Cooper Cole of Toronto.

First of the two outbreaks reported in the city this year was a 18-months old boy whose parents live on McDonnel street. He is making good progress towards recovery and is in the convalescent stage.

More recently reported, the second case affects a 4½-year-old boy whose home is on Division street. He is under the care of Dr. R. F. Nott and serum has been administered, while Dr. G. Murray Fraser, medical officer of health states all health regulations have been fully complied with.

Detective Outruns "Thieves" In Car

Hamilton, Aug. 26.

HAMILTON'S youngest "auto thieves" were in custody for a time last night after Detective Orrie Young, travelling on foot, overtook them in the stolen machine at Rebecca and John streets. Escorted to the Police Station, they gave their ages as six and seven years and admitted they had taken a child's auto from Gage Park.

While they propelled it by foot power through the main streets, the owner reported his loss to police. Too young for even a Juvenile Court appearance, they were driven home in a police cruiser after they had reluctantly parted with the car.

ONTARIO IS SUING LAIDLAW ESTATE TO GET $1,150,000

PARIS, Ont., Aug. 26 (CP)—In a reference to collection of succession duties, Premier Mitchell Hepburn said in his address here last night a writ would be issued against the Laidlaw Estate of Toronto.

The Premier said:

"Tomorrow we are going to issue a writ to collect $1,150,000 from the Laidlaw Estate of Toronto, which we believe owing the Province. That estate contributed more than anything else to calling this Provincial election.

"I have said the 44 estates owe this Province something over $50,000,000. It is not an easy matter to resurrect all the information necessary but we have done that at great expense. On the other hand, the solicitors for the estates are clever men, and they are challenging or attacking the validity of certain actions of the Act which have not been amended for 18 years."

Five Years Given To Pro Burglar

TORONTO, Aug. 26 (CP)—Donald Robertson, termed "a deliberate, professional burglar—the worst who has ever been in this court," by Magistrate R. J. Browne, was sentenced to five years in penitentiary on conviction of 17 charges of housebreaking.

"This man has but one definition," Crown Counsel F. I. Malone said. "He was only released from Burwash Reformatory on July 18, and now pleads guilty to 17 charges of housebreaking, involving hundreds of dollars' worth of goods—yes, thousands. There is still a roomful of unclaimed stolen goods at police headquarters."

British Interests To Be Protected

LONDON, Aug. 26.—(CP-Havas).—Continued protection for British interests in the Far East and in the Mediterranean was promised to-day after a meeting of Prime Minister Chamberlain, Foreign Secretary Eden, Sir Robert Vansittart, Permanent Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, and Viscount Halifax, Lord President of the Council.

An official communique outlining results of the conversations said the statesmen decided "all practicable measures would be taken to protect British lives and property in Shanghai."

MAN WHO FOUND DEAD GIRL'S BODY UP FOR MURDER

RENFREW, Ont., Aug. 26.—(CP).—The three weeks' search for the slayer of 13-year-old Ethel Hedderwick, whose body was found on the outskirts of Renfrew on August 3, was climaxed yesterday by arrest of John Comba, 25, unemployed citizen of the town, who had led a search party to the spot where the young girl's body was discovered. A charge of murder was laid against Comba and Justice of the Peace Andrew J. Devine, remanded him until September 1.

The girl's body was found in a secluded spot, off the road, in the section known as Carsell's Hill, about a mile out of Renfrew, on the night of Aug. 3. She had gone there to pick choke cherries.

It was dark when a party, led by Police Chief Moses Greer, was directed to the girl's body by the cries of Comba, one of the searchers. Her skull was fractured; there were numerous abrasions on her body, and she had been criminally assaulted, according to Dr. E. R. Frankish, medico-legal expert.

Describing at the time how he had come across the corpse of the murdered child, Comba said:

"After travelling for some distance I stumbled over a rock. My hand slid over something, and I knew at once it was a body. I started shouting after I got up, as I knew Chief Greer was not far away. I could not see anything as it was dark, but soon a few of the other searchers had come over and with the aid of flashlights we saw a terrible sight. I still think about it and can hardly eat."

Three Paralysis' Deaths Bring Total To Nineteen

Twenty-nine New Cases Are Reported at Toronto and London.

TORONTO, Aug. 26. — (CP).—Three deaths in the Toronto district raised the list of infantile paralysis victims to 19 to-day as public health officials were confronted with evidence the epidemic in Ontario appeared to spread. Twenty-nine new cases were reported at Toronto and London—chief centres of the outbreak—yesterday.

Ten new cases were reported in Toronto to-day along with two deaths. The third Toronto district death was a Markham youth who died last night in the town 15 miles north-east of that city.

Kingston, alarmed at the appearance of a single case, decided to leave its schools closed until Sept. 7, as London, and Toronto already had decided to do. Londons Medical Health Officer, Dr. C. A. Hardie, asked clergymen to co-operate by keeping Sunday school classes closed the next two Sundays.

Object of the precautions was to keep children from congregating in numbers, thus preventing possible spread of the disease. At Brantford, however, the Board of Health decided against postponement of school opening on the grounds the

They said she stepped into a small automobile and drove off alone.

SPEED OF CAR IS ESTIMATED AT 60

GRAFTON, Ont., Aug. 26 (CP)—A coroner's jury last night returned an open verdict after its inquiry into an accident occurring near here Aug. 9 when a car driven by Philipp Kirck, Kingston, collided head-on with a truck driven by Charles Amodeo, Napanee, resulting in Kirck's death.

"William Kirck came to his death on No. 2 Highway near Grafton on Aug. 9 from injuries received in an accident when a car driven by him and owned by W. J. Hugil collided with a truck driven by Charles Amodeo of Napanee," the verdict said.

"Mrs. Kirck, at the hospital said her husband was going too fast and headed for the truck," Prov. Constable F. Blucher testified.

Charles Amodeo, driver of the truck, said the Kirck car swung over to the wrong side of the road. He also believed it to be going 60 miles an hour.

British Ambassador Wounded When Two Jap Bombers Attack His Car.

LONDON, Aug. 26—(CP).—The Foreign Office announced to-day "appropriate action" would be taken in connection with wounding of Sir Hughe Knatchbull-Hugessen, British Ambassador to China, by the Japanese, as soon as "further information" is received from Shanghai.

Foreign Secretary Eden returned to his desk from the country and was described authoritatively as having taken the incident under "very grave consideration."

SHANGHAI, Aug. 26 (CP-Havas), — Sir Hugh Knatchbull-Hugessen, British Ambassador to China, was gravely wounded by a machine-gun fired from Japanese aircraft near Wusih today, while en route by car from Nanking to Shanghai.

Taken to a Shanghai hospital, the envoy was too feeble to undergo an operation for the extraction of the bullet. He was given a blood transfusion. His life was not in danger.

An official communique issued by the British authorities placed full responsibility on the Japanese for the incident.

Japanese naval authorities expressed regret over the incident, but said the British flag flying from the radiator of the Ambassador's car was not sufficient identification.

They claimed the Ambassador's car was on a strategic road in time of war, and could easily have been taken for a chinese staff car. A Union Jack painted on the roof of the car might have afforded it a greater degree of protection, they added.

Surgeons tonight said Sir Hughe might not recover. They said a machine-gun bullet had broken the ambassador's back but had left the spinal cord intact.

Japanese naval authorities threatened to include foreign shipping in the 800-mile blockade established along China's coast to bolster the Japanese operations against Shanghai.

(In Tokyo Premier Fumimaro Konoye declared Japan considered British and United States efforts to halt fighting in the Shanghai area as of little importance.)

Sir Hugh hurried from Shanghai to Nanking aboard the British destroyer Westcott July 14 in an effort to forestall the spread of hostilities between the two Oriental powers.

The 51-year-old diplomat has been Ambassador to China since 1936, when he was transferred from his post as Minister to Iran. He had previously served as Minister to the Baltic States and as counsellor of Embassy at Brussels.

Sir Hughe is a first cousin of Senator Adrian Knatchbull-Hugessen, K.C., of Montreal. The former's father, Rev. R. B. Knatchbull-Hugessen, was a younger brother of the first Lord Brabourne, the Canadian Senator's father.

Sir Hugh was accompanied by Lieut.-Colonel W. A. Lovat-Fraser, British military attache, who was knocked senseless by an exploding bomb, and E. L. Hall-Patch, financial representative of the British government in China.

Planes Dived Low.

Despite the fact the automobile carried a large British flag, the Japanese planes dived low and peppered the occupants with machine gun bullets about 30 miles from Shanghai.

Lovat-Fraser jumped out of the car to see the reason for the attack and one of the Japanese planes loosed a bomb which missed the wounded Ambassador but knocked Lovat-Fraser senseless.

Japanese naval authorities threatened to include other foreign shipping in the 800-mile blockade of China's seacoast established by Japan as a stringent measure to relieve the pressure on her troops in the Shanghai area.

Chinese held their positions all the way from Chapei in northern Shanghai to the Yangtze River 12 miles to the north. An official Japanese spokesman said the Japanese army "was experiencing some opposition" in its advance on Shanghai.

Sacred Thunderbird Dance Staged For Tweedsmuir

First Time in 144 Years Indians Have Allowed Whites to See Whole Ritual.

STUIE LODGE, B.C., Aug. 26.—(CP, via British Columbia Police Wireless). — Sacred thunderbird dance of the British Columbia coastal Indians will be performed today for the Governor-General's party—first time it has been staged in its entirety before white company in 144 years.

Not since the great explorer Alexander Mackenzie, tasted salt water near the present site of Bella Coola, 40 miles west of here, and knew he had reached the Pacific Ocean, has the ritualistic dance been performed correctly for white people.

The dance is the highlight of a program at the Bella Coola Indian reserve in honor of Lord Tweedsmuir. The Governor-General will observe his 62nd birthday in the reserve's colorful surroundings.

Their Excellencies were visited here yesterday by Premier Pattullo of British Columbia and Dominion Defence Minister Ian Mackenzie, who stopped off while bound for Prince Rupert, B.C., aboard the destroyer Fraser.

The Governor-General spent most of the day reading and looking from the verandah at the great 8,800-foot snow-clad peak named Mount Stupendous by Mackenzie when he passed through the valley at the end of the long trip that made him the first white man to cross North America north of Mexico.

A couple of hours later one of our sows presented 10 little pigs. After the excitement was over my dog Peggy announced the arrival of three sturdy puppies."

GRAY IS NAMED POLICE SLAYER AT THE INQUEST

SUDBURY, Ont., Aug. 26. (CP).—A coroner's inquest today was scheduled to inquire into the death of Victor Gray, branded last night in another inquest verdict as the slayer of police sergt. Fred Davidson of the Sudbury force. Gray was shot down by a police posse two days after Davidson died July 20.

Gunshot wounds received July 11 and inflicted by Gray caused Sergt. Davidson's death, a jury under Dr. Paul E. Laflamme decided. It found that Tom Pornomarenko, alias Smoke, was with Gray when the officer stopped them on a district road. In a death-bed statement, Davidson identified a picture of Pornomarenko as Gray's companion and quoted him as saying "give him some more," when the shots were fired.

Pornomarenko is scheduled to appear in court tomorrow for preliminary hearing on a murder charge. He was wounded by the police and volunteer posse when trapped with Gray in a rock-cut a few days after Davidson's death touched off the greatest manhunt northern Ontario ever saw.

Davidson's ante-mortem statement named Gray as his slayer and described how the officer stopped the pair in an automobile and was questioning them when Gray opened fire upon him. He picked up a pair of license plates from the back of the car.

"After getting the license plate," the statement continued, "I started to go around the back of the car when I heard Gray say 'look here,' and as I looked around he shot the plates out of my hand. He kept shooting.

"Gray's companion, Pornomarenko, shouted to his henchman, 'give him some more.' I don't know how many shots were fired."

BOOM McLAGLEN FOR STAGE PLAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—(CP)—Not since Broadway audiences went in enthusiastically for suggesting who should play Lorelei in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," has the public revelled in such mass casting they are doing now that John Steinbeck's novel, "Of Mice and Men," seems certain of stage production.

Ever since George S. Kaufman detected the makings of a play in the Steinbeck book, and expressed a wish to direct it, there has been considerable pressure brought on him to give the part of Lennie to Victor McLaglen. But, since this was announced a few weeks ago, Producer Sam Harris' office has been swamped with mail demanding any one of half a hundred stage and screen actors be given the role.

Many actors, too, have been proposed for the role of George, the sympathetic field hand who guides Lennie through his troubles. James Cagney is a popular choice, but it is felt Cagney prefers to clear up his litigation in Hollywood before deserting the movie lots. Jerome Cowan, last seen in Broadway in "Boy Meets Girl," also has his champions for the George role. Charles Bickford has been suggested and so has Lee Tracy.

SEEK BIG GAME FROM B. C. HILLS

NEW YORK, August 26—(CP)—Michael Lerner, director of the American Museum of Natural History and noted big-game hunter, is preparing a hunting trip to the Cassiar Mountains of northeastern British Columbia.

Lerner will be accompanied by his wife and hopes to bag specimens of stone's or blue sheep, caribou and grizzlies. He is making the trip for his own amusement and not in the interests of the museum.

The couple will go by rail to Edmonton and will fly from there to the mountains, where they will meet their guide. The latter left Jasper National Park in advance with pack and saddle horses.

"I am of the openion that in the death of his son this man has been sufficiently punished," said Crown Attorney F. E. D. Wallace. Magistrate Jones said he would recommend to the Department of Highways Lafortune's driving license be suspended for life.

DRIVE FOR PEACE GIRLS ARE URGED

BRIARCLIFFE MANOR, N.Y., Aug. 26—(CP)—In the first international rally of Girl Scouts ever held in the United States, 101 girls from 26 foreign nations and every state in the Union assembled here for two weeks of comradeship and sport.

The gathering at Camp Adree, picturesquely situation in the Westchester county hills, marks the silver jubilee of the Girl Scout movement in the United States.

Frances Cox of Montreal, is Canada's representative. Besides being a model patrol leader in her home troop, the smart young Canadian is a fluent conversationalist in both English and French—an accomplishment which enabled her to put at their ease many European girls whose English is skimpy. Great Britain, Australia and New Zealand also are represented.

Girl scouts and guides, representing the cream of their home units, quickly made friends with sister Scouts from distant quarters of the globe and exchanged tips on scoutcraft in a babel of languages. Contrasting with the forest green of the U.S. scouts, the varied uniforms of the visitors made a colorful scene. They ranged from British khaki through the pearl-grey dress of the Polish delegate to the navy-blue kimono-like uniform of the Japanese girls.

After conveying the greetings of President Roosevelt, the "first lady" urged the girls to use their influence for peace and to promote it by living in harmony with their fellow citizens at home. "Peace abroad depends on peace at home and kindly feelings for one another," she emphasized. "That must come before kindly feelings between nations.

"When we want peace, we will have it. We haven't got very far in our international relations because we don't bring them down to the level of our personal relations—that is, the way you feel about the neighbor next door.

"So far, we have only given lip service to our thoughts on peace. Instead, it is a way you must live to prevent difficulties from rising."

After two weeks at Camp Andree, the Scouts and Guides have another week at Pine Tree Camp near Plymouth, Mass., as the guests of Mrs. James J. Storrow of Boston.

SAILING McLEANS ARRIVE IN PORT

VANCOUVER, Aug. 26.—(CP)—Three generations of seafaring McLeans met recently when three vessels, sailing widely separated routes, were berthed here within a few hundred yards of one another.

In the engineer's store-rom of R.M.S. Niagara, Canadian-Australasian liner, was the patriarch of the sailing clan, Charles McLean, who has completed 101 voyages on the Niagara between Australia and Canada. McLean first saw Vancouver the night it was razed by fire in 1886.

When the passenger liner and flagship of Union Steamships Limited coastwise service, S.S. Catala, docked at the company wharf, Charles McLean's son, Captain Harry McLean, was her master.

Within a stone's throw of the Niagara lay R.M.S. Empress of Canada, aboard which William McLean, son of Captain Harry, was having his first taste of the sea as a messenger in the purser's department.

Escaped From Bowmanville 17 Times Lad Is Found Carrying A Revolver

OSHAWA, Aug. 26.—After escaping 17 times from the Bowmanville training school, Eddie Northcott, 17, faced Magistrate A. E. Gee in police court Wednesday morning charged with carrying a revolver without a permit.

"He got the gun from a boy he had been staying with. He took it home and scared his brother with it," Detective Sergeant Herb Flintoff told the court. "He was placed in the Bowmanville training school for petty thieving but he ran away every time we placed him there," the court was informed.

"I realize this boy has not had a very satisfactory home life. I am disposed to give him another chance. I can't see that he has any criminal intentions," Crown Attorney G. D. Conant stated.

Magistrate Gee placed the lad on two years' suspended sentence and urged him to get a job.

Charged with being intoxicated, Ben Atwood told the court he was a sailor who had just brought a boat into Cobourg when he met some old friends and "had a bit too much to drink." He was given his freedom with the understanding that he was to leave the city. "You had better get back to Port Arthur," Magistrate Gee told Atwood.

BEER ROOMS WILL BE CLOSED TO THE LADIES?

WINGHAM, Ont., Aug. 26 (CP)—A prediction drinking by women in beverage rooms in Ontario will be banned was made by Charles Robertson, M.L.A., Goderich, addressing a meeting of the Huron-Bruce Liberal Association last night. Mr. Robertson defeated W. J. MacKay, ex-M.L.A., for the Liberal nomination in the riding, after George H. Mooney, former Ripley newspaper publisher, withdrew from the contest.

"We are going to try and restrict the beverage rooms," said Mr. Robertson. "I do not believe they are a good thing in any municipality."

"In the old licensed bar-rooms, there were no women" he continued. "The day is not far away when women will be excluded from beverage rooms entirely. In fact, in the first draft of the bill (the Liquor Control Act) drinking was permitted in beverage rooms between sexes. Then came the motion which is compulsory for hotels to have two rooms, one for women, one for men. Now, I predict that drinking by women will not be permitted in beverage rooms."

GAVE PROVINCE CHEAPER POWER HEPBURN CLAIMS

PARIS, Ont., Aug. 26 (CP)—Premier Hepburn here last night, defending his legislation to nullify contracts between Quebec power companies and the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, said Hon. Earl Rowe, Ontario Conservative leader, was "so tied up with Montreal power interests that if returned to power he would restore the contracts on their former basis."

"If I go down to defeat, I will at least have the satisfaction of having brought cheap power to the people," said Mr. Hepburn. There was no shortage of power in Ontario today and power available for purchase anticipated future requirements, he declared.

The premier spoke to Brant Liberals in convention for the renomination of Hon. Harry Nixon, Provincial Secretary, who has represented the riding continuously since 1919. He will be a candidate for the sixth time Oct. 6.

Denied Right Of Assembly

Mr. Hepburn said he stood for Labor's right to organize and to bargain collectively but was opposed to illegal methods such as the sit-down strike sponsored by the Committee for Industrial Organization. Mr. Rowe, on the other hand, had supported in the House of Commons

U.S. Demonstrates Power In Air

Buffalo Airport, Aug. 26.

THE world's fastest fighting planes—a pursuit, a dive bomber and an attack craft—snarled through their paces, over Buffalo airport yesterday to a demonstration of Uncle Sam's claim of supremacy in the air.

They were the van of a fleet of 412 army, navy and coastguard craft, now being built by the Curtiss-Wright aircraft plant here. The army is to get 230 pursuit and 13 attack ships, the navy, 82 observation and 83 scout bombers and the coastguard 2 observation.

TWO MEN FACING HOLD-UP CHARGES

OSHAWA, Aug. 26.—Leopold Farlett and Edward Hughes of Toronto were committed for trial at the Fall Assizes in Whitby by Magistrate F. S. Ebbs in Police Court Wednesday, charged with robbery while armed in connection with the hold-up of the C.N.R. station here at 5 a.m. August 7. At the point of a gun Eccles Joynt, night operator, was confronted by two men, who smashed his lookout window, while a third kept watch on the station platform. After scooping $58 out of the cash drawer, the robbers smashed telegraphic keys and telephones, warning Joynt not to communicate with the police until they had made their getaway.

PULLMAN PORTERS WIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 26—(AP)—Eight thousand Pullman porters won a wage increase of $12 per month yesterday, when the Pullman Company signed a working agreement with the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

Robert F. Cole, mediator for the Federal Railway Mediation Board, said the pay boost would raise the basic wage to $100 per month.

ROWE PROMISES GENERAL CLEAN-UP ON "BEER DIVES"

PORT ELGIN, Ont., Aug. 26. —(CP)— The Conservative party in Ontario was pledged to-day to a three-point liquor policy, Hon Earl Rowe, party leader, told a Bruce riding rally yesterday that if the Conservatives won the election Oct. 6 they would rid the province of "those broken-down beer dives" which have been granted licenses under what he termed the patronage system of the Liberal Administration of Premier Hepburn.

Mr. Rowe said he proposed, if elected, to remove patronage, to return to a policy of control by a responsible Board free from political interference, and to survey all licensed hotels and close all "mushroom dives."

"Standard hotels operating within the law and living up to requirements and respecting the law, and giving adequate service to the travelling public will receive the full consideration of the Board, and general assistance to maintain a higher standard of accommodation which will encourage tourist trade in Canada," he said. "Let me assure you, these mushroom dives will be closed and stay closed."

Challenges Premier.

The Conservative leader turned to succession duties, challenging the Premier to publish a list of delinquent estates. He noted Mr. Hepburn claimed between $50,000,000 and $75,000,000 of which Ontario had been defrauded in succession duties.

"When I am in power," said Mr. Rowe, "every dolar owed to this province in succession duties will be collected—and they will not be collected by star chamber methods."

He announced his acceptance of a challenge from Education Minister L. J. Simpson, and declared he would abandon his own Dominion constituency of Dufferin-Simcoe to run against Dr. Simpson in Simcoe centre. Mr. Rowe has represented Dufferin-Simcoe in the House of Commons for 14 years.

PERMITS PUBLIC BAR

NEW YORK—(CP)—Old Trinity Church, lower Broadway $50,000,000 landlord, has granted a tenant permission to establish a public bar on its property six blocks from the church.

EX-PREMIER NAMED.

EDMONTON, Aug. 26 (CP)—Taking advantage of the experience gained by John E. Brownlee as premier of Alberta from 1925 to 1934 and as a member of the Royal Commission on banking, 1933-34 the Alberta government has appointed him senior counsel to the Legislative committee and experts preparing a brief for submission to the Royal Commission on taxation, Hon. Solon Low, Provincial treasurer, announced last night.

VETERAN RANCHER DEAD

MUSKOKA-ONTARIO TORY RALLY CHOICE IS MASON HORNER

LINDSAY, Aug. 26.—There were 279 delegates from Muskoka and 251 from North Ontario at the Conservative convention held at Beaverton today to select a candidate to contest Muskoka - Ontario riding. Four names went to the ballot with Mason Horner, barrister of Cannington, as the choice. The three other candidates were, John Forbes of Port Carling, Harry Budd, of Milford Bay and James Blanchard of Cannington. It was the first time in five elections that the candidate had been picked from Ontario County.

Mason Horner, the Tory candidate, said that if elected he would ask the Government to establish a tourist department, with a Cabinet Minister at the head. He also promised lower taxes on farm lands.

Mayor Hall of Oshawa, Dr. Kaiser, and Russell Nesbitt, M.L.A., played the Hepburn Government on all policies. Mr. Nesbitt stated that all the new enactments of the Hepburn Government had two years more to run, but had to go to the country because it could not fill the five vacancies in the House and Cabinet.

BIRTH-RATE DOWN SCHOOLS GO EMPTY

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Aug. 23.—(CP)—Unless "something stops the rapidly-declining birth-rate," Theodore A. Zornow, assistant superintendent of schools, believes that the consolidation of city schools in the United States will become a necessity.

"Empty schools, empty pews in churches, empty ranks in armies—we'll have them unless something stops the birth rate's decline," he declared. "It will mean consolidation of schools and other consequences we can't forestall. The per capita cost of education has already risen to $146.26 because of decreased school enrolments."

Poultry Shipments Are Heavy To U.S.

OTTAWA, Aug. 26.—(CP).—Live poultry is moving in large volume from Canada to United States markets, the Department of Agriculture reported to-day. Advancing prices south of the line, together with the lower duty now prevailing under the recent trade treaty have brought about the movement.

Aproximately 50,000 pounds of poultry weekly are being shipped across the border at Windsor and at Buffalo. For the first time in years receipts of Canadian poultry are being listed in the official market report.

20 FARMERS DIE IN POLISH RIOT

London, Aug. 26.

TWENTY persons were killed and thirty wounded today in rioting in the East Gallician town of Munin, Poland, when police fired on farmers besieging the town prison, the Exchange Telegraph Agency reported.

The rioting followed a 24-hour general strike ordered by Polish Socialists in the Cracow, Tarnow and Kielce industrial districts in sympathy with farmers protesting against Government decrees.

The farmers, who ended a ten-day Farmers' United Party strike yesterday, demanded release of several persons held in the prison.

It also was reported that two farmers were killed in fights with police at Brzecko, West Balicia, and another was killed near Cracow when police charged a band of farmers picketing the city gates.

The Ideal War

One is ready enough to believe there are many people in Japan who have no heart for the war in China. The militarists were well beaten in the last election, but that seems to make no difference. They have the power they want in their military machine.

It may be a useless suggestion to make, but we would be much in favor of some plan by which those who want war, who plan for war and who profit by war would have to attend to the fighting when war came.

There are a number of places in the world where plenty of space could be found and prepared and there the devotees of war could meet and make their own arrangements. They could bring all their new and most favored equipment; they could cause to be brought small guns and large ones, poisonous gas if they desired it and all manner of things which kill people in great numbers and do it quickly.

Those who work for the purpose of developing a more deadly gas would of course be required to be there to demonstrate it; shareholders of armament firms who wanted to have their newest equipment shown to advantage would have a special corner where they could stand to show that their equipment would do just what is claimed for it.

Then the sword rattlers and the leaders who look upon the cradle as the breeding place for the army and nothing else would have preferred positions. They would be put well out in the front where machine guns, artillery projectiles and bombs from aircraft as well as gas would have full opportunity to demonstrate what actually does happen in case of war.

But this battle would have to be fought only by those who profit by war, who plan for war and who claim they glory in war. The rest of the folk if they cared to do so could be present at a safe distance to try and see what took place. That is our dream of an ideal war, for there would be so few arrive to participate and it would soon be over.

Making Sure Of It

When a man catches a big fish and then relates his experience to his friends he is apt to find his audience in a skeptical mood. Particularly if the fish is large. Evidently Julian Bedore, one of the veteran fishermen of Marmora is well aware of that weakness in human nature.

Our Marmora correspondent relates that on Tuesday of last week Mr. Bedore took a 15-pound maskinonge just below the dam at 7.30 in the morning. On the following Tuesday morning, same place and same split hour Mr. Bedore fished once more and took even a larger fish. And after getting it from the water he did something which shows how well he knows how to fortify his own fishing stories.

Mr. Bedore did not merely estimate the weight of the fish nor did he measure it as a woman might a piece of calico by holding one end to her nose and stretching it out at arm's length and calling it a yard. Not at all. Mr. Bedore went and put the fish on the scales at Sweet's store and found it weighed 20 pounds, and those scales being in a store would be correct because the government inspector is apt to come in at any time to look them over.

When it came to taking the measurements Mr. Bedore was not content to measure with a broom handle or the tape line from the sewing basket. Not a bit of it. He secured a tape line such as surveyors use and a thing like that tells the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. Thus it was established the fish weighed 20 pounds and was 46 inches in length. We are somewhat lost in a form of admiration for a man who established the weight and length of a great fish with such mathematical exactitude. No one in the community can raise a smile or bat an eyelash when a fisherman of such methodical habits relates his 1937 experiences.

Those Unknown Relatives

Mrs. Ida E. Wood died in a New York hotel five years ago, and in the ordinary course of events nothing more would have been heard of her. But she happened to leave $85,000 of an estate and there are men and women from almost every state across the line, from Canada, Newfoundland, England, Ireland and Scotland who say they are related to the late Ida Wood.

There are by actual count 1,019 of them and many of them are now represented by lawyers in the court at New York. In the first day 74 claimants were eliminated. They didn't have a chance.

After the death of her husband, Mrs. Wood quit a life which had been filled with social activity and looked after his business interests and by careful speculation she added to the fortune of her husband. When the crash of 1929 came she was out of the market in time. When the subsequent closing of banks came she lost money and also lost faith in banks, after which she kept great sums in her hotel room.

One strange feature of the case is that of the 1,019 persons who claim to have been related to Mrs. Wood, not one knew her personally. Apparently no door of all these said-to-be relatives had ever been opened in a friendly way, nor had there been a friendly gesture which would have indicated a desire to have the lady come and stay for a spell in order to break the monotony of living alone in a New York hotel. Whether she wanted to see any of them is not known, nor is it recorded that any ever called on her or had any correspondence with her even to the extent of a postcard.

And yet there are 1,019 people, now that the estate is up for settlement who are keen enough to enter their claims as being entitled to participate in the sharing of the dollars she left behind. A strange commentary on human nature it is. Mrs. Wood would have been much better advised had she spent most her money when she was alive rather than have over a thousand money grabbers reaching for her possessions after her departure.

Making Cities Quiet

The Board of Health is going to make Hamilton a quiet city. The last census gave it a population of 155,000, but since 1931 it has probably increased. Hamilton may by now have 170,000. And the Board of Health is going to make it quiet. Or quieter.

Loud speakers will not be allowed to go about the streets and "sound" trucks must obtain permission from the chief of police. Radio sets which disturb the community are out, and even the backfiring of an auto is liable to result in the prosecution of the owner.

Horn-blowing, the rattling of materials piled on trucks and the voice of the hawker must be stilled. Boys selling newspapers on the streets must use caution in the volume of endeavor which becomes evident in the voice. Barking dogs, crowing roosters and cackling hens are all matters upon which the court may be asked at any time to pronounce. Even the steel-tired buggy must proceed with caution. If the horse drawing the contraption goes faster than a walk then the by-law is being contravened.

And who under the sun is going to enforce all these regulations? If a horse hitched to a steel-tired buggy jogs along the city street faster than a walk what are they going to do about it? If a truck bearing a load of steel or other material is driven over a pavement which is rough or over a section where street car tracks cross, who is there to say that a degree of noise could be avoided? And if a hound wishes to bay at the moon what wise man can arise and say it should not be done? Hounds have been doing such things long before Hamilton existed.

When a community grows to sizeable extent there is bound to be noise. At best [illegible] rather an unnatural method of exi[illegible] where thousands of people become [illegible]dled together in a comparatively small area. The sound truck of course is a blatant and an artificial thing deliberately maintained for the purpose of making a noise, and it should be chucked and kept chucked. But every time a city adds another family there is an additional source of noise; more feet on the pavements; more voices speaking and an additional car churning its way down the street and tooting its horn perhaps for the best and sanest of reasons.

Nearly every city of size has now and then tried its hand at the business of creating quietness, and there has been no great change. As a city grows in size it also increases the amount of noise it creates.

Press Preparedness

The extent to which the Japanese press has in the past been a free press within the usual Occidental meaning of that term is phoblematical, but in the preparation of the Japanese public mind for the present aggression in China Japanese newspapers were left in no doubt as to what the militarist chieftains expected of them.

Editor and Publisher magizine carries an article based upon information obtained from a newspaper correspondent who has just returned from Japan, which makes instructive reading. For example:

"Every publisher and managing editor was called to army headquarters on July 12 and given instructions on how to handle the North China story and they were told how to write editorials, stressing the unity of the nation in support of the army's program. So far no one has found any business men supporting the North China campaign. Every newspaper was instructed to start a campaign for cash and comfort kits and employees of the paper, although opposed to the army, were forced to contribute. This campaign was featured in all the papers in order to emphasize on the public's mind that the papers were with the army. As a matter of fact, the papers were the ones which campaigned against the army in the last election, which went 45 to 1 against the military."

In addition to this pressure on domestic journalists, all foreign correspondents in Japan are subject to surveillance and have, on the same basis as Japanese editors, received instructions from the Metropolitan Police Board of Tokyo on what points should be "borne in mind in all editorial work." Correspondents are warned against items that are "liable to give the impression that the Japanese are a bellicose people or that Japanese foreign policy is aggressive" or that "bring about alienation of the people from the army."

This is militarism and dictatorship in action, not during a war or even during the hostilities of an undeclared conflict It was done to prepare the Japanese public mind for what was about to happen in and to China.

A Farmer's Investment

There was an announcement recently in a weekly paper of an auction sale of farm implements in Oxford county. There was nothing unusual about the notice or the sale itself, but it gave some idea of the amount of equipment which had been used on this farm. The Examiner made inquiries from dealers in farm implements with the idea of finding out what would be required to replace this equipment. That is, if a person were starting in to farm how much cash would he require to have at his disposal all the equipment which was being offered at this sale. The prices given may very a few dollars from the actual list prices of today, but they are approximately correct. It worked out this way:

Two walking plows at $20	$ 40.00
Spring tooth harrows, three sec.	50.00
Diamond tooth harrows	40.00
Land roller	70.00
Seed drill 13 disc	150.00
Hay loader	140.00
Hay tedder	65.00
Fordson tractor and plow	1200.00
2-row corn cultivator	50.00
2-wagons, $75 each	150.00
Hay rack	25.00
Corn binder	225.00
Grain binder	250.00
Cream separator	125.00
3 sets harness	100.00
Set of sleighs	50.00
Scales	40.00
Grinder	75.00
Fanning mill	40.00
Mower	100.00
Total	$3325.00

There were also a number of lesser things, all of them useful and necessary on which no price has been placed in the above list. They were whiffletrees, neckyokes, milk cans, light wagon, forks, shovels, and so on. One farmer to whom the Examiner showed the list said it was perhaps just an average amount of equipment, and he mentioned several pieces of machinery he was using which were not on the list.

In addition to farm machinery it would be necessary to have stock, but on that point the Examiner found a decided variance of opinion regarding what was necessary to make a start. Horses, cows, sheep and pigs were all needed it was agreed, and we found no one who said a man should go with less than three horses and there were others who urged if he were going to start at all he should not do so without well-bred cows and pigs. So we place the starting figure around the $1,500 mark, and in doing so admit it is open to discussion. So that would bring the farm investment for live stock and implements up to $4,500, and that price does not include of course the farm itself and the buildings.

It would seem then that taking up a farm is not as simple as it may sound. When a farmer buys implements he is dealing in something which constantly decreases in value, and each year brings him closer to the time when he will face expenditure for replacement.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Quiet day in Moscow when a few more of the dear comrades have not been liquidated.

In figuring on what is going to take place in the war between China and Japan it is well to remember there are 60,000,000 Japs and 400,000,000 Chinese.

New York authorities agree it makes no difference whether one pronounces it "tomayto" or "tomahto." The best way is to pronounce it tomato.

A new device has been brought out which lands planes during a season of fog. Such a contraption might be handy for politicians during the provincial campaign.

HE STUCK

(By A. R. K.)

¶ I met with Archie yesterday, for now and then he gets away, and always calls on me; and Archie talked of stock and trade, and of the progress he had made, he's busy as can be.

¶ And Archie talked of things back home, how he was fixing up his home, he spoke of folk I knew; and I could follow as he'd talk, and go with him down every block, just like I used to do.

¶ It must have been round ninety-four, that Archie started in the store, he peddled parcels then; and nearly all the boys left town, and they named Archie for a clown, he would not follow them.

¶ And they'd come back for holidays, and laugh at Archie and his ways, there was no chance for him; the little town would never grow, besides the place was far too slow, his wages were too slim.

¶ But Archie learned to know his store, and folk dealt with him more and more, and they all liked him too; the man who owned it quit one day, he'd laid a tidy sum away, enough to see him through.

¶ That was some eight years gone last spring, and Archie's up and bought the thing, that's how he got the store; they used to laugh at Archie once, and named him for a clown and dunce—they don't do that no more

SPRINGING from the desire to make work by altering old homes a nice racket has been exposed in New England. Salesmen come and suggest the home be made over and the cost will be nothing because the parties interested want to take pictures before and after and during the making of the changes for advertising purposes. A contract is signed and the work proceeds. When it is finished the home owner finds he signed a contract by which he has to pay for all the alterations, by which time the salesmen have gone off to other fields.

United States farmers are certain they are going to have an income of ten billion dollars for 1937, and a quarter of it is because of the failure in much of the wheat in the Canadian west. Speculators in the stock market, noting such things, are said to be turning their attention to farm implement companies and mail-order houses.

Prediction is also made that rents are going to advance pretty much all over United States. Why? Because the country is known to be short to the extent of 3,000,000 family dwellings. Increased costs of labor and material are slowing down the building programme and the house shortage will remain.

Some idea of the business which makers of armaments are doing can be gathered from this: Bren machine guns, which Britain was going to use to replace the old Lewis models, have been on order for two years but have not been delivered in quantities. Army continues for the most part to practice with the Lewis. Bren is reported to be much superior.

May be some trouble in France this fall in the way of strikes, and the reason is given this way: There has been a persistant scaling down in relief allowances and a continued increase in the cost of living. There is little or no mention of the fact in French papers, but the stay-in strike is still operating there, and that is where it started. One such strike in a Paris plant has been going on since April.

Warns Against Cancer Cures

(Kansas City Times)

VICIOUS quacks and food faddists are taking advantage of the scientists' uncertainty about the causes of cancer and are preying on its victims, declares Dr. E. V. McCollum, Johns Hopkins biochemist. Warning against buying advertised "cures" and against blaming innocent foods, he writes in McCall's for September:

"Today the death rate from cancer is higher than it was a generation ago. As a major cause of death in this country, cancer has moved up from tenth to second place, until only the various ailments of the heart and blood vessels surpass it in killing power.

"Still, in the darkening picture, there are certain rays of hope. Little by little, from laboratories here and there around the globe, are coming clues that, taken together, like the fingerprints and strands of hair in a detective story, give us a clearer suspicion than we have ever had before of the identity of the killer.

"The tragedy is that at the same time charlatans are taking advantage of scientists' honest uncertainty to mislead the public. Ruthless individuals are advocating and too often selling worthless nostrums as 'cures.' Others, more misguided than malevolent, are throwing unwarranted suspicion on various foods as cancer-causes.

"There is just one way to treat a claim of either sort: don't believe it. Refuse to deprive yourself and your family of essential foods to satisfy a faddist's whim. And as you value your purse, peace of mind and chances of recovery, do not purchase any advertised cancer cure!"

Giving Answers to All Questions

Cow In Pasture Found Chewing Bones; Land Which Contains Much Nitrogen.

(Family Herald and Weekly Star)

CATTLE

J. M., Ont.—Heifer has a cluster of warts on the chin and neck. Applying Castor Oil has done little good.

Ans.—Warts are seldom contagious but it is safer always to keep affected animals from coming in contact with others. Clip off with scissors and apply Tinct. Iodine.

INFECTIOUS EYE DISEASE

E. M., Ont.—Cattle have been getting watery eyes; white scum forms and they go almost blind. Recover in about three weeks.

Ans.—An infectious disease. Isolate affected animals. A vaccine might prevent the spread of the disease. Consult your local veterinarian.

CHEWS BONES

W. B. M., Ont.—Cow in pasture chews at bones.

Ans. — Give one tablespoonful steamed bone meal twice daily.

LAME IN JOINTS

E. R. C., N. S.—Young cow in good condition gets lame in one leg at a time.

Ans. — Give one tablespoonful steamed bone meal twice daily on some bran. The milk can be used.

HORSES

L. S. A., N. S.—Young horse has developed a deep sore under the collar pad which is getting worse in spite of various treatments.

Ans.—Clip othe hair, wash daily with one tablespoon Javelle water to a quart of water and apply healing powder. The horse can be worked by using a wide breast collar.

WOUND DOES NOT HEAL

W. F., Ont.—Horse injured the leg, which was sewn up. It became so swollen that the stitches burst and the wound does not heal.

Ans.—Apply Pine Tar daily.

MOON BLONDNESS

D. L., Ont.—Young gelding has occasional eye trouble when he appears to be blind.

Ans.—This is moon blindness and will become permanent.

SUCKERS NO GOOD

W. E. B. C.—Would suckers from cherry and plum roots be any use if planted?

Ans. — The suckering growths which are springing up from the roots of the old plum and cherry stumps are coming from the stocks on which the original trees were grafted, consequently you cannot use these in setting out a new orchard. You could however use these as stocks on which to graft approved varieties. You may expect smaller fruit on an aged tree but it may not be age so much as the want of proper nourishment. Take local expert advice in this connection.

ROSES IN CEMETERY

G. A. S., Que.—How can I get rid of wild roses in a cemetary?

Ans:—As the wild roses are springing up all over the cemetery, the only practical means of eradication is to grub them out and to keep on doing so. This means constant grubbing throughout the entire summer thereby preventing growth and as a plant must make growth in order to live, if this is prevented the plant must die. To apply any chemical to kill them would also kill the grass or anything growing nearby.

LOWLAND GARDEN

M. M. M., N. B.—Garden is planted on lowland, a heavy rich soil. Plants produce much top but are not very fruitful.

Ans.—Low lying soils such as yours are usually high in nitrogen but lack phosphorus and potash, hence the strong leafy growth. In future do not apply any barnyard manure until such time as growth indicates the necessity for such, meanwhile apply superphosphate and potash, the former at the rate of 500 lbs. and the latter at 300 lbs. to the acre.

APPLE NOT BEARING

J. P., N. B.—Planted grafted apple tree five years ago but it has had no fruit. It seems to be growing well.

Ans.—Your apple tree must be a variety which takes a longer period of time to come to a fruiting stage. If it is growing fairly well as you say it is, there is nothing you can do but let nature take its course. Have some local fruit expert look at your tree, for while you may think it is growing fairly well, he may think differently.

BANTAM CORN YIELDS

K. G. H., Ont.—How many bushels of shelled bantam corn are produced from an acre?

Ans.—Crops vary considerably but an average crop of Bantam sweet corn runs around 25 to 30 bushels to the acre (that is cobs). As a bushel of cobs weighs approximately 72 lbs. and the shelled seed about 56 lbs. the bushels per acre are the same on that basis.

"Do Not Blame My Pedigreed Sow"

By Rusticus in Stratford Beacon-Herald

WRITING about conditions as they are out here on the farm is about the most discouraging job we know of. Seldom is the weather just right, and if the weather did behave, then no doubt we could find something else to howl about.

A few weeks ago we wrote something about there being a need for rain. Our pastures, roots, ect., were suffering and a nice shower would have been most welcome. To-day we are almost ashamed of that article, because the rain did come, and our crops are suffering more from the wet than they did from the drought. An old farmer friend summed up the farmers' wishes very well when he said: "we need a dry summer when everything grows good." Unfortunately, drought and good crops do not go well together. Nor yet a bountiful harvest and wet weather.

The 1937 harvest is going to take some patience to get it stored away. Those stooks are going to have to be laid out, turned, and in many cases, if the rains keep up, restooked. Any grain cut a bit on the green side that got wet before the straw had dried out, has turned mouldy on the inside of the sheaf. How some of those sheaves are going to be dried out ready for the thresher is something we shall have to learn. No doubt time and sunshine will do the trick. Barley straw, once it gets well soaked, is difficult to dry and there is much barley still in the field.

It would be very difficult to estimate at this time just what loss in grain is going to result from wet weather. That there will be a loss is certain. There will be some grain shelling when stooks are upset, and there will be considerable loss in those molded and practically rotting sheaves. But the weather will become settled, the sun will shine and we will get that grain into the barn yet. At least we cannot remember a year yet when we did not, though there has probably not been a more trying harvest season in many years.

Early in the summer we attended a field day of the Yorkshire Swine-Breeders' Association. The result was that we came home with a young sow with a fancy pedigree, that told us of generations of what they call advanced registry breeding. Now, to qualify in advanced registry a sow must raise a goodly number of young, and they must finish and dress out well at a reasonable age. The idea is all right and generations of careful selection should produce a prolific strain of well-doing pigs. If that were not the case, then all our pedigrees and selective breeding would be for nought.

On the other hand there came the day when this young sow presented us with a litter of young. Normally we had a right to expect eight or ten wee porkers. Surely a sow from ancestors that came from Sweden and England could do that well. Imagine, then, our surprise when there were but four youngsters in the pedigreed litter, and one of those failed to survive the first hour of life! Just about the time those little pigs were born the hog market went into a nose dive that brought prices down about a cent a pound. That is why we hasten to write this article so that the readers of these farm notes may not pin the blame for lower hog prices on that sow of ours. She is not the one that caused any over production. There has been enough verbal abuse coming her way without her having to take the blame for something she is not guilty of.

To the Editor

BUILDING A CITY

Editor Examiner:

Sir: This is no new subject but as we are living in changing conditions and our viewpoint regarding former things and conditions is subject to change. We think of our many cities large and small and in every case we expect to find a slum district where the poor class of men and women are forced to live in unfavorable conditions, where in some cases squalor and filth exist and is the breeding places of many forms of crime. The question might be asked is it necessary that these conditions should exist.

Are we not all human creatures alike in many respects and also different in many things?

On one hand there is a thought that no one should be forced to live in such unfavorable conditions, and something should be done by those in authority or by those who are in a position to help, that these unfortunate people may be recognized and given to feel that they may have some ability to contribute toward the building of a greater city. What an inspiration to higher thinking, an individual will receive when someone places confidence in him.

On the other hand there may come a protest against citizens contributing to slum dwellers thinking that poverty and all its attendant evils are enevitable in the building of a city We need men and women of wealth with strength and knowledge and a strong conviction of that which is right, man and women whose hearts are touched with the spirit of fraternity having a pride in fair play and of doing right, man with man.

Brick and concrete, industry and organization, churches and schools are recognized things and are indispensable to city growth and development. But the thought life of its people is the far reaching asset in the building of a great city.

The true function of every citizen is to have pride in citizenship.

THREE DEATHS

children would be as safe in school as playing in groups throughout the city. Brantford had one positive and one suspected case.

London's Victoria Hospital had only eight vacant beds in the isolation ward after nine cases sent the total of positive ones to 41. Under the London Academy of Medicine, 250 doctors and nurses met last night and heard medical health experts stress the importance of administering serum to victims during the first 24 hours.

A 22-year-old Hamilton resident and a Dundas child were under treatment at Hamilton, the two new cases raising the total in Hamilton to 15. Toronto has had 175 cases since the disease made its appearance in early June and the total for the province rose to the 300 mark.

Talks to the People J. H. Burnham

I have never been able to understand the vicious labor war between the two branches of labour in the American Federation of Labour and the C.I.O. Both are labour organizations and presumably both are acting in the interests of labour. The A. F. of L. says, however, that it stands for labour as part of democracy and wishes labour to be represented in the government of the nation as others are, while the C.I.O. demands an exclusive labour government which will rule and dominate the nation for the benefit of labour and excluding money, capital, property, farmers and the professions from any representation whatever. This would mean as in Russia. The confiscation by labour of all the money, capital, machinery, land, wealth, property, etc., in the province and the use of it for or by labour exclusively. This is what Mr. Hepburn insists we are up against in Ontario. What does labour say in reply to his statement? Is labour in Ontario striving for the dictatorship of the proletariat, that is of those now employed by others whom they are said to wish to rob and to displace? Are the riots only foretastes of what is to come? If you don't get what you want, take it. Or is labour only asking like anybody else for decent treatment which if they do not get they will go elsewhere? A man who has a grievance should have a place to appeal to and should appeal to it. In a civilized country. But what is the world doing If Mr. Toomb is to stand for labour he should remember it.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Steadily improving wheat export trade, estimated at 750,000 bushels, induced by higher Liverpool prices and Argentine crop damage reports, boosted wheat futures more than two cents on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day. Final values were 1¾ to 1⅞ cents higher, October $1.23¾, December $1.20⅝ and May $1.22¼.

Serious damage due to lack of moisture in South America was said to have brought loss of 1,700,000 acres of wheat in Cordovo and Santa Fe provinces and this provided the major bullish factor to shoot world wheat prices up.

Sellers at Winnipeg became cautious and periods of listlessness were in evidence during the session. Hedging sales of Western Canada new wheat, totalling 1,932,000 bushels yesterday, were light. Besides export buying Southern interests and domestic mills offered light support.

Henry M. Carver Birthday Celebration

A happy reunion was held at the home of Mrs. Martin Whaley, Highway No. 6, near Caledonia, in honor of the 90th birthday of her father, Henry M. Carver. Mr. Carver, the eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Carver, was born in Peterborough on August 22, 1847. His father was formerly postmaster in this city. Mr. Carver married Miss Clara Fitzgerald of Peterborough, and to this union were born two sons and two daughters. His wife, his eldest son, Edmund F. Carver and his daughter, Mrs. Frank Ward have predeceased him. There are seven grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. Enjoying fairly good health, and with good use of sight and hearing, Carver greatly enjoyed his birthday anniversary. Refreshments were served on the lawn of the lovely farm home, a large birthday cake with candles being placed in the centre of the long table. Speeches were made by Henry Carver and his youngest brother, S. D. Carver of Peterborough.

Thirty-five guests were present and included: Mr. and Mrs. Leslie D. Carver and son Ross of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Carver, Miss Alice L. Carver, and Harry Carver, all of Peterborough.

HOW TO OVERCOME PILES AND RECTAL SORENESS

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Store, or any druggist, a package of Hemroid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hemroid is a physician's prescription and is highly recommended. It is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

INTERESTING WOMEN

To possess a most gracious and kindly personality, combined with an immense aptitude for affairs—the organized affairs of church, government and charity—is surely to be a sufficiently notable character; but when it is found that so great a sorrow as the loss of an only son in the Great War has been suffered and is not even spoken of, but only the things that can be done to help the sons and daughters of other people, the lady interviewed shows herself to be unusual as well. . . .

MRS. W. R. MORRIS

Mrs. W. R. Morris of 483 Homewood Avenue was born in Detroit, Mich., the daughter of an English father and an Irish mother, and all her like "people" have been her chief interest. Her parents, Thomas Quarles Dench, born in England, and Kate Fiemyng, born in Dublin, met and were married in Lakefield by the Rev. Mr. Beck. They moved to Detroit the next year.

Educated in Windsor Public and High Schools, and in the Toronto Normal School, Kate Dench taught in Windsor for several years, teaching also in the Sunday School of All Saints' Church in that city, where she was a member of the choir. She was married to Wilfred R. Morris, a chartered accountant, in 1895, and her son was born in Windsor. In 1900 they moved to Toronto, and in 1902 to Smith's Falls, where Mrs. Morris was active in church and relief work. They came to Peterborough in 1905, and all through the years she has worked consistently for the causes of Church and Education, Patriotism and Social Welfare, and with an efficiency that is shown by her being found continually and repeatedly at the head of local and provincial organizations and with executive position in others of still wider interest.

Mrs. Morris was president of the Junior Auxiliary of the Women's Association of St. John's Church and later organized the Girls' Auxiliary. For some time she represented St. John's on the Board of Management of the Y.W.C.A., of which body she became president. During these years she presided at a meeting called to organize the Local Council of Women (the late Mrs. Willoughby Cummings being the organizer), and was afterwards secretary and vice-president of the L.C. of W. At one time she was convenor of the Committee on Soldiers and Sailors' Pensions of the National Council of Women. She was a charter member of the Playgrounds' Association during the war and until it was given up.

The Great War made demands for extra work from all, and Mrs. Morris responded well as might be expected. She was, among other things, convenor of collectors for the Patriotic Fund, and a member of the Speakers' Panel, in which capacity she visited different places in the district and spoke in the interests of recruiting, etc. She was treasurer of the Progressive Club, whose president was the late Miss Etta Peck. Mrs. Morris assisted in the organization of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Great War Veterans' Association and was made Honorary President. She became First President of the Ontario Provincial Command, which office she held for five years, and has been Honorary President ever since. Her name was sent in by the Canadian Legion for a Jubilee Medal, which she received from his late Majesty, King George V.

Mrs. Morris was elected to the Board of Education in 1921 and has been chairman of every committee. She was chairman of the Board for two years, and she initiated the movement for vocational education in Peterborough. She was on the executive of the Ontario Trustees and Ratepayers Association for many years, and held the office of president for one year, the only woman to have done so. She was on the executive of the Urban Trustees Association. She has been an executive member of the Ontario Home and School Federation since 1919, being president from 1928 to 1931. At the present time she is convenor of the committee on constitution.

This lady of wide interests has been associated with all the variations of social service work, being particularly interested in relief problems of late years. She is president of the Grenfell Labrador Medical Mission, and when interview had just received an interesting box of things, made by the George Street Vocational School which she will send to the Grenfell Hospital at Harrington Harbor, Labrador, to be used as Christmas gifts.

Mrs. Morris does not count herself a travelled woman, though she has visited Europe and has been over most of this continent, including a visit recently to some of the Grenfell Missions in Labrador and also to the Panama Canal, when it had just been completed and before the water was turned in. She made the forty-mile observation train trip on work tracks on the floor of the canal, and saw the machinery of the great gates.

Mrs. Morris is still active in many fields, but she feels, and justly so, that now is the time to retire from many offices and allow the younger members of society to do their share.

London Goes Easy On Men's Clothes

LONDON, Aug. 26 (CP)—Wafted across the Channel is the forecast of the leader of all Parisian tailors that green, grey, or brown will be the new colors for men's dress suits.

Saville-row, they say, has not the slightest intention of "inflicting on our patrons such grotesque ideas as colored dress suits," but they did admit that the midnight blue evening clothes which were introduced a year or two ago, have been "a surprising success."

Whatever Paris may say about evening clothes, blue-greens and greeny-blues will be the finest fashion for men's day-wear next year.

Said the British Color Council's art director, Robert P. Wilson: "Brighter color for men's clothes is coming by way of their sports clothes, but I do not think we shall ever see any startling colors in dress clothes."

Japan may ban stock speculation.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

Courage is the supreme virtue. Courage is the key to success and, what is more important, to happiness. Courage is more than physical bravery, it is the quality and action to thought. Without courage to decide there is no action.—Sir Ian Fraser. (The blind M.P.)

Dear Friends:

Have you ever known the horror of blindness? The deep darkness, the bumping into things before you get accustomed to being guided. The utter dependance on someone else for every little trifle of living. The devastating pity which shrivels your soul, and the whispers to which your ears are all too keen, for nature sharpens one faculty when she takes away another.

Then is when you need courage, not to fight with your fists but to fight the awful depression which bears you down on your soul and spirit. No more can you go hurrying but grope your way haltingly, and learn to suppress the cry when you bump into something if you attempt even to move around. And always someone saying "why didn't you ask for help?"

No more can you go blithely swinging down street, for your feet cannot go when your eyes cannot see. And your greatest pleasure, reading, is denied you. Nowadays they have dogs which they call "the seeing eye" which are a boon beyond price for the blind, but these are only recent.

Every day you must learn a new lesson in courage, to be as little bother as possible, to sit and sit when you would like to move around, to have your food cut for you, to have your hand guided to your mouth, or what is infinitely worse, to have someone feed you.

Did you ever watch a blind person eat? It is a most depressing sight. They cannot see how much food they are taking on their fork, they are not sure of the way to their mouth, surprising as it may seem. They either take too much or too little, or sometimes none at all and many times put an empty fork to their mouths.

And if it is hard to look at, how much worse it is to be like that. Are you wondering why I know so much about it? I was blind for three long months, and suffered with eyes for years, but thank God I had my sight restored again.

That is when I learned patience, which takes a lot of courage to acquire. Once in a most painful sickness I told the doctor I thought I had lost my courage for standing pain, but he assured me it would return when the pain lessened. And it takes courage to refrain from telling some of the things I have suffered when someone tells me how healthy I look if I happen to say I don't feel so good.

And there are so many different kinds of courage. Courage to stand alone if you think you are right, to stay alone when company would degrade you, to go on day after day with little or no fun to brighten things up, to work with little to look forward to, so many many ways to use it and appreciate it in others.

Many of the weakest show most courage, for it is easy to have it if you are big and strong. You can hit back, you can challenge another if you do not like what they say or do, you can command attention, but the weaker ones have to learn courage to bite back words, turn their back on gullies, grin and, forget slights.

And the sick must have courage to suppress the groan of pain, the irritation and the impatience. All of us need the courage to say no when it would be so easy to say yes, and each one of us needs the clean decent courage to admit how good God has been to us all. Hoping you get the courage to write to.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA

Chinese Women Want To Learn

OSHAWA, Ont., Aug. 26 (CP) — Conditions in China have changed for women, says Miss Che Fong Seto, pretty graduate of the University of Canton who is visiting in Oshawa prior to entering on post-graduate studies in child welfare on this continent.

Too much play of the imagination and too much impracticable philosophy held China back from the call of progress and left her open to exploitation by Japan, she said, but this has all been changed.

Thirty years ago the essential qualities of a good Chinese wife were obedience to her husband and, when the husband died, obedience to the eldest son. Today the women of China strives to get all that schools and colleges offer. While impressing on the men her newfound self and claiming equality, she has not discarded all the virtues of her mother's generation, and marriage is still the goal of every Chinese woman.

Social and child welfare work are the great need in China today and Chinese women are preparing for this. "A need in my land is a housing scheme similar to that in Canada," she says.

GAVE PROVINCE CHEAPER POWER HEPBURN CLAIMS

Section 98 of the Criminal Code, now repealed, and had thus denied Labor's right of assembly.

Section 98 of the Criminal Code was enacted in 1919 at the time of the Winnipeg general strike. It dealt with "unlawful" assemblies and organizations chiefly. It was repealed in 1936 by the present Federal Government.)

A mandate for his government to press collection of succession duties was asked by his government, the premier said. Under investigation were 44 estates and attempts to hinder investigations by court appeals were being made in the hope Conservatives would be returned to power and end the cases.

"We are going to take a chance on getting the support of the people to enable us to go on with our program of collecting succession duties of obtaining the revenue for better highways and lower license fees," he said.

The recently-created Ontario Industry and Labor Board would work in harmony with a similar board in Quebec to keep wages in particular industries on a competitive basis and to end sweat shops in both provinces, he said.

JAPAN THREATENS TO BLOCK SHIPPING

ed yesterday to foreign vessels, declared that "foreign shipping along the China coast may be halted by Japanese warships patrolling the area."

He added:

"We exercise the privilege of pre-emption towards foreign bottoms carrying a cargo which in time of war would constitute contraband."

(In international law, "preemption" is the right of a belligerent to seize and purchase at an appraised price other contraband of war than absolute contraband belonging to a neutral and enroute to the enemy in its own territory or on the high seas or in unappropriated territory.)

Chinese Are Dug In

An Associated Press correspondent surveyed the countryside north of Shanghai this morning and found the Chinese dug in heavily over the entire area to within a few miles of Liuho. Japanese had reported they were sweeping everything before them in their southward advance from Liuho, Paoshan and Woosung, where they had landed heavy reinforcements.

It was impossible to reach Liuho as the whole area was being bombed by Chinese and Japanese airplanes indicating the Japanese were trying to gain a bach head there and the Chinese were continuing their resistance.

The Japanese naval spokesman declared that absence of a declaration of war was "merely a legal view as hostilities are going on" and indicated Japan would have to take wartime measures to prevent supplies from reaching the Chinese.

Airplane Attacked British Tanker

LONDON, Aug. 26. (CP)—A Reuters news agency dispatch from Athens today said an unidentified airplane 20 miles off Barcelona had attacked a British tanker owned by a Greek company.

The captain of the vessel told of the attack on its arrival at the Piraeus this morning. The ship was identified as the "Romford." (No vessel of that name is listed in Lloyd's register.)

The plane was said to have dropped five bombs near the tanker without hitting it.

POLICE ON HUNT GIRL ATTACKER

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, August 26.—The police have been informed of a brutal assault perpetrated on a young girl living in the south end of the town a few evenings ago. She was returning to her home from work late in the evening when she was attacked by a man who had been following her some distance. He struck her a severe blow in the abdomen and as she screamed he grabbed her by the throat, leaving the marks of his fingers. The girl struck the attacker in the face and as he loosened his hands she ran away to the nearest residence. A good description has been obtained of the girl's assailant.

The barn and contents on the farm of William Switzer of Goodfarham was totally destroyed by fire, following a lightning bolt this week. Nothing was saved and the loss is a heavy one.

Man 89, Walks Miles Renew Subscription

TRENT RIVER, Aug. 26.— Mr. John Lawson, one of our oldest and most highly esteemed residents, who expects to celebrate his 89th birthday in December, walked from his residence to Trent River (a distance of two miles) to renew his subscription to the Peterborough Examiner, of which he is an ardent reader.

Mr. Lawson retains all his faculties, can read without the aid of glasses, is proud of the best garden he ever cared for this year, walks to Sunday service weather permitting and enjoys the goodwill of a host of friends and neighbors.

During the summer he enjoyed some delightful motor trips to Oshawa, Smith Falls and Picton and the Sand Banks in Prince Edward county.

VERNON JANEWAY WINS MILE SWIM BEWDLEY REGATTA

BEWDLEY, Aug. 26. — Vernon Janeway of Peterborough was an easy first in the men's mile swim and Alice Carver of Caesarea finished well in front in the women's mile swim, at the annual regatta at this Rice Lake resort on Wednesday afternoon.

The long distance swimming events run off over a mile-long triangular course were probably the features of an interesting and varied program of water sports that was witnessed by a number of spectators. Certainly from the endurance standpoint they were two events that demanded all the competitors had.

Organized yearly by the residents of Bewdley, the regatta wound-up with a well-attended dance in the evening, at which prizes won by contestants earlier in the day were distributed. Regatta officials were: Judges—Dr. J. Logan, Harry Perrin, H. S. Strong. Starter—Elmer Sidey. Announcer—Dave Kissock. Clerks of the Course—Bob Hancock, Don Sidey and Bob Holdaway.

Millbrook Citizen's Band was in attendance and during the staging of the program marched up and down on the waterfront playing lively airs, or occupied the bandstand to present an enjoyable program of music for the large crowd present.

Star performers of other regattas in the district during the past season figured prominently in the awards, including: Herbert Cardwell and Bill Taylor both from Wallace's Point Canoe Club, Mrs. Florence Sellaby and Ralph Loucks both of Hiawatha and Zack Smoke, Alderville to name but a few at random.

Prize winners were announced as follows:

Ladies' singe canoe — 1, Mrs. Florence Sellaby, Hiawatha; 2, Aileen Cardwell, Wallace Point; 3, Patty Perrin, Bewdley.

Mixed tandem canoe—1, Patty Perrin and Bill Taylor; 2, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Cardwell; 3, George Thompson and Lois Leavens, Gannon's Narrows.

50-50-50 Race (running, swimming and paddling) — 1, Herbert Cardwell; 2, Bill Taylor; 3, Douglas Mortimer, Wallace Point.

Tug of war (in in a canoe)—1, Bill Taylor and Herbert Cardwell; 2, Ab Chase and George Thompson.

Ladies' mile swim—1, Alice Carver, Caesarea; 2, Lois Leavens, Toronto; 3, Thora Stalter, Chemong.

Boys' swim (15 years and under) 100 yards—1, Bill Deyell; 2, Jack Luck; 3, Henry Perrin.

Girls' swim (15 years and under) 75 yards—1, Elva McClung, Bewdley; 2, Laurel Clark, Brooklyn, N.Y.; 3, Doreen Deyell, Wallace Point.

Tilting—1, Ralph Loucks; 2, Ab Mortimer.

Tug of war (on land) — Wallace Point won the decision over Millbrook team.

RICE LAKE REGATTA SEASON CONCLUDED WITH BEWDLEY REGATTA.

Emphasizing the sad fact that summer is nearly over, Bewdley Regatta held on Wednesday afternoon was the last of the Rice Lake Regattas this season. Events were well contested and the attendance, while not as large as usual was very satisfactory. The layout shows: (1), Winners of the girl's swim (15 years and under), 75-yards (Left to Right), Elva McClung, Bewdley, Laurel Clark, Brooklyn, N.Y., Doreen Deyell, Wallace Point. (2), Dave Kissock, Toronto, newspaperman on holiday deserts pencil and pad for a megaphone to act as announcer. (3), James and Dick Fullerton of Cobourg, first across the finishing line in the dinghy race. (4), A trio of clever swimmers snapped at the conclusion of the women's mile swim. They placed in the order in which they are seen in the picture (Left to Right), Alice Carver, Caesarea, Lois Leavens of Toronto, former member of the famous Dolphinettes Club and Thora Stalter, Chemong. (5), Left to Right, Herbert Cardwell and Bill Taylor, both of Wallace Point Canoe Club and Zack Smoke, Alderville Reserve, all experts with the paddle; and Vernon Janeway and Jack Bennett, both of Peterborough, who finished first and second respectively in the men's mile swim.

Police Commission Approved Request For Provincials

Unanimous in Decision to Request Provincial Police to Be Brought Here.

Members of the Police Commission were consulted and the Commission approved the request to the Ontario Government, which brought twenty-three special Provincial police to this city during the recent strike disorders, Commission chairman Judge Sheldon Smoke stated at a Commission meeting yesterday afternoon. It was not revealed where the demand for special police originated.

Judge Smoke said he was making the statement in view of adverse criticism to which Mayor Macdonald had been subjected over the matter.

"I am completely in accord with the way it was carried out," the chairman said. "As one of the members of the Commission I was consulted on the question of bringing the Provincial police here and in my opinion it was the proper thing to do. I might add too, the Police Commission was unanimous in the decision."

A letter from the United Textile Workers, signed by Secretary Alex. Townsley, asked the Commission for copies of by-laws regarding the holding of meetings after sundown and control of noise. Secretary S. R. Armstrong was directed to reply, explaining that the Commission has no such by-law, but that the City of Peterborough has on its books an anti-noise by-law.

The Commission resolved to grant permission to the Peterborough Wokers and Unemployed Association to hold a tag day on September 18 for the benefit of a Christmas tree and to the Boy Scouts to hold an Apple Day on October 9.

Muskie Found Choking To Death With Large Sucker In Its Throat

LINDSAY, Aug. 26.—MacKenzie Fulton of Long Point, Balsam Lake, tells a fanciful fish story, which is vouched for.

It appears that, along with a friend, he was fishing from a boat, near the shore of Balsam Lake, when he was surprised to see a large muskie floating about near the surface of the water.

It appeared to be helpless and the two fishermen reached out and lifted the lunge into the boat. They discovered the fish was in perfect condition, but breathing heavily.

On examination they found the muskie was gradually being choked to death. It had swallowed a large sucker, which was lodged in its throat.

Tourist Catches 25-Pound Lunge

District Attorney Andrew Park of Pittsburgh, Pa., has landed big fish in Pennsylvania courtrooms, but experienced no thrill greater than when he landed a 25-pound muskie on Buckhorn Lake Wednesday evening. Hooked off Scotsman Point, the big fellow measured 45 inches in length.

Mr. Park reported he had him in the boat in 20 minutes. George Coppway, a guide who accompanied him, said he never saw a lung put up as big a fight.

A visitor to Buckhorn Lake each summer during the past 15 years, Mr. Park is spending the month of August there this year.

BULLET IN REAR TIRE.

HAMILTON, Aug. 26.—(CP)—Discovery of a revolver bullet that pierced the spare tire cover on the rear of a car stolen last midnight and later abandoned in Dundurn Park, furnished a mystery for police today.

Joseph Murray reported a car owned by the Wright Fruit Company had been stolen. Cruisers were furnished with a description but no trace of the stolen car was found until early today when Constables Stan Edge and Sam McGee saw it parked in Dundurn Park.

Luxurious Cruising Houseboat Passes Up The Trent Canal

Disabled when her starboard propellor fouled a rock near Healy Falls, the "Amada" a luxurious 71-foot cruising houseboat passed up the Trent Canal on Wednesday afternoon. She was en route to Bobcaygeon for repairs.

Largest boat through the Lift Locks this season the cruiser is owned by Dr. J. W. Decker, president of the Trans Lux Ticker Corporation. On board was Mrs. Decker and a crew of five including Captain T. Lane.

Having a displacement of 51 tons the boat is powered with a couple of 140-horse power gasoline marine engines. The boat was navigating on the port engine following the mishap to the starboard propeller, and was making poor time in consequence.

Since leaving New York on August 5 last the boat has cruised up the Hudson River, through the Erie Canal, across Lake Ontario and up the Trent Waterway. On the return trip Dr. Decker plans to go via the St. Lawrence River to Montreal and from there down through Lake Champlain.

In addition to his cruiser, Dr. Decker has a car and trailer here which was brought overland by his chauffeur. The trailer known as the "Curtis Aero Car" is the last word in trailer luxury. Radio equipped, and complete with hot water supply, shower and toilet accommodation, it is a miniature Pullman car.

Cozy upholstered seats, are easily convertible into beds, while further sleeping space is provided by upper berths identical with the type found in railway "sleepers". Bottled gas is carried for cooking purposes, while other conveniences found in the trailer include a telephone through which the owner can give his chauffeur instructions while on the road.

The car and trailer are used, merely for side trips and so far on the present trip has been little used, it was learned. It was an object of keen interest while in the city and was the envy of other motor campers when the chauffeur spent a recent night at the city tourist camp at James Stevenson Park.

The Rambling REPORTERS

ORGANIZERS ORGANIZED.

Everything seems to be organized in the world of Labor, even the organizers. For instance, Nora Adams of Oshawa, C.I.O. auto workers' organizer, who helped organize Peterborough strikers during the past month, is in Milwaukee this week attending a convention of union organizers which has been organized to organize the organizers.—C.P.K.

ELECTION BOARD GETS UNDER WAY

The Board consists of Judge Sheldon Smoke, Magistrate O. A. Longley, Sheriff J. A. Harstone, Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., as clerk of the peace, and a fifth member to be appointed by the first four. It is reported the fifth member is to be Morley Shaver, city treasurer.

Last night's meeting was informal and brief. It is understood, the business at hand to be undertaken within the next few days.

Three-Cornered Fight In Essex?

KINGSVILLE, Ont., Aug. 26 — (CP)—Possibility the South Essex riding may be the scene of a three-cornered fight in the coming Ontario elections with Lambert P. Wigle, present Liberal member, running as an independent, was foreseen to-day.

Mr. Wigle was defeated in this Essex County town Tuesday for the Liberal nomination by Charles Fletcher, Leamington barrister, and former sheriff of Essex County.

Mr. Wigle said later he would "come out in due course."

ALL BUT 5 MILES

CAPE GRIS NEZ, France, Aug. 26 (AP)—Frau Brenura Wendell abandoned an attempt to swim the English Channel today five miles from the English coast, because of high winds. The 34-year-old lady doctor from the German village of Oera set out late yesterday from Oris Nez Beach. She returned in a tug today.

LOCAL INDUSTRIES MAINTAIN VOLUME AS AUTUMN BEGINS

Peterborough's industries have come through the summer months with no seasonal droop in production and with prospects continuing favorable for the fall months.

Unofficial reports from the textile plants that were stalled for nearly two months indicate they are rapidly picking up volume in spite of the disruption of the business.

The Canadian General Electric has more employees on the payroll than in the palmiest days of the past before accelerated machinery came into general use. Western Clock Company, Canada Packers, Quaker Oats, in fact the city's entire manufacturing framework shows a vitality and sturdiness as the dog days of summer wane that seem to ensure continuance of the briskness that has marked local business since the beginning of the year.

CRASH A BARRIER.

ORILLIA, Ont., Aug. 26 (CP).—F. J. MacNamara, 61, and his two sisters, Grace, 56, and Rose, 58, Montreal, narrowly missed serious injury last night when their car skidded through a barrier across the highway near Orilla, and came to a stop hanging precariously over a 10-foot drop. F. J. MacNamara, the driver, was blinded momentarily by the sun and did not see the barrier and detour sign across the middle of the road. He applied his brakes, but did not come to a stop until one side of his car went off the road immediately over a cattle crossing which is being built under the highway.

Men In Shorts Shocked Older Folk Back In Gay Nineties

Mothers Refused to Let Daughters Serve Lacrosse Players at Church Supper.

(By Joe Begley)

Away back some 55 years ago, we had a boys' lacrosse league of four teams here, the Maple Leafs in the village (my team), the Centres in the centre and north, the Beavers in the west and Independents in the south. Some of the players on the central team were the Cannon brothers, Metherals, Yellands and Gibbs. The west end had the Sherwoods, Bates, Cronin, Hamilton and Stratton. The Independents carried Jack Allen, Paddy Bolton, the McDonald brothers and the Martin boys. On the Leafs were Frank Pakenham, Jim McCabe, Bill Patterson, Jack Smith, the Mowry boys and others.

Class feeling was unknown then and boys who had to play in their bare feet (and many of us did) were never made to feel out of place by the others. We had many a fight on and off the field and after games we would go to the head-gates for a swim. Later some of us joined the Peterboroughs and played with the second 12 who competed with villages in the neighborhood, and from there to the Riversides. The old Peterborough team then was famous all over Canada. John Howden, Mick Halpin, George Giroux and Jim Sheehy were some of the old boys who are still with us. When this grand team, the best in the city's history, left their little grounds in the village, it was the start of the finish. After two years at the Driving Park, they went out of business and the Riversides sprung up, and that is how Riverside Park got its name back in the eighties.

Played With Beaverton

We had many hard struggles with Beaverton, Pete and Dunc McMillan, along with the Bichard boys, Cameron and McKinnon, were some of the stars with that good team in a smart little town. Games with Toronto teams were played also, and with Millbrook, one of the oldest lacrosse teams in Ontario. Some of the names I can remember there are Nattress, McMahon, Coons, Richardson and Duncan. Hastings was another good lacrosse centre in those days. Well I recall the stump field at the station with the barnyard at one end and the stumps at the other, and how we would dodge the stumps and go down and get stuck in the mud. We always had a good time in Hastings. The Howard boys, Jim Fowls, Dr. Berry, Butler and Murray are some of their names which come to mind.

Madoc also was another hard team to beat with the Cross brothers, Jim Burke, Jim McDonald and many others as their stars and in this mining village, a lacrosse match was always one of the feature events of the fall fair. And while speaking of some of these old timers, we recall those players of the old time Riversides such as Mick Halpin, Ab Rose, Tom Duncan and Frank Packenham who are still around to recall those happy days of long ago. While we who are left over to carry on in other ways like to recall the old pals who are not with us any more and who we will some day join can never forget that real true sportsmanship such as they had shown makes us feel that we are better for having known them. Some of these were Tom Ibester, Frank Larone, Fred Stevenson, Joe Joel, Tom Meather and Father Joseph Phelan.

About four or five years was enough for the Riversides and the Young Petes started back on the old stamping grounds. They were a very fast team who started young and knew the game. Jack Brown, Dennie Dobbin, Walter Phelan, Lionel King, Jim and Jack McCabe, Rolly Glover and Billie Galley were some of these younger stars.

On Championship Team

About this time I went into Brampton for a season and we won the championship of Ontario at the Toronto exhibition, the Parker brothers, Dr. Haggie, Billie Dawson and Bob Stuart were on that team. When I cam home Frank Pakenham and myself linked up with the new team that was running here at that time and lacrosse fans will never forget the games we had with Port Hope, Billie Patterson was in charge of the lakeshore team and while he was a good player, he hated to lose and after we had beaten his team he recruited one with players from all over the country, including on the roster Jack and Louie White, two of the best Indian players in the country, also Pete Day and Pete White. In this way we held our own turn about until we started to bring in players and then both teams went down and out, some of us even out of town, going to Port Hope, Lindsay and Millbrook.

Walter Phelan, Jim McCabe, Lionel King and myself went with Lindsay one time to play Cannington and we were placed two at each end of the field and at the start the village boys played all around us but we changed the team a bit, and we played the homesters off their feet. The next day we drove from Lindsay to Ballyduff and played Millbrook at a Sunday school picnic.

Some of our team played in shorts, with low neck sweaters and the older folk were quite shocked at our appearance. After the game we went into a large tent for supper, and everybody left, for they had never seen attire such as this before in public, some of the mothers going so far as to refuse to let the younger girls serve us at the table.

Later on I left the home town again and went to Seaforth where I soon found out that we did not know anything about ringing down east. I came across players from all over this side of the country including Jimmie McDonald and Tim Kirk of Madoc. We cleaned up the west section of the province and came down to Toronto playoff with my old teammates, the Brampton boys who put us out of the running. Some of the gang from Seaforth were Billie McDougall, Paul Freeman, Billie Sutherland, Tom Stevens, Cotton Ball Brown and Captain Oscar Neil. Along about this time I dropped out of the lacrosse race but I shall never forget the memories of those good old days and the many fine fellows I met while playing the famous Canadian pastime.

SEA IS ONLY EXIT FROM SANTANDER FOR LOYALISTS

Detachments numbering several thousand already had penetrated the city to quell vengeful terrorists.

Insurgent sources estimated that about half of the Spanish Government's defeated army of some 50,000 was caught in a 15-miles-square trap in the rolling country southeast of Santander, still unaware that 'the city of perpetual spring" had capitulated.

The defence of the Biscayan seaport had been shattered by 12 days of swift thrusts—a defeat that may decide Spain's 13-months-old civil conflict.

Tales of anarchist terror in the conquered city, of thirst and hunger, of pillage and shooting in the streets reached the French shores of the Bay of Biscay.

Fleeing men, women and children streamed into France on any craft that could carry them over the water. The sea was the only exit from Santander.

While Franco's advance guard waited to-day for the command to occupy Santander, supporting columns occupied Ramales and Ampuero to complete encirclement of those parts of the Government army that had not already surrendered or fled to the sea before the insurgents plugged the route to Oviedo province.

Fifteen thousand government militiamen had surrendered in Santander, insurgent headquarters said.

WEATHER TO BE HOT.

DUNKIRK, N.Y., Aug. 26 (AP).—Weather prediction for the rest of the summer:

"Real hot."

They base it on the fact geese and ducks are quacking louder than usual, 'wild birds' songs are more prolonged and fish are leaping higher in the streams.

Fed Fish From Hand One of Newer Yarns

GALT, Ont., Aug. 26. — (CP) — Here's another fish yarn, vouched for by Charles Richards, Galt:

Richard's fishing party near Bala, Ont., had scarcely been able to coax a bite out of the fish but just as they were about to leave for home a man named Adams showed them how to treat the fish if they wanted any luck. Taking them to a spot where a dam empties into the Moon River, Adams held a worm in his hand and two black bass gobbled it up while Richards' party stood by with their mouths open.

12-Ton Trailer Is Wrecked When Hit By Train At Cobourg

Groceries Are Strewn Over Two Acre Lot After Crash.

COBOURG, Ont., Aug. 26 (CP)—Struck by an eastbound Canadian National Railways freight train today, a 12-ton trailer of the Motorways Transport was demolished. The driver, Leonard Travers, Ottawa, and a companion, Oscar Williamove, escaped injury when the tractor of the truck crossed the tracks before the train struck.

The driver told police he was at the level crossing and stopped to let a westbound freight pass. A truck ahead of him started to pass, and he concluded the way was clear and also started across.

"Just then I heard the whistle of an eastbound freight," Travers said. "The track ahead of me cleared the track and I gave my truck the gun. I cleared the crossing with the tractor but the train hit the trailer."

The trailer chassis was carried 200 yards, and the contents, 12 tons of groceries, were strewn over two acres. The train was slightly damaged. Police Chief W. Carey and Constable Gavin Reid investigated.

Louis–Farr Fight Postponed 4 Days

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP)—The heavyweight championship fight between Joe Louis and Tommy Farr, scheduled for tonight, was postponed until Monday night because of rain.

The four-day postponement was announced by promoter Mike Jacobs shortly after the rival fighters weighed in, at the offices of the State Athletic Commission.

The Welsh challenger had a nine pound advantage on the scales, weighing 207 to 198 for Louis.

Because of the length of the postponement ,the fighters will be obliged to go through the official weigh-in and examination ceremony again, on Monday.

NO IMPORTANCE TO PEACE NOTES

MIYANOSHITA, Japan, Aug. 26, —(AP).—Premier Prince Fumimaro Kononye declared to-day Japan did not consider proposals advanced by Great Britain and United States to the end the Sino-Japanese war of much importance.

The Premier made the statement after consultation with Prince Kimmochi Saionji, the last of Japan's elder statesmen, on the clash between the two great Oriental powers.

Referring by name to United States' Secretary of State Hull and his expressed wish China and Japan cease fighting, and to the British proposal to create a neutral zone around Shanghai, the Premier said:

'I think all these are the result of the Powers' lack of proper understanding of Japan's position. Japan does not attach much importance to these proposals from foreign Powers."

"ALL-BRAN LIVES UP TO REPUTATION"

If you are troubled with common constipation, read Miss Bundy's enthusiastic letter:

"I used to feel poorly all the time—just down and out. After reading an advertisement about ALL-BRAN, I got a box. It has helped me ever since."—Miss Mary Bundy (address on request).

Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brings "bulk" to exercise the intestines; vitamin B to tone up the intestinal tract.

Within the body, ALL-BRAN absorbs twice its weight in water. This soft mass gently clears the intestines in a safe, natural way —without any of the weakening action of pills and drugs.

Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily —with every meal in severe cases. Serve as a cereal with milk or fruits, or cook into recipes. Remember—ALL-BRAN is a food—not a medicine. You buy it at the grocery store. Made by Kellogg in London.

HEPBURN KEPT HIS PROMISES BAKER CLAIMS

SYDENHAM, Ont., Aug. 26.—(CP)— Premier Hepburn was described as "the people's friend" by Morgan Baker, Member of the Legislature for North York, in addressing a Frontenac-Addington Liberal picnic in this Eastern Ontario town late yesterday. The picnic, third annual affair, was given by Colin Campbell, Member of Federal Parliament and Liberal nominee for this riding in the coming Ontario electon.

Mr. Baker said Premier Hepburn had fulfilled every promise he made in the 1934 campaign. He said Mr. Hepburn "remains the most fearless parliamentarian Ontario ever had." Assailing the record of Conservative Leader Earl Rowe, he charged Mr. Rowe voted "to put men in detention camps in the north at 20 cents a day."

The Conservatives had "tied up" 12,000 horse power "which wasn't needed and couldn't be used," making it necessary for the Hepburn administration to cancel Hydro-Electric power supply contracts. He claimed $8,000,000 had been saved Ontario as a result.

"Mr. Hepburn kept his promise to clean up Hydro," Mr. Baker continued. "He got rid of the $30,000 Gabys and Maguires (former Hydro Electric Power Commission executives.) He has reduced the bonded indebtedness of the province. He tackled the banking interests and he cleaned up the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway mess and he reduced taxation in spite of what Mr. Rowe says."

The government had collected $28,000,000 from estates "closed" by the Conservatives. To-day the representatives of these estates were "banding together to fight the government and escape the succession duties taxes."

Mr. Campbell spoke briefly, asking for support on election day.

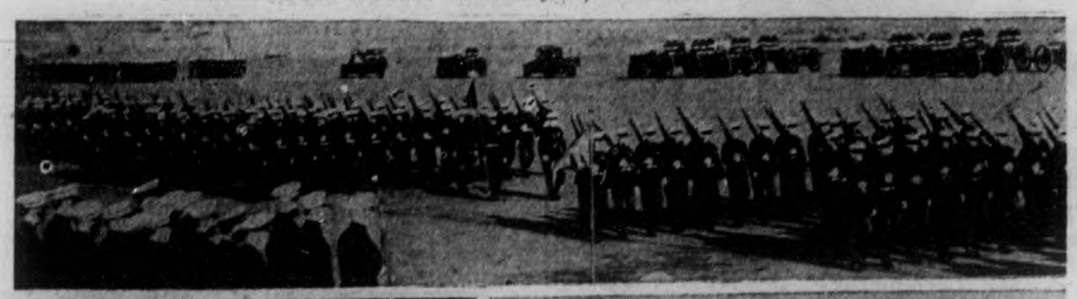
President Roosevelt Orders 12,000 Marines To China



The United States has moved to strengthen its armed forces in China and at the same time served notice upon belligerent Japanese and Chinese that Americans rights, lives and property must be protected when President Roosevelt ordered 12,000 marines of the sixth regiment from San Diego to war-battered Shanghai. Marching orders for the marines followed a declaration by Secretary of State Cordell Hull that the U.S. had no intention of withdrawing from the Far East. The marines who have been ordered to China are shown in the upper photograph as they passed in review at San Diego. Commander of the marines being dispatched to China and upon arrival there commander of all marines in China, Brigadier-Gen. John C. Beaumont is shown in the lower LEFT. A typical machine-gun crew is shown in the lower RIGHT as they went into action during recent war manoeuvres.

Wrote Each Other For 39 Years Toronto Woman To Wed Man, 72

DETROIT, Aug. 26.—Thirty-nine years after they met, Will Thomas Hughes, 72, of Detroit, to-day looked forward to marriage next week to Miss Elizabeth Allen, 5, of Toronto. For 35 of the 39 years Hughes and Miss Allen never saw each other. Two weeks ago he telegraphed to her to come here. She came as he directed, and yesterday the two applied at the marriage license bureau. Neither has been married before.

Hughes prospected for gold in Alaska and picked up a tidy fortune, he said. In addition he was left $23,000 by relatives, he asserted.

"I met Elizabeth in 1898 in Manchester, Eng.," said Hughes who looks 15 years younger. "I was born there and I had gone back for a visit. She was 16 and I 33. We kept company for a while and about six years late I came back to the United States. We kept on writing. Then about two weeks ago I wired her to come here. She sent me an answer right away and came immediately—right to my hotel, as I told her. I'd have known her anywhere. She hasn't changed. A little older, that's all."

Hughes was evasive when asked whey he suddenly lost his resistance to matrimony, and merely grumbled he didn't want to marry before. Now he is in a position to care for his wife so she will never have to work again, he said. He gave her a diamond ring when she arrived here, he said, and also a wedding ring.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

NEW TORONTO lacrossers will play the Auburns an exhibition match tomorrow night at nine, under the lights, at the George St. bowls arena. Dunno a great deal about the New Torontos but they claim a couple of decisions this summer over the Roden A.C., and folks who saw the latter play here know they were good. They dished up one of the best games Auburns have had this season. The locals are sitting pretty now waiting for either Oshawa or Norwood in the league finals. The Peterborough squad has played 20 games so far this summer and lost only two, one a close loop fixture in Oshawa and the other to Orillia Terriers here. Fans can bank on another neat tilt here tomorrow night.

THE PETES and many local ball fans will be watching with interest the result of the Oshawa-Kingston tussle tomorrow in Napanee. It is a sudden-death game to settle first place in the C.O.B.L., and the loser of this game goes into loop semi-finals next week with the Petes. First game of this semi-final will be in Kingston Monday or in Oshawa on Tuesday, and return joust in Riverside Park either Wednesday or Thursday. We only get one semi-final game at home, on account of finishing in third place. We'll either be in or out by Labor Day.

KNOTTY LEE makes a triumphant return to the Peterborough ball diamond on Saturday when his Colts of Ogdensburg play Smiths Falls a Can.-Am. pro league fixture at three in Riverside. Old Knotty has a host of friends and admirers around these parts—having a hustling local club for three years—and it's a cinch the Falls' fellows won't be getting the bulk of the cheers. A huge crowd of fans is expected to see this tilt as it will be a classy professional game, at half a buck admish, and will attract some 600 or more of the 1400 C.P.R. employees who come here from Smiths Falls that day on their annual excursion. We'll have to practise up spelling to score this game, the lineups including such monikers as Sugrue, Tibbetts, VanRobays, Cheek, Gridaitis, Massie, Pukas, Harig, Homan, Palau and Resigno—by golly!

AN exhibition gals' softball game will be played at 6.30 tomorrow (Friday) night in the Bowl between Schriberts of Northern Ontario and Keene—the latter bolstered by the addition of Marilyn and Mary McCarthy. Schriberts are the class of the north and it ought to be a good game, attracting plenty of fans—and Ivan Fletcher hopes fans will kick in generously on the collection as he had to guarantee the visitors a good sum to get them to come here.

WESTCLOX GALS grabbed a 20-9 decision over Oshawa lasses here last night before a big crowd of customers at Riverside. It was the first tussle of the P.W.S.U. first-round playdowns, and they have one or two games—if necessary—Saturday in Oshawa. The locals should win out but the Phillips femmes may tighten up on their own diamond. They played sloppy softball yesterday, looking a long way from that nifty Oshawa squad which defeated local winners the last two years. B. Blade pitched fair ball and had nice support most of the way while two Motor City twirlers were rapped hard and their backers booted the ball from here to Hastings and back. B. Blade had four hits for the Delehaye damsels and M. Allison clicked for a homer and two singles. A fairish sort of setto.

FRIDAY eve at 6.15 in Riverside, Westclox men and Corbin Locks of Belleville tangle in an O.A.S.A. intermediate playdown game—these teams meeting tonight on the Quinte grounds. This will be a fine scrap between two smart crews who commit mighty few miscues. Jack Bawden, who pitched Percival Stores of Belleville to an Ontario title last year, is with this Belleville crew now. And Harry Baptie has such hurlers as Lefty Sturgeon, Ted Nalsh and Tom Parsons. We doubt if Umpire St. Denis—who caused a riot here last season—will accompany the Quinte crew. It ought to pack in the fans, all right.

OUR junior Rotarians were rubbed out of O.B.A.A. playdowns last eve in Belleville by a 5-4 score in 10 frames. A very even and smart scrap with the veteran Rotarian players falling down in the pinches and kicking a few costly ones and looking anemic at the plate. Whereas some of the recruits like Kelly and Edmunds played bangup ball. And Roy Armour pitched a swell game. Just no luck in the playoffs. Good umping by Thomas and LeBarr and a generous crowd of fans, applauding both sides. We're mighty sorry to see Herb Ralph's gang lose again, but ye olde playdown jinx seems to have him. Giardino was missed muchly, being away on vacation. It is typical of Herb to remark resignedly this a.m.: "I don't mind it so much for myself as I'm used ot it by now, but I felt sorry to see Armour's fine effort wasted. I'll be back in minor ball next year." The Kiwanis gang now meet Toronto in the next round.

SOME 40 huskies have been trying out with the Orfuns at King Edward Park these nights and Coach Bill Turnbull certainly can't kick about lack of material. Lots of beef on the line, too. Meantime, the Cobourg and Belleville squads are drilling regularly, but not too many Scugog rugbyists are turning out yet. Oshawa will have a meeting early next week to see what the Blue Devils will do this year. Latest grid gossip has it that two groups will be formed in and around Central Ontario this fall. One will consist of Peterborough, Oshawa, Lindsay and Cobourg; and the other will have Belleville, Trenton Airport, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery and Royal Canadian Signals, the latter two of Kingston. Should be something definite on it any day now.

Another California Netter May Topple Mighty Budge

BOBBY RIGGS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Is Bobby Riggs, the 19-year-old from Hollywood, Cal., good enough to give the one and only J. Donald Budge a battle in the United States singles at Forest Hills the end of this month?

That's the question which is being debated by some tennis observers who say, without hesitation, Bobby will be the No. 1 U.S. Davis Cup hope next year—whether or not J. Donald turns pro.

The same observers say young Bob has all the qualities shown by Budge on the court except height. That may be the deciding factor.

While the Hollywood minister's son has only recently amazed the U.S. tennis world by winning his third straight major eastern title, he's no newcomer to the game. He wasn't made overnight. In fact, he won his first tennis cup at 12, back in 1930.

True far this year Bob has won ten times while losing twice in tourneys from coast to coast. Joe Hunt beat him in the Utah state tournament, while Don Budge, his ace rival, recently defeated him to win the Casino singles at Newport, R.I.

While Bobby's championships fall to reach the proportions of Budge, he already has compiled a list of auspicious titles.

In 1935 Bobby won the United States outdoor junior singles title and the doubles, paired with Joe Hunt. In 1936 the youthful Californian won the United States clay court singles and paired with Wayne Sabin to win the doubles. To top that off, Bobby walked off with the Missouri valley men's singles crown and the doubles, also paired with Sabin.

Bobby's last triumph, prior to his appearance at Newport, R.I., was the eastern turf court championship in straight sets over Frank Parker, rated No. 2 in national ranking. Immediately prior to this, Bobby stroked his way to the U.S. clay court title and the Seabright and Southampton Bowls.

The new crown price of American tennis has been playing tennis day after day for the last 10 weeks, facing strenuous competition, and thus is able to exercise good control at all times.

Because of his craftiness, careful workmanship — he's not the killer type of player—and his ability to come through in the pinches, Bobby shows more natural ability than any player to come to the fore in the last few years.

Size, the stumbling block for many tennis hopefuls of the past, may prove Bob's undoing. He's plenty small though his stamina amazes much larger, huskier men.

However, he has shown so much stuff against big, fine players that there are many tennis experts who think he'll overcome the handicap through sheer skill.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

WITH WEATHER conditions just about perfect for lawn bowling, J. Gordon and E. McGregor of Cannington were successful pair to win the Empress Hotel Challenge Shield and the last open tournament of the season. Not only did they come first but their running mates, D. Carnegie and J. Murray also landed in the money, coming fifth.

THIRTY-SIX rinks from all over Central Ontario came to compete in our annual open doubles tournament, and the best our local bowlers could do was to split 50-50 in the honors list.

PRIOR TO the games, a pleasant event took place when D. Smith, who leaves this morning to permanently reside in the Old Country, was presented with a travelling set. Bob Hendry, in making the presentation, spoke in glowing terms of "Dave" and wished he and his family the very best of luck in returning to his native land. . . J. Devey and W. Newman of Kingston were kept busy renewing old acquaintances. . . This father and son combination of Cook's from Cannington gave a very good account of themselves. . . It's a long day since Norton and Bell of Lindsay have failed to click in a doubles competition. . . . Running true to form, J. T. Braund and his partner captured the last prize, three times in as many contests. . . J. J. Howden may be one of our oldest bowlers but we admit he is also one of our best. . . M. Levine and F. Dawe are batting 100 per cent. four games and all losses, consistent if nothing else. . . The pair from Barrie's did well, 50-50. . . E. Wall and R. Burns just missed the money by one shot.

DOWN AT Norwood on Thursday there were 26 entries in the mixed tournament, and all three rinks from our club were in the money: J. Cullen, 1st; J. McDonald, 3rd, and W. Jeffries, 5th.

Sports Spice

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—(AP)—Did the Giants take some of the starch out of the Cubs' sails . . . wow! . . . Joe Jacobs, loyal little manager of Max Schmeling, isn't exactly in what the boys call "the chips," but he bought 26 ringside seats for Farr and Louis to pass around among guys who have done him favors in the last two months. Who do you like, boys—Louis or Farr? . . . Write your own ticket.

Rip Collins, injured Cub first sacker, didn't get worried when he did a little "pre-world series" scouting on the Yanks Tuesday . . . They looked lousy . . . Maybe they showed the Ripper a little more yesterday . . .

Bill (Bojangles) Robinson, the Negro tap dancer, has been a special guest at Joe Louis' camp for a few days . . . His jokes keep Joe in good humor . . . In the Eddie McGeever - Carl (Red) Guggino lightweight bout here the other night, the referees and the judges reversed themselves twice . . . First they said McGeever won . . . Somebody hollered and they switched to Guggino . . . Somebody else yelled and they went back to McGeever . . . By this time everybody else had left the hall, so the decision stood.

Campbellford Cops 6-3 Win From Ports

(Examiner Correspondence)

CAMPBELLFORD, August 26. — The All Stars took a six-three victory from the Port Hope Red Indians in a closely contested game played on the High School diamond, Wednesday evening. The game started with Campbellford taking the lead in the first with Reddick coming in after hitting a single and stealing second and third, coming in on a single by Bush for the only score in the inning. The Indians scored two in the second with P. Phillips and Leonard coming in and Rose and Potts being struck out by Flint. The locals got three hits and no runs in the second while in the third Reddick scored again on a single with Bush bringing him in with a nice two-bagger. The Indians didn't score again till the seventh when J. Phillips came across the plate to bring the Port Hope score to three. Gallantry Still Seen On Courts

Gallantly Helen Jacobs, former U.S. singles tennis champion, hands Miss Ruth Hardwick, of England, a dipper of water, between sets of their Wightman Cup match at Forest Hills, N.Y. Miss Jacobs won her match, 2-6, 6-4, 6-2, thus giving the United States another victory in the Wightman cup matches.

LONE BRITISH SCRIBE GIVES FARR A CHANCE

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP). — Tommy Farr didn't need a crystal gazer or anybody else to tell him this was going to be a big day in his life when he climbed out of bed today at Long Branch, N.J.

Some time after 10 o'clock tonight, something very big is going to happen to Tommy, if it doesn't rain. Either he's going to get splattered all over the Yankee Stadium infield by Joe Louis or he's going to come out of the ring a rich man.

If he escapes the fireballs Louis throws at him for 15 rounds, the Welshman might go back to bed tonight the new champion. Outside of Farr himself, however, the only man around town who came right out and picked the pugnacious challenger to lift the crown was a visiting British sports writer.

With this one important exception, opinion was well-nigh unanimous that Farr, the old carnival scrapper with the disposition of a tapeworm-ridden tomcat, would get his come-uppance somewhere between the third and eighth rounds. The betting has been around 3 to 1 for the last couple of days, but Louis, the youngest heavyweight champion ever, will win his first title defence by a knockout.

Nobody has paid much attention to the pledge of eye-witnesses that Farr isn't anywhere near the "am-donnie he has looked in training. They don't much care how good he might be, to tell the truth. Those who worship at the shrine of Joe Louis' punch don't much care about anything. So far as can be discerned with the naked eye, they've forgotten completely what Max Schmeling did to Joe.

"Anybody Louis hits," they say, "he knocks his block off. Farr can be hit, can't he? Well..."

The literature from the rival camps was related, respectively, that Louis was walloping his sparring partners, knocking out two and three of them on special feast days, and that Tommy Farr was getting madder and madder at his manager, at his press agent, and at everybody.

Whole front rows of veteran fight men have watched the Welshman work out and have come away mystified. They concede him a good left, a world of rugged endurance, and an aggressive disposition. But he has looked wide open for a right, and maybe a left.

"Sure as he comes in at Joe, he'll get knocked out," said Jack Johnson, the only previous negro champion. "Joe still hasn't learned much. A boy who boxes with him and stays away will beat him every time. But this English boy had better watch himself."

Golf Notes

By ALEX MORRISON.

An expression I've heard quite often of late is "I didn't finish the shot." This is something picked up from the pros who seek to explain the fact that they have allowed the club to lose speed in the downswing.

Quitting in the downswing is not confined to the better players. On the contrary it is a regular part of the average player's game. The reason for wide existence of this fault is not hard to understand. It is difficult to know when the club is losing speed until after the damage has been done. However, with this fact known, it is only logical to take such steps as will help to bring about the necessary acceleration.

In other words, we should assume that the club will lose speed whenever we fail to stress the things which give it speed. One of these things is the practice of swinging the club as though you had to hit two balls, one about four inches directly in front of the other. This is perhaps better known as thinking about swinging through the ball. You can demonstrate the right and wrong movements of the club in the hitting area simply by moving it a sindicated in the accompanying illustration.

First, hold the club with your regular grip and move it back and forth slowly. Then hold it with your hands separated about six inches. The latter hold should give you the feeling of swinging through the ball.

CONSTABLE WAS SHOCKED.

GUELPH, Ont., Aug. 26.—(CP)—When the police sergeant called out for Barney Oldfield to answer a charge of speeding, Provincial Constable T. E. (Barney) Oldfield looked shocked. To his relief he learned later it wasn't he or the famous racing driver who was charged, but a Hamilton, Ont., man.

ROTARY OUSTED IN JUNIOR BALL

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Aug. 26 (CP) —Belleville Kiwanis juniors will enter the second round of the O.B.A.A. provincial playdowns, the result of a 5-4 win Wednesday in 10 innings over Peterborough Rotary in the final game of best-of-three series.

Lefty Weeks for Belleville hurled a consistent game, having 10 strikeouts and giving two bases on balls. Opposed to him was Armour who used a fast-breaking curve and a faster straight ball to mow down the locals.

Belleville will now play the winners of the St. Cyprian-Columbus series now in progress in Toronto.

Score by innings:

Somerville Given Good Title Chance

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 26 (AP)—Champion Johnny Fischer of Cincinnati, giving no indication he intended to relinquish his crown, led the 16 surviving musketeers into the withering fire of the third and fourth rounds of the United States amateur golf tournament at the Alderwood Club today.

An even dozen were doomed as "also rans" by nightfall, leaving four to move into the 36-hole semi-finals tomorrow.

All of the remaining sharpshooters were considered to have excellent chances to make the semi-finals but most prominently rated was C. R. "Sandy" Somerville, reigning Canadian champion of London, Ont., and former United States titlist.

Westclox Girls Win First Playdown Tilt

Take 20-9 Nod Over Oshawa in Loosely-played P.W.S.U. Game Here.

Westclox won the first game in the first round of the Provincial Women's Softball Union playdowns here last night, defeating the Phillips team of Oshawa by a 20-9 score before a big crowd of fans in Riverside Park. Second game—and third if necessary—will be staged in the Motor City on Saturday.

The winners took an early lead, saw it wiped out in the first of the third, but came on strongly the rest of the way to earn the verdict handily. They outhit and outfielded their rivals and had better pitching. Oshawa played sloppy ball in the field and many of their miscues proved costly as Westclox cashed in on "em with hits in bunches to pile up the count.

B. BLADE FAIR

Barb Blade twirled for the winners and went fair aside from the third heat when the Phillips gang got six runs. Her support mostly was good. P. Szoldra started on the visitors' mound but had nothing but a slow ball and was finally yanked in the eighth. She was nicked for 12 hits and three walks while fanning one. C. Siblock replaced her and was touched for five safeties the rest of the tussle as she fanned two and walked none. B. Blade had given 15 hits and two free tickets as she struck out two. The losers' pitchers had indifferent backing several frames.

B. Blade had four hits for the winners and M. Allison three, one a homer. I. Pavy hit a triple. E. Clark led the losers with three hits in three appearances, while K. Siblock and E. Higgins hit two-base blows. Fielding features were catches by A. Brooks, D. Merrett and M. Hawthorne. The locals' infield went good.

Westclox Starts It

Westclox got two runs in the first frame on two walks and a hit. Oshawa scored six in the third on five hits, an error and a free base. The homesters got half a dozen in their half with five hits, a walk and three miscues figuring in them. Oshawa could only get one at a time after that in the fifth, sixth and seventh. Westclox tallied four more in the sixth on four bingles, one a homer, with Oshawa players twice pegging to the wrong base to let runners be safe all around. The Delahaye gang got eight in a big eighth canto on five hits, two errors, two more dumb plays by the losers and a couple of wild pitches.

Champs Not Entered In Women's Golf

WINNIPEG, August 26—(CP). — Canada's premier women's golf titles, the open and close championships, will go undefended during two weeks of firing over Winnipeg courses starting Monday.

Neither Mrs. A. B. Darling of Montreal, who won the open in her home city last year, nor Miss F. J. Muiqueen, close titleholder from Toronto, are entered for the 1937 Canadian tournaments.

The open will be decided next week on the greens and fairways of the St. Charles Country Club, 12 miles northeast of the city, with the close September 7-11 on the Niakwa Links south of the city limits.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26. (CP)—The Cubs met the enemy — And couldn't get away from them. Even if they had been in the next country, it's doubtful if those Chicago clouters could have gotten the Giants out of their hair yesterday as they blew both ends of their doubleheader with the second-place New Yorkers. They kicked away a five-run lead in the opener and a one-run edge in the nightcap, which shaved their National League lead to a mere two games.

As a result, the National League race seemed headed today for a photo finish, with enough rough riding to make it look like a rodeo, and with the Pittsburgh Pirates and St. Louis' reviving Cardinals the outsiders that may decide it.

Even a couple of startling performances in the American League couldn't take the spotlight yesterday. For one, there was Bob Feller, looking like a real pitcher, fanning 16, allowing four hits and hurling the Indians to an 8-1 victory over the Red Sox in the opener of a twin bill, the nightcap of which went to the Bostons, 7-2.

For another, there was a major league record equaled when the Tigers' outfield didn't have a fielding chance as the Detroits drubbed the Athletics 10-4.

National Cops Spotlight

The four-game series the Pirates opened with the Giants in a twin bill today assumed all the importance of a motor in an automobile. If the Bucs, who belted the Bees, 6-0, behind the continued classy flinging of young Russ Bauers yesterday, can get over the habit of "stooging" for the still crippled Giants, there's going to be a lot of fun before they move away from the Harlem.

And when they finally go along, the Giants will have to get away from those Cards, who are beginning to get pitching of sorts. Lon Warneke and Si Johnson were the right sort yesterday and had the Dodgers breaking their backs as they took a twin win, 4-2 and 5-2.

The Giants, meantime, didn't need any blondy Ryan to shout his "they can't beat us" piece from the housetops. Behind 7-2 in the ninth inning of the opener, their chances looked like Tommy Farr's, but the Cub infield blew up, Jimmy Ripple hit a homer, and the score was all even as five unearned runs poured across. They won out in the 11th, 8-7. In the nightcap, the Cubs got away in front again, but Jojo Moore and Hank Leiber took care of that little detail with homers that produced a 4-2 win.

Yankees Hold Lead

The Yankees held their 10½-game American League lead with a 10-6 trouncing of their ex-jinx, Thornton Lee, and the Chicago White Sox. The Senators outlasted the Browns for a 7-6 edge. The Phillies and Reds were rained out.

Southend Softball.

Due to Keene's participation in O.A.B.A. playdowns, last night's scheduled DeLaval-Keene game in the Southend Loop playoffs was postponed. It will be played at the Brinton Grounds tonight. With Keene in other playoffs and DeLaval going on holidays next week, the rest of the final series may have to be postponed one week. The executive meets tonight to settle this matter. The officers regret the delay and confusion resulting from these changed dates but hope to announce the new playoff schedule in the Southend League to fans at tonight's game.

WILLS' NEAT WORK WINS LEAGUE TITLE

OSHAWA, Aug. 26.—Oshawa won the championship of the Lakeshore League Intermediate B grouping and the right to enter the O.B.A.A. playdowns when they handed Bowmanville Royals, last year's Ontario finalists a 10 to 7 reverse at Alexandra Park last night. Off to a bad start when Bowmanville shelled Tip Anderson from the mound in the second inning with a four-hit barrage which resulted in three tallies, the locals called upon the services of the veteran LeLfty Wills, who hand-cuffed the visitors for the balance of the game.

Only once, in the seventh frame was Wills in trouble, pulling himself out by fanning two men in order after previously filling the bases and giving the opposition a run when he hit Bagnell with a thrown ball. Dave Osborne went the route for the losers and for the first three frames hurled a championship brand of ball. The Oshawa slugfest started in the fourth frame when they bunched four hits for a like number of runs and from then on until the end his offerings were freely hit. It was Oshawa's third straight playoff win. Ab Barnes led the Oshawa attack with four safeties, while Colville with a triple and two doubles was the Royals' big batting punch.

ACE PRO PITCHER HERE ON SATURDAY

Leo Pukas, ace right-hander of Knotty Lee's Ogdensburg Colts pitching staff, is the only pitcher in the Canadian-American League to hurl a no-hit no-run game. Pukas is scheduled to come to Peterborough with Knotty Lee's Colts when they play the Smith Falls Beavers here on Saturday next. Pukas, nineteen year old speed ball artist, won his way into the hall of fame last Saturday at Ogdensburg, when he blanked Claire Forster's Ottawa Braves 9 to 0. Pukas stuck out 13 and walked three and not a ball was hit to the outfield in his brilliant exhibition of pitching.

One of the largest crowds to witness a ball game here in recent years is expected to turn out Saturday to watch Knotty Lee's club battle the Beavers. Both clubs, members of the Canadian-American Professional Baseball League, are fighting for fourth place in league standings to gain a spot in the playoffs which commence next week.

Knotty Lee boasts this year of one of the strongest clubs in the Can.-Am. League headed by eighteen year old Maurie Van Roboys, the Babe Ruth of the Canadian-American League, who has hit 36 homers so far this season. Van Roboys has hit home runs in every park of the eight clubs in the league. In addition to his home run hitting Van Roboys is hitting .381 and is leading in every department in the Can.-Am. League.

The Smith Falls club is composed of several college players, including Andy Palau, star football player with Fordham University of New York, who is handling the receiving duties. Resigno, one of the few pitchers in the Can.-Am. League to peform the iron man stunt by hurling two games in a double-header bill, will come to Peterborough with the Beavers.

New Toronto Here For Lacrosse Tilt

New Toronto will play the lo.. Auburns an exhibition lacrosse match here to-morrow (Friday) night at nine o'clock in the George St. arena, under the lights. It will be the locals' first home appearance in about two weeks. They are now awaiting the outcome of the Norwood-Oshawa league semi-final series, to meet the winner in C.O.L.A. finals. This exhibition game was arranged to provide the fans with some lacrosse after a layoff and to put the Auburns in the pink of condition for their league playoffs.

The visiting squad Friday is reported to be a strong intermediate outfit, one holding several decisions this season over the Roden A.C. team—the latter gang losing a close contest to Auburns here earlier in theh summer. It was the best game seen here this season. Auburns will be at full strength for this struggle, and fans can expect another classy battle between two teams composed of a bunch of smart gulled-stick wielders. A big crowd of rooters is expected to witness this match to-morrow night.

IN MEMORIAM

ABRAHAM.—In loving memory of Mr. James Abraham, who passed away August 26, 1936.

Our thoughts of him
Are as fresh to-day,
As in the hour
He passed away.

—Ever remembered by Mr. and Mrs. A. Rose and family.

ABRAHAM.—In loving memory of our dear Father, who was called to rest August 26, 1936.

There is no death, although we grieve when beautiful familiar forms that we have learned to love are taken from our embracing arms; they are not dead. They have but passed beyond the mists that bind us here into the newer, larger life of that serener sphere.

—Loved and missed by Sons and Families.

ABRAHAM.—In loving memory of my dear Husband, who passed away August 26, 1936.

I have lost my life companion,
A life linked with my own.
God knows how much I miss him
As I walk through life alone.

—Sadly missed by loving Wife.

ABRAHAM.—In loving memory of a very dear Friend, who passed away August 26, 1936.

You oft-time said we'd miss you;
Those words have proved too true.
We lost our best and dearest friend
When we lost you.

Upright and just to the end of your days,
Sincere and kind in heart and mind
What a beautiful memory you left behind.

—Ever remembered by Essie, Alf, and Family.

MURNEY. — In loving memory of our dear Mother and Father, Mary and George Murney, who passed to their rest on August 26, 1935, and July 20, 1925.

Gone from us, but leaving memories
Death can never take away.
Memories that will always linger
While upon this earth we stay.

—Ever remembered by their Family.

GRAHAM.—In affectionate and loving memory of our Mother, Mrs. James Graham of Otonabee, who departed this life August 27, 1932.

Oh, what would I give to clasp your hand,
A dear, kind mother to see.
To hear your voice, to see your smile
As in the days that used to be.

Loving and kind in all her ways,
Upright and just all her days:
Sincere and kind in heart and mind.
What a beautiful memory mother left behind.

—Sadly missed by her daughter, Mrs. J. McAdam.

PENSION SCHEME FOR FIREMEN IS URGED BY CHIEFS

OSHAWA, Aug. 26.—Pointing out that he has always been in sympathy with the pension scheme, Fire Chief A. Kappelle of Stratford told delegates to the Dominion Association of fire chiefs in session here Wednesday that if fire chiefs were as good at playing the game of politics as they were at fighting fires legislation making it compulsory for all municipalities to adopt the pension scheme for firemen would have been passed long ago.

He was speaking to a paper prepared by Chief Alex. Hope of Port Arthur and read to the delegates by Chief James Armstrong, Kingston. Dealing with "pensions, superannuation and compensation," the paper pointed out that the question of securing pensions for firemen has been considered at almost every convention of the association since 1911.

"According to my investigations there are only five places in Ontario where fire departments have pension schemes," Chief Hope said.

Chief Hope further pointed out that at the annual convention of the provincial firefighters' federation in Kingston this year, the St. Thomas delegation presented a resolution instructing the legislative committee to renew their efforts along the lines of the pension scheme of a few years ago, or some other scheme that might pass legislation in this province."

A resolution put forward by the Fort William branch moved that legislation be enacted that would make it compulsory for all municipalities with a population of 10,000 and over, to institute a pension system for firemen. Chief Hope informed the gathering.

"I have been a fireman for 40 years and I don't know of one municipality that has taken advantage of the present legislation and made grants to firemen after they had become too old for further duty in the service," Chief Kappelle declared.

Pointing out that he had always been in favor of pensions for firemen, W. J. Scott, Ontario fire marshal, stated that if the firemen could not sell the idea to their own municipalities, then it was going to be difficult to convince the Provincial Government that the present legislation should be changed.

After considerable discussion on the question a special committee was appointed to go into the matter and bring in a report.

AUTO COLLIDES WITH AMBULANCE

Roy McCullough, 5, 629 Oxford street was badly shaken up, but apparently escaped serious injury when he darted from the sidewalk while at play on Hazlitt street on Wednesday afternoon and collided with a moving truck.

J. W. Payne, 196 River Road who was reported to have been driving the truck owned by McColl Frontenac Oil Company west on Hazlitt street at the time of the accident, took the boy home. The child was attended by Dr. W. B. Fitzpatrick and was removed to hospital for examination.

A motor car owned by Mrs. Olive Price, 251 Rink street and operated by James Price of the same address was damaged in collision with an ambulance at the intersection of Park and Charlotte streets shortly after two o'clock on Wednesday afternoon.

The invalid coach was proceeding west on Charlotte street, with an infantile paralysis patient who was being removed to Toronto when the collision occurred.

Police state the invalid coach went 66-feet west on Charlotte street to within four feet of the south curb following the impact, while the car skidded and rolled 75-feet south on Park street to the west curb.

Miss Rosborough, 587 Gilmour street a passenger in the Price car was severely shaken up, but did not sustain any serious injury, it was learned. She recovered after being taken into a nearby house.

William E. Lloyd, 191 O'Carroll avenue was driving north on George street at 12.45 a.m. today when he collided with the rear of a parked car at the intersection of London street. The car parked at the curb was owned by Leslie McIntosh, 376 George street. Both vehicles were slightly damaged.

STAY IS ORDERED IN DEPORTATION

The Department of Immigration's order for the deportation of Alfred Bailey, Benson Avenue, has been countermanded, it was learned today.

"Proceedings have been held up for the present," the Examiner was informed by one citizen who has been connected with this case.

Relief Officer Metheral declined to discuss it beyond remarking that he had heard the order for deportation had been stayed.

One opinion was inclined to the belief that Mr. Bailey had appealed to the Department through J. J. Duffus, M.P., but this could not be verified as Mr. Duffus was not in his office.

In a statement to the Examiner Monday Mr. Bailey protested that the order was peremptory and was passed without permitting him to explain his position.

RUSTLE OF SILKS

By
MARIE BLIZARD

READ THIS FIRST:

Mary Barrett, ambitious to become a dress designer, is in Paris where she has just obtained a job with Countess Anetka, owner of a small dress shop. She had been recommended to Anetka by Mark Sutherland, American playboy and mutual friend who admired Mary from the first following their meeting on shipboard. Mary likes Mark but misses Tony Castle, owner of a smart New York shop who gave her her start several months previously. She left Castle's shop suddenly disillusioned after an altercation with Tony's head buyer, Francine Long, and sails for Paris impulsively. More and more she realizes she is in love with Tony. Mary does so well in the shop that Anetka offers her a partnership. Before long Mary has visions of wide success with the shop. Meanwhile, as Christmas Eve arrives, Tony still searches for Mary in New York. An American friend visiting Paris, suggests to Mary that her shop should expand. Mary's fame begins to spread as Mari Barat and the firm, in a new shop, becomes firmly established.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 18

For the first time in their association, Anetka put her foot down on suggestion that she adopt a baby.

A baby? What would they do with it? How could Mary take care of it? Why didn't Mary get married and have babies of her own?

In the end, Mary gave up and comforted herself with the substitution of a new department in the shop. They would make infants' wear.

So Mary haunted the parks where the picture book children, who are the Parisien petites, and who looked like illustrators' fancies out of story books, played with their nurses in provincial garb attending them. She reveled in the dog carts and the goat carriages. She bought quantities of toys at the many stalls and presented them to the poor. She laughed and applauded the puppet shows, the petits guignols that have come down through hundreds of years.

She watched the little ones "yachting" in the big basin of the Tuileries gardens; rode on the camel, the elephant, and in the ostrich-drawn carriage at the Jardin d'Acclimatation with a three-year-old "borrowed" for the occasion. She drank warm milk from the dairy at the same place and bought a puppy for the small Lulu.

That night, when she should have been making sketches of the detail she had seen on the tiny frocks, she stared forlornly out of her window that looked on a courtyard and felt the sadness of a woman in love who is to have no children of her own. No little boy with eyes that crinkle up when he smiles!

The department (a small corner) of enfants' ware was a bijou at ANETKA'S. The tiny confections of white and pink and blue wen: "like hot cakes", Mary explained to Anetka. Mary designed them—a loving task that took little of her time—and the work was sent out to needlewomen who made masterpieces of the miniature garments.

That was as near as Mari Barat came to her second small dream.

Mary's third Christmas in Paris was approaching. Not for her was this to a lonely holiday. The Wollaston's—Ivy and Ted, her American friends of long standing, were going to Brittany where they'd taken an old farmhouse, and there was a charming Englishman to join them. There would be Christmas carols, a tree and stockings before the hearth. Mary bought prodigiously. Gifts for everyone and a short mink coat for herself.

Thinking of it, she smiled. She put down her pen and dropped her chin on her hands. She tried to tell herself how lucky she was. She was 27 years old and she was a successful business woman. She had a small apartment on the Seine, a bank account, a mink coat. She had a group of smart, amusing friends. She went to parties and, in return, she gave modest parties.

She had everything but time. At least, so she tried to tell herself.

[illegible] she picked up her pen. The bills would have to be mailed [illegible] and laugh a little and cry a little when she saw them. Mari counted on her fingers. The debts incurred at their opening were nearly paid off and then there would be plenty of money to save for the next shop she had already planned.

Again she hesitated. Would it be wise to plan another shop so soon?

There, the last of the bills was finished. She wiped the ink from her second finger and picked up the Paris Herald.

She turned the pages hastily, and then the telephone rang. Reaching for the instrument, she brushed the newspaper from th desk.

Something else engaged her attention and the paper was picked up by the porter and destroyed.

She was never to see the item about Liane Weston's marriage to her manager, a marriage that had been possible only after the death of his wife in a sanatorium. The paper said that it had been a romance of "more than 10 years". Had she seen it, she might have brought her more mature point of view to bear on the situation that had changed her life.

Mari Barat did have a more mature point of view. She had changed in many ways.

Mark Sutherland found her very changed when he came back to Paris that year. Changed in many ways save in the one that he, perhaps, hoped for.

He had come once to see her when they were in the little shop. And then he had dropped out of her life. Sometimes there were brief, scrawled notes from some corner of the earth. Once there was a magnificent mandarin coat from China in which, he said, he hoped one day to see her. Mary had philosophically overlooked the message and enjoyed the coat. Then there had been a long cable of congratulations when the new shop was opened.

And occasionally there was a new customer who said that she been recommended by Mr. Sutherland.

Mary thought of him sometimes, but she really did not miss him. She had never felt that Mark had been her friend. And as a companion she had been replaced quickly. She had friends among the newspaper crowd from America, Anetka's voluble friends, and a small group of Parisiens. She had books and her work. Her life was almost—but not quite—completely filled.

Then Mark came back.

Mary was alone in the office, her smooth head bent over her account books.

"Boo!"

She jumped, startled. She dropped her pen and whirled toward the door.

"Mark Sutherland! It's time you turned up!" She gave him both her hands and a cool cheek to kiss.

"Is that all I get after a whole year?"

"Oh, no," she said, "you may have a cocktail."

"You're all the stimulation I need. Let me have a look at you."

Obligingly she turned on her slender heels, holding dancer-fashion the skirt of her simple gray gown. She touched the pearls at her slender throat, patted the smooth cap of her copper hair, waved smoothly now where once curls had clustered. He saw a new Mari Barat in this slower-of-speech, poised young woman.

She took his hand and pulled him down beside her in one of the lounges. "Sit down and tell me in how many ways you've been trying to break your neck, and when you are going to work—if ever."

He protested: "Mary, Mary quite contrary, as you used to say, don't rush me."

"Oh, heavens, Mark!" She got up hastily, "I'm afraid I'll have to. I've promised to have some sketches ready for Roxanne Rohde, the cinema star. She's coming at 3. I'm anxious to impress her."

"She's only minor league, Mary. I've someone important for you to see. I mean really important. So sit down and pin your pretty ears back."

Mary sat down.

Bedtime Story

By
HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE BAT

Out in front of Uncle Wiggily's camping tent, near Blue Lake, Buster and some of the other animal boys were tossing their caps up in the air one evening.

"What sort of a game are they playing, I wonder?" said Uncle Wiggily to Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy who was getting ready to put Baby Bunty and some of the smaller rabbits to bed.

Uncle Wiggily listened and as Jackie Bow Bow tossed his cap high into the air towadr a small dark object, the puppy dog boy began to recite:

"Bat, bat, Come under my hat.
I'll give you a slice of bacon,
And when I bake,
I'll give you a cake,
If I am not mistaken."

"Ha, Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "That's what I used to do when I was a small rabbit boy—toss up my hat and try to catch a bat."

"I hope you never caught any of the horrid creatures," squeaked Nurse Jane. "Bats, I can't bear them."

A Relative.

"No, I never caught any," said Uncle Wiggily, as he watched the low-swooping bat and the animal boys, singing and tossing their hats or caps up in the air. "But you shouldn't call a bat a horrid creature, Janie. In a way they are related to you, as you are a rat lady."

"Yes, I suppose you can call a bat flying mouse," admitted Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy, "and some big vampire or fruit bats are like flying rats. But, all the same, I don't like them. 'Tis idea of a mouse or rat trying to be like a bird."

"Yes, bats do fly somewhat like birds," admitted Mr. Longears. "Though bats have no feathers, and their wings, as you might call them, are thin pieces of furry skin stretched out between their body and their long front legs. But bats have no tails as have birds, rats and mice. That's one reason they cannot fly as well as birds can."

"That bat seems to be flying well and he keeps away from the hats of the boys," said Nurse Jane.

"Oh, yes, bats are very clever," admitted Mr. Longears. "They can dart about and turn swiftly, as they must needs do to catch bugs flying in the air—bugs and mosquitoes is what they eat."

Undecided.

"Well, I hope they keep away from me," said Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "Bats can't seem to make up their minds what they are—a mouse or a bird."

"For many years," said Mr. Longears, "there were disputes as to whether a bat was a bird or a mouse animal. Now we know they are animal like flying squirrels and nothing like birds which lay eggs."

"Thank you for the information," laughed Nurse Jane as she started in the tent. "Oh, look," she suddenly cried. "That time Buster nearly hit the bat with his cap."

"Yes, and I wish you would make the boys stop tossing their hats at me," squeaked the bat as he swooped toward Uncle Wiggily. Seeing this, Nurse Jane darted into the tent.

"I am doing no harm," the bat squeaked on that being the only way he could talk. "I am catching mosquitoes that otherwise would bite the animal boys."

"Yes, that's so," said Mr. Longears. So he called to Buster and the others to stop teasing the bat, which they did. Away flew the curious creature like a soaring mouse, and then it was bedtime.

And if the tack hammer doesn't try to break up the sticks of candy to start a fire for the police dog, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's question.

ONTARIO WORRIED OVER ITS HORSES

TORONTO, Aug. 26. — Prompt steps are being taken by the Provincial Department of Agriculture to curb the spread of the disease which is killing off thousands of horses in Manitoba and which has now spread into Northern Ontario.

A small outbreak has been reported at Fort William and in parts of the Rainy River district and veterinary surgeons have been sent to the areas by Hon. Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture.

"There have been only a few cases but we are taking every precaution to prevent it getting worse," said Mr. Marshall. "Our chief trouble is that we have no serum for the animals. Manitoba has taken all the available serum and we are trying to get other supplies. The disease is a strange one and there has been very little of it in Canada prior to the epidemic. We have approached the Connaught Laboratories to see if they can get us some serum."

BRITISH DEMANDS ON SHOOTING HANDED JAPAN

14 NEW CASES OF PARALYSIS DAY IN TORONTO

TORONTO, Aug. 27.—(CP).—City health officials to-day reported 14 new cases of infantile paralysis, bringing the total on record to 261. Dr. Gordon Jackson, Medical Health Officer, said there were no futher deaths. Nine persons have died here from the disease.

Hits Windsor.

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 27—(CP).—Windsor's first infantile paralysis case since outbreak of the epidemic in Ontario has been reported to the Board of Health here, Dr. Fred Adams, Medical Officer of Health, said to-day. A six-year-old Windsor boy was removed to isolation wing of Metropolitan General Hospital last night. Dr. Adams expressed the opinion the case admitted last night will recover satisfactorily.

15 In Port Colborne.

PORT COLBORNE, Ont., Aug. 27.—(CP).—Health officials to-day said seven cases of infantile paralysis were found in one home here. There are 15 cases in this district now.

Two More in St. Thomas

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Aug. 27.—(CP).—Two cases under observation for some time have been pronounced infantile paralysis, bringing St. Thomas' total to four.

Board of Education will meet to-night to decide on school re-opening. Township of Southwold has decided to keep its schools closed till Sept. 14.

TWEEDSMUIR MADE AN INDIAN CHIEF

BELLA COOLA, B.C., Aug. 27.—(CP)—Chief Eckwensia and his western touring party sailed out of this port last night bound for Prince Rupert, British Columbia's mid-coast port, aboard the S. S. Cardena. Lord Tweedsmuir, newly-created Chief of the Bella Coola tribe, left with the blessing of Chief Samuel King.

The Governor-General left under the protection of snow white eagle down, sprinkled over his head at an Indian ceremony in which he was welcomed to the tribe and promised protection much as the famous Scottish explorer, Alexander Mackenzie, was welcomed 144 years ago.

The eagle down, ancient symbol throughout the coast tribes of peace, friendship and good fortune, brought promise to His Excellency of a safe return to his Ottawa home.

Homage to Mythical Figure.

Eagle down was showered over Lord Tweedsmuir during a ceremony which included performance of the sacred thunderbird dance. The dance does homage to the mythical figure which dared the Gods, released the imprisoned sun, bringing light into the world and stole fire from the sky house of the south winds.

To the boom of great cedar box drums and the wailing minor-keyed song of the musicians, the dancers, their bronze skins shining through the ancient ceremonial regalia of the tribe and their heads concealed by carved and painted wooden masks, shuffled around the floor of the Indian hall, shaking their rattles and bear-claw anklets and wristlets.

Chief Samuel King in a speech in his native tongue, said:

"It is indeed a pleasure for me to be here on this occasion to welcome Your Excellency on behalf of my tribes. We are glad that you have followed almost the same route as Alexander Mackenzie when he came here almost 150 years ago.

"At the time of Mackenzie's arrival my grandfather was Chief. When they heard from a runner that a strange party was coming down the river they prepared a ceremonial welcome. On Mackenzie's arrival in our village my grandfather placed eagle down upon his head as a symbol of protection. It was then understood that no one in our tribe would harm him but would protect him. The dance we are giving to-day is practically the same as the one Mackenzie saw at that time."

GENERAL SYNOD.

HALIFAX, Aug. 27. (CP).—Halifax prepared today for its biggest convention of the year—the 142, general synod of the Church of England in Canada, which opens Sunday with a communion and morning prayer service in All Saints Cathedral.

Feature of the service will be the dedication of Memorial tablets to mark the 150th anniversary of Charles Inglis as "first Bishop of Nova Scotia and its dependencies," the First Church of England Bishop to hold a post outside the British Isles. More than 300 clergy and laity are expected from out-of-town points for the week-long meetings.

Man Thought Buried Shows Up Again

Whitman, Mass., Aug. 27.

CUSTOMERS in a lunch-room began to choke violently today when William Blight, 62, put a blight on their appetites.

One of the diners ejaculated: "Holy smoke, we buried you three weeks ago!"

"Guess it must have been two other fellows," Blight retorted. "Nobody's buried me."

Whitman police started an investigation to determine the real identity of a man buried after Arthur Burman, a farmer, had identified a body found in the woods as his farmhand, William Blight.

WILLIAM NEWMAN AGAIN NOMINATED WILL RETIRE IN '42

LINDSAY, Aug. 27—(Special).—William Newman, member of the Legislature for the past eleven years, was chosen again to contest the riding of Victoria at the forthcoming Provincial election at a convention here yesterday. More than 1,500 citizens from every corner of the riding packed the Armories for the meeting, which was addressed by Hon. Duncan Marshall, Ontario Minister of Agriculture; Bruce McNevin, M.P., and the candidate.

Mr. Newman declared that the next session of the Legislature would be his last, and that he would retire from public life in 1942. He took considerable time discussing temperance and separate school questions, and asserted he was not ashamed of his stand on either.

"I believe the Roman Catholics have a right to separate schools and as long as they have this right, I will support them," he said. The candidate was of the opinion he should receive an acclamation in this riding, as a token of appreciation of the splendid work the Hepburn Government has accomplished during the past term of office.

The Minister of Agriculture defended the labor policies of the Hepburn Government and asserted that Hon. Earl Rowe's platform, the first plank in which was announced Wednesday, was so rotten and slippery, it would not be a crime to steal it.

"Why is Rowe in favor of the C.I.O.? he queried. "Because he knows that the labor question is most dangerous, and it is an easy thing to pretend that Mr. Hepburn is opposed to all labor organizations. You never see Lewis organizing poorly-paid workers. He organizes the highly-paid men, in order that they may pour money into his coffers through dues."

Britain entertained 14,329 American tourists in June.

5 Rustlers 'Die' For Dudes In Range Massacre

Jean Harlow Leaves $41,000 Estate

Los Angeles, Aug. 27.

THE estate of Jean Harlow, which at the time of her death was reported to be in the hundreds of thousands of dollars, was valued at approximately $41,000 in a probate court document filed today. Mrs. Jean Bello, mother of the late film actress, who was named administrator, said value of the estate was $35,000 but her attorney, W. A. Bullis, estimated it to be about $41,000." Mrs. Bello said the estate included "very little cash," three automobiles, some furs, jewelry and clothing.

Scared Tourists Duck as Cowboys Whoop It Up With Blanks For Their Benefit.

MOUNTAIN PASS, Calif, Aug. 27.—(AP).—A bunch of the boys shot it out—with blank cartridges—in the streets of this little cattle town last night and scared a party of dudes so badly they sfpread the repot four rustlers had been killed.

A posse ofq peace officers from miles sound rode into Mountain Pass, expecting to find the remains of a range massacre. Instead they found some wranglers still whooping at their little joke.

Toting shooting irons, flaming bandanas, five gallon hats and jingling spurs, the cowboys were staging a celebration when tourists arrived.

The tourists had been educated by wild west movies. The vowboys were born actors.

Into their midst suddenly swaggered a two-gun man. He shoouted a fearful threat. Other desperadoes snorted defiance. Weaps were drawn. Shots rang out. The tourists scurried for cover.

As the battle blazed to an end, four men sprawled in the dust apparently lifeless.

By the time the tourists' version of the affair reached Los Angeles, there were five dead—not four—and it was a cattle raid on Rex Bell's ranch that had cost their lives.

Bell, western film star an dhusband of Clara Bow, former "it" girl, spent several hours last night denying all.

BLIND PENSIONERS MADE EFFECTIVE

TORONTO, Aug. 27. (CP).—An order-in-council providing for a system of pensions for blind persons became effective in Ontario today as the Provincial Department of Welfare moved to receive applications for the $20 month payments.

Under an order-in-council passed by the government yesterday, all blind persons more than 40 years of age will receive the pensions set at $20 a month. The Dominion government will pay 75 per cent of the cost. It was expected Ontario's share will be $300,000 annually.

Applications will be received early next month by the Old Age Pensions Committee,acting under the direction of the Welfare Department. The only qualification for a pension is that a man or woman must be totally blind. Payments were expected to be begun next month. It was announced Ontario municipalities would not have to bear any of the cost.

Army Of Caterpillars Finishes What Drought Missed

YOUNGSTOWN, Alta., Aug. 27 (CP) — Across drought-scourged farmlands and sun-wilted gardens, millions of caterpillars, in a slow but relentless invasion, moving westward from the Saskatchewan border, kept in a trianguar district today southeast of this town 140 miles east of Calgary.

The "army" worms, moved on from the borderlands, leaving a path of destruction, destroying even Russian thistles, the last hope of farmers in the dried-out district for winter cattle feed. In scores of fields, where an abundance of thistles grew, only the steams remained. The few trees in the area were stripped.

In some gardens, where late rains had revived wilted plants, destruction by the caterpillars was complete, the invaders eating their way through beans, beets, corn and cabbages.

Only one remedy is known to combat the menace—poison bait—but few farmers use it as it endangers horses and livestock.

Woman Lets Her Age Gum Romance

Detroit, August 27.

GLADYS Riffe is bashful about telling her age, which is why Anthony Nader, marriage license bureau clerk, today refused a license to Ralph Hobby, 41.

"I haven't given my right age since I was five," Miss Riffe told Nader, indignantly, when he asked her age, "but if you turn your back I might write it down."

Nader obligingly turned his back. But when he turned around, he still refused the application. The gray-haired Miss Riffe had written 24.

MARRIAGE GOOD IDEA.

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 27 (CP)—After 60 years of married life, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Jackson, Windsor, are agreed marriage is a good idea. "Love one another daily—I'd marry again if I were young," said Mrs. Jackson. Modern young people are not actually bad, but many of them do not enter marriage "solemnly" enough, Mr. Jackson thought.

JAPS RETREAT AS CHINESE WIN 30-HOUR FIGHT

SHANGHAI, Aug. 27 (AP). — A Chinese communique declared today a Japanese offensive to split the ring around Shanghai had been repulsed after 30 hours of fighting at Lotien and said the enemy was in full retreat to the Yangtze River.

Three thousand Japanese were killed and wounded in the fighting 12 miles northwest of Shanghai, the Chinese army communique asserted.

The struggle for Lotien was described as the fiercest since the outbreak of hostilities in the Shanghai area two weeks ago. Lotien was said by one observer to have been reduced to ashes. The neighboring town of Kating was in Flames.

Chinese reported their pursuit had driven the Japanese to Lion Forest, north of Lotien. The Chinese command asserted casualties suffered by the Nanking troops had also been heavy.

Two Chinese battalions had held a thin line at Lotien against a greatly superior force of Japanese until reinforcements could be sent into the area. The two battalions were almost destroyed. They had been ordered to stand off the Japanese until the main Chinese army could move into position under penalty of being shot down from the rear by their own second line machine guns.

Wave after wave of the Japanese attack broke against the wall they made. The battalions were shattered but they held. The reinforcements turned the tide and the Japanese were forced back.

To the east of Lotien, a few miles south of Woosung, fighting proceeded at Changhwapang, midway be-

FEAR PARALYSIS HAS NOT HIT PEAK

TORONTO, Aug. 17.—(CP). — Outbreak of infantile paralysis — which has totalled more than 300 cases and claimed 19 lives in Ontario in less than three months—has not reached its highest mark, Trustee Dr. J. H. Downing told Toronto Board of Education.

With weather conditions as they were, there was no evidence abatement in the number of cases would come "for days or even weeks," he said.

The Board took additional safeguards and ordered all Public and High schools remain closed until Sept. 13. It made further provision that schools might be kept closed beyond even Sept. 13 if the situation warranted such action. School opening, scheduled for Sept. 1, was pushed back at first to Sept. 7 because of the epidemic, and last night was given another hoist.

The School Board further recommended to the Board of Health that children be banned from all public places, including swimming pools, playgrounds and theatres. The advisability of keeping them from the Canadian National Exhibition which opened to-day was also discussed but no action was taken.

188 Cases With 9 Dead.

Toronto had 188 cases and nine deaths since June 10 in contrast to the 23 none-fatal cases during 1936.

Medical science throughout Ontario pressed investigation and efforts to stem the epidemic and to alleviate conditions among the scores in Isolation hospitals and private homes. Doctors and nurses are working night and day, principally in Toronto and London, centres of the outbreak.

Respiration known as "iron lungs" are in use for patients in advanced stages of the disease, those whose paralyzed muscles cannot keep their lungs functioning. A studied case was at Hamilton General Hospital, where an ion lung was received from Boston.

Into the contraption was placed a 2-year-old patient and within a few hours his condition was reported improved. The "lung" was breathing for him, giving his body a chance to battle the disease.

Doctors prescribed absolute rest for their patients and in most cases serum was being administered. This was made from blood donated by those recovered from the disease. Fifty donors attended a clinic at Kitchener yesterday, while 60 others volunteered their blood at London.

Absence of new cases yesterday in London was in contrast to Wednesday's report when nine patients—the largest daily total since the epidemic began—were admitted to Victoria Hospital.

3 More To Hospital.

Dr. C. A. Harris, London, medical health officer, announced last night three persons were taken to hospital for observation yesterday, increasing to 44 the number either afflicted or suspected of being afflicted with the malady.

In order to provide more accommodation at Victoria Hospital—the only London hospital with isolation facilities—10 patients were taken from that institute to St. Joseph's Hospital, a mile away. Additional transfers were expected today.

Shoke Committed In Gray Murder

SUDBURY, Ont., Aug. 27 (CP).—Tom Pornomarenko, alias Harry Shoke, was committed for trial today when he appeared before Magistrate P. S. McKeseock for preliminary hearing on a charge of killing Sergeant Fred Davidson of Sudbury police. Pornomarenko, who did not plead, will stand trial at the fall assizes opening here October 18.

Pornomarenko was named by Sergeant Davidson in a statement made before he died in Sudbury hospital July 17. The officer's statement said the accused was Victor Gray's companion the night of July 11 when the officer was riddled with bullets as he approached two men believed operating a stolen car. Gray was named in the statement as the slayer.

STRUCK BY FALL OF ROCK.

SUDBURY, Ont., Aug. 27 (CP)—Extent of injuries suffered by Harvey Baker, struck by a fall of rock in Falconbridge mine last Tuesday, have not definitely been determined, attending physicians said today. Baker, in serious condition, will be confined to hospital at least three months, doctors said. Among other injuries, Baker suffered several fractures.

Washington Warns China And Japan To Respect Rights In Orient

Washington, Aug. 27.

SECRETARY HULL said today the United States Government had served notice upon Japan and China it would demand respect of all its rights and interests in the Far East.

The secretary added that the governments of Japan and China were requested to observe these rights to the extent that they would be responsible for damages to the United States government or its citizens, as a result of hostile operations.

The secretary declared his information from the Far East showed Japan did not intend to interfere with foreign shipping.

Well-known Windsor, Ont., lawyer, W. D. Roach, K.C. (ABOVE), has been appointed to the Ontario supreme court vacancy created by the retirement of Mr. Justice Hugh Kelly. The new appointment was announced by Justice Minister Ernest Lapointe. Mr. Justice Roach is 44 years of age, a Roman Catholic and a member of the Canadian Bar association.

ELMIRA, N.Y., Aug. 27—(AP).—Clearing skies to-day promised to end ravaging flood waters in two states, which left in their wake four persons missing, many farm homes washed away, corn crops ruined and highways inundated.

All points along the swollen creeks and rivers reported the rain of 24 hours had stopped and the sun was breaking through clouds, allaying fears of a repetition of the disastrous floods of 1935.

Bridges were washed away, families were forced to evacuate their home, livestock lost and power lines were down.

Three members of the Hampton family were reported missing when their home was washed away three miles southeast of Corning, N.Y. George Thompson, an employee of the Shepard-Niles plant at Montour, was reported missing.

Coroner Orders Stabbing Probe

PARRY SOUND Ont., Aug 27 (CP)—Coroner Dr. S. B. Biehn announced today an inquest would be held tonight into the death of Mrs. George Buck of Toronto, fatally stabbed Wednesday at remote Manbert, 40 miles north of here.

Because the cause of death was quite apparent, Dr. Biehn said no autopsy would be performed upon the body of William Hamilton, 62-year-old Parry Sound butcher who police said killed Mrs. Buck then set fire to the cottage in which she had been staying. Hamilton died in the flames.

Hamilton was said to have gone to the summer resort in an effort to see his estranged wife, in whose tourist camp Mrs. Buck was a guest. Mrs. Buck was fatally wounded when she interceded in a quarrel between Hamilton and his wife.

Nipponese Envoy Calls In London Offers Regrets

Of 416 Cars Tested 73 Are Deficient

Brampton, Aug. 27.

OF 116 autos tested here up until 7 p.m. last night in safety campaign of the Peel County branch of the Garage Operators' Association, 73 were deficient in some respects. Forty-three were passed as being O.K. By the end of this opening day of the campaign 150 cars had passed through the "safety lanes" for tests of lights, wind chield wiper, rear vision mirror, horn, tries, wheel alignment, steering and orakes. As this is a voluntary test, no court action is taken against owners with defective cars. They are advised to get them repaired.

MAN DIES IN CELL OF FALL INJURIES BOOKED AS DRUNK

TORONTO, Aug. 27 (CP). — Neil Darnley, 32-year-old unemployed brewery worker, found dead in the Toronto jail hospital yesterday, died from a fractured skull and cerebral hemorrhage, according to Dr. G. W. Lougheed, who performed an autopsy.

Police said Darnley fell down the stairs at a public washroom Tuesday night. He first was taken to hospital and then to a police station, where he was booked on a drunk charge. He appeared in court next day and was sent to the Don Jail on remand.

Wednesday night he fell out of bed and other jail hospital patients made him a bed on the floor. Yesterday morning it was discovered he was dead.

Coroner Dr. W. J. O'Hara has ordered an inquest for next Friday.

He said in his opinion the man fractured his skull when he fell down the stairs in the washroom. He said he was surprised no person saw he was injured.

Police at No. 2 station, where Darnley was booked Tuesday night, said the man did not show signs of an injury while he was at the station.

YOUTH IS WOUNDED STOLEN CAR CHASE

OSHAWA, Ont., Aug. 27 (CP)—James Frost, 19, Toronto, is in hospital with a bullet wound in the thigh inflicted, according to Oshawa police, by Donald Bryant, Whitby taxi operator, said to have fired in the belief Frost was in a stolen car.

Police said a car was reported stolen from Whitby, and as it passed through Whitby it was recognized by Bryant who gave chase to Oshawa, where police had been notified. Sergeant M. Bowman said the car sped past him followed by Bryant.

When Frost was about to step from the car as it stopped, the shot was fired. Frost was placed by his three companions on a nearby verandah before they fled. The car was later picked up and police discovered a bullet hole in the rear door.

The district was searched but no trace found of the fleeing men. In the hospital Frost said he was hitch-hiking when picked up by the three men.

"I didn't know I was in a stolen car until I saw the police chasing us in Oshawa," he told authorities. "Then, one of the men said, 'Do you know, Buddy, that you are riding in a stolen car?' I then tried to jump out. That is when I was shot.

LONDON, Aug. 27 (AP)—Authoritive quarters said the British government's demands in connection with the wounding of its ambassador to China were presented today to the Japanese ambassador to London.

The demand was understood to have been made by foreign secretary Eden to Shigeru Yoshida, the Japanese envoy, when the latter called at the foreign office to tender officially Japan's regrets.

Sir Hughe Montgomery Knatchbull-Hugessen, the ambassador, was gravely wounded Thursday when shot by Japanese airmen on the road between Nanking and Shanghai.

Ambassador Yoshida spent half an hour with the foreign secretary indicating public interest in the incident, a crowd gathered at the Downing street entrance to the foreign office to witness the Japanese envoy's arrival and departure.

Ambasador Improves.

Improvement in the condition of Sir Hughe Knatchbull-Hugessen, British Ambassador to China, was reported in a medical bulletin issued to-night in Shanghai.

Sir Hughe was at Country Hospital, to which he was bought 50 miles by automopile yesterday from Wuxih, north-west of Shanghai, where he was critically wounded when a Japanese airplane machine-gunned his motor car.

The bulletin said it had been established that his right kidney had been hit by a bullet, but that bleeding was moderate and decreasing. His back was broken, but the spinal cord itself not injured.

Sir Hughe's temperature was 103. He rested easily throughout the day.

"The general condition of the patient has improved distinctly," the bulletin concluded.

No further bullet wil be issued until to-morrow.

Wait Further Word

Meanwhile officials refused to amplify yesterday's declaration that "appropriate action" would be taken as soon as full information had been received.

They declared there was no precedent of an important Ambassador having been injured under similar circumstances and that, therefore, forecasts of possible government action were purely guesswork.

(The Associated Press in a dispatch from London said it was reported the government was considering recall of its Ambassador to Japan if the Japanese government refused to comply with the demands of the government).

It was announced that R. G. Howe, for three years counsellor of Embassy at Peiping would be sent from England to China to take charge of British diplomatic affairs in China. Naval and military authority is vested in Admiral Sir Charles Little, Commander-in-Chief of the China station, who is personally in Shanghai directing the defence of British interests.

Howe has been instructed to fly as far as possible via commercial airlines and then to get into China as fast as he can.

Three Demands

Britain was understood to be considering a three-point demand for satisfaction. These were:

1.—Drastic punishment of the airmen involved in the attack.

2—Guarantees from Tokyo that

2 YOUTHS JAILED, SHOT EACH OTHER

DRUMHELLER, Alta., Aug. 27 (CP)—Two youths, suffering wounds from revolver bullets, were in jail here today, after failure of a plot to gain "public sympathy" by self-mutilation.

John Lane and George Knox pleaded guilty yesterday to charges of shooting each other. Lane, 19, shot Knox, 20, in the shoulder twice. Knox carried out his part of the plot by shooting Lane in the leg.

The case was solved by Royal Canadian Mounted Police after five-day investigation. No explanation was given of how the youths hoped to gain public sympathy through the plot.

They were sentenced to three months each in jail by Magistrate J. H. MacIntyre who also imposed an additional three months sentence on land for carrying a revolver not registered in his name.

The two were brought to hospital here early Sunday, suffering from bullet wounds which they said had been inflicted a few hours previously by an unidentified assailant just outside the town of Moerin, 18 miles north of here.

Edison Tip 5 Years After Death Keeps Factory Running

Baffled Staff Finds Answer to Problem in Notes Inventor Filled Out in 1926.

By Howard W. Blakeslee
(Associated Press Science Editor)

WEST ORANGE, N.J., Aug. 27 (AP)—Thomas A. Edison, five years after his death, outdid the spirits two weeks ago and made a decision which kept one of his largest manufacturing plants from shutting down.

The plant was the battery division of Thomas A. Edison, Inc. Nickel had been discovered in $40,000 worth of Swedish iron, used to make the negative "active materials" for alkaline batteries. This is an unusually pure form of iron and no more was available at the time in this country.

A staff conference was called to consider whether the nickel impurity ruined the iron for battery manufacture.

"How would you like to have Thomas A. Edison make the decision?" asked one of the conferees, George E. Stringfellow, vice-president and general manager of the battery division.

"I'm not sure," Stringfellow added, "but I think it can be done."

Then he told them this story. In 1926, while Edison was the active consultant for the battery company, Stringfellow proposed: "Mr. Edison, would you be willing to arrange to continue as consultant after you have passed on?"

Thought Idea Crazy

"You are crazy," said Edison.

"It might work," Stringfellow replied. "You invented this battery. In your mind there is information about it that no one else has. Will you let the staff give you written questions about the battery, every Saturday afternoon before you go home? You could bring the answers

TORONTO, Aug. 27. —(CP). — Gates of the 5th Canadian National Exhibition were thown open today and turnstiles began the clicking which will continue 14 hours a day for 14 days. Officials said they hoped for a record attendance, possibly 2,000,000 persons, for the Coronation year fair.

First official function of the exhibition occurred last night when a button pressed by Dominions Secretary Malcolm Macdonald in Lossiemouth, Scotland, illuminated a tableau in the new government building. Mr. Macdonald officially opened the British Empire section of the Exhibition in a telephone address.

The Exhibition proper will be officially under way this afternoon when Hon. N. W. Rowell, Chief Justice of Ontario, officiates.

In his address, delivered in the starry early morning of North Scotland, Mr. Macdonald issued a plea for a closer understanding between the peoples on opposite sides of the ocean. What excuse was there for lack of contact, he asked, with the annihilation of space and time by modern inventions.

Brighton Home Is Destroyed By Fire

BRIGHTON, Aug. 27.—Fire broke out Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Gordon, Prince Edward street, and completely destroyed the house and contents. The building was a two-storey frame structure.

Mr. Gordon was alone at the time. Attempting to light the coal oil stove, he became alarmed when the oil flared and threw water on the blaze. The oil exploded and the kitchen became a blazing inferno in a minute or so. Mr. Gordon escaped uninjured.

The local volunteer brigade could do little to save the house and contents. The building was partly insured.

Fire Extinguished With Little Damage

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 27—Edgar Fisher, Percy Township farmer got in his car which was parked on the north side of Sebastopol street about 3.30 Thursday afternoon and as he started the engine noticed smoke pouring up through the floor boards of the car. A call summoned the fire department and the blaze was extinguished with a couple of pails of water as they arrived on the scene.

Husband Not Jew So Divorce Sought

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 27 (CP).—Mrs. Charles Mills, bride of a short time, has launched suit to have her marriage to Charles Mills, Windsor taxi-driver, annulled on the grounds she was duped into believing her husband was Jewish. Mrs. Mills, strict adherent to the Jewish orthodox faith, left with relatives for Detroit, ostensibly to buy clothes, as soon as she found Mills was not Hebrew.

"I know she is being kept away against her will," Mills told police in reporting her disappearance on August 18. But Mrs. Mills' attorney declared she was acting of her own free will in seeking the annulment.

CHARGES HEPBURN PLAYED POLITICS WITH QUINTUPLETS

KINGSTON, Ont., Aug. 27—(CP)—The Dionne quintuplets have entered the Ontario political campaign. The five famed youngsters haven't taken sides themselves but they became a subject of campaign discussion when T. A. Kidd charged last night Premier Hepburn had "played politics" with the quints for two years.

The former Speaker of the Ontario Legislature was addressing a convention of Kingston Conservatives which nominated him to contest the constituency at the October 6 election.

Mr. Kidd said it was only during the last session of the Legislature when the Opposition asked for an inquiry into the administration of quint affairs the guardianship was placed where it should have been in the first place.

"Can you imagine the Premier of this province making political capital out of the Dionne quintuplets?" Mr. Kidd asked. "He turned them over to the Minister of Welfare, Mr. Croll.

"We knew things were not right, and said so. And it was not until comparatively recently that he finally listened to our advice and took the guardianship from Mr. Croll and put it where it belongs, in the hands of the official guardian for the province.

Where It Should Have Been

"The guardianship should never have been with anyone else but the official guardian, and I will merely say now that the guardianship was given to the Minister of Public Welfare solely for political purposes."

The guardians of the quintuplets are Percy Wilson ,official Ontario guardian of minor children; Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, Judge J. A. Valin of North Bay, and Oliva Dionne, father of the children. David Croll formerly held the guardianship now occupied by Mr. Wilson.

Mr. Kidd charged that the "disintegration of the Hepburn party" was the main reason for the present election. "If he were to wait two years he would have no party to lead," Mr. Kidd said.

Harmony Pleas In C.I.O. Fail

MILWAUKEE(Wis. 9ugust 27—(AP).—The dynamic figure of C.I.O. Chieftain John L. Lewis loomed to-day over the United Automobile Workers' convention scene as new outbursts of disruption ripped to shreds his lieutenants' pleas for harmony.

Announcement Lewis would address the convention to-day came as delegates engaged in bitter charges and counter charges that "obstructive tactics" were being used to delay convention business.

The uproar in the debate over President Homer Martin's charge the convention was being 'embarrassed" by "obstructionists using obstructive tactics" turned to cheers last night when Martin disclosed Lewis would appear.

R. J. Hill Cottage Destroyed By Fire

LAKEFIELD, Aug. 27.—A summer cottage located at the northwest corner of Haig's Point, overlooking Lake Katchewanooks, and owned by R. J. Hill of Lakefield was destroyed by fire here early Thursday morning. A general alarm, sounded about 7 a.m., brought out the fire brigade and a large crowd of spectators, but the fire had gained so much ground that the brigade were unable to save it. The origin of the blaze is unknown.

LORD ROTHSCHILD DEAD.

TRING, Hertfordshire, Aug. 27 (CP-Havas)—Lord Rothschild, 69, great-great-grandson of the founder of the House of Rothschild and head of the British branch of the great banking family, died today after a long illness.

Before succeeding to the peerage he sat in the House of Commons from 1899 to 1910.

Baby Is Restored To Mother

Almost overcome with joy, Mrs. Dorothy Lucas claps to her breast her infant daughter, Diane, who had been stolen from her carriage while her mother shopped in a nearby Chicago store. Police found the baby on the rear steps of an apartment house after a telephone call advised them of the baby's whereabouts. The photograph (ABOVE), was made in a Chicago police station after police had recovered and returned the child to her mother.

Hepburn Defies Lewis Come Into Canada

Premier Says He Will Never Open Ontario House in London.

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Aug. 27. —(CP).—The Ontario House, Provincial trade office in London, England, served no useful purpose and that was why it was closed by Premier Mitchell Hepburn's government, Mr. Hepburn told North Grey Liberals here last night.

Mr. Hepburn commented on the promise of Hon. Earl Rowe, Ontario Conservative leader, to reopen the agency if his party wins the general election October 6. It would be a waste of money, the Premier said. When Ontario House was operating, Ontario trade in Great Britain amounted to $128,000,000 a year. Now it was $248,000,000.

Roland Patterson, who won North Grey in the first by-election of the Hepburn regime, was renominated without opposition by a Liberal convention.

Mr. Hepburn spoke at Arthur yesterday also. There North Wellington Liberals selected Ross McEwing, Maryboro Township farmer, to oppose Dr. James McQuibban, Conservative candidate, a brother of the late Liberal member and former House leader, Dr. George McQuibban.

Most Advanced Labor Laws.

Mr. Hepburn defended his war on the Committee for Industrial Organization. Ontario had the most advanced labor legislation in Canada, he declared.

"We are on the right track," he said. "We will preserve collective bargaining and not collective butchery. I believe in the right of men to strike and I believe in the right of men to go back to work when they want to. And they are going to. I challege Mr. Lewis (John L. Lewis, C.I.O. head) to come to Canada."

Lewis and Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers of America, were watching the Ontario election, Mr. Hepburn continued.

"They know where I stand, and they also know where Mr. Rowe stands," the Premier said.

TWINS HOLD CONVENTION.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Aug. 27. —(AP)—This city will "see double" literally this weekend when approximately 3,000 twins—ranging from squealing baby "look-alikes" to those with white hair, or bald heads—come here from at least 13 states for the sixth annual convention of the National Twins' Association.

To Fellow-Workers you are Courteous—

Try Courtesy

With Your Fellow-Motorists

IN THE factory, on the farm, in offices, stores, banks, garages and service stations we are all courteous and considerate to those with whom we are associated or come in contact.

Such courtesy makes our daily contacts a pleasure.

But do we all "Try Courtesy" towards these same people and towards others when we all become fellow-motorists?

Do we hand-signal our intention to slow down, turn or stop? Do we warn others of our intention to overtake by gently sounding on our horn? Do we drive at approximately the speed of the traffic we are in and refrain from "cutting-in and out"?

Do we slow down, sound our horns and otherwise drive with the most extreme caution where there are children? Do we dip or dim our bright headlights when meeting a fellow-motorist at night? Do we give the other fellow "the breaks" in tight places, on corners, in heavy traffic and in "pockets"?

Follow these suggestions, and the many others which will occur to the driver who thinks in terms of courtesy, and you will travel more safely and more enjoyably—"Try Courtesy" every inch of the way.

ALBERTA MEMBER LEAVES PARTY

EDMONTON, Aug. 27—(CP). —W. N. Chant, former Alberta Minister of Agriculture, elected to the Legislature as Social Credit Member for Carmose, has announced his status as an independent member.

"We have no longer representative government in this province," said a statement issued yesterday by Mr. Chant, ousted from the Cabinet last April after he refused to comply with Premier Aberhart's request he resign.

The former Minister announced he was expelled from the Social Credit caucus because he refused to sign a pledge promising not to attack the government.

Mr. Chant, C. C. Ross, former Minister of Lands and Mines; Chas. Cockroft, former Provincial Treasurer, whose resignations preceded Mr. Chant's, and three other Social Crediters refused to sign pledges but promised support direct to Major C. H. Douglas, "father" of Social Credit.

Disrupt Confederation.

"We hae no longer representative government in this province as the actions of the government and the legislation it enacts are dictated by individuals from Great Britain who have not shown that they hold the confidence of any appreciable number of their own fellow-countrymen and have not been elected by, or are in any way responsible to, the citizens of our province," Mr. Chant said.

He charged government policies are in direct conflict with those of other Canadian provinces and said "continuation on such policies in the reckless and ill-considered manner pursued by this government must inevitably lead to the disruption of Confederation."

He Suffered Agony In Wet Weather

Rheumatism Attacked Limbs and Body

He had been bothered with rheumatism for years. The pain in wet weather—to use his own expression—was "indescribable.' But all that is gone now—thanks to Kruschen. Read this letter:

"I suffered with rheumatism for years. I dreaded wet weather for during such periods the pain was continuous and indescribable. To begin with, it was confined to my limbs, but in time I began to suffer as much agony in my body as I did in my limbs. When I began to take Kruschen Salts, I found it did me more good than all the other medicine I had taken put together. Today, I have peace and freedom from pain, even during wet weather, and can heartily recommend Kruschen Salts to anyone who suffers from rheumatism."—N.M.

Rheumatic condition are often the result of an excess of uric acid in the body. Two of the ingredients in Kruschen Salts have the power of dissolving uric acid crystals. Other ingredients in these Salts assist Nature to expel the dissolved crystals through the natural channels. (Advt.).

HONOURABLE EARL ROWE
States His Party's Stand on Labor

The national policy of the Liberal-Conservative Party, Provincial and Dominion, for many years has been to create industry for the purpose of providing work and wages for labor and a profitable home market for the farmer; the lumberman and other primary producers. The Party's sympathetic attitude towards labor is evidenced by the Social legislation on our statute books.

The Liberal-Conservative Party believes that labor should receive a fair share of the fruits of industry and is entitled to organize in order to improve the lot of the worker as regards wages, hours, security in old age and all other conditions of industrial life. The Liberal-Conservative Party reaffirms its traditional policy of insisting upon the maintenance of law and order in all industrial disputes and pledges itself firmly and scrupulously to uphold the laws of Canada

1. The right of employees to bargain collectively through their own representatives chosen without dictation, coercion or intimidation.

2. It is and has for many decades been a fact that both capital and labor are International in their organization. Accordingly the right of the worker to belong to the union of his choosing, Canadian or International, craft or industrial, is fully established; provided always that the unions must observe, and that capital must observe, in all their actions, the laws of Canada.

3. The Liberal-Conservative Party is unalterably opposed to the introduction into Ontario of sit-down strikes, sabotage or other violations of our law, and for the purpose of clarity hereby places itself on record as being opposed to such illegalities whether they are introduced into Ontario by labor unions affiliated with the C. I. O., the A. F. of L., or any other organization, capital or labor

4. That representatives from other countries, both of capital and labor, shall be subject on the same principles as other people to our immigration laws and that they shall when admitted to this country, strictly observe the laws of the land.

5. The primary function of the state in all industrial disputes is FIRST—to take no sides and to maintain law and order without the display of unnecessary or provocative force, and SECOND, to enact and impartially administer adequate legislation for the conciliation of industrial disputes.

6. The right to work in Canada is not dependent upon membership in any organization.

7. That no strike shall take place until all reasonable methods of conciliation are exhausted and the worker should have the right of secret ballot free from improper influence or coercion in all decisions relating to the dispute.

8. The Liberal-Conservative Party will continue in the future as in the past to defend the principle of freedom of association within the law. The party re-affirms its belief that the essence of democracy is trust in the people and to rely on freedom and not in dictatorship, that public opinion may be led but not driven and that the greatest safeguard of orderly progress and reform is the sound common sense of all classes of the Canadian people.

I have stated frankly and fearlessly my party's policy toward labor and law enforcement. I stand now, as always, for law and order, for all, under all circumstances. This policy is the democratic British method and I shall apply these principles in the administration of our provincial affairs.

School Beckons 2,200,000 Canadian Youth In September

Birth Rate Decline of Seven Years Ago Takes Its Toll.

TORONTO, Aug. 27—(CP)—One-fifth or more of Canada's population returns to school rooms in September. The total of scholars is appreciably lower than three years ago, and is again coming close to the figures of 1929, when school attendance was 24.4 per cent. of population. On the whole depression increased school population; recovery reduced it.

No accurate estimate can yet be made of the school enrolment for the new term, but a rough approximation gives 2,200,000 scholars. In 1926 attendance was 2,265,000, but three years ago Canada's school population had risen to 2,327,000.

The depression was undoubtedly the principal cause of the increase from 1930 to 1934 in the number of high school students, and greater opportunities for young people in economic life has accounted for a gradual decline in this bracket since.

High school enrolment in Nova Scotia next term will decrease slightly or at least remain stationary. New Brunswick, however, expects a slight increase in high school attendance due to ordinary natural increase in population. Recovery is reducing enrolment in Prince Edward Island.

Quebec, figuring on a slight increase in total enrolment, finds it is too early yet to estimate how recovery is affecting school population of the province. Pupils attending school in Quebec tend to decline in numbers in the lower grades, probably because families were restricted during the depression.

Ontario educational authorities decline to draw any general conclusions from the school figures for the province. There is a gradual increase, however, in secondary school enrolment in Ontario, and an apparent increase in elementary schools, although the changes are slight in the last year or two. Average daily attendance in Ontario in 1929 was 535,691; in 1934, 675,000, and the latter will probably remain the approximate figure for 1937-38.

Varies in West.

In Manitoba total enrolment has lately consistently declined, elementary school attendance last year being 13,000 below 1926. But secondary schools are gradually increasing again. Pupils in Alberta high schools have doubled in the past 10 years, but elementary pupils remain about the same.

In Saskatchewan, primary school attendance has decreased sharply from 1931 and is still below the figures for 1926. Decline in the birth-rate is held generally responsible. But in the secondary schools, Saskatchewan has more scholars than ever before. Last season's enrolment was 14,000 more than 1931, an echo of lack of crops and harvesting, probably.

In British Columbia, total school enrolment is going up, with an increase of nearly 15,000 over 1927, but the increase has been very gradual in late years and confined almost wholly to high schools, with a consistent decline in elementary schools.

A slight decline in enrolment of lower grades in Nova Scotia is attributed to migration of young married couples or people of marriageable age in the late 20's. "More work available" is frankly given as the reason for the decline in attendance in Prince Edward Island.

The depression had little effect on Catholic schools in Quebec which consistently reported an increase, but there was a setback in the Protestant schools.

REV. JOHN GARBUTT DIES IN LONDON

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 27 (CP). — Rev. John Garbutt, for many years a prominent minister in the Methodist and United Churches, died here yesterday.

Mr. Garbutt was minister of Dundas Centre United Church for four years, and was field secretary of the Western Ontario Bible Society. The early part of Mr. Garbutt's ministry was served in the Bay of Quinte Conference of the former Methodist Church, of which he was at one time president. In that district he held charges at Bowmanville, Cobourg and Oshawa.

While in Oshawa Mr. Garbutt enlisted as a war chaplain, and with the rank of Captain, served first with the 116th Battalion, C.E.F., and then in France with the 26th Nova Scotia Battalion.

He returned to Oshawa, and in 1921 transferred to the London Conference to take over the Dundas Centre charge. In both Oshawa and in London he was a member of the Rotary Club.

Mr. Garbutt was a native of Pickering, Yorkshire, England. He received his early education there, and on coming to Canada early in life completed his training for the ministry at Albert College, Belleville.

Through illness, Mr. Garbutt was forced to retire from active work of the Bible Society, and two years ago he was compelled to give up his work entirely.

His widow, two daughters and a son survive.

Those Were Days Of Hefty Police

LONDON, Aug. 27. — (CP) — George Cole, former sergeant in the Metropolitan police, pensioner for 30 years, thinks the modern-day policeman is just a "softy" who couldn't have made the grade in the good old days of pavement pounding.

"They get a different class of men in the force now," he sneered. "It's all theory and no practice. The force of to-day might have the education, but we had the stamina."

Cole recalled the days and methods of 1879. "We told it to them with a real truncheon then. It was black with a pretty gold V.R. and a gold crown and sure was a tidy weapon."

Rumblings of War Around Globe

HENDAYE, Franco - Spanish Frontier, Aug. 27—(AP)—General Franco took Santander because he has the money to pay his war bills, says Gen. Gonzalo Queipo De Llano.

The aide of the insurgent chieftain, speaking last night before a joyous crowd in Seville, an insurgent base in southern Spain, was reported today to have commented:

"Money, money, money—those three things are necessary in war. We have it; therefore we have an army. Our victories are not over yet!"

VALENCIA, Aug. 27—(AP)—Government troops pushed an offensive today on the Arafon front of northeastern Spain. A government spearhead was thrust in to General Franco's lines 25 miles southeast of Zaragoza, where the town of Quinto, long held by the insurgents on the Zaragoza-Valencia road, was occupied by Madrid-Valencia troops.

Often the government had attacked Quinto but not until today did it conquer.

PEIPING, Aug. 27—(AP)—Japanese aircraft, infantry and artillery today pressed their extensive but indecisive, assault to break a Chinese flanking movement and drive General Sun Lien-Chung's 26th route army out of the western hills. An artillery engagement was being fought in the vicinity of Liang-Hsiang where two divisions of the 26th route army were spread out in the low lying hills, holding up the Japanese advance and threatening their flanks.

TOKYO, Aug. 27—(AP)—The Domei (Japanese) News Agency reported today that Major General Shigeo Fujii, commander-in-chief of the combined Japanese and Manchoukuo armies north of the Great Wall, had been killed in action by Chinese snipers.

BAYONNE, Franco - Spanish Frontier Aug. 27—(AP)—France shut her doors at least temporarily today against refugees streaming from the region of fallen Santander, Spain. Police suspended authorization for landing after four overcrowded trawlers arrived at the Port of Bayonne this morning, bringing 500 fugitives. A similar number arrived last night.

PARIS, Aug. 27—(AP)—France will not recognize the right of blockading Japanese warships to search foreign ships in Chinese waters, sources close to the foreign office said today. These persons pointed out international law prescribes a nation first must declare war and notify neutrals of its intention to create such a blockade. There will be "international difficulties" if Japan starts halting and searching foreign shipping without making such declarations, they added.

ANKARA, Aug. 27—(CP-Havas)—The Turkish government today threatened to sink any foreign submarine found in the sea of Marmora, east of the Dardanelles, in violation of the Montreux convention regulating passage of warships through the straits. The foreign ministry delivered two notes to all diplomatic missions here. The first said an official inquiry had been opened into the sinking by an unidentified submarine of the Spanish steamship Armuru in the Aegean.

The second note said indications of the presence of a foreign submarine were reported from the Sea of Marmora by a Turkish war ship the day the Armuru was sunk.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BANCROFT, Aug. 27.—Friends of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McCaw learned with regret last week of their sudden decision to move from Bancroft to take up residence in Belleville.

Since Mr. McCaw purchased a Belleville-Marmora-Tweed transport route, it has been necessary for him to make Belleville his headquarters for the transport business.

We hear, with regret, of your departure from Bancroft, and hope that it will be only temporary.

You and your family will be greatly missed by the congregation of St. John's church, and your friends in the village.

Your readiness and generous help to all the church activities will leave a vacancy hard to fill.

On behalf of the Women's Auxiliary, the girls' branch of the Women's Auxiliary, and the Layman's Association, we wish to present to you these tokens of united appreciation.

Our sincere desire for your future happiness is embodied in these gifts, and may every blessing be yours in you future home. Signed, Edmund N. Grant, Incumbent; F. Quints Play Again After Illness

When Cecile put on a pair of colored glasses she found Yvonne's nose had assumed a new hue and to find out she pulled her sister to her for a closer view. Yvonne can see that Cecile's nose and cheeks are the same color, so she's not worried, but rather amused at her sister's concern. It's all fun, though a little mystifying when white dresses turn pink.

Back of the new Social Credit bills being introduced into the legislature is Premier William Aberhart, world's first Social Credit Premier.

Brewers, grain dealers and the sugar industry are now paying a special tax levy in Germany as the result of General Hermann Goering's work as raw materials dictator. The special levies were ordered to finance an increase in prices paid to growers of rye. The three industries were assessed about $39,150,000

AS GRANDMOTHER MIGHT HAVE DONE

Coast Writer Muses On Reaction of Former Generation To Present Events

VANCOUVER, August 27—(CP)—Grace Luckhart writes in The Province: I wish grandma could have been alive to enjoy this Coronation, I wish she could have lived to hear a record of the service, or to have heard King George giving a message to his people.

No monarch ever had the loyalty from her subjects that Queen Victoria had. Few, if any, of the settlers in Bruce and Grey Counties in Ontario had seen her. But every home had her photograph, together with those of lesser royalties. I remember feeling just as sad about the Queen's long widowhood as though she had been somebody on the next farm. The Prince Consort was no legendary figure to me, someone whose obituary was kept in the Green Book along with that of my grandfather.

I was almost grown before I heard anything remotely suggesting lese majesty. I was talking to another girl about the late dear Queen, and she said: "Victoria wasn't half the Queen that Elizabeth was. She was just a domesticated little woman who ought to have been running her own dairy." I was so amazed that I didn't even answer her. I watched to see if she would be struck down, but she wasn't.

And I like to think of what Little Grandma would have done with Mrs. Simpson.

Holy See Recognizing Spanish Insurgents

VATICAN CITY, Aug. 27—(AP)—The Holy See will concede "de facto recognition" tomorrow to the Spanish insurgents.

Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, Papal Secretary of State, is scheduled then to accept the credentials of Pablo de Churruca, Marquis of Ayeneena, as the Spanish insurgents' charge d'affaires.

The Marquis has had the credentials with him since his arrival in Italy in June. The prelate insisted then, however, as he did later, when General Franco announced Vatican recognition from Salamanca, that the Holy See had taken no formal steps toward recognition.

Wants The Schools Closed

The Examiner is in receipt of a letter from a lady in the city who asks that this paper "do all in its power to prevent the opening of our schools on the regular date in order that our children may be spared from catching infantile paralysis which they will certainly do if the schools are opened." The writer does not want her letter published but the quotation given tells the general text.

There are in the letter several exclamation marks and a number of words and phrases are heavily underlined in order to make certain their importance is not overlooked. Evidently the writer was much in earnest, and she was excited. Likewise she is convinced that opening the schools will be the signal for a greater outbreak of infantile paralysis.

Without going out of the office to ask a single question the Examiner is certain the medical and school and Board of Health authorities will do what they consider best. If they were convinced that keeping the schools closed would mean heading off the spread of the disease then they would do that. The writer of this article has lived in cities where there have been serious outbreaks of infantile paralysis in other years, and has had opportunity to note all the preventive measures which have been taken. The plain truth is proper preventive measures are not yet known. We have seen schools closed and schools remain open and there has been no difference in the result. If anything the weight of theory and experience seems to point to the wisdom of allowing the schools to go on as usual. The reasons are:

In the schools, especially when a close check is being kept for the first indication of symptoms the pupil with the trouble is detected at once. Then such treatment as can be administered is given in time.

There has never been anything to indicate that the child sitting nearest the affected pupil would also contract the disease.

Going to school keeps the child observing regular hours and regular habits.

The schools are clean, sanitary and well ventilated.

The only thing which can be said for the closing of the schools is that it gives to some parents the feeling that "something is being done about it," but that something has within it no guarantee that the disease will thereby be checked.

Money In This Pig

Matt Shibles is a farmer living near Newburg in Maine, and Farmer Shibles has a great pig. He says it is the greatest pig in the world, and it weighs 1,600 pounds.

It may be that Farmer Shibles has been around enough to have discovered curious people of the world will pay something to go and look at anything strange. They will pay to see the fat lady in the circus, so his reasoning ran toward the conclusion they would also pay to see a pig weighing 1,600 pounds on the farm of Matt Shibles of Newburg in the state of Maine.

The pig has become so great and so fat that it cannot move about, so Farmer Shibles has rigged up a derrick which he put under the great pig at intervals to assist it to arise. It can't go to the trough like other pigs so its victuals have to be brought over and placed right under its snout.

Farmer Shibles considered publicity would be a good thing for his great pig so he saw to it that photographers came and took good pictures and of course these were printed in many papers and the pig became famous. People started turning from their accustomed auto paths and making a course toward Farmer Shibles' place, and it costs just five cents to have a look at Goliath, a name which has very improperly been given to the pig, for Goliath was indeed a great giant who went about easily under his own power. But Farmer Shibles has found there is a certain amount of profit in keeping so great a hog for he has taken in $800 from people who came to see and went to tell about it to others. And that is the price of many pigs, but of course it has taken time, money and brains to erect a derrick under Goliath and to attend to the business department of gathering in the coins from spectators.

When A Good Man Dies

Stratford has lost David M. Wright, former member of the federal House for North Perth, president of the McLagan Furniture Co., and a man whose bent for public service found scope in a good many municipal and provincial channels. When D. M. Wright was able to do so he seldom drew back from donating time and money to any cause which he felt was right and just. If there was anything which needed doing in the community he could be counted on. When he entered political life Mr. Wright did so because he was urged to represent his party. The doctor who attended him in his last illness was at one time his political opponent in a Federal contest, but David Wright always seemed to live above the turmoil of political life. Never did his politics make him any enemies.

In a way D. M. Wright was typical of a number of other citizens in a good many communities. He was interested in his own city, in his province and in the Dominion. And that interest was of the intelligent and full-freighted variety. One cannot help but put the question: Who is going to take the place of D. M. Wright in Stratford? And that same question can be applied with equal pertinence to a good many other communities who are losing the substantial leaders of public thought and community improvement. To put it another way—are we today producing the men of mental substance and moral uprightness who will be the equal of our municipal, provincial and federal leaders who are now nearing the end of their days of active service? Or is the atmosphere in which we are living too filled with excitement and a veneer which is rather superficial? It may be that one generation worries unnecessarily about the next, but it is natural enough to ask the question when a good man fails in a community—who is going to take his place?

No Change Yet Made

The Examiner suggested once before that there should be brought into existence some sort of a tasting and testing apparatus for the house wives to use during the pickling season.

Right now the man of the house is apt to be greeted with a spoon of some hot simmering material as soon as he gets in at noon, or again when he turns to his shelter at the end of the day. And it has been that way for a long time.

"Taste this" is the challenge to the man. He hasn't time to take off his hat or remove his jacket or wash his hands at the kitchen sink. So he has to taste it. After that he is supposed to lick his chops and tell precisely and exactly what should be added. He is supposed to be able to detect at once and with unfailing accuracy the very touch that has been omitted. It may be salt, vinegar, mustard, celery seed, all-spice, cloves, paprika or what have you. He must be able to tell the little woman at once just what to add and how much. And truth, plain and miserable, is that he can't do it. Most times he smacks his lips, looks wise and says "Aw that's all right," and he says that because he doesn't know of anything else which would be suitable to say.

Newspapers And Elections

The Beacon-Herald of Stratford discusses in an interesting way the degree of newspaper support which the Liberal and Conservative parties are due to receive in the provincial election from the Toronto newspapers. In an election in other years there would not have been much doubt. The Globe, although striving for a time to manoeuvre itself into the position of the New York Times in United States by reason of its independence, failed to get that message established in the minds of its readers. It lost circulation because it could not be counted upon to be always a Liberal newspaper. But when election time came it did support Liberals more than it ever condemned them, and it gave all it had to Mitchell Hepburn in his appeal to the province in 1934. But the Globe as such is now out.

The Mail and Empire was always Conservative. Fair and honest in its news reports it would give the Liberals just as substantial coverage as it extended to Conservatives. Its editorial page, though was Conservative. Outspokenly and plainly so. But the Mail and Empire as such has gone. The Globe and Mail now live together under one roof, and its editorial support has been extended to Mr. Hepburn. There was hardly any expectation that it would be otherwise. When the East Hastings by-election was in progress the amalgamation of the papers took place, and in a signed statement the publisher of the Globe and Mail then said:

> "I consider the Hepburn Government, although having glaring weakness, has given on the whole good administration. Therefore the Globe and Mail believes the government in return should receive the endorsation of the electors of East Hastings as evidence of the people's confidence in Mr. Hepburn's record. It (the Globe and Mail) will be energetic in support of the Hepburn government's candidate. But it does not commit itself blindly to the future."

The Toronto Star in the last campaign was energetically in favor of Mr. Hepburn. The Star gave Mr. Hepburn all it had to give in the way of support, but it has since arrived at the fork in the road on the C.I.O. issue. The C.I.O. has been declared by Mr. Hepburn as one of the points in his present campaign, and it would require a great and dangerous heave on the steering wheel of the Star to get over on the Hepburn side of the present political highway.

The Toronto Telegram independent in many things, but generally safe enough for the Conservative, supported Mr. Hepburn when he broke with the C. I. O. It does not like the C.I.O. at all and has said so, nor has the Telegram given indication of growing enthusiastic in support of Hon. Earl Rowe.

As things stand at the moment Mr. Hepburn has the backing of the Mail and Empire, but he has alienated himself from the Star, while the Telegram has so far stressed only the independence of its viewpoint. The support or denunciation of the Toronto press has always been overrated by a good many politicians. People do not vote this way or that way because Toronto papers tilt in this direction and that. If the public is impartially informed regarding the issues of the day it can be trusted to make its selection wisely because common sense is rather widely distributed.

SOLVED!

(By A. B. K.)

¶ My Uncle Eben had some grief, when he got fiddling with his teeth, for they were far from new; for they kept dropping one by one, until he come to nearly none, and then he could not chew.

¶ But Uncle Eben was a brick, and then he acted pretty quick, he knew the very thing; the dentist man would fix him right, so he could gather up and bite, just like a stone-age king.

¶ When Uncle Eben got his plate, he started chanting hymns of hate, they didn't seem to work; he wasn't used to them he said, they weren't quite solid in his head, at times they seemed to jerk.

¶ But Eben hadn't much to do, and so in time he learned to chew, he'd get on rather slick; it bothered him with folk about, he couldn't tune the static out, his teeth would sort of click.

¶ And he was sensitive I know, in fact he often told me so, avoided other men; I know it once occurred to him, he'd like a way so he could pin, a silencer on them.

¶ Now Eben has a radio, he says he likes to hear it go, when comes the noonday fill; and if his teeth begin to click, then Eben reaches out right quick—and makes it louder still.

THE average reader of this column does not know what it means to cast a plate in a newspaper office. It is the plates which are buckled on the cylinders of the press for printing, as printing in daily newspaper offices is not done from the type as originally set.

The day the Chicago Tribune received word of the Hindenburg disaster it had already started to print its papers. Then as the news and pictures started coming in it began making over its paper for extras and adding pages, and the enormity of that undertaking can be grasped when it is mentioned there are 74 press units in the Tribune. In all there were five extra turned out during the night, each larger in size and in order to do that it called for reading 3,600 pages!

The Price Seems to Vary

SOME one with a love for watching the outcome of accident claims in courts says the scale has too much variety.

A lost eye has brought as much as $50,230 and as little as $1,500.

A waitress who lost hers when a soda bottle burst collected $37,500. A lawyer was awarded $30,000 when he lost an eye due to a drunk's good nature, but only $1,500 to a boy of 20 years who lost an eye when struck by a golf ball.

Legs have been assessed by juries as high as $40,000, arms $35,000 and feet $30,000.

Fingers according to the jury that reimbursed the girl who caught her hand in the butcher's chopping machine are worth $2,500 each.

And a toe lost by a dancer who was afterwards unable to do a whirl for which he was famous, cost $50,000.

A man who lost his memory in an automobile accident and forgot to go to his own wedding and thereby lost his bride, sued for $50,000 but was awarded only $5,000.

PERHAPS the ancient Persians were wise. According to Horace Chauvet in ancient Persia when a king was dying anarchy was permitted to reign for five days. Vice, crime and even base passion were given free course—but only for five days.

The purpose was to show the people the extent of the degredation into which humanity free from all shackles and moral restraint, could lapse. On the sixth day the people always calmed down. They had learned their lesson.

Out Where Living Is Strenuous

From the Brooks (Alberta) Bulletin

A GENERATION ago Ontario boys by the hundreds came west on harvest excursions and returned to tell the old folks on their hundred acre farms of the lavish grain production of the vast farms of the prairies. In many instances the whole family would migrate westward, having sold their land, stock, implements and other belongings.

In discussing the changed situation the Hesforth Expositor, located in Huron county, which furnished many families to the westward movements, says:

We have never experienced a flood. We have never experienced a drouth. We don't know what a dust storm is. We have never seen drifting soil. Shade trees line our streets; the lawns are green; the gardens are a riot of color. In the country the trees are larger, more imposing, and they are of every kind. The pastures are green; the crops are growing so fast you can almost see them grow. That growth spells abundance—abundance everywhere."

A green, pleasant and lush land for comfortable, complacent, easy-going people, forsooth. But, we have seen—

Land dissolved into a foaming yellowy froth by floods, and pouring into a swollen river, leaving behind holes that would contain a large house;

A tornado and felt the mighty arm of Boreas in its surge across the prairie;

And mingled with the great Rocky Mountains and looked with awe upon

"Bright-faced Aurora rosy-fingered dawn, Standing tip-toe on misty mountain tops."

And felt cloud-high dust storms, pelting hail storms, cold that bit to the bone, heat that burned like a cinder, buzzards that cut like a knife;

A great land produce in less than a generation grain wealth whose total quals half the value of all the gold stored up in the coffers of the great nations of the world.

We have seen a hard-bitten, fate-fogged people fighting to retain a toe-hold when all the elements seem to be conspiring against them — a pioneer people in a tough, pioneer land.

We may all have missed much, so far from the ease, security and apparent contentment of the somnolent countryside of Southern Ontario.

But we have lived, by the gods, we have lived!

Sent Home to Find More Recruits

Recalls Stirring Days of the Old 93rd; Afterward Detained As Spy Suspect.

By J. H. BURNHAM

It has frequently been asked by members of the old 93rd Batt. why as in other battalions a chatty and intimate account of life in this battalion has not been written. Certainly the inside life of the regiment was of the greatest interest to the 1,153 members that constituted the strength of it and as I had a good deal to do as member of parliament at the time with the relation of the regiment (battalion) to the outside world as well as internally, I feel I ought to do what I can to preserve the gossipy record of our battalion life so far as I know it.

When I was at the Military School I got a wire from the O. C. Kingston to take over the paymastership, which in the hurry and confusion had not been provided for. It was understood that I was to be relieved when things got settled down. There had already been defalcations in other regiments and my chief duty was to hold myself financially responsible for and to the government as regimental liason and as recruiting officer later on I left all the pay-office work to the staff consisting of Sergt. J. Abraham, Pte. Melton, Pte. Max Sloan, etc. I simply checked the account totals, met the inspectors, paid the men heard complaints and kept close watch upon the ten thousand dollars or more which was entrusted to me every week, as paymaster.

I could also be of great service to the rank and file in other ways and I may say without saying too much that I did my share in that particular. It was impossible for the government's pay-staff at Ottawa to deal promptly with the wives and families of the absent soldiers who were often without one cent of their allowances and dependent upon the Patriotic Fund and othr services. However before these "funds" were established I established a financial relief system of my own through the late Mr. F. W. Miller and through it we loaned (of course without interest) many thousands of dollars; most of it was returned and not one cent that could and should have been repaid was not forthcoming. I cite this fact to show the high standard of honor amongst the men for there was no obligation to repay and if the loan could not be repaid it was understood it was to be left at that.

I will leave the other officers, from Lt. Col. Johnston down, to tell their own story and I hope they will but I can say for them what they might not care to say for themselves and that is that like B. S. M. Tom Miller and the N. C. O's. they did their level best, and here let it be noted that in wartime wherever you may be, you are on active service and on the qui-vive by both night and day.

As I rattle along there occurs to me an amusing incident. The Essex Imperials had just marched by and past our guard tent. In came B. S. M. Miller (an old soldier), wringing his hands; "good Heavens!" he cried, "and our guard didn't turn out!" He didn't get over that for days, we naturally didn't wish to appear any greener than we were but on this occasion we did.

The 93rd did not go to France as a battalion but fed the 31st. The 5th C. M. R. etc., the detachments going off as fast as trained (at Otterpool, etc.).

However I had better keep to my story. When going off with the battalion to the boat from Kinerton I got a letter from Sir Robert Borden to let him know (as an M. P. and 23 M. P.s' enlisted of whom seven were killed) if I saw anything at any time that required governmental attention—and I saw lots of it.

Like every body else I was determined to get to the front in France and resigned my recent appointment to the permanent Court-martial of the C. E. F. accordingly. When I happened one day to be in the front trench at Vimy Ridge, to my intense surprise General Currie sent for me to see him in the rear.

"Capt. Burnham" he said" we are more than 20,000 men behind, why is that?. Aren't there enough Canadian troops in England?"

I said that there were at the moment at least 50,000 trailied men in Kent.

"Then why aren't they sent here? We shall need at least a hundred thousand more men from Canada also and as you are in parliament and will be listened to (this was in 1916) please go back and do what you can to get more men. We are in desperate need."

"General Currie," I said "If you command me to do so I will cease trying to stay here and go at once and your orders will be my passport with our government and elsewhere."

"Yes," he said "go and God bless you," and I went.

It was necessary I found after my address on recruiting at Hamilton to issue a pamphlet appealing to young men (and women). This I wrote and sent for approval to General Currie. I got a letter from him and one from Gen. Byng also, approving, whereupon I issued many thousands and they did no harm.

Some time after the war I was travelling to Portland Maine, and happened to have these letters in my bag which was checked. As my train was crossing the line at Vermont I was arrested and had quite a time getting free. They had searched my bags found the letters and thought I was a spy. At the Somme, Lt. Col. Arthurs and I were in time to see the shells and shrapnel flying all about us but it was easier to stand still than to run as we stood. I want to say in conclusion that with very few exceptions there was and is (what is left of them) no finer body of men than the old 93rd. God bless them and God save the King!

BRITAIN INVADED

BRITISH backs are to the wall, once again, ranks are being closed and the enemy is to repelled, nay, exterminated. The invaders are individually less formidable than the Romans, the Danes, the Normans or the Spanish of the illstarred Armada, but they are probably far more numerous. They are the familiar grey squirrels of North America, of the species sciurus carolinensis, such as one meets in United States and Canadian woods and parks.

Here we know them as pesky fellows, nuisances but cheerful, entertaining and very friendly with the nut man. In Britain they have become a national menace. Belted earls and noble peers (such as my lords of Bebester and Northbrook) write letters to the Times about them. The Thunderer itself inveighs against their depredations.

Editor Examiner:

Sir: This is my first letter to your paper and hope it will be received. I wonder if people ever think it is a sin to steal? Well why do they intentionally and continually do it, for while in bathing at Inverlea on Tuesday afternoon some one stole a good pair of sandals, which I had bought only a week ago and were expensive. Well I wonder how you folks, I mean the people who took my shoes would feel if you came to this town for a short visit and especially were staying a long way from Inverlea and had to walk home in bare feet. I hope you like those shoes; above all I hope they don't hurt your corns. They have a very poor method of running a bathing park as well as a poor system of a bathing house.

I remain yours,
LOSER.

IN THE WEST

Editor Examiner:

Sir, — In these days of dust, drought, wind and grasshoppers, many people are asking: "How are the people of the drought area standing up under the sledge-hammer blows that Nature has dealt them during these past eight years? What keeps them still standing on their feet, looking with hope toward another year? What keeps them from losing heart and giving way to dark despair? What keeps them from going insane as they look out on barren fields for the eighth successive year? What gives them courage as they stand amidst their worn out implements and decayed homes, their bare cupboards and threadbare clothing, and whispers to them: 'Try again?'" My answer to all these questions, an answer that I have found to be very satisfying, is found in one word, and that word is GOD.

I am glad to find that my answer is corroborated in a little poem entitled "My 1937 Prayer," written by Gertrude Wood, President of the Onthorpe Associate Society, Saskatchewan. It is a poem that breathes the spirit of Faith and Hope, Courage and Cheer, and finds "through Faith's clear eyes that God is Love."

It is in the hope that this little poem may prove a blessing to many, both in the drought area and in other parts of Canada that I send it forth.

Lord, help me to forget the bare brown fields,
Let me not watch the stock dejected pass,
The sloughs are dry as rock; there is no grass.
Let me not think all day of garden plot
Where dusty ridges plod, but plants are not.
Let me but see the trees, their leaves are green
And birds still nest in these and sing, serene.
Help me to raise my eyes for this is June,
But willie puffed June-blue skies and hum a tune.
Though as I gaze dust clouds—a yellow pall—
Sweep up and with dim shroud enthrall.
Yet Lord, my heart must rise these clouds above
And find through Faith's clear eyes that God is Love.

With such a spirit of Faith to help them, the people of the drought area will emerge triumphant.

Thank you, Mr. Editor, for giving space to this.

Gratefully yours,
(REV.) J. T. DAWTHROP,
The Manse, Radville, Sask.

TOO MANY MEMBERS.

(Regina Star)

EVER since 1930 men in touch with western conditions have advocated a reduction in the number of government members. This suggestion has sometimes been associated with recommendations for unification of prairie governments. Public sentiment in respect to reducing costs of administration and obtaining improved service through greater centralization of government has hardened. Call it selfishness or anything else. It is a fact that many struggling people begrudge the salaries paid about 150 Legislature members in these three provinces.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Late weakness of Chicago corn and hedging sales nose-dived wheat futures on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day after three days of successive rising values. Bullish Liverpool action and export demand shot prices 2¼ cents higher earlier but late easiness left final quotations ⅞ to ¼ cent higher, October $1.21¼, December $1.21, and May, $1.22¼ to ¾.

Continued moderate export purchases of Canadian wheat placed at 600,000 bushels and private reports of deficient moisture in large Northern Argentine areas provided the major interest in world wheat markets during opening trades.

A heavy volume of trade in the first hour shot all North American wheat prices 1 to 2½ cents higher in sympathy with the strong tone at Liverpool.

Dissolution Order Is Signed

His Honor Dr. Herbert Bruce, lieutenant-governor of Ontario, is shown (ABOVE) as he signed a formal order for dissolution of the nineteenth legislature, while Premier Mitchell Hepburn watched. With the signing of the order the provincial election to be held in Ontario on October 6, was officially set in motion.

Duke Of Windsor's Tennis Improves After Games With His Baker

Alfred Weigele, 45, delivers breakfast rolls every morning to Wasserleonburg castle and often returns in the afternoon to trounce the Duke at tennis.

Now the possibility has arisen that the Duke may put King Alfonso's good-natured teasing about the Duke's game to a test. Alfonso was expected at nearby Dellach in a few days.

Playing from three to five times a week with Wiegele, the Duke has become used to the baker's left-handling of the racquet, but he still jostles the baker: "My! my! Can't you play the way normal humans do?"

While the Duke and Wiegele work out on the castle court, the Duchess of Windsor is engaged in literary labor. Using a blue-and-ivory typewriter, she pecks away the hours in the ancient castle. What she is writing is a secret that has not yet penetrated beyond the castle.

Public Places Barred Toronto Children

Toronto, Aug. 27.

As a further precaution against the spread of infantile paralysis in York township, the Board of Health today ordered all public places closed to children under 16 years.

Meanwhile Mayor W. D. Robbins of Toronto announced opposition to proposal children be barred from attending the Canadian National Exhibition. Alderman R. H. Saunders said that at a Board of Health meeting later today he will propose the exclusion of children at the exhibition.

"It would be folly for us to allow 200,000 children to mingle at the Exhibition while at the same time we are keeping the schools closed to keep them out of crowds," the alderman said.

DELAY SCHOOL OPENING.

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 26—(CP). — Opening of Public schools has been delayed from September 1 until after Labor Day, Supt. G. A. Wheable announced to-day after a conference with the Medical Officer of Health. Start of classes will depend upon the progress of the infantile paralysis epidemic, he said.

Meanwhile the services of the medical school staff have been offered to the Board of Health to assist in the control of the disease.

NIPPONESE ENVOY CALLS IN LONDON

steps would be taken at once to prevent any possibility of recurrence of such an incident.

3—Full compensation for the victim.

Should the Japanese Government not give full satisfaction, it was suggested in some quarters Britain might withdraw Sir Robert Craigie, British Ambassador to Japan, from Tokyo temporarily, in effect severing diplomatic relations.

While there was no suggestion the outrage was deliberate it was pointed out in informed circles that an attack on the Ambassador was the gravest form of diplomatic incident possible.

Britain had earlier warned both China and Japan she would hold them responsible for damage to British property and injury to British subject.

Prime Minister Chamberlain was in constant touch with Eden by telephone. He was scheduled to visit the King at Balmoral Castle to-day for a full review of the attack.

Press Shows Restraint

The British press today assumed an attitude of restraint towards the shooting in China of the British ambassador, Sir Hughe Knatchbull-Hugessen. Representative comment follows:

The Times:

"Apologies alone will not be sufficient reparation for an 'accident' of this kind. The outrage committed against Sir Hughe serves to underline the implications of an intolerable situation. With that situation the government—when reports from the spot have acquainted them with the full particulars of yesterday's incident—will doubtless know how to deal. They may be assured of the strongest public support in any appropriate action which they decide to take."

The News-Chronicle (Liberal):

"Every day's news illustrates afresh the dangerous state of anarchy into which the world is drifting. The British ambassador is shot at and wounded by Japanese planes. The Japanese are sorry, of course, but the ambassador, they say, really ought not to get in the way of peaceful bullets.

"Off the coast of China, Japan is preparing to blockade Chinese ships although no state of war has been declared. Italy, which is officially not intervening in Spain, celebrates the capture by Italian troops of Santander. General Franco's planes bomb another British ship.

"The alarming thing is not so much that the robber nations openly flout international law and decency but that nobody seems very much to mind."

Urges Against Haste

The Daily Telegraph (Conservative):

"No hasty conclusions must be drawn in this country until the incident has been thoroughly investigated."

The Daily Herald (Labor):

"The Japanese certainly are not such fools as to make a deliberate attack on the British ambassador, or even on a British car, at this stage. So there is no point in getting worked up, striking outraged gestures or clamoring for retribution. It was a tragic accident — like the bombing of the Deutschland perhaps—and no one in Britain is going to ask for a sequel like Almeria."

The Morning Post (Conservative):

"This outrage, for such it was, was without excuse, and it is to be expected that the Japanese government will not be slow in demanding to know from those in control of the military operations in China how such an indefensible outrage was allowed to be perpetrated."

The Liverpool Post (Liberal):

"This alarming mishap emphasizes the perils of the confused situation . . . experience is showing that not only China, but also in Spain, that the military aircraft of some powers are quite reckless about whom they attack . . . All foreigners in Shanghai live in peril and have already lost immense sums by the destruction of property."

The Daily Mail (Independent):

"All circumstances indicate this unfortunate happening undoubtedly was an accident. If friendly relations are to be maintained between Great Britain and Japan all possible steps should be taken to see that unfortunate incidents with such grave implications are avoided in the future."

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express said temporary withdrawal of the British ambassador from Japan was thought possible in "some well-informed quarters."

Tries to Carry On

Other newspapers did not speculate on the likely action.

Dispatches to the London press from the Far East told of how Sir Hughe, as he was taken into Country Hospital in Shanghai, remained calm and insisted on issuing a few orders concerning urgent business before undergoing treatment.

It was reported Japaness believed the Chinese premier and war lord, Chiang Kai-Shek, intended to travel to Shanghai yesterday and therefore orders were issued for Japanese planes to attack all cars on the road despite the absence of Chinese troops.

It happened also yesterday that the Japanese, in a letter to foreign consuls in Shanghai, alleged Chinese military transports were abusing British, United States and other foreign flags. The consuls asked the police to help stamp out the alleged abuses.

Mayor Plays Cupid For Canadian M.P.

Indianapolis, Aug. 27.

MAYOR JOHN W. KERN had a new job to-day—that of "cupid" to an unnamed member of the Canadian House of Commons.

He said the "M.P." explained in a letter he had a "lovely friend" in Indianapolis and wished to remember her birthday tomorrow.

The letter said: "Am enclosing a dollar bill and asking you or your secretary to phone your florist and have him send my fair lady some nice cut flowers with a card to the effect, 'happy birthday to you.'"

The mayor said he had taken care of the matter.

USES WIRE WHIP UPON THREE BOYS

HAILEYBURY, Ont., Aug. 27.—(CP) — August Pakknon, Bucke township farmer, today was charged with malicious assault occasioning actual bodily harm following a report to police by three North Cobalt children, aged 9 to 11, that they had been whipped with a wire lash wielded by Pakknon. The Finnish farmer will appear in court tomorrow.

According to the story told by the boys, Roland McPherson, 11, Kenneth Shaver, 11, and John Shaver, nine, Pakknon, driving a herd of cattle, met the boys last night as they were returning home from a swimming expedition. He reportedly ordered them to open a gate into his farm. The boys obeyed and then were attacked by Pakknon's dog.

The farmer, the police report said, then struck the boys with his wire lash. McPherson was cut on the chest and back as the whip fell upon his bare back. John Shaver was cut about the head while Kenneth received minor injuries.

Edison agreed. Over weeks-ends he pencilled answers to lists of typewritten questions. They were filed away in a black loose-leaf book. The book remained in the files after Edison's death in October, 1931.

No one knew whether it would contain the nickel quest; but it did.

"If there is nickel in iron," Stringfellow had written, "does it adversely affect the life of the cell?"

"No harm," Edison wrote.

The conference accepted this decision. It turned out to be the correct one. Edison spent 10 years perfecting this battery.

The membership of the groups totals approximately 250,000 men, Whitney said.

JIMMIE MATTERN IS RETURNING HOME FROM FAIRBANKS

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Pilot Jimmie Mattern prepared to return to the United States today while two planes cruised the Arctic in search of six Soviet transpolar fliers.

Another searching party in the huge flying boat commanded by Sir Hubert Wilkins and piloted by Herbert Hollick-Kenyon of Toronto, rested at Coppermine, after a 19-hour flight over ice-choked Arctic seas. One stop was made at Walker Inlet on Prince Patrick Island, 900 miles northeast of Coppermine.

The Arctic explorer reported traveling some 1,500 miles yesterday over the Beaufort Sea to the 82nd parallel and to Prince Patrick without finding a trace of Sigismund Levanefsky and his companions who disappeared August 13 on a projected flight from Moscow to Fairbanks, en route to Oakland, Calif.

Mattern withdrew because his plane was not equipped for Arctic flying. He had joined the hunt in hopes of repaying Levanefsky for saving his life in Siberia four years ago.

Canadian Pilot Bob Randall left Barrow, northernmost Alaska settlement, yesterday to deliver a message, contents of which were not revealed, to Soviet Pilot Zadkoff.

Randall flew 450 miles along the frozen coast from Barrow to Aklavik, N.W.T., passing over Zadkoff's grounded plane 300 miles east of Barrow. His radio report did not say whether he dropped the message by parachute.

Randall reported Zadkoff had landed to await more favorable weather.

RAILWAY STRIKE U. S. THREATENED

CHICAGO, Aug. 27—(AP)—Hopes of forestalling a strike of 360,000 operating railroad workers throughout the United States apparently rested today upon federal mediation machinery.

Representatives of the "Big Five" operating brotherhoods, balked in their attempt to get a wage boost for their members, met to chart the next move.

Their only recourse, spokesmen for the brotherhoods said, was to set the day and hour for a strike that would call out conductors, engineers, firemen, switchmen and trainmen.

Three weeks of conferences between brotherhood representatives and a committee of 15 acting for 86 major railroads ended yesterday in a flat rejection of the unions' petition for a 20 per cent pay hike.

At Washington spokesmen for the national mediation board said they had not been advised officially of the breakdown in wage negotiations and would intervene only at the request of either group.

Federal mediation would automatically postpone a strike for more than 30 days. The national mediation board, failing to arbitrate the dispute, may request President Roosevelt to create an emergency arbitration committee.

Thornton, of Millbrook, was united in marriage to Ernest LaFontaine Burnham, B.A. Sc., of the Utilities Commission staff, Peterborough, only son of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Be Careful When You Use Perfume

By Gladys Glad

"America's Most Famous Beauty"

Maybe it's the approach of autumn that is affecting most of us right now, and the desire for flowers and floral fragrance that are responsible for the overdoing of the use of perfumes. I don't rightly know. But I've passed some damsels of late who are so flagrantly perfumed that it proves almost a nasal injury to get near them. And you can't tell me that any man enjoys going out with a walking perfume shop. Men like to think that the fragrance their best girls exhale are part of them—an exhalation of their own clean sweetness. But when a girl misuses her perfume, and forgets subtlety entirely, her perfume proves more of a detriment than an asset.

Moderation is half the secret of success in using perfume. If you apply it too lavishly, it becomes blatant and overpowering, and marks you as uncultured in its use. More than that, too, the overuse of perfume makes a girl seem coarse and lacking in the intelligence necessary for proper perfume usage. Perfume should be undefined, mystifying.

Preserving Time

Yes, it's pickling and preserving time again. And here is a little recipe for a sweet peach relish, a little unusual, and delicious served with cold meats.

PEACH CHUTNEY

1 cup chopped, pared apples
2 cups peeled peaches.
½ cup cooked celery, chopped finely.
1 cup seedless raisins.
½ cup sweet red pepper, finely chopped.
2 cups granulated sugar.
1½ cup cider vinegar.
1 teaspoon salt.

Combine all ingredients except the raisins. Cook until the mixture is thick and clear, approximately 40 minutes. In the meantime, steam the raisins for 20 minutes and add to chutney when taken from the heat. Pour into sterilized jelly glasses and seal. These quantities make from 1½ to 2 pints.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

The spider's touch, how exquisitely fine!
Feels at each thread, and lives along the line:
In the nice bee what sense, so subtly true
From poisonous herbs extracts the healing dew?
How instinct varies in the grovelling swine,
Compared, half-reasoning elephant, with thine!
'Twixt that and reason what a nice barrier!
Forever sep'rate, yet forever near.
—Pope, (Essay on man)

Dear Friends:

Do you ever use your instinct? Or have you neglected it until it will not work for you? Reason points out sometimes why one should refuse to take any notice of instinct, but generally when I listen to reason and neglect the warning voice of instinct, I suffer for it.

It, too, is part of the Divine power within us. You cannot explain it away, you cannot understand how it comes to warn you, but how very thankful I have been many times when I heeded it, and let reason alone.

Just the other day I was asked to do something which on the surface seemed a trifling service to the one who asked me to do it. I refused, rather ungraciously, which is unusual with me, but instinct told me to say "no", and to say it unmistakably, so that this would not be asked of me again.

Just a day or two later I found that had I agreed I would have found myself involved with those of very doubtful morals, and once there it would have been rather hard to break away without trouble.

We admire the instincts of a dog who can find his way home if taken away on a far journey or of a cat who saves it's kittens in a fire. We think it is marvellous when we see a dumb animal of any kind obey it's instincts. But human beings neglect their own instincts many times and are great losers thereby.

The dictionary tells us that to do anything instictively is acting or prompted by natural impulses, as self-protection is instinctive in all creatures: innate."

So that, when you have a feeling to do a certain thing, or a feeling to leave it alone, you are obeying a warning voice within you, a thing unexplainable, but put there for your help and comfort. Just as you cannot define conscience, neither can you define instinct.

Some people have it in money-making, (and many of us wish we had it too.) Some have it in buying and selling, 'I can walk right to where a bargain might be', some have it in choosing friends, or in different ways.

One man I knew who had made millions told me he had "hunches", and they never failed him. It got so that if we knew he had brought certain things we tried to buy also. Some have it in warnings about illness, and many's the time I have turned what would have been a serious or fatal illness into a minor one, just because I heeded instinct.

Some of us have it until it is like second sight, and can warn others about danger ahead of time, so they can escape it, and how aggravating it is when they will not heed, but run right into the thing. It is not premonition, for that comes ahead of the event, sometimes days ahead, but instinct is immediate, like ducking if you think something is going to hit you, or pulling back from escaping steam.

And so, if your instinct tells you to leave a thing alone, or to follow a certain course, just realize it was not put there for fun, but as a warning, even altho' you cannot see why, and when you admire it in a dumb animal, don't be too dumb to use it to your own advantage.

Your Friend
ROBERTA.

Men Interested In Good Grooming

BY GLADYS GLAD
"America's Most Famous Beauty"

ACCORDING TO all reports, men are becoming more and more interested in the refinement of personal care. You can see that for yourself by just looking at any man's bathroom shelf. The old monogrammed shaving mug and brush have been supplanted by bay rum, toilet water, talcum powder, shaving lotion, shaving cream and various and sundry other articles.

Indeed, according to the findings of druggists, at least fifty per cent. of the cosmetics and toilet articles they carry are sold to men, and that is just as it should be, for men have just as much need of toilet articles as women do.

If you are at all observing, you will have noticed that men in executive positions expend more care on their hands and nails now than was the practice in former days. And, of course, they should, for cleanliness is by no means a feminine prerogative.

Grimy Nails Displeasing.

Rough discolord hands and grimy nails are just as displeasing on a man as they are on a woman. Such hands and nails immediately mark a man as being careless about his grooming and appearance. And women are a good deal more observant of men's hands than you males might think.

I think it really is a grand idea for every man to treat himself to a weekly manicure. That doesn't mean that a man has to go to a beauty shop crowded with garrulous females, for most barber shops have manicurists on their staff for treating men's nails.

It isn't only the white-collar man or the professional who should give his hands and nails care. Even the mechanic, the horny-handed son of toil, the day laborer can, with a little care, keep his hands in good condition. Men of such occupations generally use heavy sand-soaps and grease solvents to remove the grease and dirt from their hands, but they seem to shy away from the use of hand lotions or creams.

DRESSY CLOTHES STRESSED

By LISBETH

THERE IS decided news in the fact that a more formal and sophisticated note is appearing in the girl's wardrobe this fall. Not too much, of course, but just a hint.

This means, of course, that a stronger emphasis is to be laid on evening and the more dressy type of afternoon frocks. The dinner or informal dance frock in silk satin, silk taffeta or silk chiffon takes on a delightfully new aspect with its suggestion of a lower waistline, usually achieved by means of a wide, tight belt or sash carried below the normal waistline, but at the same time rising above it. The same silhouette will be seen in the sophisticated silk afternoon dress, and every girl will apparently select one such frock in black, sometimes unrelieved and sometimes enlivened by color. These afternoon frocks usually have bracelet length sleeves, and frequently borders in copper squina are introduced at neck, hem, sleeves and pocket.

Silk blouses naturally remain an extremely important feature in the girl's autumn wardrobe. Paris favored them at the recent openings and their continued popularity with girls is a foregone conclusion in view of the fact they lend variety to a wardrobe without any undue strain on the budget that pays for it.

Silk Sweaters New

A new note is presented by the introduction of silk cardigan sweaters which combine the advantage of presenting the desired casual appearance with a degree of comfort that nothing but silk will give them. As an intermediate between the entirely casual and the rigidly sophisticated clothes, the classic shirtwaist frock in silk is the ideal solution. One such is illustrated for informal wear.

Girls have been affected by the interest in fibre identification which has been sweeping the country, and when buying their fall wardrobes may well insist upon learning what the materials in the clothes they may buy are. They will want to know whether a skirt is made of pure wool or of wool and cotton or of wool and rayon. And in selecting a silk frock, they will want to know whether it is all silk, silk combined with rayon, or whether it is rayon, no matter how closely it may resemble silk in feel and appearance.

STYLE WHIMSY.

More hand-finishing goes into the tailored suits for the coming season. The braid-finish formal tailleur is cut with a longer, slightly roomier packet. Action backs, too, are very popular.

Cotton growing is to be developed round Lake Tana in Ethiopia, the waters of the lake being used for irrigation.

Your Nails Should Receive Good Care

According to a manufacturer, there is only one right way to manicure the nails. First, he says, all old polish should be removed with an oily polish remover. Then the nails should be filed and shaped. Always file from the outside edges of the nail toward the tip. When the proper shape has been achieved, scrub your nails well with warm, soap water and a good nail brush.

After this, dip the end of a cotton-tipped orange stick in cuticle remover and work it around the sides and base of each nail. Push back the cuticle to reveal the half-moons. Then cleanse under each nail, and wash the hands in clear water.

After you have cleansed and dried your fingertips, buff your nails briskly with a chamois buffer in order to stimulate the circulation and bring out the natural luster. Then apply your chosen polish, starting at the outline of the half-moon and working toward the tip.

When the polish has completely dried, apply cuticle cream to your cuticles and massage it in well. Then dip a cotton-tipped orange stick in cuticle oil and use it around the sides and base of each nail, in order to soften the cuticle and lubricate the nail. And as the final step, massage your entire hands with a good hand lotion or skin balm.

The Importance Of Memory In Studies

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.

H. S. RIEDERER, PH. D., writes from New Rochelle, N. Y.:

"Dear Dr. Myers: Your article, 'Education Loses its Memory' published last week in our paper is a powerful support of the contention which I have expressed many times, and I believe also wrote you at some time during our various communications in the past. It is a deplorable condition in education of today, that the children are apparently not supposed to know the tools with which they have to work. Why do we have teachers and schools if the child 'should find out for himself,' when this primitive condition was undoubtedly obsolete before the stone age? In all activities of mankind at all times from which we still have material evidence, the younger generations have benefited from the experience of their elders, and the present is no exception.

"But as to memory and memorizing, there is further consideration that innumerable facts, especially of the basic type, cannot be derived by any philosophy. Names, values, meanings and much other information is either arbitrary or based on natural laws, and the individual, either child or adult, knows them so that he understands them and can apply them, or he does not know them, in which latter case they are useless to him. We can all memorize words of any kind in most any language and repeat them more or less correctly, but they have no meaning or value if we cannot apply them. It is just a stunt.

Learn by Memorizing

"It seems far more reasonable to let the child in his earlier schooling learn many of the necessary basic facts by memorizing, and make them second nature by continual practice in application ..... The millions of facts and terms used in mathematics, history, geography, the arts and sciences, are only those used by man in his most primitive or simplest endeavors of livelihood, all require memory thereof to be of any use. All progress of the individual requires that more facts be committed to memory almost day by day ....

"Let us ask the 'progressive educator' where our civilized progress of today would be if we had not benefited by the successes and errors of preceding generations?"

And what do you think of what Dr. Riederer says next, in his criticism of the "radicals" in education? "The aim of all is to make everything in so-called education just 'play' and the results are according. It takes work to get anything, even if it is proficiency in play. If instead of all this 'play' the child were taught to work and study and be made proud of his accomplishments in his early schooling, then those who are able and willing to progress into the high schools would consider the tortuous requirement of our present high school courses rather as child's play."

What do you think about these things?

Call Hospital Ships

Owing to the unexpectedly heavy casualties suffered by the Japanese, a number of hospital ships have been ordered dispatched from the homeland. The first unit tied up today off the Bund, prominently displayed the Red Cross emblem.

A shell hit the Ward Road jail where 6,500 prisoners are held because of Japanese refusal to permit their release. Two of the prisoners were killed and seven were seriously wounded. Three of the wounded were British Sikh guards.

A Japanese airplane raiding the Chinese lines at Kiangwan crashed in flames, killing its crew.

The British and United States Chambers of Commerce urged their governments to undertake to ensure that Chinese and Japanese planes would cease flying over foreign areas. The business men appealed to London and Washington to take immediate action. Flying over international Shanghai, they pointed out, was placing foreign lives and property in continuous and grave danger.

One of the most serious problems was the great horde of starving Chinese refugees, crowded into the international settlement and the French concession from the war-torn Chinese areas. Efforts were being made to relieve the congestion and drain on Shanghai's essential services.

(Examiner Correspondence)

JANETVILLE, Aug. 27.—The annual picnic under the auspices of the Women's Institute was held on Thursday afternoon at Lake Scugog when the members with their families, numbering in all around sixty, enjoyed a very happy outing.

A short business session was held to make some arrangements in regard to the Institute Exhibit at Lindsay Fair, while the younger members enjoyed swimming and games.

Later a delicious picnic supper was enjoyed, after which all hastily departed for home on account of an oncoming thunderstorm.

WORTH $500,000,000.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 27 (AP)—Andrew W. Mellon's actual wealth probably will remain a mystery but close friends said today they believed holdings of the banker and his two children would amount to approximately $500,000,000. Mellon died yesterday at Southampton.

The only official estimate made public — $200,000,000 for Mellon alone as of December, 1931—was given two years ago by his financial secretary during hearing of the banker's income tax appeal.

Who Is Sylvia?

You all know that famous song that asks the question "Who is Sylvia." The folks of West Virginia answered that question recently, when they selected Miss Jane Greer, of Morgantown, to reign as "Queen Sylvia VIII" at the Mountain State Forest Festival in October. A course comprising 32, princesses, also chosen for their beauty, will surround the queen when she is crowned and invested with the robes of her high station, on the opening day of the festival.

DR. N. F. SUTTON IS LAID TO REST NORWOOD GRAVE

(Examiner Correspondence)

NORWOOD, Aug. 27.—A gloom was cast over the village and surrounding district following the sudden passing of one of its worthy residents, the late Dr. N. F. Sutton who has filled the role of a highly esteemed physician of the rural district for the past twenty-eight years.

Dr. Sutton was the son of the late Dr. H. H. Sutton and Loretta Forneri who settled in Madoc during the opening of the gold mines in that district. Dr. Sutton received his early education in Madoc, later taking his medical course at the Toronto University from which he graduated in 1903. Following his graduation he practiced in Maynooth for six years, coming to Norwood in March, 1909, taking over the practice of Dr. Wilson.

Dr. Sutton was a man of sterling qualities, skilled medical practitioner with a kindly and genial disposition and a supporter of every worthy enterprise in the community —thus winning the respect and friendship of all his associates.

In his college days he was a keen athlete and had always been a lover of clean sport and up to the time of his death he was an active member of the Norwood Bowling Club.

The funeral was held on Monday from his late residence, Peterborough street, the service being conducted by Rev. Mr. Lemon of the Anglican Church, who stressed that the characteristics and life of the deceased conveyed a more fitting testimony than he could say.

He is survived by his widow, formerly Frances E. Weir and two nieces, Miss Barbara Foote, B.A., of Norwood and Mrs. Snelling (nee Alice Foote) of Toronto who have made their home here for many years.

The many beautiful floral tributes were silent expressions of sympathy and showed the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

The pall-bearers were: Messrs. D. B. Cutcliffe, Alex Kempt, K. F. Kempt, P. M. Grover, Harry Godin and T. P. Rork. The members of the Norwood Lawn Bowling Club attended in a body and acted as flower bearers.

Interment was made in the Norwood cemetery. Many friends from Toronto, Belleville, Peterborough, Madoc and Port Hope attended the funeral.

Contracts Have Been Awarded For Improved Northern Roads

Forty-four Ton Shovel is to be Started on the Oregon Trail

The Johnston Construction Company unloaded a new 44-ton shovel at Lakefield this morning for shipment to the Oregon Trail where the company has a contract for the construction of virtually a new road from Burleigh Falls through Harvey township to Bobcaygeon.

The contract was let by tender, and work is in progress, the distance of the road to be improved extending through the township thirty-three miles by way of Buckhorn and Jogle's Creek. It was reported that the new shovel is one of the latest type, powered by a Diesel engine. Delivered at Lakfield on a freight car it presented a problem in transportation to the north shore of Stoney Lake. The big machine was considered too heavy for the bridges in its path, so it was decided to take it up by water.

A scow that had been partly submerged at Young's Point was available, but it had to be dewatered. A Johnson pumper was sent up from the Monoghan Road factory, and the scow was ready for the big operation of moving the shovel from the flat car to the scow this morning.

The Johnston Construction Company was also awarded the contract for supplying 18,000 tons of crushed rock to be used on the Apsley road, and a third contract has devolved to them. The Billie Construction Company of Smiths Falls successfully tendered for a new road job from Apsley to the Hastings-Peterborough boundary, but it is reported that they had considerable other work on their hands, and for that reason arranged for the transfer of the contract to the Johnston company, the construction firm that built the highway from Lakefield to Burleigh Falls.

The extensive improvement of the Oregon Trail is mainly for the purpose of opening up that section for tourists, and also for the advantage it will afford to the central area of Peterborough county.

FRANCO SPEEDS MOTORIZED UNITS ZARAGOZA FRONT

HENDAYE, Franco - Spanish frontier, Aug. 27—(AP). — General Franco, worried by the Spanish Government's drive near Zaragoza, was reported by insurgent sources to-day to be speeding a motorized column from conquered Santander, 200 miles to the Aragon front.

These reports said the column hurriedly packed up and rolled out of the Biscayan seaport which it helped occupy yesterday, leaving other brigades of Franco's 100,000-strong northern army to prosecute cleanup operations east and west of Santander.

The motorized force will be thrown against the Madrid-Valencia army in the northeast, where Zaragoza was being attacked from two directions.

The insurgent communique admitted there was fighting on the Aragon front both north and south of the Ebro River. The Ebro flows past Zaragoza, one of Franco's important bases and one-time capital of the old Aragon kingdom.

An insurgent communique said yesterday's attacks in the Zaragoza sector had been repulsed but Government reports told a different story.

A Valencia communique said crack troops had swept to within four miles of the heavily-fortified city flanking it from the north and south to squeeze out the insurgents.

Zaragoza was under artillery fire when Villamyor de Gallego, less than five miles to its northeast, was seized in the Government drive at dawn yesterday. Five insurgent planes were said to have been shot down near Zaragoza while the Madrid-Valencia forces lost one.

25 DONORS GIVE BLOOD FOR SERUM

Dr. G. Murray Fraser, medical officer of health, has had no further outbreaks of infantile paralysis reported in the past 24 hours.

As compared with last summer when there were seven outbreaks of the disease and one death from that cause, there have been only two cases so far this year.

One of the patients, a 15-months-old boy is in the convalescent stage, while the other, a 4½-year-old boy, is stated to be making good progress in the right direction.

Two doctors from the Ontario Department of Health were in the city to-day to obtain blood donations from recovered cases in the city and district. There were upwards of twenty-four donors who earned $20 apiece for 200 cubic centi-metres of blood from which paralysis serum will be made in the province-wide battle against the disease.

Railroaders Agree To Try Conciliation

CHICAGO, Aug. 27. —(AP).— Threatened strike of 350,000 workers who operate United States' trains faced to-day as Federal mediators tackled the job of settling the wage dispute.

The strike threat was precipitated when representatives of 96 major railroads rejected the demands of the "Big Five" Railroad Brotherhoods for a 20 per cent. wage increase.

An offer by the National Mediation Board to seek a compromise was accepted by both sides yesterday, thus forestalling a strike in the immediate future.

A nation-wide walkout of conductors, engineers, switchmen, trainmen and firemen was still a possibility although the agreement to accept Federal mediation precluded such action for 30 days or more.

FEWER SUBJECTS IN NEW COURSE IN PUBLIC SCHOOL

Great possibilities were seen in the revolutionary new course of study which will be introduced for experimental purposes into the lower grades of public schools this year, by Adrian Macdonald of the Peterborough Normal School staff in an address to the Kiwanis luncheon today. Many criticisms of years standing of public school teaching methods are being answered in the new system, he said.

To be established in the schools on an optional basis as rapidly as possible during the year, the new plan concerns children up to Grade 6 or Junior Third class, Mr. Macdonald explained. Such children range in age from 6 to 11 or 12 years, he said.

The new course provides for a teaching of the fundamental skills, writing, reading and elementary arithmetic but from that point on varies widely from the old traditional courses of elementary education, he continued.

"The new course recognizes many modern and progressive ideas which members of the teaching profession have been urging for a number of years," he said. "One of the fundamental principles on which the course has been designed is that too much emphasis has been placed on memory work and on definite things to be learned. An attempt is being made to provide for more purposeful activity in the classroom and less memorization."

Old Idea Has Gone

The adult visiting the present-day public school room would be surprised to see how often children are out of their seats and doing things, Mr. Macdonald stated. The old idea of making children sit stiffly at attention with their hands behind their backs was all but gone.

Those who designed the new course went about the task with the idea that there were too many subjects in the old course, the speaker continued. Only subjects in the new course will be health, English, social studies, natural science, arithmetic, music and art. An attempt will be made to integrate many subjects, to teach children geography and history as subjects closely related to each other under the social studies head, he said.

He said health has been given recognition as a subject of supreme importance and that English is being given a place closely following health in the curriculum.

One of the most revolutionary principles of the new course was described by Mr. Macdonald as the principle that the courses are for bright children but ordinary children. Progress is to be based on the idea of success, not failure. The ordinary child will not be penalized for a lack of brilliance but the bright child will be rewarded either with promotion during the middle of the school term or be given extra work, he said. He explained that the intention is there shall be no uniform examinations for passing from grade to grade.

"In introducing this new course, educational authorities are trying to fit the system to the child, not the child to the system."

SPANISH PRINCE NEW BRIDE, SPLIT

HAVANA, Aug. 27 (AP). — The Count of Covadonga, eldest son of former King Alfonso of Spain, has separated from his pretty, dark-eyed bride of 53 days and Havana buzzed today with rumors of an impending divorce.

The scion of the Bourbons, apparently depressed in spirit, met inquiries with the suggestion: "Let them do the talking."

He meant his commoner-wife, the former Marta Rocafort, and her parents. But all the Count's father-in-law, Dr. Blas Rocafort, a dentist, would say was "Everything will be arranged amicably."

The Count moved Wednesday night to a hotel—alone.

"My moving was logical and natural," he explained. "Any information about what has happened or is happening must come from the house on Linea Street."

It was reported that the Countess had visited the lawyer Covadonga's first wife, Edelmira Sampedro, employed when the Count sued last summer for an annulment. The County's first marriage was in Switzerland in 1933.

Think Fliers Down Short Of Alaska

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Aug. 27. — (AP).—Pacific Alaska Airways pilots said to-day they were convinced Sigismund Levanevsky and his five Soviet companions never reached Alaska on their attempted trans-Polar flight from Moscow. The fliers have been missing two weeks.

Three P.A.A. planes have covered 100,000 miles of Northern Alaska territory without finding a trace of the missing plane.

Sir Hubert Wilkins, noted explorer carrying on the search in a Russian-owned 17-ton flying boat, expressed belief the Levanevsky plane was down somewhere 500 miles on the North American side of the North Pole.

INSPECTOR REID IN POLICE SERVICE FOR 31 YEARS

Starting his police career at the conclusion of his service in the ranks of the Royal Scots Greys, Mr. Raid joined up with the Fifeshire Constabulary in Scotland, and was stationed for some time at the county headquarters in the old town of Cupar.

His first transfer was to Kelty. Later he was moved to Methil, then to Kinglassie, and again to Rosythe Dock about the time construction began on the great naval base, which later became the home of the British Battle Fleet for many months during the Great War.

A period of service at Buckhaven followed, then Mr. Reid felt the call of the West and emigrated to Canada, at that time an irresistable magnet for thousands of Britons.

After a brief stay in Hamilton he joined the police force in Brantford, and came to Peterborough as a first-class constable on June 15, 1912. Steady promotion came his way until he reached his present rank of inspector.

In Peterborough he has served under two chiefs: Chief Dan Thompson and under Chief Newhall, present holder of the office.

Befogged Pilot Lands In Marsh

KINGSTON, Ont., Aug. 27 (CP).—Pilot Merkley of Iroquois, Ont. had a narrow escape today when he was lost in a heavy fog in a little cub plane and made a forced landing in the marsh on the Cataraqui River here, opposite the Canadian National Railways station.

The plane was buried deep in weeds, mud and water, and the pilot was forced to wade through the mist and marsh about a quarter of a mile to solid ground.

Work of dismantling was started by the pilot and mechanics from the Kingston Flying Club. The plane was so far from solid ground and so deep in the marsh it could not be towed or carried in one piece.

Rising food prices and low wages paid to labor have presented a problem for the Government of Costa Rica.

HUSBAND CHARGED AS WIFE'S SLAYER

HALLEYBURY, Ont., Aug. 27. — (CP).—Frank Dolan, husband of the woman whose decomposed body was found buried in the cellar of the Dolans' Elk Lakes home Aug. 18, was charged with murder to-day when he appeared in court on the vagrancy charge on which he had been held since discovery of the body. He was remanded for one week for preliminary hearing on the new charge.

The charge was laid by Crown Attorney J. B. Robinson as the adjourned hearing on the vagrancy charge opened before Magistrate M. O. Gould. Dolan appeared in court last week for hearing on the minor charge but the case was adjourned until to-day pending police investigation of the circumstances surrounding the woman's death.

Mrs. Dolan last was seen alive in March and for a time it was thought she had left the district. The couple was estranged. The body was found under five feet of earth in the Dolan home in Elk Lake, 35 miles northwest of here. It was scantily clad and decomposed. Dolan was taken into custody.

Dr. A. R. Frankish, medico-legal expert of the Provincial Government, performed an autopsy and found the woman had come to her death through blows upon the head and body. Among the injuries was a double fracture of the skull. A coroner's jury decided the woman had been killed by a person or persons unknown.

CENTRAL ONTARIO FIRE RANGERS HAD QUIET SEASON

The Kawartha lakes forestry region is for the present safe from the threat of serious conflagrations which is worrying forestry officials in Northern Ontario, attendance at the Apsley fire rangers' station reported today. Ample rains during recent weeks have aided rangers in keeping all outbreaks under close control.

As compared with recent years which afforded very dry summers, this summer has been good, it was reported. Although there have been many outbreaks which would have grown to serious proportions if not controlled promptly, no major blazes have occurred in the area.

Nothing is burning at the present time, the station reported. The last "smoke" on record at noon today was one reported from a tower in Hastings County last night and checked satisfactorily shortly afterwards.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, August 28

ACCORDING TO the lunar transits, a very lively and probably exciting day may be expected. This may have as its inciting cause the receipt of an important letter or other medium of what may be deemed "good news." Writings of all kinds are under favorable stimuli, but employment seems to have adverse or dubious angles. In doubt or difficulties, the friendship of elders may be counted on, although all social, domestic and affectional impulses are pleasantly aspected.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a lively and exciting year, possibly because of some very good news, or by an event in which writings, publishing or documents loom large. There may be an anxiety or a problem in employment, in which case confer with elders or other friends, since domestic, social and affectional associations prove profitable and pleasant. It is a fortunate time for renewing contracts.

CONVICTION MADE ASSAULT COUNTS

Charges and counter charges feature a series of cases before the magistrate here, in which the principals are Albert E. Taylor, a Toronto contractor and D. V. Ketcheson for whom Taylor had been constructing a house in North Monaghan Township just beyond the westerly limits of the city.

On Thursday, Taylor was convicted of two charges of assault. For assaulting Harry Tudhope, he was given suspended sentence and for assaulting Ketcheson he was fined $1 and costs.

Taylor is also charged by Ketcheson with theft of blue print plans of a verandah. Hearing of the charge has been partly completed, and stands adjourned to September 1.

Ketcheson has been charged by Taylor on two counts of wilful damage to property, and hearing of these charges has been put over to September 7.

FIND FOUR DEAD WRECKED PLANE

ALBANY, N.Y., Aug. 27 (AP).—Bodies of state assemblyman Pritchard H. Strong, wealthy Rochester aviation enthusiast, and three companions were found today in the twisted wreckage of Strong's airplane a mile south of the Albany airport.

The bodies were so badly mangled positive individual identification was impossible, but Joseph Fitzgerald, Albany airport manager, said there was no doubt the victims were Strong and his party, who disappeared in flight from Saratoga Springs to Albany early today.

In the party were believed to be Mrs. Strong and Charles H. Judson, Rochester investment counsel. The pilot was Clarence Robinson of Rochester.

FIRE EQUIPMENT SHOULD OBEY TRAFFIC LIGHTS

OSHAWA, Aug. 27.—Fire trucks, ambulances and police cars have no more right than any other vehicle to barge through red lights and stop streets, according to a consensus of opinion gleaned at the Dominion Fire Chiefs' convention when delegates attempted to have the right-of-way clause regarding fire apparatus clarified.

"The law provides, however, that fire apparatus going to a fire may travel at any speed considered safe. All other vehicles must pull into the nearest curb and stop and may not follow within five hundred feet of the fire trucks.

"I don't think any vehicle, be it a fire truck, police car or ambulance should be allowed to barge through a red traffic light or a stop street," said Chief J. C. DeFields of Windsor, president of the association. "I am of the opinion that a piece of fire apparatus going to a fire should at all times be kept in complete control when reaching a stop street or red light, so that it can be brought to a stop if any other vehicle should happen to be in the way.

Can Be Held.

"If you go through a red light going to a fire and get across, all right, but if you collide with another vehicle when going through a red light, then the municipality can be held responsible for the payment of all damages," Chief DeFields said.

Chief J. Hartley, Brockville, did not agree with him.

Chief J. Mitrilla, St. Thomas, agreed with Chief DeFields, observing that he had given his drivers definite instructions to the effect that they are to keep their apparatus under control at all times in order to bring a truck to a quick stop in case of emergency.

Arthur O. Cline of the Attorney-General's Department pointed out the Highway Traffic Act gives fire vehicles right to exceed speed limit but does not mention stop streets or red lights.

Urges Care.

"If a police officer is standing at an intersection stopping all traffic, then the fire truck could sail through and the driver would not be negligent," Chine said.

"Greatest of care must be exercised by truck drivers," said Deputy Fire Marshal J. Skinner, who concurred with Chief DeFields. Fire apparatus should be driven carefully through crowded intersections.

Fire Chief F. E. Andrews, New Liskeard, presented a problem, claimed to be the same in many towns and villages. In New Liskeard there are 34 volunteer firemen who go to fires in their own cars. There is a heavily travelled provincial highway passing through the town. Last Sunday going to a fire, he was held up over five minutes because he could not get onto the highway due to traffic. Many of the men were delayed five and ten minutes getting to the blaze. The same problem exists in Haileybury and Cobalt, he stated.

No Right-of-Way.

"A fireman going to a fire in his own car has no special right-of-way," Chief DeFields claimed. "He is just another motorist who must obey the rules of the road."

The convention, on advice of Chief Mitrilla, turned the problem over to the committee on resolutions. Convention also favored establishment of a Dominion training school for firemen where all firefighters may attend and receive some training in fire prevention, protection and inspection.

"I think this is very wise, it is an important question," said Chief DeFields. "In my own department in Windsor outside chiefs from smaller municipalities come to us for advice on matters of fire prevention and protection as well as criminal fires. The purpose of the training school would be to instruct firemen throughout the country in efficient fire inspection and prevention."

SAMUEL SQUIRES DIES.

TORONTO.—Samuel L. Squires, 64, Ontario Deputy Minister of Highways from 1923 until he resigned in 1937, collapsed and died while walking with his wife in Queen's Park, Toronto.

Born in Strathroy, Mr. Squires attended Waterford Public schools and ran a general store there.

While Chile produced 16.9 per cent. more nitrate in the 1936-37 fiscal year than in the preceding 12 months the profits of $10,500,000 were about the same and less than in 1934-35, due to higher costs in Chile and declining foreign prices.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

A BUNCH of Belleville softballers, called the Corbin Locks, play Westclox men here tonight at 6.15 in Riverside Park—if the weather is oke—in the second game of the O.A.S.A. intermediate first-round playdowns. Elsewhere tonight is the result of their first game last p.m. on the Quinte diamond. If the tussle this twilight is anything like that bitter battle last year here between Belleville and the local softballers fans don't want to miss it. That tilt saw the usual terrible Belleville umpiring rob the Swartz squad of a win, winding up in a free-for-all with Ted Nalsh swinging his fist on Ump St. Denis beak—and thereby getting suspended for many months. It ought to be a swell softball scrap tonight between two classy crews and rates a big crowd of fans.

* * * * * *

ANOTHER local joust this e'en is an exhibition gals' game at 6.30 in the Bowl between the Schribert squad of Northern Ontario—now coming from a game in Ottawa—and Keene. Ought to be a neat fray with Marilyn McCarthy back with her buddies from Keene. Coach Ivan Fletcher says his outfit is in the red now and must put up a good guarantee to get this game here this p.m., so he asks the fans to dig down and everyone to kick in with a nickel or a dime to defray expenses. If it is worth seeing it should be worth a nickel or so, eh?

* * * * * *

LACROSSE fans tonight can see a nice exhibition contest here at 8.30 under the lights in the George St. arena. It is between the New Torontos and our Auburns. Both are smart intermediate outfits with high hopes of ankling a long way in O.A.L.A. playdowns. This game will be a fine workout for 'em and they'll really be battling for the decision. All the players of both teams expect to be in action, and followers of the gutted-stick sport should see a mechorable melee when they tangle. The game is drawing plenty of fans every time out in Peterborough this year, and nobody is asking for his or her dough back—not so far, yet.

* * * * * *

THE pro ball game tomorrow aft at Riverside is expected to draw a record crowd with fans from Smiths Falls, Perth, all over this district and the city, taking it in. Knotty Lee's Colts of Ogdensburg play the Beavers of Smiths Falls in a regular Can.-Am. loop fixture at three o'clock. There is only two games between 'em now and both are fighting for the fourth-place playoff berth. Plenty of real slugging with some first-rate flinging and pro fielding will be seen as these moneyed ball players go into action. The fiery Knotty will lively be seen whooping it up on the third-base line this time.

OSHAWA GM-men and Kingston Ponies play tonight in Napanee to decide first place in the C.O.B.L. standing. The loser then meets the Petes in the loop semi-finals next week. Meantime Manager Collins is practising the Petes up for the crucial serial, though having some trouble getting full turnouts for practises as some of the boys are mixing in the local softball playoffs. We'd suggest that the club make sure and get the team away early on their trip or trips next week to either Kingston or Oshawa. Car trouble has been experienced before and, anyway, there is too much strain on pilot and players when leaving late. And the boys should be on the scene early enough to get the muscles loosened up and have a decent workout before being called upon to play.

THIS item about Pete Long, an old Peterborough boy, appeared in the Dundas Star: "It is with much regret that we have to publish in the column that R. S. (Pete) Long is being removed by the Bell Telephone Co. to Brampton at the end of the month. Pete and his family have been in our midst about nine years and they have made a host of friends. No one in Dundas who is interested in sports but knows the Long family. Pete himself has been a tower of strength to the baseball club and also the rugby club, and always took a keen interest in other organizations that needed his help. His two sons, Don and Ken, have also been in the games continually since coming to the Valley City. Both of them are good athletes, having played baseball, football, hockey, basketball and softball. Ken, the eldest boy, is now playing for the Peterborough team, but till this season had been with the family in Dundas. The Long family will be missed in a big way but it is the wish of every sport and fan in Dundas that nothing but success trail them in their new home."

SEEMS Jack Bawden pitched six-hit ball, fanning eight and walking six, as Belleville Corbins last night copped a 12-7 softball nod over Westclox men on the Quinte field. Parsons went good but for a couple middle frames when hard hitting gave the homesters eight runs. A good game but the losers played below form. Starr and O'Leary led the hitters and the Baptie infield outplayed their rivals. May be evened up tonight—or else Westclox go the way of Young Petes and Rotarians who stumbled into a Belleville jinx in playdowns this year.

ERNIE FOOTE of Cobourg, in his weekly column says: "First of all an explanation is due regarding the final girls' league game. We are really sorry it ended the way it did but feel we owe no apologies whatever to our league, as we warned Mr. Thomas the day he refused us a change of umpires for the final series. The reason for taking the team off the field was simply because there was no use asking them to do something the manager wouldn't do himself and when Umpire Batley insisted Officer Jackson remove the writer from the park because he walked out to question a decision that topped it. So with these few remarks we'll let it slide till next issue when, we hope, we will be able to have all the details boiled down for the readers." That will be a week away, so the story will be ancient history then. Meantime he adds: "For now we may add best luck to Westclox gals in their Ontario honors. They are a good team and deserve the support of every Peterborough fan."

Belleville Locks Gain One Game Playdown Lead

Westclox Weak at Bat, Although Much Superior on Defensive Play.

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 27.—Limiting the Peterborough Westclox to six hits Johnnie Bawden hurled the Belleville Corbins to a 12-7 victory over the Westclox here Thursday evening in the first game of the first round intermediate 'A' playdowns in the O.A.S.A.

The Westclox slipped miserably at bat, leaving nine men stranded on the runways. Tommy Parsons, the Peterborough moundsman, was hit hard in the middle frames, as the homesters bagged eight of their runs in the fourth and fifth by virtue of lusty clouts, including three circuit blows. All through, Bawden was slightly wild and walked six, he was seen to bear down in the pinches to strike out eight, many coming when it hurt the Westclox cause. Parsons only walked two and struck out an equal number.

Superior On Defense

Defensively, however, the Westclox outplayed the Corbins and kicked in with two fast double plays that abruptly halted early game Belleville rallies. Belleville scored three in the first by virtue of Cook's homer, St. Louis' triple interspersed with a catcher's error and an infield out. After scoring one each in the third and fourth, however the Westclox forged to the front with a three-run rally in the fifth as the results of hits by Bill Calladine and O'Leary. The homesters came back to score five runs in their half of the fifth, however. With singles by Cook, Reed and Barriage, while Rigby glazed a mammoth homer for good measure. The homesters added a trio more counters in the 6th and Bawden hit a homer in the eighth. Starr's circuit blow with Dormer aboard accounted for the Westclox final two runs in the ninth.

Bawden assisted his own cause with three hits, while Cook, Whalen and St. Louis wielded potent bats for the homesters with Dormer, Starr and O'Leary being best offensively for the losers. The return game of the series will be played in Peterborough Friday.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP). — This makes twice the old almanac from which he picks his fight dates has done Mike Jacobs dirt....there have been 21 no-hit games pitched so far this season....Isn't that a record? . . . Rudy York, who has hit six homers in five days for the Tigers, struck out the first and only time he appeared in the Tiger line-up in 1934....

A southern writer says virtually every major league maager except Connie Mack, Joe McCarthy and Charlie Grimm is worrying about his job next seaso....Can't you just picture Bill Terry and smart old Bill McKechnie losing a lot of sleep the se nights? . . . The thrifty Tommy Farr canned all his sparring partners the minute he quit training the other day and now has to recruit a new lot....We have with us to-day Ben Shalom, heavyweight wrestling champion of Palestine (and a good one, too, if his stack of clippings, all written in Yiddish, is any indication).

Wonder how Mike Jacobs figures the Saratoga race mob will boost the Farr-Louis ticket sales the way the favorites have been running up there?....Don't see how that limb holds all the experts who are out there on Louis.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

R. HENDRY and J. Sedgewick will be the two skips who will represent our club over in Cannington on Monday night in the Central Ontario rink championships.

THE LADIES are reminded that to-night is the last night for receiving entries for the "Ladies' Globe Doubles." The entry must be in writing and forwarded to K. Sloane, chairman of ladies' committee.

TO-NIGHT we hold our men's regular week-end tournament at 7.00 p.m. The prizes for this week will be all fruit.

IT HAS BEEN suggested by a number of our players that instead of giving prizes in kind, why not divide the entry fee and give cash? There are very few cases known in lawn bowling where money has been given as a prize—it is contrary to the rules of the game. Looking up the rules on lawn bowling we find a rule covering that point, reads:

THE FOLLOWING skips are asked to play postponed games on Monday night:

Sloane—Gimblett,
Chesler-Harrison,
Hill—Oke.
Wise—Sackville.

Feminine Birler

Log rolling to the uninitiate is the difficult art of twirling a wet, floating log with one's feet while remaining upright. In the logging country, many have become quite adept at it, and here we see Laura Marchand holding the title trophy while giving a demonstration at Escanaba, Mich., where the log birling tournament was held. Miss Marchand won the world's championship for women log birlers.

Youngstown Angler Gets Large Muskie

(Examiner Correspondence).

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 27. — Trolling with a pikie minnow at noon Thursday, Charles Reynolds of Youngstown, Ohio, landed a 31-pound muskie in the Bay opposite Cole's Point. Twenty minutes later Reynolds landed a twelve-pounder with the same hook and line. The thirty-one pounder had a girth of 22" and measured over 49" in length. Vic Morrow, well-known guide at Cole's, who was with him said it was the best half-hour catch he had seen this year.

GOLF-FACTS NOT THEORIES

By Alex Morrison

There was a time when golfers had to select clubs according to the way the club could be manipulated. To-day the player has only to pick the club that suits the loft and length of the shot.

In a manner of speaking the shot is almost built into the club. Even so, many players are at a loss as to the real value of each club. The sand iron is good example. Most players leave this club in the bag until they find the ball buried deep in the sand. It is true that the club was designed especially for use out of bad lies in the sand, but its use is not limited to such conditions. It can be used to advantage

Comparatively few players have mastered the art of cutting under the ball properly with a No. 7 or 8 iron. The average player, in using these clubs, will dig into the ground so that the clubhead practically stops in the turf. This stabbing is almost impossible with the sand iron. The wide bottom of the clubhead makes it skid along the ground that the cluz swings through the ball. In doing so it imparts a spin that helps to stop the ball where it lands.

Of course this club should not be used for shots longer than 50 yards.

Fresh Money Instead Of Rain Real Reason For Postponement

Saratoga Racing Specials Will Provide More Cobalt For Jacobs' Purse.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (AP) — Turns out there's another fellow around town, named C. B. Thomas, who doesn't think Tommy Farr got a reprieve from oblivion when Promoter Mike Jacobs imagined he detected rain in the air yesterday afternoon.

What Jacobs actually smelled, when he abruptly postponed the Welshman's engagement with heavyweight champion Joe Louis until Monday night at Yankee Stadium, was, of course, some fresh money coming down from Saratoga this week-end on the racing specials. This scrap needs some fresh money.

That, though, has nothing to do with this C. B. Thomas, who is the active dean of British fight referees, and as such knows considerable about British fighters. He says, without batting an eye, that hard-boiled Tommy is "the greatest heavyweight England has produced in the last 30 years, at least."

He doesn't contend that that necessarily makes Farr a great fighter. He only says it makes the battle-scarred challenger good enough to fight Joe Louis all over the campus for 15 innings and very possibly win the world's championship by decision.

"I won't try to kid you that he's a puncher," he said, dead-serious, while watching Farr pull his clothes back on after yesterday's abortive weighing-in. "I've been in the ring with him 12 times, I think, and I can't remember that he knocked any of them silly with one blow. But I do recall that he didn't do any of them any good. Most of them got out up.

Knotty Lee Returns To Local Ball Park

The Smith Falls Beavers and the Ogdensburg Colts of the Canadian-American League will come to Peterborough tomorrow to give local ball fans a glimpse of professional ball as played in the Can-Am League. The Canadian-American League which is composed of Ottawa, Smith Falls, Brockville and Perth-Cornwall on the Canadian side and Ogdensburg, Rome, Gloversville and Oswego on the American side is headed by Rev. Harold J. Martin, of Ogdensburg as president. Father Martin is the only priest in history to ever serve as resident of a professional baseball league.

The Beavers and the Colts at present are fighting for fourth place to secure a spot in the playoffs. The Colts are holding a 2½-game lead to date. Included in the Ogdensburg lineup is Leo Pukas, only pitcher in the Can-Am League to hurl a no hit no run game this year. Pukas' feat was exceptional inasmuch as not a ball was hit to the outfield during the entire nine innings. In addition he struck out 13 and blanked the Ottawa Braves 9 to 0 to win his 15th game of season.

The Colts are managed this season by Knotty Lee, well known to Peterborough fans as manager of a club here a few seasons ago. The Beavers are managed by Johnnie Haddock, former scout of the New York Yankees of the American League. Both clubs play fast baseball and a good game is assured fans who attend. Inasmuch as this will be the first appearance of professional clubs here this season one of the largest turnouts of the season is expected.

LACROSSERS CLASH HERE THIS EVENING

The final lacrosse game to be seen here this season, before the O.L.A. final playoff series commences in about a week, is billed for Peterborough tonight (Friday) at 8.30 o'clock. It is between New Toronto and the Auburns and will be staged under the lights at the George St. boxia arena. Another fine crowd of followers of this rugged sport is expected to attend, after a lacrosse layoff locally of two weeks, since this contest does not start till after dark—and softball games will be well over before game time.

New Toronto is reported to have a good intermediate outfit, one expecting to go into Ontario playdowns this autumn. The team has two decision over the smart Roden A.C.—seen here this summer—crew during the season. The local Auburns have lost only two games in 20 starts this year, and are now sitting back awaiting the league finals against Oshawa or Norwood. They, too, expect to go into O.A.L.A. playdowns. The teams will both be at full strength tonight and fans can look for plenty of good lacrosse in this tussle.

Packers Capture Soccer Championship For League

Electrics Force Winners to Limit — Two Smart Teams.

A re-organized soccer team from the Canadian General outplayed the Canada Packers, last night, on King Edward Park, and forced the league champions to go the limit in an endeavour to save them from having to play a deciding game with Deloro. The Canada Packers are now league champions with a point lead over the Smelters through their 2-2 all draw with the Electrics. At the end of the game, the losers congratulated their opponents.

Smart Football

The spin of the coin fell in favor of the C.G.E. which compelled the Packers to face the sun. In the early stages, smart soccer was played by the players that resulted in the custodians giving an excellent exhibition of goal-keeping. While the Electrics forced the issue to bring out the superb tactics of the Packer's full backs, Downer and Todd. Jones, at centre half for the winners, frustrated many dangerous attacks led by Ross, at centre, in fact, his headers were the feature of the aggressive attacks of his forwards. Twice did the Packers about score when Harris rattled an oblique shot into goal. Chamberlain making a spectacular save. Then on the next visit, the Packer's right winger missed the upright with a terrific drive. Time and again, Richardson, at inside right, would make many openings by his clever dribbling that was very effective at all times and tackling closely in every movement. A mistick by Lovett permitted Jones to make use of the opportunity to send a low grounder through a sea of legs where a scrimmage ensued until the Packer's centre-forward back-heeled a pass out to his brother Art who rattled a terrific drive against the far corner of the upright to bounce into the net. The C.G.E. went right back to get the equaliser through a penalty kick which was converted by Alex Mitchell from the spot. Just before the interval, the winner's attack compelled the C.G.E. full backs to fall back too far that crowded the custodian who had no chance to stop the drive of Buchan's that rolled inside the upright. Canada Packers 2, Canadian General 1.

C.G.E. Better Team.

On resuming, the Electrics half backs bottled up the aggressiveness of the Packers with first-time interception. In fact, McPhate, A. Mitchell and Stewart added the necessary pep to the losers forwards that responded with a steady exhibition of dribbling that compelled the winners half backs to drop back and help the hard pressed full backs — Jones acting as the third man — while Ben McMaster showed his old time soccer ability with all kinds of tactics that had the defense in a quandry and misfortune kept him off the scoring list. But he was rewarded with the smart goal of the game when he outguessed the opposition with a first timer that lodged in the net away out of the reach of the custodian. Throughout this period the Packers defense bore the brunt of the tussle. Mitchell, C.G.E. was the main-stay of his team and at centre-half dominated the play to advantage with his anticipation of Packers movements; while Jones relied upon forceful tactics that failed to materialize. Two minutes before the finish, the C.G.E. bottled up the winners inside their goal area to keep Curtis saving his charge from all angles. On one occasion, he ran out of his goal after he had saved a terrific shot from Richardson to find himself in difficulty as McMaster harassed him while in possession of the ball. Richardson missing the empty goal by inches which would have compelled the winners to play-off with Deloro, the runner-ups. Canadian General 2, Canada Packers 2.

Hal Trosky, Indians.—Hit double, single, driving in four runs in 10-5 win over Athletics.

Lefty Gomez, Yankees—Pitched shutout ball for eight innigs and hit double and two singles to lead way to 5-1 win over Browns.

U.S. Retains Wightman For Seventh Straight Year

For the seventh straight year the United States retained the Wightman Cup, defeating England by a score of 6 matches to one. It was the most decisive margin either side has piled up since England won the second match of the 15-year series by the same score in 1924. After Miss Helen Jacobs had clinched the U.S. victory for the seventh straight year by defeating Mary Hardwick to make the score 4-0, she withdrew from the doubles match that closed the program. Miss Jacobs is seen inaction on the LEFT as she returned a shot from her opponent, Miss Mary Hardwick, during the match that decided the 1937 championship. She won by scores of 2-6, 6-4, 6-2. She is also seen in the photo on the RIGHT as Miss Kay Stammers, of England, LEFT, congratulates her after Miss Jacobs, former American champion, had defeated her 6-4, 4-6, 6-4. The matches were played at Forest Hills, N.Y.

VERITY SHINES HERE

LEEDS, England—(CP)—Hedley Verity, England and Yorkshire cricketer, like the Leeds pitch. Taking nine Essex wickets for 43 runs, he brought his season's total here to 133 wickets at an average of 9.29 runs each.

Soccer Notes

Thursday night, the final game of the local soccer league was played and the C.G.E. were without the services of many of their regular players. Many fans will be sorry to hear that Alex. Burgess was in a serious automobile accident a week ago. Freddy Earle has been ill and was unable to play.

Tommy Foster, who met with an accident a few weeks ago, was at the game last night, on crutches, and reports that he is making progress to recovery.

On Saturday night, the local attraction for the day is a visit of the Kingston aggregation at King Edward Park at six o'clock. Wilfred Jones will be the referee. Please bring your tickets because a prize will be given the lucky winner. All players must be at the pavilion no later than 5.45. Game will start prompt at six.

GOMEZ BAFFLES ST. LOUIS CLUB FOR 16TH WIN

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The leading New York Yankees scored a 5 to 1 victory over the St. Louis Browns yesterday, behind the effective nine-hit hurling of Lefty Gomez, who chalked up his sixteenth win of the year. The Yanks clinched the game in the sixth on home runs by DiMaggio and Dickey. It was DiMaggio's thirty-seventh and Dickey's twenty-sixth. Three of the Yankees' nine hits were gathered by Gomez—a double and two singles—driving in one run.

Tigers Keep Pace

The second place Detroit Tigers kept pace with a 6 to 5 decision over the Boston Red Sox, Roxie Lawson went the route for Detroit, distributing twelve hits, and driving in the winning run in the ninth. The Tigers came from behind and took the lead in the fifth with a five-run burst climaxed by Hank Greenberg's twenty-eighth homer, with two on. Then Boston tied it up in the seventh when McNair clouted a four-bagger, with two mates on base. Detroit scored the winning run when York worked Marcum for a walk, Owen singled, Rogell was purposely passed, filling the bases, and Lawson beat out a bunt down the third base line, scoring York.

Chisox Gain Victory

A double by Tony Piet drove in the winning run of the Chicago White Sox's 4 to 3 victory over the Washington Senators. Piet also clouted a home run in the fifth. Mike Kreevich got three of the Sox's nine safeties off Weaver and Cohen, one a home run, Vernon Kennedy went the route for Chicago, giving up ten hits.

Cleveland's Indians slugged out a 10 to 5 decision over the Philadelphia Athletics, rapping Smith and Turbeville for fourteen hits. Mel Harder scattered eleven hits to the A's for his tenth win of the year.

SMYTHE 'HOODOO' WORKS ON LEAFS

TORONTO, Aug. 27 (CP).—Harry Smythe, Montreal Royals' crack left-hander, will never get any votes as the most popular player in the league from Toronto Maple Leafs. In Dugout Argot all he has to do to beat the Leafs is "throw his glove out on the mound."

Smythe beat the Leafs last night with four hits, 9-2, to further consolidate the Royals' hold on second place.

Royals tagged Earl Caldwell and his successor, Joe Mulligan, for 15 hits. Paul Dunlap got three-for-four and Smythe helped his own cause by knocking a double and two singles.

Syracuse Chiefs turned to hitting to halt a three-game losing streak and pounded out a 10-5 victory over Baltimore Orioles.

Virgil Brown went the route for Syracuse as his mates belted Gordon Rhodes, Harry Matuzak and Johnny Wittig for 15 hits.

Truett Sewell cowed Rochester Red Wings into submission as Bisons defeated the Wings 3-1. Sewell allowed five hits and blanked the Hertl until the ninth. The game between Newark and Jersey City was postponed because of rain.

KEENE LOSES 8-4 TO DE LAVAL TEAM

In a well played game at the Brinton grounds the DeLaval outfit took a one game lead in their best three out of five series for the Southend League championship and Warne Cup by handing the Keene outfit the wrong end of an 8-4 count.

Keene took the lead in the third on hits by Wood Whalen and the McCarthy brothers which netted three runs but DeLaval tied things up in the fourth on three walks and Gordons double and went into the lead they never relinquished in the next two innings, scoring one in the fifth and four in the sixth to tuck the ball game away.

Shine on the mound for the winners pitched steady ball despite an injured wrist he received in the early innings, allowing nine hits, striking out seven and walking none.

McCarthy who pitched the first six innings for Keene allowed seven hits and had two strikeouts but had poor control walking seven. Woods who finished for Keene allowed two hits, struckout one and walked two. Both teams gave their pitchers good support. Gatfield and Wiley looking best for DeLaval. Renwick and Powers for Keene. Woods had Keene's lone extra-base hit, Renwick having three of the losers' nine hits. Weart had a triple and Pearson and Gordon doubles for the victors.

Lineups:

DeLaval—Gatfield, 2b; Wright, rf; Wiley, 3b; Pearson, c; Weart, ss; Abbott, lf; Shine, p; Gordon, rf; Doxsee, 1b.

Keene—Fletcher, lf; Renwick, 1b; Wood, ss,p; Whalen, rf; O. McCarthy, c; Nelson, cf; Gillespie, 2b; Powers, 3b; D. McCarthy, p, ss.

Score by innings:	R	H	E
Keene 003 000 100	4	9	3
DeLaval 000 314 00x	8	9	3

Umpires—Ashmore and McMarten.

Due to DeLaval being on holidays next week and Keene still in the O.A.S.A. playdowns the remainder of these finals have had to be postponed for one week. The next game will therefore be played in Keene, Tuesday, September 7 with the remaining games to be played in Peterborough at the Brinton grounds, Wednesday, September 8 and Friday, September 10. All games to be seven inning affairs, commencing at 5.45 p.m. Standard Time.

PHILLIES HALT CARDS ADVANCE

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 27. (AP) — Dizzy Dean suffered a recurrance of his sore arm yesterday, and was left at the post as the Phillies dished to an 8-to-5 victory over St. Louis Cardinals in what was to be been the first game of a double-header. Rain forced postponement of the night-cap, and the rest of the National League games.

Pitching wildness on the part of Jesse Haines, Sheriff Blake and Tom Sunkel, who presented the Phils with a total of eight walks after replacing Dean, was the main factor in the Phils' victory.

Dean started for the Gas House Gang and was greeted with a two-base hit by Leo Norris. Dizzy then announced his arm was sore and took the rest of the day off.

Grandpa Haines was rushed in, lasted until the fourth, and was followed by Blake, who was charged with the setback before he gave way to Sunkel in the eighth.

Although the Gas House Gang tagged four Phils' flingers for fifteen hits, their elbowers were unable to find the plate. The Cards blew a three-run lead, were finally overtaken in the fifth and from then on were unable to get within shooting distance of home plate.

ANDREW MELLON FABULOUSLY RICH FINANCIER DIES

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y., Aug. 27—(AP).—Andrew W. Mellon, who built one of the world's greatest fortunes out of banking, oil and aluminum and who spent his late years as Secretary of the United States Treasury and as Ambassador to Great Britain, has passed from the American scene.

The shy, diffident, white-haired financier, whose 11 years of service under three presidents was surpassed only by one of his predecessors as head of the Treasury Department, died last night in his 83rd year.

He died in the home of his daughter, Mrs. David K. E. Bruce after a month's illness from uremia and bronchial pneumonia.

Mellon was fabulously wealthy, but the extent of his personal fortune was in the realm of speculation when he died. The only official estimate made public was $205,000,000, given by Mellon's secretary during hearing of the banker's income tax appeal in 1931. Friends said, however, they believed the combined fortune of the financier and his two children would amount to approximately $500,000,000.

Interest Round Earth

Mellon's vast enterprises reached around the earth and gave employment to thousands. Banking, oil and aluminum were his principal interests and their corporate names were the Mellon National Bank of Pittsburgh, the Gulf Oil Company, and the Aluminum Company of America, dominant in its field.

Only a few weeks before his last illness he visited President Roosevelt and made final arrangements for his last great public benefaction—establishment of a national gallery of art in the national capital with his $50,000,000 art collection.

One of the last great statesmen-financiers of the nation, Mellon successfully shunned the limelight and was little known to his countrymen until he became Secretary of the Treasury under President Warren G. Harding in 1921.

He remained on the job until 1932 when he retired to become ambassador to Great Britain.

Mellon retired to private life in 1933 when he resigned as ambassador to Great Britain, and afterwards seldom appeared in public.

RUSTLE OF SILKS

By MARIE BLIZARD

READ THIS FIRST:

Mary Barrett, ambitious to become a dress designer, has established herself in Paris through a partnership with Countess Anetka that was made possible by Mark Sutherland, an American playboy she met on shipboard. Mary likes Mark but misses Tony Castle, owner of a smart New York shop who gave her her start. She left the Castle shop suddenly nearly three years previously after an altercation with Tony's head buyer. More and more she realizes she is in love with Tony. Her success in Paris has been phenomenal and, thanks to Mari Barat, the name she has assumed, Anetka's shop is growing famous. Mark Sutherland, in Paris again, tells Mary he has big plans for her.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 19

MARY FIXED an accusive eye on Mark when he said he had something important to tell her. "Now, Mark Sutherland, if this is one of your little games to keep me from my work..."

"Far be it from me to impede the progress of industry, my gal. I've really got something here."

"And I've got a movie actress with money to spend," she reminded him.

"Pshaw, you'll have Garbo and Dietrich when I get through. You asked me when I was going to work. Well, I'm working — for you."

Mary's expression said that she doubted it. But it was good to see him.

"Something tells me that you're making conversation. You'll forgive me if I'm inclined to doubt your seriousness?"

"My personal misfortune is that you never do believe any of my intentions."

"After more than a year, do we have to start our conversations where we left off?" she begged.

"No, seriously, Mary, I think I have a good idea. I know more than you think about your success and hard work and all that, but I do know something else that you ought to have..."

"Mark, if you're going to start talking about 'a girl having experience, and living, and not knowing anything about life,' and all that wornout line, you'll have to do it at another time. Truly, I don't want to be ungracious and I am glad to see you, but..."

"All right, then. I feel deeply aggrieved but I'll come to the point. The point being: That tonight, regardless of whatever plans you have, you are dining with me at, shall we say, the Ritz at 8?"

Mary laughed.

"Oh, Mark, what a long memory you have. You even remember that? Wasn't I a silly girl?"

Mark looked at her long before he answered.

"Not a bit. I liked it. I'm going to have to know you all over again. You're not the same little girl you used to be. I think I'm going to like you better."

"Perhaps you'd better not," she advised.

He shrugged his shoulders. "What about tonight?"

"Not tonight."

"Come, come, Mary..."

"Then tomorrow night at 8? And why must you 'meet' me? Don't you think we out-wore that custom? I have an apartment and would like you to see it."

"And I'd rather you meet us—for reasons of my own."

"Us?"

"Yes, that's what I've been trying to tell you. I have a very important person for you to meet."

"A customer?"

"No."

"Then he isn't important, darling."

"You're wrong on two counts. It isn't a 'he' and SHE is important. She happens to be Claire Todd, a very old friend of mine and the wife of one of my classmates."

"Claire Todd," Mary repeated the name and drew her brows together. "Her name sounds familiar. Where have I heard it before?"

"Lots of places. She was another disappointment in my life. I first knew Claire when she was a debutante and fell hard but she decided on a career. So I dropped her. Let that be a lesson to you."

"If I hadn't had a career, you never would have met me," she retorted, "and you can't intimidate me with any threats. Go on about Claire Todd."

"Well, Claire's an up-and-coming writer. Perhaps I should say that she has arrived. You're sure to hear more about her. She's fashion editor of LADY OF TODAY, and holding down a lot of other posts. Posts that are very important to you."

Mary nodded. Mark had all her attention from the moment he had mentioned the words "fashion editor."

"She is also one of the editors of MODE, and head man in the fashion department of a large American newspaper syndicate. It seems that millions of women read her dope."

"And?"

"And she's here looking for news. And to make it. So see that you do something special in the way of costumes for yourself tomorrow night. I'll be doing my part."

Mary held out her hand. "Mark," consider me abjectly apologetic. I'll wear a hair shirt for the next two years for interrupting you before."

Mark regarded her critically. "Not with those shoulders. And not tomorrow night, my dear. By the time I get through with Claire, she's going to expect something pretty darn sensational and you're not going to let me down."

"I'm not going to let myself down. And now, Handsome, if you'll please run along, I may be able to dash off a couple of sensational numbers for La Rohde."

After he had gone, she picked up her sketch pad but the lines she drew there were not for Roxanne Rohde. Hastily her skilled fingers drew long flowing lines. Then she got up and hurried on eager feet to the workroom. She pulled a bolt of soft black wool from the shelf, another of soft, very bright red wool from another shelf. Sharply she called to the cutter and a seamstress.

Mary timed her entrance at the door of the dining room of the Ritz where she was to meet Mark and his friends. She was quick to realize the importance of impressing Claire Todd. She had grown up and learned that it took more than dreams to ascend the steep ladder of success.

"Is she really as good as all that?" Claire Todd was saying at the moment Mary approached the doorway.

"She's too good," Mark said glumly.

"So that's the way it is. Did it ever occur to you that when you find a woman like that, you might ask her to marry you?"

"You know I'm not a marrying man, Claire."

Claire exchanged a glance with her husband.

Mark held a match for Claire's cigaret a moment later, but Claire didn't see it. She was looking past him toward the door of the dining room, and she was not along in the direction of her glance.

Mark followed her eyes, and got up. "Excuse me. It's Mary."

Mary didn't see him at first as she stood there motionless, timed. Here was a beautiful, slender young woman in a gown of diaphanous white that clung to her figure, accented by a heavy girdle of bronze that weighted it against the curve of her waist. It was the exact tone of her coppery hair drawn smoothly over her proud head. A long black woollen cape lined with bright red hung from her shoulders to the floor.

A little later, Claire Todd said, "I'm very anxious to see your things. May I come Friday?"

Mary's gratitude was charming, and not a bit overdone. "I should feel complimented. We're too small to have a showing, but I'd like you to see what we're doing and planning to do."

Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S QUESTION

Baby Bunty, the little orphan rabbit, hopped over to where Uncle Wiggily was sitting on a stump in front of his camping tent and whispered softly:

"Unkie Wig! Unkie Wig!"

"Yes, my dear little orphan rabbit, what is it?" asked Mr. Longears as he brushed away a jolly bumble bee who thought the pink, twinkling nose of Mr. Longears was a merry-go-round to ride on.

"Unkie Wig," went on Bunty. "There's something in the woods!"

"I hope you don't mean one of the Bad Chaps," said Mr. Longears sitting up suddenly. "I don't call them funny except when I fool them."

"No, I don't mean a bad chap," said the orphan rabbit. "This is something hanging from a tree branch and I think mayoe it's a hornet's nest only it is almost black and not light colored."

"Then it can't be a hornets' nest," said the old rabbit gentleman. "I'll come and look at it with you."

Correction

"Aw rite, Unkie Wig," said Bunty. Then right away she said: "Excuse me, please. I mean all right, Unkie Wig." For the last two words were the only baby talk ones Bunty was allowed to use.

So she laughed and Uncle Wiggily laughed and then they went to the woods where the orphan rabbit pointed to something hanging like a brown sack from a tree branch in a dark dell.

"Why, that's my friend the bat," said Uncle Wiggily.

"He's upside down," exclaimed Bunty as the bat, hearing voices, opened his eyes.

"Yes, we bats always hang upside down when we are not darting about in the evening catching bugs and mosquitoes," said the queer creature which had the body of a mouse but wings somewhat like a bird.

"Why is that?" asked Bunty.

"I don't know," the bat answered. "Unless it's because we can sleep better upside down and then, too, there are hooks on the lower ends of our wings which are better to hang by so we can fold our wings about ourselves to keep out the light."

"You see, Bunty," explained Mr. Longears, "bats get their living by flying about at night or early evening. They are night workers so they must sleep in the daytime. And to sleep there must be darkness. So that's why bats hang upside down and fold their wings about them."

Adventure

"Thank you for answering my questions, Unkie Wig," said Bunty not forgetting, this time, about baby talk.

Then she ran away to play and Uncle Wiggily sat down near the bat to wait for an adventure. One came in a short time. Really two adventures came along. One was the Fox, the other was the Wolf. And as soon as the Bad Chaps saw the Bunny they got ready to nibble his ears.

"Wait a minute!" cried Uncle Wiggily boldly to the Bad Chaps. "I want to ask you a question before you nibble. This is it. It a bat a bird or a beast? Here is one hanging upside down."

The Bad Chaps looked at the hanging bat and the Fox said:

"A bat is a bird, of course, it flies."

"It isn't at all!" growled the Wolf. "A bat is a beast. It has no feathers like a bird. It has fur like a mouse."

"I tell you it's a bird!" howled the Fox. "It flies."

"It's a beast," snarled the Wolf. "If it's a bird why doesn't it make a nest?" So the Fox and Wolf went on, one saying a bat was a bird and the other saying it was a beast.

They couldn't answer Uncle Wiggily's puzzle question and while they were disputing the rabbit gentleman hopped safely away.

And if jolly old Bill Dollar will read a funny story out of the pocketbook for the penny stamp, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's paper hat.

VAGUE JAP REGRETS NOT ENOUGH FOR BRITAIN

HEPBURN SEES C.I.O. IN AMBUSH FOR OUR LABOR

PETROLIA, Ont., Aug. 28 (CP)—List of the four issues considered by Premier Mitchell Hepburn to be the major ones in the Ontario general election campaign was before the electors today. They are: the government's financial record, hydro-electric power system administration, the drive for succession duties, and the premier's stand in banning "foreign agitators in the labor field."

The premier defined the issues here yesterday at a convention of East Lambton Liberals which renominated Milton D. McVicar, present member, for the Oct. 6 vote, and heard William Guthrie, M.L.A. for Lambton West, say he saw a possibility of a complete Liberal sweep.

Mr. Hepburn defended the administration of the Liquor Control Act and said there were fewer places licensed for the sale of beer today than in 1916, the year that saw the Ontario Temperance Act come into operation. Consevatives were charging loose administration to hide the liquor "toll-gate" record of the previous govenment.

Costs Reduced

Administration costs had been reduced in all departments of government and revenues had been increased without adding to the burden of the primary producers, the premier said. Taxes were placed where they could most easily be borne.

Mr. Hepburn said there was evidence the Committee for Industrial Organization, United States labor body, was biding its time waiting for a favorable opportunity to resume, if possible, a program of disruption of Ontario industry.

"If you want to put that opportunity in their hands, vote for Mr. Rowe (Hon. Earl Rowe, Conservative leader) and his friends," he said. "If you want it forestalled, retain your your present government because we have repeatedly pledged ourselves to keep Lewis and his gang out of our province and we mean to keep our word."

The premier said he was "fed up" with men who refused work and intended to deal with "these parasites who are feeding out of the pockets of your taxpayers."

FAMED ARCHITECT JOHN POPE DIES

NEW YORK, Aug. 28 (AP).—Funeral plans went forward today for John Russell Pope, one of the foremost United States architects who died scarcely 24 hours after death claimed his patron, Andrew W. Mellon.

Pope, 63, failed to rally from an operation and died in hospital here last night before he could see completion of his plans for the museum in Washington to house the great art collection Mellon presented to the nation.

He is survived by his widow, and a daughter.

Since the turn of the century Pope played a conspicuous part in the architectural field both in the United States and abroad.

Last June King George VI, attending the opening of the new Tate Gallery in London paid tribute to Pope's genius by characterizing the building as "the world's finest sculpture gallery."

Pope's Great War Memorial at Montfaucon, France, the Scottish Rite Temple and Constitution Hall, D.A.R., in Washington and the Lincoln Memorial at Hodgenville, Ky., have been acknowledged as leading examples of architectural design.

COMPANIES GIVE HOLIDAYS AND PAY

Two of Peterborough's factories are winding up the summer with a holiday, putting the brakes on all the machinery, and a third is providing a vacation on the department plan instead of suspending production entirely.

Employees of the De Laval Company began their annual holiday period today and will have nothing on their minds until Tuesday, September 7. Johnson Outboard Motor Company's staff will wind up their week's vacation Labor Day, all of the 150 employees getting a rest.

Both the De Laval and Johnson plant holidays are with pay.

The Peterborough Canoe Company holidays are effectively the same as with the other factories, except that they are rotating by departments. Orders for skis are reported to be flowing in all ready with the prospect of maintaining the volume of business that has kept the plant busy since the beginning of the year.

7-Year-Old Boy Is Held At Border

Identifies Knife Wielded While She Was Being Chased.

PARRY SOUND, Ont., Aug. 28.—(CP) — A butcher knife "in the hands of William James Hamilton," who is himself now dead, caused the death of Mrs. George Buck of Toronto, a coroner's jury decided last night. It found Hamilton invaded a summer cottage at Manbert, 40 miles north of here, Wednesday.

Evidence showed Hamilton, 62-year-old Parry Sound butcher, slashed Mrs. Buck across the abdomen when he broke into the cottage in search of his estranged wife. Mrs. Hamilton, granted a court order in Toronto last year to keep her husband at a distance, was hiding under a bed when he killed Mrs. Buck.

Hamilton is believed to have provided the anti-climax to the slaying by setting fire to the cottage. He perished in the flames, his charred body being found in the ruins. Evidence at the inquiry, however, touched only on the death of Mrs. Buck, staying at the cottage occupied by Mrs. Hamilton.

Called as a witness, Mrs. Hamilton said she had not seen her husband for more than a year. He acted queerly, once having written a note saying he was sharpening a razor to cut his throat. The afternoon of the slaying she noticed the train stop near their house and in her hurry to get back to the cottage fell in the water.

Hid Under Bed.

She was changing her dress when Hamilton came to the front door. She called down to her adopted daughter, Jean, to "say I'm not here," and hid beneath a bed. She heard her husband say "open that door" and then the smashing of a door.

The girl, Jean Cunningham, told how Hamilton, when refused admittance, smashed down the door. She escaped through the back door and ran to a rowboat and pulled out into the lake. During her flight she heard a scream from the cottage.

Hamilton followed her, yelling, "I gutted the other woman (Mrs. Buck) and I'll do the same for you if I get my hands on you." She rowed away and later found Mrs. Buck's son, Sidney, 17. Together they went to a ranger's cabin for help.

The girl identified a butcher knife shown in court as the weapon Hamilton carried in his hand while chasing her. He had come to the cottage with a long parcel wrapped in paper. Dr. M. H. Limbert, Parry Bound, said the terrible slash across Mrs. Buck's abdomen was made by such a weapon.

POWER SHORTAGE REAL CAUSE BACK OF ELECTION—ROWE

KEMPTVILLE, Ont., Aug. 28 (CP).—Law and order will be maintained in Ontario under a Conservative government and in a "more British fashion" than it has been maintained in the past three years, Hon. Earl Rowe, Conservative leader, said in an election campaign speech here.

This was Mr. Rowe's answer to Premier Mitchell Hepburn's claim the maintenance of law and order was an issue in the coming election. The Conservative leader charged Mr. Hepburn with planting the "seed of Fascism" as he spoke last night in the home town of Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, former Ontario Conservative Premier.

Premier Hepburn's attitude towards labor organizations, Mr. Rowe said, struck at the very heart of the religious and social freedom British peoples had enjoyed for generations. If Mr. Hepburn as Prime Minister could forbid men from joining one organization, he himself could forbid them joining another. Some other and more reckless leader might attempt to prevent men from joining the Orange Order or the Knights of Columbus.

Actually, however, he said, there was nothing any Prime Minister could do to prevent men from joining the organization of their choice.

Unnecessary Mandate.

Mr. Hepburn himself was beginning to see the C.I.O. issue was not

NEARING NEW YORK.

PEEKSKILL, N.Y., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Fighting choppy water, legless Charles Zimmy, 46-year-old endurance swimmer today had paddled two thirds of the way to his goal in a non-stop swim from Albany to New York.

Zimmy ended his 102nd hour in the river at midnight. His manager, Marvin Welt, said this topped Zimmy's previous record of 100 hours made in a Honolulu pool in 1931.

Welt expressed hope the 146-mile trip would be completed in about 150 hours.

RICE LAKE BLAST DESTROYS COTTAGE

PORT HOPE, Aug. 28.—(Special.)—In an early-morning blaze, which threatened three lives, the summer cottage owned by J. Cooper of Toronto was destroyed by fire, along with the contents, at Taits Beach, Rice Lake, ten miles north of here. A bucket brigade saved a nearby cottage.

Mr. Cooper lighted the gasoline stove and left the room for a few minutes. On returning he was met with a terrific blast, which threw him against the wall. He sustained a number of burns, but managed to escape by the rear door, while Mrs. Cooper grabbed her child and rushed out the front door. An entry could not be made via the front door to save some of the contents, as the lock closed automatically.

St Thomas, Woodstock Delay School Opening

Situation Grave in London With 2 New Cases, One a Man 46.

TORONTO, Aug. 28.—(CP)— Two more Western Ontario cities—St. Thomas and Woodstock—have decided to postpone school opening until after Labor Day as a result of the infantile paralysis epidemic which since early June has attacked close to 400 persons in Ontario.

St. Thomas closed its schools until September 13 with provision a further hoist be given should conditions not improve. The city also placed a ban on public bathing pools and, like London, asked theatre managers to bar children from shows. Neighboring Southwold township set Sept. 14 as opening day, instead of the regulation September 1.

Woodstock postponed opening until September 7, although Dr. F. S. Ruttan, medical health officer there, expressed opinion there was nothing to be gained by the action. He believed the children would be better under supervision than "running around." Woodstock has three definite and two suspected cases, while St. Thomas has four under observation.

Grave At London

The situation at London continued grave with two new cases, one a 46-year-old man. He was the oldest person afflicted of the 43 under treatment. Voluntary ban was being placed on Sunday school meetings.

Dr. S. S. English, Simcoe's M.O.H., was given power to keep the schools closed and to apply similar restrictions on churches and theatres if he Wingard, Sask., Aug. 28.

FEVER ON LINER.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. — (AP) — United States public health officials began today a systematic check of nearly 1,000 passengers who left the Hamburg-American liner Hansa after it docked without reporting 24 cases of fever among the crew.

Although federal and city health authorities said there was little danger of an alarming spread of the disease—tentatively diagnosed as typhoid or paratyphoid fever—they asked each passenger to submit to an examination.

Four hundred crew members were aboard the vessel and given blood tests by which doctors hoped to locate the "carrier."

MORE PARALYSIS.

KITCHENER, Ont., Aug. 28.—(CP)—What appeared to be the first case of infantile paralysis in Wesley Township was reported today.

The victim was a 17-year-old girl and while paralysis has not definitely set in, her physician says there has been a perceptible weakening of the muscles showing paralysis affecting both legs. The girl fell ill last Sunday and had serum administered.

Linden, N.J., Aug. 28.

A GANGLING itinerant preacher sought "consolation" today, Prosecutor Abe J. David said, in a well-worn bible stained with the blood of the evangelist wife he confessed slaying with a mason's hammer because she threatened to leave him.

Lloyd Pusey, 44, described as a farmer and tavern singer in New Jersey, told of a month's-long continual quarrel as he and the woman drove across the continent from Los Angeles, stopping off at various towns to preach, David said.

The quarrel, David quoted Pusey, ended last night when the evangelist, threatened by his wife alternately with death and desertion, "decided I'd better get in my licks first" and bashed in her head.

They met and married last October in Los Angeles where the woman, the former Mary Cannon, also 44, was preaching, the reported confession said, and all was serene until Pusey learned soon after leaving Los Angeles May 17 his wife had been married four times previously.

Pusey, six feet three inches tall and blind in one eye since birth, was booked on a charge of murder.

HUNDREDS DIE IN MERCILESS JAP BOMBING

SHANGHAI, Aug. 28. —(AP). — More than 600 Chinese non-combatants were killed or wounded and the whole of Shanghai was plunged into fresh terror to-day by Japanese bombing squadrons.

Mayor O. K. Yui announced 200 persons were killed and 400 injured when 16 giants planes rained tons of explosives into the crowded Nantao quarter, adjoining the French concession on the southern side of the city.

Besides the normal population of the Chinese business and residential section, thousands of natives had taken refuge there.

The attackers, divided into squadrons of four ships each, swept over the sector several times, leaving a field of death and destruction a half-mile square.

Widespread fires quickly licked the debris spread by the bombs and many of those who escaped the hurtling projectiles were burned to death.

Chinese authorities said the airmen had no particular target but were only trying "to terrify and intimidate helpless citizens."

Each of the four bombing squadrons was followed by protecting pursuit ships. Time and again they droned down out of the clouds to drop their cargoes earthward.

At Day's Busiest Hour

Some of the explosives killed and wounded many laborers who were repairing a railroad. The raid came at the busiest hour of the day.

It was possible the airmen were trying to destroy the South Station of the Shanghai-Hangchow Railroad and the Shanghai municipal administrative buildings but if so their aim was bad.

When they clamored at the gates of the French concession, to the north and west, they were turned away. The French concession already was overflowing with Chinese refugees from the war-torn zones of Shanghai.

WAVES OF NATIVES.

ANGLICAN SQUAD RALLIES, HALIFAX

HALIFAX, Aug. 28 (CP). — The executive council of the Church of England in Canada held its initial session here today, as preparations were completed for the 14th general Synod which opens tomorrow.

More than 100 delegates arrived last night, with Rt. Rev. A. W. Blunt, Bishop of Bradford, whose sermon in England last November started the constitutional crisis that led to the abdication of King Edward VIII.

"The more we talk about peace, the less we seem to get," commented Dr. Blunt, discussing world affairs on his arrival here. "All the Church can do is to emphasize the stupidity of aggressive warfare and urge friendly contacts among nations."

Speaking of new legislation liberalizing the divorce laws of England, Dr. Blunt drew a distinction between the secular and the religious point of view, and said that, from the former at least, the legislation was "undoubtedly an improvement."

The old laws, he continued, were "ridiculous and scandalous, encouraging every vice. The new laws to some extent, will improve the situation from the secular standpoint."

The religious point of view was somewhat different, however, for it had first to ask the question whether divorce on any grounds was right, the real duty of the Church, the real line of attack, was to encourage "the idea of matrimony with responsibility and to encourage a noble conception of marriage. For after all, you can't im-

Government Wood High Out West

Edmonton, Aug. 28.

FIREWOOD for a camp operated by contractors on the Jasper Highway was obtained periodically by Government men and Government-rented equipment at a cost to the Government of $30 a load, it was testified here yesterday before the Royal Commission inquiring into Alberta road costs.

Charles Wilson, who stated he was hired by Hon. W. A. Fallow, Provincial Minister of Public Works, first as a laborer and later as a foreman, said he thought such a trip for firewood was "a weekly occurrence."

The inquiry was adjourned to Monday.

Jap Explanation Seen Admission They Plotted to Murder China's Premier.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—(CP Cable)—More favorable reports from Shanghai on the condition of Sir Hughe Knatchbull-Hugessen today eased considerably the strain felt here in the situation arising from the shooting of the British envoy by Japanese aviators.

A foreign office statement outlining the action taken by the government was anxiously awaited. There seemed to be no doubt that J. L. Dodds, counsellor of the British embassy in Tokyo, had been instructed by Foreign Secretary Eden to present the British complaint, but when or to whom was unknown.

The diplomatic correspondent of the Daily Telegraph said a strongly worded note demanding satisfaction more concrete than vague regrets was likely to reach Tokyo over the weekend.

"A bad impression has been created," the Telegraph added, "by the fact that representatives of the Japanese government in Shanghai, Tokyo and London did not immediately assume full responsibility for the outrage, and indignation is felt at the semi-official attempts made at successive stages to suggest first that the planes concerned were not Japanese, second that the trouble was from a stray bullet, and third that Sir Hughe had no right to travel across China without warning the Japanese."

The Morning Post's diplomatic correspondent said "the British government have decided not only to send a protest to Tokyo but to demand indemnity on behalf of Sir Hughe." The writer added it was expected the text of the protest would be published today.

Scentless Fairy-tale

The Times declared "the most monstrous of all explanations from the East is the report circulated by the Japanese News Agency declaring that when the Japanese Admiral in Shanghai called on Admiral Sir Charles Little to express his regrets, the British Commander-in-Chief replied: 'The shooting was brought on by the ambassador's imprudence.'"

"This," the Times added, "is not a mischievous but merely a senseless fabrication."

"When the Japanese say their army had news that Chiang Kai-Shek (the Chinese Premier and war lord) was to travel along the Nanking-Shanghai road that day," the Times went on, "they in effect were saying 'we did not plot to shoot the British ambassador but plotted to murder the head of a neighboring state, with which we are in diplomatic relations, and to make sure that we were to get him we gave orders that every car passing along the road should be machine-gunned or mobed.'"

The Daily Expreds said Dodds had been instructed to point out a similar point about the intended murder of Chiang Kai-Shek "is an admitted disregard for international law, and that it is impossible to carry on international diplomatic business if an attitude of carelessness for the relations between one nation and another is presisted in."

Meanwhile from Tokyo Reuters News Agency reported the Japanese News Agency had not published the British categoral denial that Admiral Sir Charles Little had suggested the British ambassador had been imprudent.

THREE BATTALIONS LOYALISTS SLAIN ZARAGOZA ATTACK

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Aug. 28 (AP)—Spanish Insurgents reported today they had "destroyed" three battalions of government troops attacking their concentration at Zaragoza, strategic intersection of lines between government-controlled Madrid, Valencia and Barcelona and the Insurgents' latest prize of war, Santander on the Bay of Biscay.

General Franco, in a communique, asserted his Insurgent defenders of the old capital of Aragaon, now one of his most important bases, had repulsed all enemy attacks. The enemy, he said, had left 12,000 dead in Zuera, a few miles to the north.

The government, however, reported that in a day of active fighting, with warplanes and artillery taking heavy toll of enemy ranks, government troops occupied Zuera, Puebla de Alborton and other enemy fortified positions in an enveloping movement on the Aragon front.

Insurgent casualties and prisoners taken, the government said, were "enormous" in number.

CANADA RETURNS WAR RELIC OF 1812

BUFFALO, N.Y., Aug. 28 (AP).—A grim old relic of the war of 1812 came back to the United States yesterday when the Dominion of Canada gave up a cannon captured in fighting around Fort Erie nearly a century and a quarter ago.

Coincident with the veterans of foreign wars national encampment here, Canadian legionnaires turned over the battered, rusty spoil of war to the Buffalo Historical Society.

History's scroll says its anubbed muzzle had a checkered youthful career.

American forces first carried the gun by boat into Canadian territory to storm the log stockade of Fort Erie, standing where Lake Erie melts into the Niagara River. Canadians re-took the fort and the stubby field piece by counter assault.

Thereafter, the cannon twice changed hands as the fortunes of war returned it to the Yankees and then to the Canadians again.

When peace came, both sides abandoned the muzzle-loader and let it lie unattended for 70 years.

On Tuesday, it will know again a brief hour of martial pomp when the V.F.W. trundle it through Buffalo streets in their giant parade.

After the Historical Society has re-conditioned it, the gun will stand watch over the warders of its heyday in a Williamsville cemetery where soldiers from both Canadian and United States armies are buried.

Russia Broadening Its "Purge" As production Slump

By Richard D. Massock

MOSCOW, Aug. 28 (AP) — A broadening "purge" of Soviet officials and lowly peasants within Russia was reported today as the nation's production fell well behind 1937 quotas—evidence, authorities said, of sabotage, diversion and enemy spies.

With many parts of Russia "spy conscious," records of death, disgrace, exile and imprisonment for enemies of the state have mounted in proportion to the failure of shops and factories to meet an ever-increasing demand for new materials.

Inspired by prominent Soviet newspaper accounts of skillful detection of spies and wreckers, men, women and children have become self-ordained detectives and almost any gesture may inspire someone's suspicious curiosity.

Soviet officials are silent, and only occasional press accounts enlighten the public on punishment meted out to the Soviet unfaithful. The known dead "enemies of the state" can be counted in hundreds; the lesser offenders, who are in prison or exile or who are demoted, total thousands.

So closely watched are foreigners few Russian dentists will treat them, so they go to Helsingfors for dental care. Russian language teachers stopped visiting their foreign students weeks ago.

Y. L. Pyatakoff, former vice-commissar of heavy industry; L. P. Berberyakoff, former vice-commissar of railways, and 11 others have been tried and shot. Other ex-officials and hundreds of small fry await trial as wreckers, diversionists, traitors, Fascists and Trotskyists.

Dysentry Sweeps Pas District Four Children Die

Three Hundred Affected — Suspect Contaminated Milk, Water or Fruit.

THE PAS, Man., Aug. 28.—(CP)—An epidemic of bacillary dysentry which has taken lives of four children and affected 300 persons here was believed today to have passed its peak.

Two children under two years of age died this week in The Pas and two other children at Cranberry Portage, 56 miles north, died from the intestinal infection. Number affected in the Pas was estimated at 126.

In Flin Flon, Dr. H. L. Naranta said he believed the epidemic was caused by contaminated drinking water, milk or fruit. Dr. C. S. Crawford of The Pas believed the germs spread first through use of unclean milk by Indians.

Driver Crashes Cow Feels Like Wall

St. Thomas, Aug. 28.

ONE very dead black cow that does not appear to have had an owner, and a badly damaged automobile belonging to Stanley Urbensky of Detroit, resulted from an early morning crash on No. 3 highway near Shedden. None of the occupants of the car, Mr. and Mrs. Urbensky and a friend was injured when the car crashed into the wandering bovine. Its color prevented its being seen on the highway.

Urbensky described the collision as being his impression of driving an automobile into a stone wall. He said there was another cow at the side of the highway which he was certain another motorist following him sideswiped.

working and was seeking another in the Laidlaw Estate. He was asking a mandate from the people to sue for money allegedly owing to the Province. Collection of this money was a mere routine matter of government.

It was the simple duty of any government to collect taxes and to maintain law and order. No government needed a special mandate for either function. The real reason for the election was an impending power shortage due to the repudiation of the former Quebec power contracts.

Premier Hepburn dare not delay the election until the shortage became apparent, and he was forced to renew these contracts and instit expensive power plants.

Within a few years Ontario would have to pay $35 per horse power it was obtaining under the old contracts at $15. Already the government had spent more than $15,000,000 on power plant development and $40,000,000 more had been earmarked for developments in the next few years to meet the demands for power.

Ontario should never have stooped so low as to repudiate solemn contracts, said Mr. Rowe. It would take a long time to repair the damage done Ontario's credit in certain parts of the world by the repudiation.

The old Hydro organization had been practically disbanded by the Hepburn Government. Municipalities, the real owners of Hydro, had no say in its management. It was controlled by a "common old-fashioned Grit committee." If returned to power he would restore municipal representation.

NATIVES ARE MOWED DOWN

Barred from the French Concession, the throngs fled toward the Whangpoo River to the east. In other districts some of the fear-crazed men, women and children thrust themselves through barbed wire entaglements.

The most tragic aspect to today's bombardment was presented by the scores of little children. Lester Hospital alone admitted 100 of the wounded little ones.

Flames shot into the sky the moment the first of the initial cargo of explosives was loosed. They spread rapidly through the closely-built frame structures of Nantao and were visible for miles.

Fears of the raid, in retaliation for Chinese bombardment of Hongkew, had caused a wild evacuation of non-combatant Chinese.

Meanwhile, both sides were preparing for action in a new theatre of war, ranging from 20 to 40 miles inland from Shanghai.

The Chinese have powerful defence positions and heavy troop concentrations in this area to hold back the freshly arrived reinforcements of the Japanese. Chinese sources estimated these at 60,000.

WORKER KILLED BY MAGIC CARPET

The 1,500-pound carpet and supports fell seven feet onto the workmen below.

The others injured were Harry Harsha, J. D. Boman and Nick de Genner. Harsha was reported seriously hurt.

Cantor, who was to have "ridden" the carpet later today, was not on the set. Neither were any other members of the cast.

Without warning, the heavy "prop" collapsed when its main supporting wire gave way.

The carpet had been a zealously guarded secret as a mechanical feature for Cantor's latest picture, "Ala Baba Goes to Town." It was supported by a series of wires so small as to be invisible to the camera eye.

saw fit. An 18-months-old girl was reported as Simcoe's second case.

Nine of the 19 paralysis deaths have centred in Toronto where 20 new cases yesterday brought the total since the beginning of the outbreak to 208. The board of health voted down a proposal to bar children from the Canadian National Exhibition which started this week.

London had not yet used its "iron lung" respirator, but the machines to aid breathing of paralyzed victims were in use in Hamilton and in Toronto. The condition of a 22-year-old man placed in the contraption at Hamilton General Hospital was reported as slightly improved, but he was not yet out of danger. Hamilton had two more suspected cases.

Order Iron Lung.

Toronto order a second machine and it will be in use as soon as it arrives to-morrow, Dr. Gordon P. Jackson, M.O.H., said. In the meantime, however, the Sick Children's Hospital proved the usefulness of a home-made wooden "lung" machine, and five more were being built.

The "wooden lung" was credited with saving the life of a four-year-old boy in the Childrens Hospital. It was built on eight hours' notice in the emergency when no regular machine could be had. In a dying condition, the lad was placed inside and an hour later showed marked improvement.

TORONTO STOCKS CLOSE WEAKENING GLOOM PREVAILS

TORONTO, Aug. 28.—(CP)—New flood of foreign complications bogged the Toronto Stock market down still farther in the last half of the week and the session closed yesterday in an atmosphere of gloom. Base metals fell back so widely that the exchange's miscellaneous mines index suffered a declineof 5.48.

In brokerage circles the threatening situation in the Orient, rendered more explosive by the shooting of the British ambassador to China, was held responsible for the market's definite display of weakness.

Selling of the industrials at price concessions expanded in the latest period. Although the exchange index for the industrials shows a loss of only 2.55 for the week a number of substantial individual losses were registered. Ford of Canada declined $1.35, Dominion Steel and Coal B and Dominion Bridge $1.50 each and Canadian Car common $1.12. Losses of 50 cents to $1 were scattered among the other steels, building shares, the utilities and the miscellaneous group.

Golds Slip Slightly

Moderate selling weakened the senior golds narrowly. Lake Shore, McIntyre and Dome dropped 50 cents to $1 each and Hollinger held firm. The week saw a revival of the discussion about the possibility of a reduction in the priceof gold with Sir George Paish, well-known British economist, calling for a cut to around $25 an ounce.

Some of the larger losses among the medium-price golds in the week were 50 cents for Read-Authier, 25 cents for Sylvanite and 5 to 15 cents for O'Brien, Central Patricia, San Antonio, hard Rock, Kirkland Lake and Kerr-Addison.

The senior base metals were rapped for much wider losses. Consolidated Mining and Smelting and Noranda took net losses of $4 while International Nickel was down $2.50 and Hudson Bay $1. Ventures had a drop of 40 cents.

SUSPECT IS HELD IN TORSO MURDERS

CEVELAND, O., Aug. 28.—(AP).—A three-year hunt for the maniacal torso slayer of ten persons brought into the hands of police last night a discharged laboratory asistant who, Detective Lieutenant Michael Blackwell said, was "the most likely suspect" of the hundreds questioned.

Boasts to a drinking companion that he was expectly skilled in dissecting bodies led to the man's apprehension. Blackwell withheld the suspect's name pending developments.

Blackwell said the man's duties at the hospital included dissection of bodies for autopsies. He was discharged, Blackwell said, after surgical instruments and a quntity of formaldehyde were stolen.

Shortly thereafter, in September, 1934, the first of the crazed killers butchered victims was found.

CHRIST'S IDEAL OF HATE

Jesus turned and said unto them: If any man cometh unto Me and hateth not his own father and mother and wife and children and brothers and sisters, yea, and his own life, he cannot be my disciple.—St. Luke 14, 26.

These words fall from the lips of the loving and compassionate Christ. "He has steadfastly set His face to go to Jerusalem," to the agony, shame and horror of death on the Cross. His disciples follow Him amazed at the expression on His face. Also "there went with Him great multitudes." To these crowds He turned and said: "If any man cometh unto Me and hateth not his father and mother he cannot be my disciple." Can you hear the passion in His voice as He utters these words so startling in their intensity? For three years He has been preaching the coming of the Kingdom of God.

He came to found the Kingdom of God. He taught that God the Father loves all men, Jews, Gentiles and even Samaritans. A startling truth even today, two thousand years later. Moreover that members of that Kingdom must deal lovingly and justly with each other as brethren. But above all in that Kingdom there would be no class distinctions.

Such teaching was revolutionary, it is still. The Pharisees were the religious leaders of His people. They were convinced of their own righteousness and were deaf to His teaching, which denied their superiority. The Sadducees were the rulers of His nation and thought only of the financial interests. His cleansing of the Temple Courts aroused their hatred, it interfered with their prosperity. The multitudes looked for a King, a Christ, a Messiah, an Anointed of God, who would head their armies and drive the hated Roman out of the land and establish a Kingdom, an exclusive nationalism, which saw no hope for the salvation of the Gentiles.

With such teaching on His lips Our Lord could expect no help from any of these sources. This He knew. So He looked for men. After careful thought He called this one and that to be with Him. He trained them, He sifted them, for they were to be the leaders of the new hope for the world. These He called Apostles, men who were to be SENT on the greatest adventure of the ages to found the Kingdom of God. They were to be men filled with the ideal that God the Father loves all men and that men were to love one another as children of that Father. Thy had much to learn and to unlearn. But one thing He was sure of. They loved Him and their hearts were open to His teaching and influence. Their very enemies recognized "that they had been with Jesus."

When He was arrested His disciples failed Him and fled. But it was only for a time. His crucifixion shocked them fearfully. But His resurrection, God's vindication of Him, "God raised Him from the dead," revived their faith. After His Ascension and the descent of the Holy Spirit they were fitted to go forth on His great work to found the Kingdom of God on earth.

Our Lord knew that the men for such work had to be completely separated from all family calls and national interests. They were to be leaders of a great hope, willing to sacrifice their very lives for it, which they did. "They turned the world upside down." Are you astonished that such men accomplished wonders?

They were absolutely reckless for His sake and the Kingdom of God. They were to be members of the true Israel, Princes with God. God as King, Whom they loved with all their being. They taught and practiced love to their [illegible] were prepared to cast away their very lives for His sake and His kingdom.

They were to discover the truth of His statement: "Blessed are ye when men shall hate you and cast out your name for the son of Man's sake." They were men filled with a divine enthusiasm and His Kingdom as revealed in Christ Jesus. In the book of the Acts of the Apostles you read of their marvellous success.

Today we are faced with the Totalitarian state. Both Fascism and Communism lay down the principle that the state is supreme; that the state is God, its word is final. It means a conflict with the Kingdom of God, which has no national boundaries and does not depend upon force.

Perhaps God is calling men, here one and there another, and preparing them to fight the battle. They must be men who hate their fathers and mothers, wives and children, brothers and sisters, and even their own lives for the sake of the Kingdom of God and the brotherhood of all men founded upon love as revealed in Christ Jesus.

This teaching of the Kingdom of God is a pearl of great price. Have you had a vision of that wonderful brotherhood of love and peace and are you willing to pay the price?

God Condemns Intemperance

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Aug. 29 is Leviticus 10:1, 2, 8-11; Proverbs 21:1, "Wine is a mocker, strong drink 14:21, the Golden Text being Prov. 21:1. "Wi is a mocker, strong drink a brawler; and whosoever erreth thereby is not wise.")

While there may be wide difference of opinion as to the best methods of handling the problem, there is no disputing the evils and perils of intemperance and drunkenness. There is nothing essentially new about the problem. It is as old as the human race. Warnings have been sounded against drunkenness in every generation since the disgraceful abuse of strong drink by Noah and Lot.

The Case of Aaron's Sons

Nadab and Abihu, the sons of Aaron, priests ministering at God's holy altar were devoured by fire from Jehovah as they offered strange and forbidden fire upon God's alta. From the warning that immediately follows we may properly infer that drunkenness is what led them into the error God judged so severely: "And Jehovah spake unto Aaron, saying, Drink no wine nor strong drink, thou, nor thy sons with thee, when ye go into the tent of meeting, that ye die not: it shall be a statute forever throughout your generations: and that ye may make a distinction between the holy and the common, and between the unclean and the clean." Modern life, too, calls for ability to make distinctions" which may mean life or death to ourselves and others, distinctions between green lights and red lights, or between rational conduct and irrational, moral and immoral. These distinctions require sobriety and the state must use severe measures with those who through drunkenness imperil others' lives, even as God uses severe measures in the exemplary punishment he meted out to Nadab and Abihu.

Official Example

That those in high position in the state, no less than those in high position in the church, should set the nation an example of sobriety, seems to be the teaching of the wise man in Proverbs 31:4, 5: "It is not for kings to drink wine; nor for princes to say, Where is strong drink? Lest they drink and forget the law, and pervert the justice due to any that is afflicted." Positions of responsibility in every field of endeavor demand the sobriety that comes from being "temperate in all things."

Prophetic Warnings

The Prophet Isaiah rebuked national intemperance of his day, saying, "Woe to the crown of pride of the drunkards of Ephraim, and to the fading flower of his glorious beauty, which is on the head of the fat valley of them that are overcome with wine!" . . . The priest and the prophet reel with strong drink, they are swallowed up of wine, they stagger with strong drink; they err in vision, they stumble in judgment. For all tables are full of vomit and filthiness!" The picture has changed little from age to age. Truly, as St. Paul says, "It is good not to drink wine, nor to do anything whereby thy brother stumbleth."

THE HUMAN SIDE OF LIFE

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Through the portals of the great temple at Lhasa, where the tranquil Buddhas sit with folded hands, go a mother and her man-child. On the throne sits the priest-emperor of all Tibet—the Panchen Lama, ruler supreme until another living Buddha, another Dalai Lama, makes himself known by some mystic sign.

Before the golden throne, the mother, with her babe in arms—it's only a bit of a thing—nine months old—pause in adoration. The old Lama leans forward in a gesture of benediction, and, of a sudden, the baby's arms thrust out, seize the hold beads around the Lama's neck, cling to them and refuse to give them up. All over the temple there is a stir, a rising tumult. Shaven priests appear like magic from unsuspected retreats. Some rush forward to seize the child and draw the sacred beads from its impious hands. But the aged Lama, gently smiling, waves them away.

"Be quiet," he commands. "This is no small thing. This is a sign from heaven. Buddha reveals himself in the body of this little child."

So they will take that child and its mother very soon, and, unless a more powerful sign is given, the baby of nine months will become the fourteenth Dalai Lama, supreme over the soul as well as the bodies of three million men, women and children who dwell on top of the world, in a land one-third the size of the United States, with a population half that of New York, among the highest of earth's mountains and where strange things do take place.

Many Strange Things Happen

Sir Charles Bell, former British resident at Tibet's capital, Lhasa, has himself told me of seeing holy men levitate themselves into the air and lie, stretched out five feet above the ground, with nothing at all to support them but thin air. He has told strange tales of the fakira who, from a sitting posture, can spring ten feet in the air. And of a visit to the Grand Lama, when he saw a dead man—he could have sworn the man had been dead for weeks—arise from his coffin, walk steadily to the Grand Lama's throne, prostrate himself humbly, slowly arise, stagger back to his coffin and retire again to the cold silence of death.

A strange land. Nestling on the roof of the world, Tibet, the mysterious land of lamas, is hemmed in by the cloud-tipping peaks of the Himalaya mountains between India and China. For centuries, Tibetans have been ruled by a supreme temporal head, the Dalai Lama. Being devout Buddhists, they believe their priest-emperor never dies, but that his soul, or ego, merely transfers itself into the body of a new-born child immediately upon his phytical death.

Three years ago, their thirteenth Dalai Lama departed this life and climbed another stage towards Nirvana. Unhappily, he failed to conjure up a likeness of his successor in the sacred lake east of Lhasa, the forbidden city. Ever since then the priests have been searching for the living Buddha—some very young child who might reveal himself as divine by a royalie sign.

Religion Chooses Rulers

No country in the world chooses its ruler so strangely. We are accustomed to kings succeeding by "divine right," and to presidents chosen by the "will of the people." But o!t Asia is the cradle of the world religions, and here, in the heart of Asia, it is religion that governs the choice of each Dalai Lama, the sovereign of Tibet.

He does not succeed as a king succeeds, for a Dalai Lama lives apart from all women. He is not chosen. No votes are cast. He manifests himself, and it is for his people to recognize him. Tibetans, like Hindus, believe in the rebirth of human beings and animals. When a Dalai Lama passes out of this life, his spirit enters the body of a boy about to be born. That boy is the new Dalai Lama, or rather, the same Dalai returned to earth again.

He need not have returned, for he has nae obtained Buddhahood. He is no longer on the wheel of life. He is freed from the miseries of worldly existence. But he waives his privilege and comes back to help a suffering world on the upward path. So, it may be that this infant son of a humble peasant woman will become priest-emperor of Tibet — a person of vast consequence to Russia, Japan, China and Great Britain, the powers that eternally scheme and struggle for domination of Asia.

He may come to reign in the great monastery, twelve hundred years old and eleven thousand feet above the hot plains of India, far to the south. A place to grip the imagination of the earth—yes not of it.

A National Message

God has established The Kingdom of Heaven in the earth. This is a very wonderful statement. It is a statement of a great fact, which links earth with heaven; man with God.

Among all the orders of life on the earth there is no conscious connection with heaven or with God, except in the case of mankind. Each species of animal has its own law of instinctive life. Each species acts in accordance with that law. Such instinctive law seems to be born with the animal, and does not need to be taught. It is true that animals teach their young the deails of the application of the law of their lives, such as how to hunt and secure their prey. But the law is the same for all the species.

With mankind the same might be the rule. With individuals and tribes the same thing prevails. With many there is no thought of higher things; or if there is thought there is no obedience to such thoughts.

There came a time in the history of the Adamic race when, in letters which should flame out like living fire, it was written:

"AND JEHOVAH COMMANDED THE MAN."

The force of this statement was that at that moment, and by that act the Adamic race became conscious of and subject to the law of God. That family which became subject to the law of God became the basis of the Kingdom of God upon earth.

What a marvellous thing this introduced into the world it is for us to consider, and the deeper our attention and consideration are given to this great fact, and to all it implies, the more wonderful will the implications appear.

This the Kingdom of God was established in the earth. The first act which established the kingdom, is recorded in the above quotation, "and the Lord God commanded the man."

The Kingdom of God became invested in the seed of Abrsham and Sarah. The seed of Abraham and Sarah were multiplied, guarded and in due time organized into a kingdom. (See Exodus XIX and XX).

Here now was a wonder. A kingdom material, racial, national, political, religious, was formed, like a centre of light, midst the kingdoms of this world.

Still the race was multiplied; and the kingdom was correspondingly extended, until it became "a nation and a company of nations," plus a great people leaving an unorganized remnant of racial stock scattered among the other nations, in other kingdoms than the Kingdom of God.

CATHEDRAL MUSINGS

In the trinity of the microcosm of man we find three elements, the reasoning animal man, the psychic man, and the archetypal spiritual man, each functioning on its own plane of being. The question arises, of these three elements which constitutes the real man? The answer is purely relative to our consciousness. The animal man has, of course, the physical body with its material brain by which it is cognizant of, and reacts to, the outer stimuli of this world, and as far as this world is concerned it is the real man. Of the earth earthy it perishes when its life cycle is ended. Yet to the majority, this acting, willing, thinking "I" is the only true and real self. They know of no other, and they mistakenly think that it is eternal, when obviously it is a thing which having a beginning in time must necessarily have also an end in time. The real future self is the psychic self, the self that apprehends intuitively and is above all necessity of conscious reason, above all limitations of time or space, but even this is not necessarily the eternal self, for this psychic self which alone differentiates one from another in the Logos is but the evolving self and is the product arising from the strife between the Light and the material environment into which the Soul has descended. In one sense it is the upward extension of the animal man, and the downward extension of the spiritual, and like Mahomet's coffin it oscillates between the two, swayed this way and that by the material and spiritual urges, fluid and instable in the extreme. Deeper yet within man's being is the spiritual Self, indifferentiated and eternal, immortal and everlasting, it is the Christ, the Light of God, which by reason of his absorption in the world of matter, man knows not, and it is by the mystical union of this Eternal Logos and man's psyche that man is redeemed and saved. For only that which is before time and space is immortal and, eternal and only by merging our consciousness of being into the Eternal consciousness do we become one with God in man, and transmute self into the deathless Self. And this is the true teaching of all the great religions of the world. The transmutation of the finite into the Infinite.

We may meditate on this prayer which may be more easily apprehended by the spiritual intuitions. "God of my heart who reigneth within this Thy holy temple; lead me, guide me, inspire and direct me in the Way on which Thou goest, that with Thy help and by Thy grace I follow. Grant that this lower self be transmuted into harmony with Thee, so that the inner and the outer is as one, and Thy will is done on earth as it is in heaven."

We use the word "harmony" advisedly. In music, all the sorrow and contrition imaginable will not correct a discord, the only correction possible is to change the false note in one that is harmonious, so also in the spiritual life. What is done is done, sorry as we may be, our sorrow is best expressed by turning from the wrong to the right. Every act and thought that is based on self and not on Christ is a discord in the Divine harmony and can only be amended by being utterly cast out so that Love may take its place for it is axiomatic that the love of God and the love of self cannot both find room in the heart of man.

God Condemns Intemperanc. ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

Nadab and Abihu, sons of Aaron were smitten dead as they ministered at the altar. The secret of their offense was probably drunkenness, against which there was ample warning.

King Solomon commended sobriety to rulers as Moses did to priests: "It is not for kings to drink wine; nor for princes to say, Where is strong drink? lest they forget the law and pervert justice."

The prophet Isaiah rebuked national intemperance, saying, "Woe to the crown of pride of the drunkards of Ephraim . . . They err in vision, they stumble in judgment."

Saint Paul, in his Epistle to the Romans, says, "It is good not to drink wine, nor to do anything whereby thy brother stumbleth."

So They Shot Him

As near as a plain statement of fact can relate the story, Frank Converse, 18, of New York city, grabbed a pair of white flannel trousers from a pedestrian and started to run, seeking refuge in a basement.

Two patrolmen, John Music and Herbert Faust, gave chase. They entered the building where the youth had sought refuge and shot him. In 12 hours he was dead.

Neighbors gathered to give evidence. They said Frank Converse was a model young fellow. He never drank, he did not smoke and was a favorite in the community. When he grabbed the flannel trousers was the first time he had ever been in trouble.

In England a youth facing a similar situation would not have been shot because the police would have nothing with which to do any shooting. He would have been arrested, and after that he would probably have appeared in court charged with the theft of one pair of trousers. His sentence, if any, would not have amounted to much as a first offender.

In New York there was a different course followed. The patrolmen acted as police to capture the young man, acted as court to try him, acted as judge or magistrate to impose a sentence of death and finally took it upon themselves to be the executioners.

That is why there is so little shooting in England and so much of it in United States. In England the robber knows if he is found with arms on him he is in a bad way at once for that offence carries with it a long stretch. In United States the robber or criminal in any field knows there will be shooting at once when the police appear, and for that reason they are prepared to do their part in it.

Even If There Is Doubt

It is unfortunate there is such a diversion of opinion among medical men who are dealing with the outbreak of infantile paralysis in several of the larger centres. In Hamilton Dr. Isaac Crack, Past President of the Hamilton Academy of Medicine, declared: "The value of serum has never been proven and early diagnosis of the disease is of much less value than people think."

Dr. Fred Bowman, physician of Hamilton, gives this opinion: "The cause of infantile paralysis is unknown; its method of transmission is unknown and the use of serum from convalescent or cured patients may or may not be of value. It certainly has never been shown to be life-saving."

In London where there was a gathering of medical men from several centres arranged by the deputy Minister of Health. A report appearing in the London Free Press says:

> "During the discussions it was emphasized that progress made so far had revealed that the administration of serum during the first 24 hours of paralysis had been found to be effective. It was also shown that the longer the period elapsing before treatment the more serious the results might be."

At the London meeting where the above view was stated there were present Dr. J. A. McIntyre of the Manitoba Health Department who had wide experience in the 1936 outbreak of paralysis in that province; Dr. N. Silverthorne of Connaught Laboratories and Dr. R. I. Harris of the Toronto General Hospital. So we have the London meeting claiming serum treatment is effective if administered quickly, and Hamilton medical men contending that such treatment has not yet been shown to be effective.

One plain fact not stated in any of these reports is the difficulty of knowing whether all the suspected cases actually have paralysis. The paralysis itself is the one sure proof of the disease, and a patient may be treated with serum and recover with nothing to show definitely and beyond that there had actually been an attack. If there is doubt in the matter then the reasonable course would be to throw the benefit of the doubt in favor of the serum for the good and sufficient reason that nothing else is at hand. In a fight of this kind there should be no hesitation in making use of a weapon even of doubtful value. At the moment we have nothing better.

He Was Glib Of Tongue

It may be a rule of the universe that youth must pass through a period where it is rather glib of tongue. There is a phrase much used today which well enough describes such a condition—"wisecracking."

There was a young fellow in court at Goderich who was of that classification. He was a farmhand and went to court to collect $10 which he claimed was owing by a farmer.

Magistrate asked him why he quit his job, and the answer came with speed and chuckle: "He thought I was a horse because I wore a collar."

It is recorded the court tittered but the man on the bench did not seem impressed. Asked if he had another job the young chap continued: 'I'll tell the world I have; a snap of a job and I don't mean maybe."

By which time the magistrate had announced he did not think he could do much for him as he had no case. It was found that by reducing the costs of the court to the finest possible dimension there was 75 cents which the wisecracker would have to pay, and there was a certain seriousness which crept part way over him as he announced he would like a little time to get the money.

Possibly that young fellow would be quite a dandy on the street corner, or he might even qualify for "being the life of the party," but when he appeared in court where decisions are based on facts and where there is a discount rather than a premium on levity he was at a disadvantage. A small portion of wisecracking may now and then relieve sombre surroundings, but as a daily diet it flattens on the palate. Nor is it high in vitamin content or caloric count.

Ashes, Tin Cans And Vision

Of ashes, tin cans, patience and a visionary idea was the graceful curving embankment of Crescent Street compounded. Beauty often springs from unexpected sources. Four years ago during the Roland Denne administration of the city's affairs, dilapidation of the old vertical crib of squared timber that had fringed the south shore of Little Lake for generations demanded attention. Another problem at the same time was the convenient disposal of tin cans that had passed through the furnaces at the incinerator, and ashes gathered by the garbage collectors. One of these difficulties dissolved the other, crystallizing in the permanent new bank so admired already by many residents and visitors, and prompting other improvements which seem naturally to fit into the entire development. The crumbling old wooden wall disappeared. Two houses at the east end of Lake Street also vanished. Presently the first loads of ashes and cans arrived, and it seemed that the ambitious filling job would be a long time before it was ended. Tin cans and ashes and other debris brought some complaints from some Crescent Street residents, mainly because the litter harbored rates. And that is where patience entered.

Forgotten days slipped by with the steady delivery of ashes and other filling material. New trees were planted at the north cusp of the Cresent. The bank gradually settled, and then came Mayor Macdonald's contribution with the aid of Mr. Duffus. The federal government approved the stone rip-rap plan as an extraordinary undertaking confined entirely to manual labor, and so the last stage of the embankment began last October. Engineers carried the cement footing out beyond the water line to prevent undermining by the constant washing of the waves. It is sound and solid shield. Next will come grading of the street level, probably some widening of the road, the planting of new trees, perhaps some flowers and shrubs, and ultimately one of the beauty spots of the Kawarthas.

Following the daring motto, be sure you are right then go ahead, Mr. Denne was largely responsible for the little park at the head of Water Street; next for the purchase and removal of the old brewery on Burnham Street; then the Crescent Street widening; and finally he was keenly in favor of the proposed Stuart Drive. The completed works have all been approved by citizens. Ten years from now these civic improvements will be yielding even large dividends of neatness and beauty, and also of persistent inspiration for the future enchancement of the city's aspect of a great park.

Ruined By Too Much Money

The strange case of George Herbert Cuffin of Cheshire, England, has been told to illustrate the old truth that too much money is the worst thing that could happen to some people. George Herbert Cuffin worked in a cement factory and his wages were not large. Just enough to keep the house going. So George did not go out much and never spent his hours or his pence at the public house. Both George and his wife were just closing in on the fifty mark as far as years were concerned, and there was not much ahead of them except hard work and the prospect of just being able to keep going.

But George Cuffin took a chance one day and bought a ticket on a sweepstakes race. Then came the hour when he ran home with light in his eyes and a crowd running behind him. His horse had won and he was now the possessor of the rich prize of $150,000. He would have to go out that evening and celebrate in the village with the boys. He did, and at a late hour George Herbert was carried home—drunk. First time he had ever been in that condition.

Of course he quit his job at the cement plant. He didn't have to work any longer because he was possessed of so much money he could not possibly spend it all. When the rich man got going on the following day he followed his countrymen's love for the land and bought a farm with an eight-room house, although there was only George Herbert and his wife in the family. He also bought a long shiny car and hired a chauffeur to drive it. After that he went to the tailor and there was not a better dressed man in the district.

In the mornings the chauffeur would bring the car to the door and his wife relates George Herbert Cuffin would drive away "like a big business man." She added in sorrow "but all the business he had was to go to the bank and draw out some more money and proceed to buy drinks for every loafer in town."

Salesman and agents came and they got rid of cottages and property at from two to three times their value. Things came to a head at the bank one day when George Herbert accused the bankers of holding back on him and refusing to advance him "the millions he had put in there." Truth is he had gone through his money. He was drunk as could be at the time and they called officers who took him to the hospital and he died of what doctors called the worst case of alcoholic poisoning they had ever seen.

His wife sold the car and secured enough to give George Herbert Cuffin decent burial. The farm had gone some time before, and the widow has the few pence which comes as rent from two wretched cottages which had been sold to the husband for two or three times their worth. Apparently there is no bitterness in her, for she merely added "George Herbert was a good and a kind husband who stayed at home with me when he was not at work. The $150,000 spoiled him and killed him."

It is hardly necessary to drape that simle story with added comment. The $150,000 removed that stern thing called discipline from the life of George Herbert Cuffin. When he became possessed of $150,000 he probably thought he was the richest man in the world. Accustomed as he was to thinking and living and spending in terms of shillings and pence he had no preparation for the realm of thousands. He burned his little candle at both ends and it soon went out.

Does Not Mean Much

There has been much said in the political campaign regarding the organization of labor unions in Ontario, the manner in which strikes shall be conducted, and also numerous declarations regarding the manner in which lawlessness will be definitely opposed. Both Mr. Hepburn and Mr. Rowe seek to create the impression that if the other is returned to power things will not be well done in Ontario as far as preserving peace and good order is concerned.

Also there is much said regarding the right of workers to form themselves into labor unions. It does seem that a great deal of what is being said has little meaning. There is no question of the right of any individual to belong to a labor union; a person can join any union he desires. He can join up with the communists or the socialists if he desires. Whether the individual of a body of individuals can force an employer to do business exclusively with a union is quite another matter. The employer can exercise the option of deciding to run a union shop or he can declare for an open shop. That would remain the same whether there was a Conservative or Liberal government in power.

It is much the same when it comes to preserving law and order. We do not believe there would be chaotic condition in Ontario if the Conservatives were returned to power, nor are we fearful that such things will come to pass if the Liberals are returned. What can be done and what cannot be done is pretty much detrmined by the Criminal Code, and that is something which is dealt with at Ottawa. There are greater things to be placed before the electors of the province before voting day.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Sport is any form of hard work which is done without pay and in short pants.

Big prize fight was postponed in New York because it looked like rain. And also because there had not been enough suckers hurrying in to buy tickets.

When a young man is looking about for a wife he would be well advised to keep an ear open when some neighbor repeats the words "She's such a help to her mother."

The words from the second verse in the eighth chapter of Job may have some bearing on campaign speeches in the Ontario contest: "How long shall the words of thy mouth be like a strong wind?"

PENMANSHIP

(By A. B. K.)

¶ When I lived on Concession Ten, along with other little men, I made my way to school; and there it was I sought to learn, which way my little brain must turn, to masticate each rule.

¶ They taught me how to hold a pen, so I could write like leading men, I made my strokes just so; if I could not succeed at that, my chances would be very flat, my progress would be slow.

¶ If I could write like copper plate, I'd travel at a goodly rate, the world would call for me; for when men saw my writing plain, and noticed how I signed my name, they'd welcome me with glee.

¶ And so I learned my writing there, it was admitted I was fair, my penmanship was sound; I'd face the world then unafraid, and on its strongholds make my raid, I'd make it in a bound.

¶ All that was quite a while ago, and now I'm rather bent and slow, and I am tired by night; and I have labored at my task, but no one ever stopped to ask, what sort of hand I'd write.

¶ For things are hurried up today, no time for rounded O and A, and there's no time for ease; an iron machine is my best friend, and 'er the thing I daily bend—and whack upon the keys.

People Attending Church.

FOR twenty years the Christian Herald has published annually the church membership figures of various denominations, and the latest tables showed that in United States in the last ten years churches had made a gain of 9,000,000 in membership.

These figures were challenged by Roger Babson, and it was found the work of compiling was done by taking figures sent by the church officials themselves. It was also admitted the figures had nothing to do with church attendance, but merely recorded those who had indicated by their actions that they desired to become members of a church.

INVITATION

"I know it's a bit early, but I thought you would like to hear that there's a sale of work in the village hall on Thursday."—Humorist.

Many Things Which Need Inventing

Room for Brains In This Field. Writer Gives A Number of Suggestions.

Raymond Francis Yates

WE KNOW three young inventors who, without previous experience or a great deal of money, earned more than $100,000 royalty in a single year. The field for invention is greater today than it was before Edison was born. With all our advances only a crude beginning has been made.

For instance, there is a need for an automatic razor stropper. The market is full of such devices for safety razors, but what about an automatic sharpener for the old straight-edged razor, which millions still use? If such a gadget could be sold for two or three dollars, there would be a mint of money in it.

The radio inventor is faced with many opportunities. Take the vacuum tube. A tube of the heater type that would reach full efficiency the moment current is turned on, thus eliminating the annoying wait that is necessary, would be worth a million.

We have tents, boats, chairs, tables, baby carriages, and other things that may be folded up for storage and for transportation, but no bicycle. During the past four years, the manufacture of bicycles has taxed the capacity of every producer. Many automobile vacationists would like to take their "wheels" along for side trips. The inventor of a really practical lightweight folding bicycle will never have to worry about his rent or coal bill again.

Fountain pen manufacturers would be glad to see a pen with an easily adjustable nib that could be changed from a fine point to a stub point within a few seconds. If this could be done it would no longer be necessary to place twenty different nibs on the market in an effort to suit everybody.

Then there is the folding invalid chair. How many invalids have to stay at home simply because they cannot take their clumsy chairs with them? A practical folding chair should be light in weight and strong—it might be made of steel tubing.

Within a few years there will be more electric clocks in use than the ordinary type of spring-wound clock. What is needed is an electric alarm clock having a small dial which may be quickly adjusted to control striking or the ringing of the alarm.

Tobacco pouches have never been really popular with men. From the standpoint of preservation, a smoker might just as well carry his smoking material in the original tin or package. To be worth the trouble of pouring the contents of a package into a pouch, the pouch guarantee the preservation of its contents. To do this, it must be better than any pouch that has been produced to date, regardless of price. It must be capable of being absolutely hermetically sealed and yet offer easy access.

Prior to the 1937 brood of automobiles, no provision was made for built-in de-frosting equipment. We have in this country at least 18,000,000 cars either without equipment of this type, or supplied with special heater wires placed near the windshield, or electric fans supplied with heating coils. Such equipment is far from satisfactory; the car storage battery was never made to handle the additional load. Why doesn't some bright student make a fan to blow a blast of water-heated air against the windshield? If a small reservoir of water were placed on the exhaust manifold and if this heated water were carried to a small radiator mounted in front of a small fan, no strain would be placed on the battery and a great source of heat would be made available.

At least 10,000,000 people in this country are able to skate. At least one million of this number would pay a dollar for a little pocket skate sharpener that could be used at the pond or rink. The device need not produce a finished job but should offer temporary relief.

The easy-to-open sealed envelope has not yet appeared. We all know how difficult it is to slip the finger under the glued flap of an envelope. Many inventors thought of sealing a small thread in the envelope, but for some reason manufacturers never took kindly to this. What is needed is some method of making a flap so that the fingers may be inserted under it, or a little tab may be pulled to start the opening.

People with steam and hot water in their homes keep water holders on the radiators to maintain humidity. Can someone supply an inconspicuous container or perhaps attach a humidifying device to the valve itself?

America needs new gadgets; ingenuity can reap millions for anyone with an inventive turn of mind.

Symptoms of Infantile Paralysis

Temperature Is Always High Quickly; Pain Comes With Certain Movements.

London Free Press

DEALING whith the symptoms of paralysis another bulletin was issued by the city health department and Academy of Medicine. It reads as follows:

"As it is usually the season of the year when stomach disorders are most common, parents are frequently not alarmed, blaming the attacks on something the children have eaten, or to teething. This vomiting, one of the most common symptoms, is frequently not taken much notice of. It is, however, not common to all cases. Coupled with the digestive disturbance is a rapid rise of temperature varying from 101 to 104 degrees. The temperature remains elevated and patients appear ill.

"A child may be irritable, as shown by tossing about in bed, or crying. It may, on the other hand, be drowsy and take no interest in surroundings. It is to be noted that a child is willing to stay in bed, in contrast to the usual desire when attacked by the ordinary infections of childhood that are accompanied by vomiting and rise of temperature. If the patient is old enough he may complain of headache or pain on movement of the neck, not as a rule if the neck is moved from side to side, but only if attempts are made to bend the neck forward for any reason.

"A child may refuse to sit up, or do so with difficulty, raising himself by means of his hands, while holding the back rigid, and he will complain of pain if asked to touch his toes with his fingers while in the sitting position.

"Whenever any of these symptoms of the disease are noticed, the family physician should be consulted. Measures can then be taken to confirm the diagnosis by an examination of the spinal fluid.

"A more severe type of the disease is known as the bulbar type of infantile paralysis. Its onset is more sudden, usually vomiting and rise of temperature. In a few hours there is noticed a great difficulty in swallowing along with the neck signs. There may be paralysis of one side of the face, and paralysis of one-half of the body may rapidly follow.

"If paralysis spreads to involve the muscles of breathing, death quickly ensues.

"It has been recognized in previous epidemics that the use of convalescent serum, not later than 48 hours after the onset of symptoms, tends to prevent or lessen the subsequent paralysis, but once paralysis is evident, which usually occurs three to seven days after the onset of symptoms, treatment by the use of the serum is of no avail.

"Another type of case is one where a patient simply appears out of sorts, a little more irritable than usual, does not take food well, and temperature may be normal. In four or five days it is noticed that he does not walk well, has difficulty going upstairs, and if laid on the floor, has difficulty in rising to a standing position. Cases of this kind can be looked as mild attacks of infantile paralysis, as shown by general muscular weakness. A child showing the above symptoms should be put at absolute rest in bed, in order to give the muscles the best chance to recover."

How One Woman Fought Paralysis

Says Her Child Is Well and Strong; Mixed Patience, Prayer and Effort.

OWING to the scare of infantile paralysis which is disturbing the peace of mind of many parents just now, The Examiner reprints a letter received (and printed) in 1928, from a subscriber who signed herself "Mrs. R. L." The letter follows:

"These are the methods used in four cases of Infantile Paralysis, two in Saskatchewan, one in Manitoba and one in Ontario. They were all children ranging in ages from 2 years and 4 months (my own child) to 5 years.

"In the morning bathe the arms or legs, whichever are effected, in warm water to which is added 1 tablespoon of mustard. Just throw the water on for about 3 minutes with the hands, the object being to get the pores open. Have a mixture ready of 2 tablespoons of castor oil and 2 tablespoon camphorated oil, then pat the limbs dry and rub in the oils with a steady circular motion. My girl, being very ill, screamed terribly, and fainted, but I kept on. Then wrap the limbs in cotton batting (sterilized) from the hips to the toes, pull on a pair of white woollen stockings, large ones, wrap in a woollen blanket, and make comfortable. The patient, if very ill will scream and cry with the intense pain. I stopped all medicine unless a mild laxative. I gave small doses of invalid food such as beef tea, etc. Very often it was vomited, but I gave it just the same.

"Then at night, bathe in hot water (not too hot) and put one tablespoon turpentine in water and after patting dry, drop a few spots of oil of wintergreen on each joint, the knee, ankle, thigh, where it joins the body and under part of hip. Wrap again in fresh cotton wool, put on the stockings, and wrap in the blanket. Now I had to do that for three weeks, each day. The first few days it was like a nightmare, but gradually you could see a change although it wasn't until the end of the third week, that she turned of her own accord, on to her side. She had pain for three weeks on her back and only moved her head and her hands, a very little at that. Now here also is, I think, the main thing. I prayed incessantly to God for His help to direct me if I was doing wrong, as the doctor said he could not save her and would not let me rub her. But now she is 14 years old, 5 feet 6 inches in height and weighs 150 pounds. Each of the cases cured are strong healthy children, not lame, or showing any signs of ever having this terrible disease. I do hope and pray that what I have written will enable other mothers to save their children. All those cured can play baseball, climb trees, ride bicycles, and in fact, seem stronger than others.

A SUGGESTION

(Cobourg World)

THE suggestion was recently made that the Canadian militia be uniformed in a distinctive manner so that it can be easily identified when marching in Coronation processions. We suggest that some adaptation of the Indian war dress—complete with feather bonnet—be worked out. At the same time our warriors might be armed with bows and arrows and scalping knives—equipment which would be quite as effective as the obsolescent armament with which they are now provided.

If we are not prepared to support adequate armed forces, properly trained and equipped for modern war, by all means let us turn the militia into a good show. Nothing pleases the public, especially those of a juvenile turn of mind, better than Indians. So let us put away khaki and scarlet and raise a few tribes of redskines who can amuse even if they can not defend us.

DIVIDENDS

(Muskogee, Okla., Phoenix)

THERE is a good chuckle in the story of the Chattanooga storekeeper who put up an empty cigar box in his store under a sign reading:

"Police got my slot machine; please put your money here." The chuckle comes from the fact that his patrons took him at his word, so that in a few days the box was nearly full of coins.

The average American likes a joke, and isn't above tossing away a nickle if it appeals to his sense of humor. The point, however, is that the customers who "played" this cigar box got just about as much for their money as they would have got if the slot machine had never been removed.

The average slot machine is an everything-goes-in, nothing-comes-out proposition. You might just about as well put your money in an empty cigar box, for all you are likely to get out of it. Indeed, these Chattanooga players are probably ahead of the game; they at least got a chuckle for their money.

SHADY STORIES

(Financial Post)

IN THE monthly magazine of the Rotary Clubs we find a stimulating letter from a Rotarian out in California. He objects to those occasional speakers who seek to give their remarks a little extra punch by telling stories that are slightly off-color. He says:

"A Rotarian wants his club sessions to be of a tone that his wife or daughter would enjoy."

There is good advice here that a great many after-luncheon and after-dinner speakers could take to heart. One man, who recently told a great many shady stories at a men's banquet, was embarrassed to find later that there was a group of women in the balcony. But he should have been equally embarrassed by realising that even in the 100 per cent. male audience there were those who preferred their humor clean.

Klondyke Veterans Gather For Sourdough Reunion

D. E. Griffith of Auburn, Wash., (top left) reminisces with President Mrs. Bessie Mauro (centre) and J. J. 'Jack' Devine of Detroit at the International Reunion of Sourdoughs in Toronto when veterans of the Klondyke gold rush gathered for their annual reunion to swap tales of the days of the great northern boon. Mrs. Mauro, now a resident of Portland Ore., who was in the Klondyke in 1900-02 and again in 1911-12, went in as a governess, met her druggist husband in Nome, Alaska, and was married when they both 'came out'. Griffith is now in the grain business and Devine is a loan company appraiser. Also prominent at the gathering were Skiffington 'Skigg' Mitchell (left) Eureka, Calif., oldest living pioneer and his one-time partner, John G. 'Jack' Lind of St. Mary's, Ont. They were a famous outfit in the '98 rush to the Klondyke territory and both made fortunes. They are considered by their fellow Sourdoughs to be classic examples of the comparatively few who really did so. The International Association of Sourdoughs claims a membership approximating 7,000.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Aug. 28 (CP).—Sharp decline in Chicago corn prices caused nervousness in all North American wheat markets and at Winnipeg 2½-cent gains were almost wiped out. Hedging sales of new Canadian wheat became a market factor when support thinned near the close. Final quotations were ⅜ to ¼ cent higher.

Earlier, the brisk advance at Liverpool induced short-covering here. The buying extended when exporters sought Canadian wheat, estimated to total 600,000 bushels since Thursday's close, and brisk opening trades sent prices more than 2 cents up.

Selling of new wheat delivered the day before—2,143,000 bushels—effected late weakness. Southern selling, apparently in connection with back-spreading operations, also helped to chop gains down to a fractional basis.

C.N.E. PAYS HONOR TO OLD SOLDIER

TORONTO, Aug. 28 (CP)—Hundreds of United States veterans of the Great War, marines and the United States Navy band joined with Canadian and foreign soldiers and ex-soldiers in the warriors' parade at the Canadian National Exhibition today. The salute will be taken by Canon F. G. Scott, war padre of the Canadian corps.

George Brigden, acting president of the exhibition, countered with the suggestion the Ontario government reopen its "magnificent building" and give the educationists display facilities there. The building has been closed since the Liberal administration went into power in 1934.

BRITISH PRISONS BROADEN REFORMS

LONDON, Aug. 28—(CP)—Reforms extending wide privileges and more humane treatment to convicts in some of the smaller prisons in the British Isles, have proved so successful they will be introduced in the more populous prisons at Dartmoor, Chelmsford and Parkhurst.

In announcing the experiment, the new Home Secretary, Sir Samuel Hoare, said among the chief innovations would be the right of a prisoner to receive wages during his incarceration and to spend the income on luxuries such as cigarettes and tobacco. Hitherto prisoners in the larger jails have not been allowed to use tobacco until after serving three years of a sentence and then only if their conduct has been without blemish.

There were two possible ways of dealing with the problem of the young prisoner, Sir Samuel said. One was the method of making prison life so unattractive, the discipline so rigid and the conditions so inhuman he would be deterred by the risk of going back. In theory it might appear an effective way of keeping a young man out of prison. In actual practice it had not succeeded. Indeed, the more humane prison administration had become the lower had been the number of habitual criminals.

Sir Samuel alluded to an experiment of greater freedom at the large prison in Wakefield. There, between 400 and 500 selected prisoners carried on their work in the open without guards and slept at night 10 in a hut. More recently the men had been given the right to associate and talk freely, to smoke, read newspapers and to avail themselves of a wide range of vocational training.

The camp has been in existence for more than a year without an untoward incident.

'STAR CLOCK' IS REGULATED IN UNIQUE WAY

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Aug. 28 (CP).—F. M. Barnes, director of the meteorological observatory here, was perplexed for years. His master clock, set periodically by the stars, lost six one hundredths of a second every 24 hours if the room temperature changed two degrees.

Experts tried many devices without success. None on the market was delicate enough to prevent the variation of two degrees. The clock is set to the hundredth of a second when a certain star centres on a hair line on the reflector of the observatory telescope.

Mr. Barnes was disturbed because the "star clock" supplies the time to telegraph companies, other agencies and to ships at sea for guidance of navigators.

Talking to Frank Belyea, engineer at the Saint John General Hospital he mentioned the trouble. "I think I could fix that," Belyea volunteered.

Three days later he arrived at the observatory with an armload of wires, bulbs, and a metal contrivance shaped like a question mark. These he installed in the small room where the clock is kept in a glass vacuum arrangement.

Soon the question mark contraption was moving imperceptibly. When it went one way three light bulbs flashed. When it moved the other way they went out. The thing was a bi-metal thermometer, with two thin pieces of metal welded together, Belyea explained.

One side of the sensitive regulator expanded more than the other. When the room's temperature rose the slightest bit the thermometer bent, breaking a connection and turning off the lights. When the temperature dropped the metal contracted and bent the other way, turning on the lights. Heat from the bulbs was just enough to regulate the temperature.

So Mr. Barnes isn't perplexed any more. During the last three months the temperature in the room hasn't varied one degree. And the cost of building the regulator was $2.98.

FENELON CHURCH 102 THIS SUNDAY

LINDSAY, Aug. 28.—Believed to be the oldest place of public worship in Victoria County, St. James' Anglican Church in the village of Fenelon Falls will celebrate its 102nd anniversary on Sunday. The original frame church, built in 1835, is still standing, though unused at present for services.

Situated at the top of a steep hill, the old building forms a landmark which can be seen for miles around. It is surrounded by the old Anglican Cemetery, wherein rest many of the pioneers of this district. This burial ground has not been used for many years and all the monuments date back for at least half a century.

Members of the Anglican parish now worship in a brick building at the foot of the hill. Among the early worshippers at the old church was William Langton, author of "A History of Upper Canada," in which book appear several sketches of the old settlement, drawn by his daughter, Anne.

The old church was only discontinued for the reason that the older members of the congregation found it a most difficult task to ascend the steep hill to attend divine worship. Last summer the building was threatened by fire, when a blaze broke out in the adjacent woods. The local fire department saved the historic structure.

A link with the old days will be seen on Sunday, when the original Holy Communion service, presented to the church in 1838 by Mrs. Kirkpatrick, will be used.

SMALL OUTLAY TO MODERNIZE VILLAGE HOMES

(Examiner Correspondence)

HASTINGS, Aug. 28.—Much surprised to learn that people in this village are living in houses that were the same as fifty years ago, George Fleming of Red Deer, Alta. is visiting his cousin, Arthur Fleming, here. Speaking to The Examiner correspondent he said that in his estimation, $200 would modernize any of the village homes.

Hastings is not the only small town that is behind the time; most of the small towns in Ontario are the same way. Most of Alberta, except the drought-stricken areas are right up to date as far as homes are concerned, and also British Columbia. He claims he has travelled considerably over the continent and the most beautiful city in either North or South America he had visited was Victoria, B.C., an up-to-date city in every respect.

Mr. Fleming has many relations in this district and has met many of his old school chums. His business has been photography, but has been compelled to take an extended holiday due to poor health.

U.A.W. MAPS DRIVE TO ORGANIZE FORD

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 28 (AP)—The United Automobile Workers of America mapped a "vigorous and continuous" campaign today to organize the 125,000 Ford Motor Co. employees, and pledged a $400,000 war chest to finance it.

Whipped to an enthusiastic peak by the leadership and peace-making influence of their dynamic C.I.O. chief, John L. Lewis, the U.A.W. convention delegates prepared the machinery for a drive against the "only outstanding automobile corporation that has not been unionized."

In a resolution, the convention pledged "full financial and moral support" of the union to the campaign in order that the U.A.W. "will be able to sign an agreement with the Ford Motor Company by the first of the year."

The resolution, adopted by a standing vote which developed into a demonstration, authorized a $1 a member special assessment.

A few hours earlier the delegates had heard Lewis declare "It doesn't make any difference how long it takes to organize the Ford plants. The U.A.W. is going to accomplish that task."

In Detroit, Harry Bennett, personnel director for the Ford Motor Co. and spokesman for Henry Ford, said the company "never will" make an agreement with the U.A.W.

The soothing presence of Lewis was noticeable immediately after his address yesterday.

The policy of the sit-down strike, submitted in the report of Homer Martin, U.A.W. president, earlier in the sessions, was reaffirmed in a convention resolution.

BALTIMORE HAS REAL LINK WITH PIONEER DAYS

Old Woollen Mill North of Cobourg Is Still Operating

One of Few Surviving Manufacturing Industries of Pioneer Days.

Nestling in a picturesque valley among the "hills of old Northumberland", lyrically apostrophized by Mrs. McKee-Bingham in the ballad she composed a year or two ago, is the quiet little hamlet of Baltimore, five miles north of Cobourg on the road to Roseneath and Hastings, and by the stream that winds through dells and glens is Eastwood Brothers' woollen mill, one of the few surviving manufacturing industries of pioneer days before the invention of electricity.

Two brothers, Archibald W. and Ethan W. Eastwood, are manufacturers of the old school of individualism that preceded the modern age of mergers and corporations. They produce homespun cloth for quiltings, knitting yarn and all wool blankets, just as in the days of the early settlers when men clipped wool from their sheep, washed it and took it to the mill to be made into the domestic articles their families needed. Their mill is an anachronism, but it struggles on against the stupendous opposition of the great textile structure in this country which has long since absorbed all the little industries that once served the hardy pioneers now only names engraved in faded and mossy granite in wayside cemeteries.

The mill was silent Wednesday when an Examiner reporter bound elsewhere noticed its business sign board, and stopping, went no farther that afternoon. One way to reach Baltimore is to motor down through Bewdley to Dale, where the highway turns west to Oshawa and Toronto. At that paved junction you turn east, crossing the county road to Plainville and Gore's Landing, and continuing until you reach the neat homes and lawns of Baltimore.

Machine 100 Years Old

For all its refinements, the making of wool into yarn and cloth is an ancient industry, fundamentally the same as when the first weaving looms were invented. Its four main branches are carding, spinning, weaving and finishing. The carding machine in the Eastwood mill is probably one hundred years old, but the Eastwood Brothers with a simple and modest pride of workmanship will tell you of the durable qualities of their products that are almost incredibe.

There was a woman, for instance, who called at the mill a few years ago for a pair of blankets to replace two she had received from her mother-in-law in 1865.

"She told us no one knew how long they had been in the family before that," Archibald Eastwood said.

Of the artifices of the modern trade the Eastwood Brothers can tell you things the layman perhaps never heard of, and by contrast they point to their wool and with eloquent brevity inform you that nothing else is woven into their products. There is no shoddy around the place, and never has been.

Father Built Mill

The mill has been in the family fifty years. The present wooden building was erected by Elmer M. Eastwood, father of the proprietors, in 1883. He had come to Northumberland from New York State and worked in his mill until he died in 1930. Prior to the Eastwood ownership, a woollen mill had stood on the same site probably another fifty years, at least a century all told, according to the misty knowedge that remains only as local memory and tradition. John Gordon operated a mill there before Elmer Eastwood, and William Campbell had preceded Gordon.

"In my father's time," one of the brothers said, "women from the country used to bring wool from their own flocks to be carded. At home they made yarn of it on their own spinning wheels, and oftey they would bring back most of the yarn to be woven into blankets and homespun cloth. That custom of course has entirely disappeared. In fact we know of only one other mill like ours. It is located at Bamer, a village up in Hastings county."

Harnessing Water Power

The Baltimore creek first attracted not only the woollen mill but also a grist mill a short distance up the stream. When the industry was in its infancy during the long period of the pioneers, the creek was dammed to provide a head of water sufficient to drive the machinery. The elementary engineering problem was to harness the natural energy of the creek and transfer it to shafts and pulleys with which the carding, spinning and weaving machines are connected. The water wheel is enclosed in a flume at the east end of the dam, and its operation is controlled by the raising of a gate which lest the water, raised to the level of the dam, flow through the flume thereby turning the wheel.

Most people have seen this type of power generation at some time or other. If you ever visit the Eastwood mill you will see the archaic type of plant which was duplicated along every stream in the province fifty and seventy-five years ago. Inside the factory the control wheel, about the size of the steering wheel of an automobile, is actually the counterpart of the electric switch board in the large manufacturing plants. In this old woollen mill water power has not been replaced by electric power. Hence there is no electric switch to be closed; just the opening of the watergate, followed by the rotation of the main shaft and the rumbling of pulleys through the building.

First the wool is carded, which is simply a combing job, straightening the fibres preparatory to spinning them into yarn.

Woollen Warp and Woof

Finally the yarn is woven on the looms into cloth and blankets. The warp is strung in the machine like wires in a harp, and the woof shuttles back and forth weaving the fabric which finally has to go through a finishing process. Bolts of the homespun cloth are kept in stock, two shades of gray, one of blue and another of attractive brown. It is fifty-four inches wide and sells at $2.50 a yard. A suit of that cloth is positively without any shoddy, and the Eastwood men say that not only is it warm for winter but it is remarkably cool for summer wear.

Tourists passing along the Baltimore road often stop at the mill. Professor C. T. Currelly, curator of the Toronto museum, has left orders for cloth and blankets at times, and severals orders have been sent to Herbert Cater, of Virginia, probably the farthest distance in the United States. Eastwood products have been sent.

Remnant of the Past

Interest in the Eastwood Brothers and their factory out of the past shifts from their continuing enterprise and their cloth and blankets to a vision of the early days in Canadian industry when water-powered woollen mills, usually owned by one man, were scattered all over this country. In that respect the Baltimore mill seems vestigial, a little factory that has escaped the maw of modern corporative consolidations of just such units of industry that once hummed by mill streams in most of the hamlets of Ontario. There is something human and sentimental about it, and you fancy that in pastoral quiet of Baltimore one of the last of those individualist industries is still fighting a valiant retreat against the overwhelming forces that have combined against it.

Perhaps it is all hopeless in the long run, although the loom can clatter defiantly when business takes on briskness; but if you are one of those who believe society and the state have lost something of sound value with the disappearance of all the little industries that vanished when the mergers came into being, you will find that Baltimore and the Eastwood Brothers' woollen mill a factory which will seem typical of your ideal and will likely convince you that the concentration of employment in great cities is socially, at least, no gain over the old order of manufacture by little mill streams.

$1,000 IS GIVEN BY LOCAL CHINESE TO AID RED CROSS

Eight thousand miles' distance makes the Sino-Japanese war seem a matter of remote concern to most Peterborough people but not to the city's little community of Chinese. Already more than $1,000 has been sent from here to the Chinese Red Cross by loyal nationals of the war-torn country and more is to go, it was learned today.

An indication of the new sense of nationalism which has come to Chinese this world over during the past several years, the initial contribution was a spontaneous gesture on the part of Peterborough's little group of fifty orientals. At a recent meeting held for the purpose of raising the money, general willingness to contribute further sums as time goes on was expressed.

Sent Directly

The money was sent directly to China rather than the larger fund being raised in Canada by Toronto Chinese.

"Now that war is on, very glad to see Chinese resistance," one member of the colony explained laconically. "Very different now from 1932. Our money small but may help beat the Japanese."

He said his Chinese compatriots here and elsewhere feel the transformation which has come over their people. In 1932 the Japanese fought through an unorganized resistance of a people with little sense of nationalism, he said.

The picture is vastly changed today. The great country was at last after countless centuries under unified political and military control. At last it had a modern army and an air force.

Outcome Doubtful

Would the Chinese be able to drive the Japs out once and for all this time? Chinese here dare not hope too much, said the spokesman, proprietor of a prominent cafe. The Chinese resistance may dissuade the Japanese from their aggression in central China but to drive the modern mechanized forces of invaders out of north China may be too much, he said.

Only one or two local Chinese come from the war areas to the north, most being natives of the Canton region to the south. However, several have relatives and friends in the war areas, it was learned. No word of these countrymen has been heard since the hostilities broke out.

No Man Shortage

Chinese here said none of their number in this city is considering returning to fight. No call has been received, they said. The problem is a shortage of war equipment, not a shortage of man power, they explained.

One member of the colony scouted the suggestion that Chinese and Japanese are born enemies. The Chinese would be willing to accept the Japanese as friends if the Japs would allow it, he said. The persistent autocratic aggression of the Japanese in China has been more than the Chinese people can be expected to tolerate, he explained.

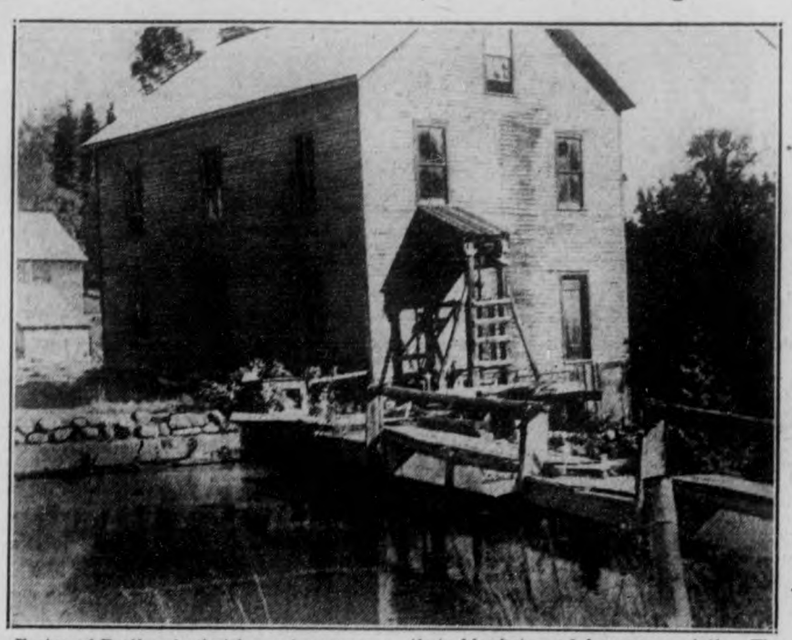
Northumberland Woollen Mill Survives Mergers



Eastwood Brothers' primitive water power and factory at Baltimore on Cobourg-Hastings road. At the left end of the dam is the flume and water wheel which transfers the dammed up energy of the little stream to the machinery. The carding machine is said to be nearly a century old, but the proprietors are proud of their yarn, their blankets and homespun cloth. The picture shows the rear of the building with the upright shaft geared to the main shaft in the interior. Mills of this tye were common on all the little streams in the days of the pioneers. Few of them have survived the corporative age and its combines and mergers.

Terriers Most Popular Dog With Boston Bulls Second

Peterborough's Dog Population Runs Around the 700 Mark.

The city's dog population runs around the 700 mark, and so far police have issued 660 license tags which leaves but a small proportion outstanding.

Records reveal that terriers lead the way in popularity, with Boston bulls and white-haired terriers in the majority. Taking the various kinds of terriers which include the two previously mentioned in addition to toy, fox, Irish, Scotch, Yorkshire, Manchester, Aberdeen, etc., which are all found in the license registration records there are no less than 169 in the city, with a couple of Kerry blue terriers bringing the figure to 171.

Cocker, springer and water spaniels would appear to be next in popularity among dog lovers of the city. A total of 105 tags were issued for spaniels including a kennel license for this breed of dog.

Pekingese and poms, with a poodle or two including one of the French variety, and setters and hounds occur frequently in the record book but Samoyeds, Daschunds, Whippets, Doberman Pinschers, Newfoundlands, Dalmatians, English bulls and English and German sheep dogs are all in the one-figure class.

The canine population includes 39 collies and 32 police dogs, and 74 who are listed as mongerels or remain unclassified.

COUNTY HERD IS SHOWN AT C. N. E.

Ready for another attempt to win honours for Peterborough County in the inter-County Holstein herd competition at the Canadian National Exhibition, officials of the local Holstein Breeders Association shipped thirteen of the district's finest Holstein cattle to Toronto on the C.P.R. railway this afternoon. The animals will be entered in individual competition during the week in accordance with the herd competition requirements of qualification and then six will be selected for the herd competition itself next Saturday.

Two animals each were supplied by Matchett Brothers of Otonabee, Mann Brothers of Smith, Stewart Nelson of Otonabee, and Norman McConkey of Peterborough. Joe Tully of Otonabee supplied four and Archie Shearer of Otonabee one.

Peterborough County's entry this year will be its third. Two years its entry obtained fifth honors and last year won eighth place. Breeders are in hopes of improving their position this year but are anticipating very stiff competition.

TOMATOES SELL 25 CENTS BASKET

A flood of Duchess apples appeared on the Farmers Market this morning as a feature of the biggest volume of produce of the harvest season. The apples sold at 30 cents a peck. Tomatoes were in large volume at 25 cents for the 11-quart basket.

Corn was more scarce at 15 cents a dozen or two for 25 cents. Potatoes brought 90 cents to $1.25 a bag. Offered in large volume were mellons, canteloupes, pickling onions and cucumbers and peppers. A few pumpkins put in an appearance.

Egg prices were firm between 25 and 28 cents and chickens were 23 to 25 cents, year-olds selling at 16 to 18 cents. Butter brought 28 to 30 cents a pound.

IS IN NEW LOCATION.

Obliged to move because of alterations made at the Grand Opera House in which premises he has done business for over a year past, Fred Cripps is taking up a new location for his photographic studio over the Lillow-Walkwell Shoe Store on the east side of George street between Simcoe and Hunter streets.

REGRET TRAIL IMPROVEMENT.

Several citizens who know the Oregon Trail told the Examiner they read with regret that the old road is to be greatly improved by the Department of Highways. They were not critical because they said they realized that traffic was steadily increasing in all directions, but they considered the Trail in good condition for motoring, and they expect its old curves will be straightened and its hollows levelled.

SCOW'S TIMBERS PARTED.

The new 44-ton shovel bought by the Johnston Construction Company for work on the Oregon Trail was loaded on a scow at Lakefield Friday as reported, but it was also promptly unloaded when several big leaks were sprung in the bottom. A Johnson pumper was put to work trying to empty the scow but the water flowed in faster than it could be pumped out, and the big machine was rushed back to the dock. Its transportation to the north shore of Stoney Lake is still a problem for the contractor.

FISHING RIGHT AT HOME.

No one could make Harold Rye believe that there isn't some newspaper conspiracy to boost every other fishing grounds in the district except the stretch of the Otonabee River from his boat house down to Wallace Point. Ray Kitchen hocked a twelve pounder a short time ago between Crawford's Grove and the Locks, but was there any mention of it? No; and was there mention of other fish caught at Lakefield, Trent Bridge, Pigeon Creek and so on? There was. The Kitchen muskie wasn't a piscatorial phenomenon in the Rye water, either, for there have been quite a number caught in that part of the river.

QUEBEC TEXTILE CREWS JUBILANT AS STRIKE ENDS

QUEBEC, Aug. 28. (CP)—Quebec textiles workers, jubilant over settlement of their four-weeks-old walkout which dealth a paralyzing blow to Canada's most important textile producer, start back to work Monday.

Premier Maurice Duplessis announced the end of the strike yesterday after a round-table parley with representatives of the disputants—the Dominion Textile Company and the National Catholic Federation of Textile Workers.

The settlement sends 10,000 men and women back to their machines in Dominion Textile's chain of nine plants in six cities and towns in Quebec Province.

On behalf of its members who sought collective bargaining rights and higher wages or shorter hours, the Federation called the strike Aug. 2. Closing of the nine plants which normally provide the bulk of Canada's textile products followed.

Discussion yesterday ended with announcement by Mr. Duplessis of a temporary agreement based on Quebec's new Fair Wage Act which becomes effective Sept. 1.

The strikers go back to work as quickly as the mills are reopened and can absorb them. They will be paid the same wages as formerly but the Fair Wage Board established by the Act will decide the question of pay and any difference will be made retroactive from the time of resumption of work.

ILLICIT LIQUOR IS SEIZED IN HARVEY

John Francis Willington Freeman and Percy M. Middleton, both of Harvey Township, were remanded without plea until Monday, when they appeared before Justices of the Peace V. Eastwood and S. R. Armstrong this morning, charged with breaches of the Excise Act.

Arrested at their residence, six miles north of Bobcaygeon, on Friday afternoon by Corporal T. J. Woods of Lindsay R.C.M.P. detachment, the pair were found in possession of 4 gallons and 2 pints of illicit spirits, the charges allege.

The corporal is said to have found the spirits in a cleverly concealed cache behind some panelling in a bedroom at the head of the stairs. He also found on the premises some copper piping, a boiler and oil stove which was confiscated to the Crown.

Legion To Honor Fallen Heroes

Member of the local branch of the Canadian Legion together with any other ex-servicemen who desire to attend, will parade to Little Lake Cemetery on Sunday afternoon to decorate the graves of 180 of their former comrades in arms. Speakers for the occasion will be Mayor George Macdonald, Lieut.-Colonel J. J. Duffus, M.P., and Adjutant Neil Warrander, president of Peterborough Ministerial Association. The parade will form up at the Legion Hall on Murray street at 2 o'clock p.m., and ex-servicemen will wear berets and medals. The band of Prince of Wales Rangers will be in attendance, by kind permision of the officer commanding.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, August 29

Sunday's horoscope holds testimony of disturbed, disagreeable and probably sinister affairs that may cause either loss and confusion or an emotional upset that would prove disastrous. There are omens of strife, recklessness, jealousy and enmity as well as undercurrent situations. Change may be desirable to meet this mysterious menace.

Those whose birthday it is are likely to encounter a year of some chaotic, peculiar or intriguing conditions that may incite them to strife, enmity, jealousy and rash or violent activities. Such indulgences may prove distressing if not disastrous, and conditions might best be mended by change or removal, "discretion being the better part of valor."

A child born on this day may have a conflicting and contradictory nature, with deep, designing and subtle proclivities.

For Monday, August 30

Monday's astrological forecast is for fairly pleasant and profitable conditions in the realm of the domestic, social or affectional interests, while business seems to be clouded by trickery, dishonesty, false repute or other adverse influences. All these call for cleverness, wariness and discretion, especially in relation to business papers, "talk" or writings.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a fairly active year, but with the social, domestic or romantic life claiming paramount attention. Deceit, gossip, rumor or subtle frauds loom, and call for vigilance, precaution and fine acumen to avert dangers and distress.

A child born on this day may be clever and adaptable, but a tendency to carelessness with writings and in speech may subject it to criticism and many difficulties in life. It should have early training in this regard.

SINGLE OX CART SUPPLIED VILLAGE IN PIONEER DAYS

MARMORA, Aug. 30.— Memories of the days when he was a boy of fifteen were re-awakened in the mind of Jacob Wilkes, eighty year old resident of this village as he revisited his birthplace on lot 26 in the 5th concession of Marmora Township last week-end on a berry picking expedition.

Sixty-five years ago I cradled wheat where those blackberries now grow and where second growth maples have been tapped in recent years by George Franklin, my brother-in-law, the present owner of the property," he related to The Examiner. "One year the yield of wheat was exceptionally good and that year I had an experience which vividly came to mind this past week-end. One of our neighnors, James Scott, father of Joseph Scott, of Marmora, was the only man in our settlement to own an ox cart and it would be often borrowed. One day I took a load of grain into Marmora grist mill when Joe Stapley was the miller for the late T. P. Pearce. I used our team and borrowed Mr. Scott's cart.

After getting the grist from the mill I decided to water the oxen at the old wharf at the Iron Works. The oxen fell in head first and after I blocked the wheel, I received assistance from Benjamin Prentice. Fortunately the tongue of the ox cart was resting on Pearces boom. We took out the cow key and released the bow to let the oxen one at a time swim around to the end of the pier to land. We were able to back the cart out and reyoke the oxen and return home without further mishap. When I told Mr. Scott of the incident he said, 'Bedad, Jake it was a good job that boom was there or the cart and the oxen would both have been overboard.' The loss of the cart would have meant grief in the whole settlement for Mr. Wilkes mentioned that everybody used the cart for drawing potash to Marmora to sell it to the late Benjamin Johnson, J.P., who kept a pretentious store for those days, on the property where Mrs. F. N. Merrett now resides.

Answering enquiries regarding sugar bushes, Mr. Wilkes thought that maples should be about forty years old before being tapped, and concerning cradles he mentioned that three kinds had been in use. First there was the "ox bow" with which the earliest pioneers would be most familiar. This was doomed to go out of fashion after several years. Then there was the "go ahead." The late Joseph Corby, the oldest and best known cradler in Marmora township in Mr. Wilkes' earlier days used this type. And the last type was the "grape vine," more like the scythe of to-day. The odd specimen which may be seen preserved in a barn or drive house in parts of the township. "Time brings changes," aptly commented this reconteur of stories of Marmora's happenings and customs around the 70's.

Sparks from the Preacher's Anvil

Deception is no uncommon thing, especially in the realm of the spirit. We face it on every side. Nothing is more despicably destructive to man's soul and his salvation. Through the centuries an archdeceiver has been at work to devour man and separate him from his God. In Eden's garden, at Calvary, and now in the individual's experience, the God of this age (Satan) has blinded the minds of them that believe not.

But there need not be a deception in spiritual things. A true revelation from God in His Word has been granted. This, if received, will disillusion men. It states that we are sinners needing salvation, that Christ alone saves, that there is cleansing and deliverance through the shed blood of Jesus, that Christ's righteousness and not man's good works makes the sinner acceptable before God, that active, penitent faith in a definite acceptance of Jesus as Saviour is the way back to a right relationship with God, that when an individual neglects or rejects Christ as Saviour there is transgression in the highest act of disobedience which has nothing but hell and eternal judgment at its end. Be not deceived but accept this irrefutable revelation of God concerning your salvation. There is no better way to live—this is the message of Bethany Tabernacle (George Street). Services, 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Rev. W. McArthur, pastor.

THOUGHTS FOR THE WEEK
In the street you learn a man's manners; at home, his breeding; at church, his creed; in the shop, his religion. Two men looked out through prison bars: one saw mud—the other, stars. If you can find no bright side in your life, then learn to polish up the dark side. Don't nose around too much. You are your brother's keeper, but not his book-keeper. The daily papers can tell you what happened yesterday, but only the Bible can tell you what is going to happen to-morrow.

Dizzing Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

LOT of phone calls at this desk the other day asking about the Farr-Louis fight in N'Yawk, which was postponed from Thursday till next Monday. Seems to be a bit of interest, though odds easily favor the Negro. We doubt if any heavyweight contender ever got himself so heartily disliked in such a short time before as the talkative Tommy. He is in wrong with nearly everyone, including his own countrymen. And the general opinion is that he'd better save some of his threats to punch this guy's nose and that gent's jaw for the ring, as he'll need all his punching ability when the Brown Emblaimer begins to belt the Welshman into oblivion. The interest is a tribute to the ballyhoo manufactured by expert praise agents for Madison Square Garden, since Farr was unheard of six months ago and has no more business, apparently, going in against Louis than we have!

HEAVY drilling for the Orfuns commences Monday night, and uniforms will be given out at that time. They'll continue to workout at King Edward Park till the ball season is over at Riverside. Squad is cut down to about 30 now with plenty of weight and experience evident in the gang remaining. Schedule won't start for another three weeks or so—we're not even sure of the locals' grouping yet—and the Peterborough O.R.F.U. outfit should be whipped into fine shape for the first fracas.

* * * * * * *

COACH BILL TURNBULL hasn't all the guys out he wants to, but some of 'em like Sloan, Magee, Crowe, Jerry Creighton and Red Creighton, are still mixed up in lacrosse. They ought tobe in good shape, anyway. Long, Kearns and Jakafby of the ball team haven't been out with the team yet, either, but are expected shortly. Gerow won't be playing rugby this autumn. Other huskies Bill would like to see at the drills include Weir, Merrett, Kirkwood and Sedgewick. Several of the newcomers are showing a lot of promise, Loucks and Begley of Lindsay, Gemmell of the '36 P.C.I. crew, Bartle of Brantford, a red-headed quarterback whose monicker we don't know, and a chap who played in Winnipeg. Quite a bunch of the good 1936 Orfuns are battling for berths again.

* * * * * * *

GOOD WISHES have been sent the Westclox gal softballers by Ernie Foote, coach of the Cobourg lasses. It is a sporting gesture by the hot-headed Lakeshore mentor who, no doubt, now regrets his hasty action in taking his team off the field when down 11 runs going into the ninth against Westclox last Monday. Ernie is okay but lets his scrappy spirit over-rule his reason in the heat of the game. He was wrong all the way through in this argument and hurt his own cause by pulling the gals off the diamond. Impulses in the heat of a torrid tussle often assume a totally different aspect in the calm judicial atmosphere of the committee room when league officials sit in judgment over a protest. Pilots and players must learn to stay in the game regardless of how it is going or how many umpire's decisions go the other way. A team that leaves the ice or field and refuses to finish a game has two strikes on it henceforth.

* * * * * * *

WE RECALL an incident last winter in our Senior City Hockey League when angry Lakefield players started to leave the ice after getting some raw deals from the referee. Their manager wisely stopped them. Dunno how that game ended but Lakefield eventually won the loop title. Which was much better than being suspended and maybe tossed out of the circuit, eh? Perhaps some excuse may be found to yell about umpires or referees in a tight tilt but we have never—despite frequent raps at officials—screamed "we wuz robbed" when a local club lost by a lopsided score. It is an insult to your readers' intelligence to say the referee was responsible for the loss when the score is, for instance, 32-15, like the Auburns' win over Belleville recently. Or don't you agree, Kenny?

* * * * * * *

CORBIN LOCKS of Belleville were beaten, 8-2, before a goodly gathering last e'en at Riverside, the Westclox men softballers thereby evening up their O.A.S.A. playdown serial. Some timely bingling, plus a flock of Quinte boots, gave the locals their runs. And Ted Naish twirled nice steady ball and had excellent backing all the way. Kearns had the only error, being too sure of a high fly late in the fray after making some nice catches and starting a double-play. Ellis and O'Leary led the hitters. No doubt, Bawden will do the flinging for Belleville in the third game—with Lefty Sturgeon maybe for the Baptie boys—and the game is slated for here Monday night. Belleville got a guarantee and agreed to it, so it'll be staged at 6.15 in Riverside the first of the week. We think Westclox will win the round and rub out their old rivals.

* * * * * * *

KEENE GALS took a 10-5 nod over the touring Schribert team of softballers from the north country the same p.m. at the Bowl while a lot of customers looked on. The visitors didn't show a great deal and the Keenesters had it over 'em in pitching and hitting. B. McDowell and Marilyn McCarthy divided mound duties for the winners, and the other side used three hurlers, none of them having a great deal. The Schriberts are off for games in Port Hope and Cobourg this aft and evening—sort of seeing this part of Ontario and getting expenses paid.

* * * * * * *

FOUR FIGHTS enlivened things last night at a nifty lacrosse exhibition here when Auburns nosed out a 14-10 nod over New Toronto. A torrid tilt between two good teams, with some 400 or so fans getting a huge kick out of proceedings. Ye referees had a job trying to keep up with the action—much of it underhand—and trouble was brewing between the outfits all the way. The locals had a little edge over the Torontos but it was as far from being a setup as Byersville is from Berlin. No one can say that the Auburns pick 'em soft, tackling them all the way up to the Orillia Terriers. Get a load of this, Oshawa, and bring your brass knucks!

* * * * * * *

UP AND DOWN Sports' Rialto: Kingston beat Oshawa yesterday in Napanee by a 2-1 count, Paczkowski pitching against Biddle.... So the Petes go into semi-finals in Oshawa on Tuesday, back here Thursday and third, if necessary, in the Motor City on Saturday.... Yeah, when Joe Daley saw the Naps were about ousted by our gang, he dug in and copped himself top place.....In a short series, if we get the pitching, the locals will rub out the 1936 Ontario champs and go into loop finals 'gainst Kingston....There is an exhibition men's softball tussle tonight at 6.45 in the Bowl between Westclox and Toronto Rexalls, a senior squad...And the soccer match at King Edward Park tonight between Kingston and C.C.F. is postponed...Those Belleville softballers didn't like that licking here a bit yesterday.... When is the next round-robin softball struggle?....Knotty Lee and his Colts arrived in town last night by bus..Westclox gals are playing off in Oshawa today..And that winds up this heavy sports week—thanks be to goodness!

Harness Racing Enjoying Boom Across Canada Rule Changes Have Stimulated Fans' Interest

Three-heat events, with every heat a race, have provided faster records — drivers are out to win every time they come on to the track.

Mack Abbey leads the field away to a fast start in a $1,000 event of North America's most famous trotting track, Goshen, N.Y. The race was run at the 1937 Grand Circuit meeting there.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 28.—"Will the harness racehorse come back?" This question has been asked many times, and it can be stated the type of racehorse referred to does not have to come back for he has always been with us.

The question is: "Will the people come back? An old saying has it that history repeats itself, and in this case it will, for the human race has always loved a good horse. With the onslaught of the machine age, the light horse was practically wiped out and the sport, for a time, appeared doomed. It was severely crippled for a time, but it has come back in a surprising manner.

Rule Changes Have Helped.

There have been two factors responsible for the uplift and growth of the harness horse sport, they being changes in the rules and the three-heat plan of racing. The parent trotting bodies realized that under the old system of classification campaigners were disinclined to take race records, and the expedient of permitting horses to win heats without incurring record penalties was evolved for the purpose of remedying this fault. Then in 1927 came the new method of classification, reference being made to the "money earned" plan, and every racing official appreciates the fact that the plan has resulted in the highest grade of contests ever witnessed.

While a few of our fairs are held in large cities, the great majority of them which offer trotting races depend for their patronage upon the rural element, and at least 75 per cent. of the people who pass through the gates are identified with agriculture; the point is that the farming element has not lost its flavor for harness racing and never will. Unless you are in close touch with conditions you may not realize that there is to-day more money offered for trotters and pacers to race for than was ever offered in the history of the sport.

Changed to 3-heat Plan.

Shortly after the revised classification came the three-heat plan of racing and this has been one of the greatest boons to the harness horse sport ever presented. This year these rules and conditions are in vogue at the Canadian National Exhibition, as they have been for years along the Grand Circuit. Since inception of the three-heat plan, faster time has been recorded, and fast time is what the crowds who fill the grandstands want to witness. The three-heat plan, every heat a race, appears to be the quality proper with the horsemen as they are paid according to where their horse finish each heat and are not compelled to race five full heats, which was the case under the old three-in-five heat system. It is nothing but natural to expect that a horse can trot or pace three heats a whole lot faster than he can five.

Forty years ago races were continued until a horse had won three heats and history shows that some of these races were carried out to seven and eight heats. It was a common occurrence for them to go five and six. The powers that be discovered that this method of racing was not interesting to the spectators, not even to dyed-in-the-wool followers of the sport, with the result, that 'gates" suffered. Hence adoption of the three-heat plan, with the result that faster time is being made and the crowds again are filling the grandstands, the trotting horse sport is enjoying one of the best seasons since the boom years of 1928-29.

Better Time Recorded.

There are plenty of instances this years in Ontario where the three-heat pan has made for faster time. A few years ago it was unheard of for horses to pace three miles over a two-lap course in better than 2.07, but it is not an uncommon thing to witness a scene such as this now. Last year at Ottawa, under this system, there were twelve heats paced better than 2.10, something really wonderful. The fastest of these was 2.05¼ by Lastic Patch, and in another event three heats were stepped in 2.06¼, 2.06¾ and 2.08¼.

Another feature in favor of the new plan is the doing away of the old habit of "laying-up" for a few heats until two or three horses in the race had raced themselves out when a driver would come on and win the race with a practically fresh horse. As time went on the spectators "got wise" to this sort of thing and consequently became disgusted with the performance never to return. Now, every time you see a field of horses go to the post you are assured of a performance worthy of witnessing, as each and every driver is trying his best; the pay-off depends upon where he finishes in each heat. All the larger meetings and those who are endeavoring to put racing on a higher plane are high in their praise of the three-heat plan. It was a sour dose for the book-maker, but he had to accustom himself to the more modern way of harness racing.

Auburns Win 14-10 Over New Toronto In Torrid Tussle

Auburns beat New Toronto, 14-10, here last night before a fair crowd in a lively exhibition lacrosse match. It was a close, rough battle all through with play getting out of the hands of the referees. Four fights marked the joust and of the 16 penalties handed out, the Auburns were guilty 10 times. The score was 5-2 for the locals in the first frame, 8-5 for them at halftime and 10-8 for the homesters starting the last heat. Both sides dished up some nice lacrosse with checking close and plenty of lone rushes for goals.

King, Whitton and Crowe looked good on the offensive for the winners with Red Creighton stopping a bunch in goal. The home defence turned in a lot of steady checking. C. Gordaneer and Henson starred on the attack for the visitors with the whole squad going good. In the first heat Vitarelli and McDonald drew majors for fighting. Dundas and Fennell had a fist fight in the second stanza. Early in the third, Mortimer and G. Creighton were chased for roughing it, and Dyer later was penalized for fighting. Red Creighton and Dunn came to blows in the final frame and both got the air.

GRIEVE RETAINS ONTARIO JUNIOR GOLFING CROWN

TORONTO, Aug. 28.—Ray Grieve, 18-year-old shotmaker from the Islington Club, Toronto, yesterday successfully defended his Ontario Junior Boys' Golf Championship in the annual thirty-six hole event, which was staged over Summit Club's exacting layout—and he did it "the hard way," too.

Young Grieve carded a 79 in the morning round to take a mere one-stroke edge over Herb Carnegie, of Toronto Glen Mawr, and Don Varey, of Brantford. Early in the afternoon, it looked as if the Ontario Golf Association was going to have its first colored champion, for Carnegie, who won renown last winter as the star centre forward of Toronto Northern Vocational School's O.H.A. junior B champions, shot a 74 to post a 36-hole total of 154. And it was known that Grieve, who was a fairly late starter, had gone one over par on each of the first two holes in his second round.

Frankhouse Beats Cincinnati In Second No-Hit Victory

Giants Fail to Gain on Cubs as Pirates Get Even Break in Twin.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Fred Melay Frankhouse, 33-year-old pitcher of the Brooklyn Dodgers, hurled the second no-hit game of the major league season yesterday when he blanked the Cincinnati Reds, 5 to 0, in the first game of a doubleheader.

Some of the glory was taken from the performance, however, when rain ended the game after seven innings of play. Frankhouse was a trifle wild, walking six men, while one other reached first on an error. Only one man got to second—Harvey Walker in the first inning, and he was erased trying to reach third.

Today's performance followed the previous no-hit game of Bill Dietrich of the Chicago White Sox, and gave Frankhouse a 1937 record of seven won and eight lost. The Dodgers collected nine single and one two-bagger—by Johnny Cooney—off Al Hollingsworth, to defeat the Reds.

Leaders Rained Out

Both of the National League leading Chicago Cubs' games with the Boston Bees were rained out, and the runner-up New York Giants failed to gain when they divided a double-header with the Pittsburg Pirates.

Ed Brant and Mace Brown combined to hold the Giants to four hits and give the Pirates a 1 to 0 victory over Cliff Melton in the opener. A slow roller by Paul Waner went for a hit in the seventh, and he went to second when Suhr walked. Todd singled sharply to drive in the only run of the contest.

In the second, the Giants stopped the Bucs 3 to 2 behind the five-hit pitching of Al Smith. Smith, making his first start since June 16, lost a shutout when Handley clouted a homer with one on in the seventh to tie the score. New York pushed home the winner in their half of the same frame when Whitehead tripled and scored on Bartell's single. Bill Swift went the route for Pitteburg and gave up seven hits.

Cards Drop Two.

The St. Louis Cardinals hopes to overtake the Giants went glimmering when they dropped both ends of a double-header to the Philadelphia Phillies. Claude Passeau scattered eight hits to take the opener 4 to 1 in which the Phils fell on Bob Weiland for all of their tallies in the first inning. After the Cards scored once in their half of the initial frame, Passeau and Weiland dueled scorelessly the remainder of the distance. The Cards dropped the nightcap 6 to 3. Bucky Walters blanked St. Louis batsmen for seven innings before he weakened for two in the eighth. Mulcahy and Lamaster stopped a Card rally after one run in the ninth. Philadelphia made all of its runs off Mike Ryba in the first four innings.

NO OVERTIME

LONDON—(CP).—A scheduled 12-round fight between Ronnie James and Douglas Kestrell ended with Kestrell's disqualification. He refused to start in the 11th round, because he signed for a 10-round bout.

Jack Wilson, Red Sox — Beat Tigers 8-5 with five hits.

Dutch Brandt, Mace Brown and Al Todd, Pirates, and Al Smith, Giants—Brandt and Brown combined in four-hit 1-0 opener win, with Todd singling winning run across; Smith stopped Bucs 5-2 with five hits in nightcap.

Cricket Results

LONDON, Aug. 28 (CP Cable) — A vicious second-innings offensive by Nottinghamshire was enough to hoist Middlesex out of leading position in the English county cricket competition yesterday. Although beaten on the first innings, Nottingham hammered Middlesex offerings for 447 runs for six wickets when stumps were drawn.

Yorkshire took advantage of Middlesex' lapse to take over the No. 1 berth after defeating Sussex by an innings and 116 runs.

As result of Friday's matches, cricket enthusiasts are watching perhaps the most keenly-fought leadership battle in first-class cricket since the competition started in 1873. The two counties—who have arranged a special "test" match on neutral grounds starting Sept. 11—have been fighting for the top spot since mid-July with honors about even.

Faced by Hedley Verity's second-innings bowling, Yorkshire now have an average of 70.66 against Middlesex' 70.43. The 32-year-old left-hander captured six Sussex wickets for 32 runs. Yorkshire posted a first-innings total of 467 against the fourth-placers 196 and 143.

Middlesex declared at 526 for nine against 316 and 447 for six when stumps were drawn. Joseph Hardstaff was the main cog in Notts' second-inning drive, posting 242, the highest score of his career. His previous high was 235 against an Australian eleven at Sydney last season.

The scores:

Nottinghamshire 316 and 447 for six (Hardstaff 243, Staples 76, Keeton 50); Middlesex 526 runs for nine wickets, declared (Hendren 139, Compton 141, Price 104, Edrich 56); at Nottingham.

Essex 278 and 319 for nine, declared; Lancashire 108 (Peter Smith four for 25, Nichols four for 42) and 94 (Peter Smith five for 14, Nichols five for 40); at Clacton.

Derbyshire 213 and 230 for eight, declared (A Pope 86, Smith 52, Worthington 50); Leicestershire 108 and 302 (Frenlice 131, Armstrong 56, George Pope four for 46); at Ashby.

New Zealanders 186 and 300 (Mooney 75); Kent 321 and 166 for nine (Chalk 66, Ridarts five for 60); at Canterbury.

PONIES FINISH IN FIRST PLACE

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Aug. 28.—(CP)—Kingston Ponies finished first in the Central Ontario Baseball League standing by beating Oshawa, 1936 Ontario champions, 2-1 in a sudden-death game here Friday. Oshawa will now meet Peterborough for the right to play Kingston in the final series for the league title. The first game will be at Oshawa Tuesday.

Jake Biddle and Tony Packowski hooked up in a pitching duel with each hurler allowing nine hits. The Ponies caught Biddle in a streak of wildness in the early innings and scored both their runs. Oshawa's run was an unearned effort in the fourth.

Biddle fanned six while Packowski fanned three. Oshawa pulled their hurler out of a hole twice by completing double plays.

Elliott was the heavy artillery for the Ponies with three hits out of four trips platewards while Arnie got the only extra base blow, a triple in the second. Oshawa's best were Foley, Wallace and Biddle with two hits apiece but Packowski kept the hits scattered and only twice did Oshawa get two hits in the same inning.

TORONTO CLUB BADLY BEATEN

TORONTO, Aug. 28 (AP). — A couple of venerable elbowers who can pitch with their heads as well as their arms, are doing their best to keep the International League race alive despite the successful efforts of Newark Bears to kill off competition.

Latest examples are Americus (Crip) Pollis of Montreal Royals and Fabian Kowalik of Buffalo Bisons, both of whom have served a good many years as minor league pitchers, and had a few flings at big-league ball. Their feats last night helped ensconce the Royals more firmly at the head of the six embattled clubs that are after three playoff posts and to put the Bisons a little closer to fourth in the standing.

Pollis just missed his second no-hit game of the year as he blanked Toronto Leafs 9-0. He didn't allow a blow until the seventh inning, when Ted Petoskey trapped a single to right. In all five Leafs got to first, two on walks and two on errors.

Royals kept a game and a half ahead of Syracuse Chiefs, who conquered Baltimore 4-2 on the strike-out flinging of Whitey Moore and a two-run rally in the ninth.

Kowalik contributed a two-hitter to Buffalo's drive for the playoffs, downing Rochester Red Wings 3-1 in the seven-inning opener of a twin bill as the Herd scored all its runs off Nuts Kleinke in the first.

The Bisons got only an even break, however, and a slight gain on Baltimore, which took its third defeat in four games. Rochester won the second half of the bill, 6-2.

Newark's Bears piled up 15 hits to whip Jersey Giants 11-2.

HASTINGS GAME CALLED IN FIFTH

HASTINGS, Aug. 28.—The Tanners came from behind last night to tie the Clerks 16 to 16 in a game called at the end of the fifth due to darkness. Played last night (Friday), it was the second game of the local softball playoffs and proved to be a free-hitting contest.

The Clerks got to Hahn for 4 singles, a double by Myles, a triple by Whitred and 4 walks to score 7 runs in the first innings. With Thompson on the mound for the Tanners, the Clerks scored 9 more in the third on 6 hits, 1 walk and 3 errors.

The Tanners scored 3 in the first innings on 4 hits. They sent Whitred to the showers in the second when they connected for 3 singles, a double by Sargent, home runs by "Curly" Scriver and Brinklow and 2 errors. They scored another in the fourth on a single and Brinklow's triple. On 3 hits, 2 walks and an error they sent 4 across in the fifth to tie up the game.

Whitred started pitching for the Clerks, but after giving up 6 hits, striking out none and walking none, he was relieved by Herrington to start the third innings. The latter allowed 11 hits, struck out none and walked 2.

Hahn started for the Tanners, but was yanked in the second after giving up 4 hits, walking 4 and striking out none. Thompson, who relieved him, also allowed 6 hits, struck out none and walked one.

The fielding honors went to Russ Jones of the Clerks, when he took Sargent's fly after a hard run in the fourth. Hahn of the Tanners led all batters with 4 hits in 4 times up. Jones and Tape led the Clerks as each had 3 hits in 4 times up. The teams:

Score by innings:	R. H. E.

MIMICO, ORILLIA WIN FIRST GAMES

TORONTO, August 28—(C.P.). — St. Catharines, Orillia and Mimico held one-game leads to-day in the playoff series for semi-final berths in the Ontario Amateur Lacrosse Association Senior group. Winners of the two best-of-three series will play off for the championship series. Brantford, seventh team in the league, was eliminated in the regular schedule.

The Saints trimmed Toronto Marlboros 21-13 in a clean, fast game at the Garden City. The Dukes were outplayed by a wide margin in the first half and were unable to fight through St. Catharines' back lines to overcome a 12-4 deficit at half time.

Marlboros outscored St. Catharines 6-5 in the third period, but that was the only time they showed superiority. Gus Madeson topped the St. Catharines players, handing out setups from his defence position, while Bill Isaacs looked good for the Dukes.

Orillia's Dominion champion Terriers battled Brampton Excelsiors right up until the final ten minutes of the game, when Cheevers and Eddie Curran scored a pair and gave the Orillia an 8-6 victory.

Both teams pressed hard from the start and Brampton had a one-point lead in the final quarter after the third ended at five-all. Connell, Orillia's strongest played in the match, notched the tying goal when his mates put the game safely away.

At Fergus, Mimico Mountaineers turned on steam in the third and final quarters to win 12-8. The teams battled to even terms in the first quarter but a spurt by Mimico set them ahead 5-3 at half time. The Mountaineers were extended to the limit to take the match.

Westclox Even Series By Beating Belleville

Local Man Softballers Cop 8-2 Win Here to Force Third O.A.S.A. Tilt.

Westclox evened up their O.A.S.A. intermediate series with Corbin Locks of Belleville here last night with an 8-2 win before a good crowd in Riverside Park. The Quinte gang had taken the first tussle at home the previous night, and the deciding game will be played in Peterborough on Monday.

The locals earned the victory here with a snappy display of fielding behind steady twirling and doing some timely hitting as well as cashing in on Belleville miscues. The visitors were sloppy in the field and, while they got as many hits, failed to count in the clutches. It was a speedy contest, lasting little over an hour.

Ted Naish hurled a good game, keeping eight hits scattered as he fanned one and issued two walks. His support was almost perfect. Con Harris on the other slab was hit hard at the start but settled away to twirl fair ball, allowing eight hits and five walks while fanning two. He had bad backing at times by his teammates, who booted six.

Mike and Jim

O'Leary had two hits in three times up and Ellis got a double and single in four. Rigby led the losers with a homer and single in four. His four-base blow with one aboard in the sixth accounted for Belleville's only markers. Catches by O'Leary, Reid and Rigby with a smart Kearns-to-Starr double-play were fielding features. All the homesters went good defensively.

Either singled in the first but a double-play cut him off. In the locals' half, Dormer walked, moved up on an out, stole third and ran home on a miscue. Kearns singled, moved ahead on an error and scored as W. Calladine was safe on a two-base error, the latter, going to third on an out and home on O'Leary's hit. Neither side did a thing in the second but Belleville had two runners on in the third, hits by Cook and Whalen being wasted. Westclox got three in their half after two were out. Starr walked, and O'Leary, Ellis, Playford and Naish all hit safely to send in the runs.

Rigby Homers

St. Louis' hit in the fourth but nothing came of it and the Petes went down in order the next two. Reid walked in the sixth and Rigby homered to drop left for two markers, and Dormer's hit left him stranded in the Baptie gang's end. Barriage singled in the seventh but go nowhere; and Westclox got two in their part when Starr walked and scored on a wild heave to the outfield by the catcher, and O'Leary walked, stole and tallied on double by Ellis. Rigby's single in the eighth came to nothing and the homesters were turned back in order, too. In the ninth, after two were out, Kearns dropped a fly by Barriage and Bawden, pinch-hitting, angled, but the next batter filed out to centre.

GEHRIG IS WHOLE SHOW IN VICTORY

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 28.—(AP). —It was Red Ruffing and Jim Bottomley day at Sportsman's Park to-day, but Lou Gehrig stole the show.

Iron Horse Lou clouted his twenty-ninth homer to start New York Yankee's scoring, and then doubled and carried the winning across himself in the eighth inning as the world champion nosed out the Browns 4 to 3. Gehrig also had a single for his third hit.

The victory, coupled with the second-place Detroit Tigers' defeat at the hands of Boston Red Sox, boosted the Yankees' American League lead to eleven and a half games.

Italy plans to spend $10,000,000 on farm colonization, land reclamation and reforestation in Italian East Africa.

Ski-Nauting

John Roosevelt, 21-year-old son of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, is pictured trying to maintain his balance as he "ski-nauts" in the surf at Cannes, France. Young Roosevelt recently created a sensation when it is alleged he hurled a glass of champagne at Pierre Pouveau, mayor of Cannes.

GOODMAN GAINS AMATEUR FINAL

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 28.—(UP). —Johnny Goodman, a veteran of the golfing wars, and Ray Billows, newcomer in big time competition, to-day battle their way into the finals of the National Amateur Golf tournament being played on the rolling Alderwood County Club courses here. The Omaha veteran and the youth from Poughkeepsie, N.Y., will meet at 35 holes to-morrow for the title.

Billows put out defending champion, Johnny Fischer, of Fort Thomas, Ky., to-day, beating him 6 up and 5 to play in the semi-finals.

Goodman had a more difficult time getting to the finals. Young Bud Ward of Tacoma, Wash., carried the former National Open champion to the 36th hole before Goodman won, 1 up.

(By Alex Morrison.
NUMBER 73.

Every divot should be replaced by you or your caddy. All players and caddies know this for they are continually being reminded of it. But during the hot weather both become listless and inclined to overlook the matter.

This is just the time when it should be given more attention. The hot sun bakes most of our courses so dry that any digging up of the turf becomes a serious thing, particularly when the roots of the grass are left exposed to the sun.

At one time it was the custom to send a letter to the club member who did such things to the course. In these letters the offender was very politely but adequately rebuked for his failure to adhere to the rules of etiquette of the game. This custom seems to have been set aside in favor of small signs placed around the course. The whole thing doesn't register with the average player until he finds the ball resting deep in a divot hole he left unfilled by some neglectful club member.

Every inch of turf must fight for its life during the hot weather. The care it needs during the summer is an item of expense. In most cases the grass will continue to grow if you properly replace the divot, and it takes but a little thought and time to add to your enjoyment of the game and at the same time keep down the expense.

Il Duce-Miner

Benito Mussolini, Italy's top man, has been photographed as aviator, soldier and farmer. Here we see him in the garb of a miner at Grotta Caida, near Palermo in Sicily. The original wearer was evidently a bigger man physically as it attested to by the long sleeve. Il Duce visited Sicily for the first time in 13 years as part of the military and naval manoeuvres to show the strategic importance of Sicily as a Mediterranean base.

HAVELOCK HOLDS SOFTBALL HONORS EASTERN ONTARIO

(Examiner Correspondence).

HAVELOCK, Aug. 28.—The Havelock "Albions" last year's Eastern Ontario Intermediate "C" softball champs, maintained their title this season, when they defeated the Napanee "Micmacs" 7 to 4 last evening, taking the final round in two straight games, winning their first in Napanee last Wednesday 19 to 10. The visitors have entered a protest to the O.A.S.A. claiming that the local squad did not follow regulations when Brunton was not wearing a team sweater during the game in Napanee. This however is not worrying the Albions manager, H. T. Mathison who is already looking forward to the prospects of having an Ontario championship when his team enters the finals with the Western Ontario winner. The locals do not expect to see further O.A.S.A. competition for at least another week.

Woods on the mound for the locals displayed a fast ball which kept the visitors scoreless for six innings, during which time Blazetich the Napanee hurler allowed eleven hits, scoring seven Havelock runs. Napanee finally got to Woods in the seventh however and scored three runs. A new battery, Brunton pitching and Hagerman catching, replaced Woods and Wrightly in the eighth and although Napanee succeeded in loading bases in both the eighth and ninth, the Havelock squad held them to a single run. Renwick displayed some excellent fielding at this time making spectacular catches in centre field for the final put-out in both stanzas.

The teams:

Napanee—Miller, 1b; Card, lf; Murphy, 2b; J. Stinson, ss; Curry, rf; D. Stinson, 3b; Thompson, c; Garrett, cf; Blazetich, p.

Havelock—Voyer, 2b; Hill, 3b; Mathison, 1b; Hagerman, ss; Woods, p; Whalen, rf; Wrightly, c; Brunton, lf; Renwick, cf.

Score by innings:

Napanee	000 000 301—4
Havelock	320 200 000—7

Umpire—Edon Pirie, Havelock.

WINNIPEG WHEAT PRICES STEADIER

WINNIPEG, Aug. 28.— (CP). — Wheat prices on the Winnipeg grain exchange steadied this week on strength of improved export buying of Canadian wheat and lack of beneficial rains in Argentina. These factors offset increased hedging sales resulting from new spring wheat deliveries in the Canadian west.

Recovering from declines of more than eight cents scored last week, futures finished the week Friday, 1⅝ to 2⅝ cents higher with October at $1.24¼, December $1.21 and May 1.22⅝-¾.

Trade was featured by excellent absorption of hedging sales. Movement of wheat from eastern farms climbed above the 2,000,000-bushel mark on Friday, but it was reported only about 40 per cent. of the deliveries was hedged.

Private and government authorities are now making surveys of wheat yield and one private estimate indicated production in the prairie provinces would be 160,000,000 bushels this year.

RUSTLE OF SILKS

By
MARIE BLIZARD

READ THIS FIRST:

Mary Barrett, ambitious to become a dress designer, has established herself in Paris through a partnership with Countess Anetka that was made possible by Mark Sutherland, an American playboy she met on shipboard. Mary likes Mark but misses Tony Castle, owner of a smart New York shop who gave her her start. She left the Castle shop suddenly nearly three years previously after an altercation with Tony's head buyer. More and more she realizes she is in love with Tony. Her success in Paris has been phenomenal and, thanks to Mari Barat, the name she has assumed, Anetka's shop is growing famous. Mark Sutherland, in Paris again, tells Mary he has big plans for her. Mark introduces Mary to a prominent American fashion editor, Claire Todd.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 20

IN THE town car—Mark always rented a town car when he didn't have one of his own cars in Paris—Mary folded her dramatic black and red cape around her.

"How did I do?" she asked anxiously.

"You were slightly terrific. Terrific, by the way, is the newest popular adjective in the dear old U.S.A. which you seem to have forsaken.

"Tell me about it— home," she said dreamily.

"Well, we're in the midst of a little depression which you may have heard about."

"I know, but it has helped us rather than hurt. Our prices aren't too high. What else?"

"And repeal. We don't have to slip through cellar doors any more. And sad that is. We're all too polite now, dining in the open so to speak."

Mary sighed because Mark's world was so different from her own. The world of Park avenue was far removed from what had been her world.

"I used to live at the foot of Sutton place on East Fifty-fifth street," she said from a long way off.

"Then you wouldn't know the old place. Very smart apartments have replaced the old houses in the last year."

"Oh, no," Mary protested. That would mean the last tie was broken.

"Oh, yes, and very nice they are."

Then the studio apartment was gone into the past like everything else that she had left behind her. She shook herself free of the sudden melancholy that threatened her.

"Did you think that Mrs. Todd was interested, or was she being polite when she said she'd like to see my things?"

Already Mary was beginning unconsciously to say "my things."

"You don't know Claire. She doesn't have time to do things to be polite. She's a very busy woman."

"I'm glad," Mary answered.

"If you've got what she likes, she can do things."

"What things?"

"Oh, lots of things." Mark made a gesture to include vague accomplishments. "Let's talk about us for a change. I haven't seen you for a year and I'm bored with dressmaking."

"All right, you begin."

"Very well; have you thought about me at all?"

"Of course I have, Mark. I remember the time that we..."

"I don't want you to remember. I want to now if you haven't thought of the future?" For a moment Mary felt startled. The thought occurred to her for the first time that perhaps she hadn't really understood Mark. "I mean haven't you sometimes wished to see me?"

"But now that you're here," she said passing it off with a smile, "let's not talk about it."

"I've thought a lot about you, Mary"—Mark would never call her Mari, with the inflection at the end. "Would you be interested in hearing what I've been thinking?"

"Perhaps," she said slowly.

"Well, then, I've been thinking that perhaps you've grown up in the last year or so. Got over some of those old-fashioned ideas of yours."

"Poor Mark. I'm really sorry for you. You've worked so hard on the poor little girl from the sticks. But why? There are so many other girls. Why waste time on me?"

"Either you are very modest or you're trying to be clever. At your age, Mary, I'm surprised and a little disappointed."

"The comforting thought is, Mark, that I'm not the only girl who feels the way I do. It's no reflection on your charm. I think you are one of the most amusing, attractive men I've ever known but I don't happen to agree with your idea that we are missing, to put it in your own words, a lot of fun. I have higher stakes to work for than 'a lot of fun' with a man because he happens to be gay, amusing and attractive."

"I might be more than that. You might at least give me a chance."

"A change for what?" she asked seriously.

"You might get to like me more if you got used to me."

"I don't want to, Mark. If you mean that I might fall in love with you, you might be right, but I can't see that it would do me much good. I have too many things to do to tarry along the way to nurse a broken heart."

"There you go, talking like the heroine of a novel. Must love enter into it?"

"And what else?"

"Didn't you ever hear of people liking each other a lot? Enough?"

"I've read about it and it seems ideal. 'Seizing well the moment,' parting with a smile, and going on. But how can it? Life isn't that way, Mark. Some people don't 'seize well' and two people who do, seldom seem to get together. Others pretend to and wake up with a bruise that goes too deep. I've heard lots of girls talk about it and I haven't envied them."

"Poor, little Mary, she's in love with love. You ought to fall in love some day, my child, and get over it. Get these romantic ideas out of your head. You'll find life is easier and much more pleasant."

"All right, Mark, I'll fall in love with the first man I meet tomorrow." Mary was beginning to be bored and annoyed with the conversation.

"Why not the last man you see tonight?"

Mary grinned. "The concierge?"

"I was thinking of myself."

"But you don't want me to fall in love with you."

"I do not. I think too much of you. But I do think that you might cultivate a different frame of mind about me. You might, for example, think about me as a moment to be seized if ever you think about such experimentation."

"I assure you I will, but I'd appreciate it if you'd maintain a gentlemanly silence about it from now on. I promise to let you know if I ever change my present frame of mind."

"I'd come from far distances," he said winningly.

"I hope it would be China, and you wouldn't forget that it is a woman's privilege to change her mind."

"You wouldn't take advantage of that, would you, Mary? Somehow I've always thought of you as the gamest girl I know. There's nothing of the quitter about you. Remember, I told you that once before?"

When she had left Mark that night, Mary took counsel of herself. Tony Castle had once told her that he didn't think she was a quitter.

But she had been.

Long into the night she debated the wisdom of her move that time long past when she had quit. As abruptly as that, with so much as a note of farewell, she had stayed up the long and bitter night through to pack her belongings and move out of his life. But why should she have bade farewell to Tony? She had earned what he had given her and he had had neither need or want of her.

That night she wrote to Tony. In the morning, however, she tore the note into little pieces.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S PAPER HAT

"It's a bird!" howled the Fox.

"It's a beast!" growled the Wolf.

"Bird!"

"Beast!"

So the two Bad Chaps went on disputing about the question Uncle Wiggily had asked them about what a bat was—whether because it flew it might be a bird or whether, because it had fur and teeth, it might be an animal.

"Take that!" howled the Fox and he hit the Wolf.

"Take it back again!" growled the Wolf and he whammed the Fox.

I don't know what might have happened to the two Bad Chaps if just then the third Bad Chap, who was the Bob Cat, hadn't hopped along.

"Comrades! Comrades! I am ashamed of you! Fighting! The idea!" said the Bob Cat. "Stop it at once! Never mind whether a bat is a bird or a beast. There is something much more important to be done."

Plan Trap

"What is it" said the Fox.

"To catch Uncle Wiggily," whispered the Bob Cat.

"Don't make me laugh — I have chapped lips," whimpered the Wolf, "We tried, a little while ago, to catch that rabbit."

"But all he did was to ask us what a bat was—a bird or a beast—and we've been quarreling about it ever since," said the Fox.

"Well, forget it," advised the Bob Cat. "I have a plan to catch him Follow me."

"Where are you taking us?" asked the Fox as he and the Wolf followed the Bob Cat through the woods.

"To Uncle Wiggily's camping tent," answered the Bob Cat. "He is having a birthday party outside it for Nurse Jane. They are all seated around a table in front of the tent. They are eating and making merry and they will be so excited we can easily sneak up and grab at least one rabbit. We may get even Uncle Wiggily himself."

"Oh, I hope we do!" growled the Wolf.

"If we do I'll nibble him well!" promised the Fox.

Together the three Bad Chaps slunk through the woods to where Uncle Wiggily was giving a birthday party for Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy.

"Is everybody happy?" called Uncle Wiggily.

Happy

"Yes, yes!" answered the animal children. They were eating ice cream and cake. Uncle Wiggily was nibbling a carrot sandwich and on his head was a jolly, red paper cap.

"Here's what we'll do!" whispered the Bob Cat. "We'll run up quickly to the table. I'll pull Uncle Wiggily's paper hat down over his eyes. Before he can lift it off one of you can grab him."

"We'll both grab him," said the Fox speaking for himself and the Wolf. So the three Bad Chaps slunk up to the table but when Uncle Wiggily saw them he called out:

"Oh, we have visitors! Give each one a paper cap!"

"We'll help ourselves!" growled the Wolf and he and the other Bad Chaps reached in the basket where there were a lot of paper hats wrapped up in gaily colored paper cylinders like candles.

"Pull the ends and the hats will come out," said Uncle Wiggily.

But no sooner did the Bad Chaps pull the ends than: "Bang! Bang! Bang!" The tiny snappers in each paper cylinder made loud noises. Away ran the Bob Cat, Fox and Wolf.

"We're shot! No Fair! We're shot with the paper hats!" they cried. It was the first party they had ever attended. They didn't know how to act. So Mr. Longears was saved.

And if the butter doesn't run in the heat and chase the bread knife around the table I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's hospital.

Car Badly Damaged Hastings Accident

HASTINGS, Aug. 28. — Russel Jones, driver, and five other occupants of his car from this village had a very narrow escape Wednesday evening about 8.30, when their car took the ditch two miles south of Warkworth and rested on a fence twenty-five feet above a gully.

The carload were returning from a field day held at Castleton and as the vehicle came around the corner they came upon two cars parked on a narow strip of road who had bumped fenders and are said to have been talking the matter over. Jones passed the first car but did not see the second one on the other side of the road until he was almost upon it. In order to avoid hitting the standing car he was forced into the ditch, knocking off five fence rails and finally stopping with the front bumper hooked on to a rail. The occupants received a shaking up but were not hurt.

Provincial Officer Campbell was called to investigate. The car was badly damaged, but was covered by insurance.

STUDY NEWSPAPERS.

BOSTON, Aug. 28—(AP).—More than 1,000 nuns yesterday received advice to "read and study the newspapers to know something about baseball, automobiles, current slang and all the interests of the modern world."

The advice came from Rev. William H. Russell, Ph.D., professor of religion at the Catholic University in Washington, D.C. The nuns attended a Boston diocese teaching conference.

TWO CAR WRECKS INJURE SEVERAL TWEED DISTRICT

(Examiner Correspondence).

TWEED, Aug. 28.—A car driven by Elmer Juby, Point Anne, was forced into the ditch south of the C.N.R. tracks, outside the village of Tweed, on Wednesday evening. Mr. Juby and a party which included Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bennett, Point Anne, and Misses Pauline and Bonnie Dillon, Enterprise, were proceeding to the dance at Tweed, when two cars approached from the opposite direction. One car attempted to pass and Juby was forced to leave the road to avoid an accident, his car crashing over the ditch and through a fence. The front end of the vehicle was badly wrecked, the damage amounting to about $400.00. Mrs. Andrew Bennett suffered a broken nose, while the remainder of the party were shaken up. Constable Clair Hayes investigated and immediately advised the Belleville Provincial Police who checked up on all cars going into the city without result.

Garnett Scott, who operates a gasoline service station on Highway No. 7, near Cross Lake, reported to Constable Hayes that an unknown man had procured eight gallons of gasoline at his depot and drove off without paying for same. After his gas tank had been filled, the driver requested a quart of oil, and when the attendant turned his back, he promptly drove off. Mr. Scott notified Constable Hayes, who investigated but the thief had beaten a hasty retreat. Afterwards, in company with Provincial Constable Patterson of Sharbot Lake, the pair learned the driver's name and his arrest is expected shortly.

Dennis Kinchen, Bayview Apartments, Barrie, was badly injured when his car turned turtle three times after a tire blew out when the car dropped into a hole on No. 7 Highway, one mile east of Kaladar. Kinchen, who was en route to Ottawa, where his father is critically ill, was not familiar with the road, and when the car struck the hole, it was catapulted to the side and totally wrecked. His wife, who was also a passenger in the car, was seriously hurt, although both were fortunate in view of the condition of the car, to escape with their lives. Kinchen suffered fractures of the collar-bone and shoulder, while he had a deep wound above his right eye. Mrs. Kinchen was badly bruised about the body and limbs. Constable Clair Hayes, Tweed, was immediately called to investigate, but announced no charges would be laid. Both occupants were removed to hospital.

George Harten of the township was arrested by Constable Hayes on Highway No. 7, and faced a charge of driving a car in an intoxicated condition. It is alleged that Harten was proceeding in such a manner as to crowd other vehicles from the road. His brother, Harold Harten, also of Sheffield, who was in the car, was indicted for intoxication. On their appearance before Magistrate Lloyd, George Harten was given thirty days in jail on being found guilty on a charge of being intoxicated while driving, and he was fined $10.00 and costs, with the alternative of an addition of 15 days in jail for not having the necessary driving permit. Harold Harten pleaded guilty to intoxication and paid a fine of $10.00 and costs.

A car owned by John Wilkinson of Chapman's Corners was forced into the ditch south of the village of Tweed on Wednesday. A car owned and driven by one, Bigelow, of Madoc, had attempted to pass a highway truck proceeding up the incline at this point, and the driver of the Wilkinson car was forced to take to the ditch. Constable Hayes investigated and preferred a charge of reckless driving against Bigelow.

Albert Wickware, a resident of Cloyne, while working in the bush near his home on Wednesday morning, cut his leg rather seriously with an axe and was attempting to reach Harvey Spencer's store, when Constable Clair Hayes, engaged in a case in that neighborhood, found him hobbling along the road. The constable immediately applied first aid to the injury and then rushed him to a physician.

OBITUARY

MRS. MARY JANE DOMAN.

WARSAW, Aug. 28.—Relatives in Warsaw and other nearby places have received word of the death of Mary Jane Bullock, wife of late Gabriel Doman, Vancouver, B.C., on August 18th at the age of ninety-one years.

Mrs. Doman was quite well and active until a few weeks before her death, when he was unfortunate enough to fall and fracture her hip, after which she gradually failed until death took her.

Elderly as she was, Mrs. Doman was much interested in politics and took a keen interest in church work as well as community work.

Mrs. Doman was born on the Bullock homestead near Warsaw, which property is now owned by Mr. Bert Ray, and received her education in the old stone school, Warsaw.

She married Gabriel Doman and they lived near Lakefield for a time, where two sons, James and Thomas, were born to them.

Fifty-two years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Doman and their family moved to Vancouver, where Mr. Doman died several years ago.

She was the last of her family, four brothers, W. John Bullock of Oronto, Thomas of Essex, George of Leamington and Robert of Warsaw, also one sister, Mrs. Kenny of Essex, having predeceased her.

Her two sons live to mourn the loss of a devoted mother. Mrs. Thomas Cooper, Warsaw, and Mrs. Joseph Tedford, of Trent River, are nieces, being daughters of Mr. Robert Bullock by his first wife. The second Mrs. Robert Bullock lives in Lakefield. It was she to whom word of Mrs. Doman's death first came.

A large number attended the funeral and there were quantities of the loveliest flowers, as Mrs. Doman was much respected and loved because of her cheerful and kind disposition.

Seeking Life In War Ruins

Working tirelessly without thought for their own safety, these Red Cross workers and nuns search through the ruins of a shell-torn Shanghai to succor soldier and civilian victims after the curtain of fire that descended from bombarding Japanese warships lifted to reveal utter destruction in native sections of the great city. All around the international settlement and into the supposedly sacrosanct area itself, death and desolation is spreading as warring Chinese and Japanese forces continue their bitter clash. This particular sector of ruin is in Chapei, the Chinese quarter.

DAYLIGHT SAVING HAS MADE NO HIT

LINDSAY, Aug. 28.—The remains of Bernard Gillilece, a former resident of Downeyville, were laid to rest in the parish cemetery on Friday. The deceased, who was a barber by trade, was drowned while bathing at Pittsburgh, Pa., where he had resided for the past several years. He jumped from a boat into the water and never rose to the surface.

A petition is to be circulated among the business men of Lindsay in favor of a Wednesday half-holiday during the entire year. Barber shops in Lindsay will close on Wednesday afternoons during the year under the Industrial Standards Act.

Lindsay is so far free from the scourge, infantile paralysis. The health authorities are on the alert for any symptoms of the dread malady.

Daylight saving will end in Lindsay on Sunday, August 29. A great deal of dissatisfaction was expressed on all sides when the change was made, and it is a settled fact that daylight saving will not be considered next year.

In past years the end of August marked the close of the tourist season, but not so this year. While quite a number of American visitors have left for their home, this week saw the influx of many newcomers, principally from Ohio and Cleveland. Many of them have expressed the intention of remaining at the lake resorts until mid September.

HAMILTON CASHIER KIDNAPPED AND ROBBED

TORONTO'S TOLL REACHED 15 26 NEW CASES

TORONTO, Aug. 30 (CP).—Six persons died of infantile paralysis in Toronto during the week-end, health authorities reported today, bringing the number of deaths here since the epidemic broke out several weeks ago to 15. Twenty-six new cases were reported, raising the total to 245.

Two-year-old Helen McMurray, one of triplets, was among the three Toronto residents who died of the disease which has stricken nearly 400 persons throughout Ontario. The fourth new death was that of a 20-year-old girl from Woodington, Ont. The fifth was that of a 33-year-old Richmond Hill woman and the sixth that of a 16-year-old girl from East York.

Brought Into City

The three district residents who died were brought into the city because of increasing lack of suburban hospitals. Toronto hospitals also were said to be becoming crowded. A scarlet fever ward in the Isolation Hospital was opened to infantile paralysis sufferers.

Since the epidemic broke out, 27 persons have died in Ontario. For more than a week the death toll stood at 19, but one death in London and another in Hamilton Saturday and Sunday brought the total to 21.

Calls for serum on the Provincial Health Department from rural Ontario were increasing but officials said there was an adequate supply available.

At Hamilton where an "iron lung" respirator was used in vain, Albert Drake, 22, lost his battle with death. He had been in the machine 36 hours. His was the fourth death there, while two new cases were admitted to Hamilton general hospital. Of 20 victims, however, none was critically ill.

London reported its third fatal case—eight-year-old Robert Blair—but took a more hopeful view of the general situation as five were discharged and two new cases were admitted, making a total of 43 under treatment. A conference of district medical officers of health was planned for tomorrow in the Western Ontario centre. The city's "iron lung" was being used in treating a 13-year-old child with apparently favorable results.

Toronto had no weekend deaths to add to its list of nine. In the district about 80 were stricken and in the city around 220.

Stratford, like Toronto and London and many other afflicted centres, decided to postpone school opening until after Labor Day. Health officials there set September 7, while Wednesday is the regulation opening day—September 1.

Textile Workers Are Back At Jobs

MONTREAL, Aug. 30.—(CP)— A majority of workers in four Dominion Textile Company mills here trooped back to their jobs today while in five plants at other points in the province absorption was started of close to 7,000 more workers. The nearly 10,000 employees went on strike at the start of the month.

But Saturday officials of the National Catholic Federation of Textile Workers which called the strike in a demand for collective bargaining rights, higher wages or shorter hours, approved a plan whereby workers would return to work at the old wage scale pending discussion of their case by the Fair Wage Board.

Engineer Felix Plummer said today he saw the woman standing on the track, frantically waving the baby up and down in her arms. He applied the brakes. Around the mountainside the train crew found a huge boulder on the track. In the excitement the woman walked away.

Preparations For Hard Struggle in China Being Made By Japan.

NANKING, China, Aug. 30—(AP)—The Chinese National Government to-night accepted full responsibility for the bombing of the United States liner President Hoover, off the Shanghai coast.

"The incident was a most regrettable, unfortunate mistake by a Chinese pilot," the Chinese Foreign Office announced.

"The government is willing to make full redress."

Authorities said "one" Chinese pilot had bombed the Hoover by mistake thinking he was hitting a Japanese troop transport.

Japanese warships were nearby at the time.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 30 — (AP). — Four planes, apparently Chinese, dropped bombs on the United States President Hoover on the high seas off the China coast to-day.

Seven members of the crew were wounded and three passengers suffered shell shock. Two of the seamen were gravely hurt.

The bombs tore caps in the Hoover's hull at several points above the water line, but she came about and proceeded toward Kobe, Japan, under her own power.

Two American destroyers steamer at forced draft to the scene in response to the liner's calls for medical aid. But, already, the British warship Cumberland was at her side.

The liner, evacuating foreigners from Shanghai, was attacked 20 miles off the coast, or about 50 miles from Woosung, the point where the Yangtze meets the Whangpoo, this city's harbor waterway.

Apparently the bombs were aimed at two Japanese destroyers manoeuvring in the vicinity of the Hoover.

United States Navy officials ordered the Hoover and the Dollar Liner McKinley, which was following her to turn about and proceed toward Kobe, to avoid further incidents.

The Hoover was hurrying to Shanghai from Manila to pick up 350 Americans desiring evacuation. She would have cleared for Manila early tomorrow.

When she was hit the Hoover had about 257 passengers and 320 crew men, under Captain George W. Yardley.

Japan meanwhile concentrated her forces for a general drive against the estimated 500,000 Chinese troops who are about Shanghai and other cities of Kiangsu province.

Japan concentrated military and naval forces to-day for the drive against General Chiang Kai-Shek's troops, holding nearly all Kiangsu province.

"Japan is preparing for an offensive on all fronts," said a Japanese army spokesman.

Nurses Injured

Chinese shore batteries, near the Whangpoo River which skirts Shanghai, bombarded the Japanese hospital ship Asahi Maru carrying Japanese wounded homeward. One shell seriously injured three male nurses, Japanese authorities announced.

They said the ship was marked with the Red Cross insignia on both funnels.

The Japanese continued to move large bodies of reinforcements along the Liuho, Lotien and Woosung sector from 12 to 20 miles north of this bomb and shell-ravaged city along the broad estuary of the Yangtze River.

The Japanese also transferred the greater part of their fleet to the Liuho and Paoshan shores in the same sector. The naval guns had the range of the Lion forest forts where it was expected the fighting would be heaviest.

The Japanese were said to have

DROUGHT NEEDS ARE DESCRIBED BY DR. PETER BRYCE

WHITBY, Aug. 30. — Visited by the worst drought in seven years of drought, with gardens laid waste by the sun and the land overrun by millions of grasshoppers and army worms, is the condition of Saskatchewan as described by Right Rev. Peter Bryce, D.D., Moderator of the United Church, addressing delegates at the Laymen's Conference in session at the Ontario Ladies' College Saturday and today.

From a land that produces 300 million bushels of wheat, this year's crop will be less than forty millions, stated the Moderator. The people of Saskatchewan, veterans of seven years of devastating crop conditions, were feeling their plight more keenly this year than ever. "I do not know how they have ever stood it, and the United Church as a whole, from coast to coast, feels with those people in Saskatchewan," he said.

"The suffering of the West felt in the East is unifying, producing a solidarity that even Sir John A. Macdonald never dreamed of. Everywhere we went the people turned out in large numbers to learn that the United Church had sent out a delegation to see conditions for themselves," said Dr. Bryce.

500 Carloads Sought

With Rev. George Dorey, the Moderator stated, they visited many sections of Saskatchewan, and the Saskatchewan Government put a car at their disposal to take them to whatever sections they wished to see. From all parts of the drought-stricken country came requests for more fruits, vegetables and clothing, and they were assured that this year the east would endeavor to send 500 carloads of fruits and vegetables and larger quantities of clothing. While there are 220,000 United Church adherents in Saskatchewan, assistance would not be limited to these members, Dr. Bryce stated.

A. E. McBride, Chairman of Toronto Conference Missionary and Maintenance Committee, was chair-

SEVEN ARE LOST BY DROWNING

TORONTO, Aug. 30 (CP)—Marked by numerous non-fatal motor crashes, Ontario produced a week-end fatality list of 13. A quintuple drowning in Departure Lake in Cochrane district, besides separate drownings at Sudbury and London, blackened the list.

Provincial police at London arrested Sam Oakes, 23, of Strathroy, after Ada Franks, 21, a native of Strathroy who lived in London, was drowned in a paddle boat in the Thames River off an amusement park. Oakes was held on bail as a material witness. Police said he and the girl were in the boat when it overturned. He was found by friends clinging to the frail craft.

Mass drowning of five Northern Ontario young people, from 17 to 26, was termed "suicidal" by an investigating coroner at Cochrane. The five ventured into the wind-swept lake in a light canoe equipped with an outboard motor. A test showed its gunwales must have been within three inches of the water-edge and it capsized a short distance from shore. The five were: Leo Daigneault, Mary Bednary, Edward and Anthony Litinitki, brothers and a Miss Secord, all of Smooth Rock.

Body Is Recovered

Robert Brodie, 30, was drowned in deep Trout Lake. He hurried into the water before a companion and, despite warnings, swam far out into the water. When friends missed him, search for his body began and it was found in 65 feet of water.

A freak airplane accident caused the death at Strathroy of Stewart James Sullivan, 26, of Adelaide Township. A London airplane pilot was taking up joy-riders from a church picnic near Strathroy and was returning with a passenger when the machine was forced down at the edge of the picnic crowd. Only Sullivan and his cousin were caught by the wing tip as the crowd scattered and the former was injured fatally.

Eastern Ontario added a double fatality at Cornwall where two boys, Denis Patterson, 15, and Harvey Labelle, 16, were knocked from their bicycles by an automobile and injured fatally. Their bodies were carried 150 feet before the machine left the highway and overturned in a ditch.

A Canadian National Railways train at Toronto killed Robert Low, 59—year-old war veteran as he was returning home from the C.N.E. warriors' day parade.

Gas fumes from a bathroom fixture were blamed for the death of Keith Honsberger, 14, og St. Catharines. He was found asphyxiated. Kitchener reported the death of Herman Hackbart, 25, Waterloo, after he piled his motorcycle into the rear of a parked car. He was thrown to the pavement, receiving fatal head injuries.

Spends 12th Birthday In An "Iron Lung"

Toronto, Aug. 30.

LITTLE Joyce McKercher is celebrating her 12th birthday here today in the "iron lung" which has kept her alive for the past eight days.

The cheerful little red-head is being shown birthday cards and presents by her nurses and doctors and enjoying her "fan" mail. Later today she expects to be visited by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter McKercher, who are now out of quarantine. They will look at her through the glass partition of the ward.

ROTARY DEPLORES ACTION OF NAZI

Action of the Nazi government in banning the Rotary Club from Germany was deplored by Peterborough Rotarians at their luncheon meeting today. The action can be taken to indicate the Germans are not truly peace-minded, W. R. Morris, Rotarian member, declared.

The subject was brought to the attention of the club by Mr. Morris. He said Rotary had expanded to the point it had a solid footing in the German nation.

Announcement that Rotary Clubs would not be further tolerated was made by Hitler aides last week in Berlin. The ground that the Rotary Club is "un-German" inasmuch as it does not exclude Jews from its membership, was cited.

Rotarian Fred Roy, who recently returned to this city from an extended trip to Europe, commented: "I feel that there will be no class of people who will regret the action more than the German Rotarians themselves." He said he recently attended a Rotary meeting of 500 Germans and found the membership made up of a remarkably fine type of men.

The luncheon program was devoted to variety entertainment by guest artists. Two vocal solos were offered by Miss Olga Westbye, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. G. Wilson Craw. Bob Maybee provided two piano solos and H. G. Walker, Board of Education member, won a fine reception with recitations.

Gassed Overseas, Built For Himself a New Set of Lungs.

Suffering from chronic asthma as a result of being gassed on active service with the 46th South Saskatchewan Battalion, "Okemowinyegun," otherwise known as "Lone Wolf," a Cree Indian medicine man has built himself a new set of lungs through leading a rigorous outdoor life, he told a reporter when he passed through here on Saturday afternoon.

"Lone Wolf" who served in France with the Canadian Forces as Private Nelson, is all that his name implies. In his search for health he has twice made a lone trip over the waterways of half a continent. He has a 19-foot rowboat, the "Roving Jane," which he has laboriously rowed every inch of the way from Winnipeg since last April. Three years ago he completed a similar trip by inland waterways.

Fifty-seven years of age and now a splendid specimen of bronzed health and strength, "Lone Wolf" is a picturesque figure. He was striped to the waist as he plied his oars when entering the Lift Locks on the passage down the canal, and

Registration Of Unemployed Will Be Made In September

Purvis Asks Co-operation of Civic Bodies—Situation is Still Grave.

OTTAWA, Aug. 30 (CP).—Reregistration of those receiving unemployment relief will be started next month, Arthur B. Purvis, Chairman of the National Employment Commission, announced today. Provinces and municipalities, whose aid in last September's registration had been most helpful, would be again asked to co-operate, Mr. Purvis said.

"Even though that phase of the problem which affects other than farm residents has shown a major improvement since the registration of September, 1936, the problem of aid is still one of considerable magnitude, requiring continued and intensive study," Mr. Purvis stated.

Appeals Second Time

"Nowhere can the Commission secure the data upon which to continue this study except by direct appeal to the Provinces and municipalities which are so intimately connected with the problem at its source.

"Therefore, the Commission appeals a second time to these authorities to carry out a national registration of recipients of material aid, as of the month of September, 1937.

LINDSAY, Aug. 30.—A serious accident occurred here on Saturday night, when Mrs. Leslie Maunder, Reel street, was the victim of a hit-and-run motorist. Five Drowned When Canoe Swamped In Heavy Sea

Occupants Did Not Have a Chance as Boat Too Heavily Loaded.

SMOOTH ROCK FALLS, Ont., Aug. 30.—(CP)—Funeral arrangements were made today for five drowning victims of this community 25 miles northwest of Cochrane, whose fatal expedition in a light canoe was described by Coroner E. R. Tucker as a "suicidal risk."

The five, ranging in ages from 17 to 26, were Leo Daigneault, Mary Bednary, Edward and Anthony Litinitzi, brothers, and a Miss Sicard.

The party was crossing an arm of Departure Lake, nine miles west of here, Saturday in a 14-foot canoe equipped with an outboard motor. The coroner's statement said a heavy sea was running and a short distance from shore the canoe was swamped and all were drowned in 30 feet of water.

Coroner Tucker said in a statement there would not be an inquest into the quintuple fatality. Those responsible for the accident were dead, the statement said.

After recovery of the canoe and bodies the coroner tested the canoe with five persons of approximately the same weight as the five who were drowned. The test showed the canoe had a free-board of less than three inches amidships in calm water. In the rough water running at the time of the accident, the occupants did not have a chance, Coroner Tucker's statement said.

BARN IS DESTROYED.

KITCHENER.—Barn of the farm of G. E. Shultz near Bamberg was destroyed by fire to-day along with two nearby sheds. Part of the year's crop, a manure spreader, a wagon and some chickens were burned. Loss was $4,000.

Spontaneous combustion was blamed for the blaze.

Thrown Into Car Satchel Is Snatched By 2 Armed Men

Cashier is Later Dumped Out But is Unable to Describe Pair.

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 30.—(CP)—Two bandits kidnapped Robert Tweedie, cashier of the Duff Meat Stores, today as he was leaving one of the company shops at Prospect street and Maple avenue. Tweedie, who had collected the cash from the store from Saturday's operations was later thrown from the bandits' car.

Members of the staff, Leslie Jarrett and Jerry Juniper saw Tweedie leave the shop with the cashbag containing between $700 and $800. A car with two dark men of medium height in it stopped by the curb and one of the men snatched at the satchel. Tweedie fought him off, but the other joined the attack, and together they hustled him into the automobile and drove away at high speed.

Jarrett leaped into his automobile and gave chase. He was unable to overtake it, and meantime police squad cars were warned and began a search.

The automobile used by the bandits was reported stolen by the owner a few moments after the first alarm was turned in.

One of the bandits is said to have been armed.

The automobile was later found to have belonged to J. W. Linklater, who parked the car just before it was stolen.

Is Not Injured

The cashier was dumped from the car on Graham Avenue near the foot of the mountain. He was not injured.

He told police that the men had held his head below the instrument board of the car so he could not see them or where he was being driven. One of the thieves poked a revolver into his ribs and when he was ejected from the automobile it was done so swiftly he did not get a glimpse of the pair.

Farmers informed police they had seen two men run into woods between Gage Avenue south and Highway No. 20A. The bush, many acres in extent, was surrounded by dozens of police in squad cars, supported by a posse of provincials.

Boon interested citizens from Hamilton joined the search.

CHINA SIGNS PACT WITH THE SOVIETS, AID AGAINST JAPAN

NANKING, Aug. 30.—Possibility of Russia military assistance for China's harassed armies battling veteran Japanese divisions in areas scattered over half this war-torn country arose again tonight when the Foreign Office announced that China has signed a non-aggression pact with Moscow, and is ready to sign a similar agreement with Japan whenever Tokio wishes it.

Foreign Minister Wong Chunghui, however, was careful to explain that the agreement had no military clauses. He said it was signed Aug. 21, and provides that:

1. Both parties condemn recourse to war.

2. In event of aggression against either signatory by a third power both China and Russia pledge themselves not to assist the aggressor.

3. There is to be no modification of rights or obligations imposed by earlier treaties between the two powers.

4. The treaty shall be effective for five years from Aug. 21, 1937.

Called Collective Security Move

"The conclusion of the Chinese-Soviet pact marks the beginning of collective security among countries bordering on the Pacific, through mutual assistance and non-aggression," a Foreign Office spokesman said.

Its provisions are entirely negative in nature and are aimed merely at maintenance of peace, he added. The pact does not differ from similar agreements which Russia has signed with other powers.

"Today China is compelled to use force, to resist foreign aggression," the spokesman said, "but this does not alter the fact that a love of peace is traditional with the Chinese people. If China's aggressor can be awakened to this fact and will change her national policy we still are willing to conclude with her (Japan) a similar non-aggression pact."

The gesture toward Japan, offering that country a non-aggression agreement identical with the one signed with Moscow, was considered meaningless, since the Japanese Government repeatedly has announced that it insists upon a solution of the Chinese-Japanese controversy by force "because of Nanking's continuous record of bad faith."

Trend Deemed Significant

Significance of the Chinese-Russian agreement, if any, lay not so much in what it provides as in what it may forecast.

A large section of Chinese opinion since the Japanese invasion of Manchuria in 1931 has favored a Chinese-Russian military alliance, holding that the Japanese Army's aggressions on the Asiatic mainland never can be stopped until Moscow and Nanking combine against Tokio.

Injured Boy Found By Side Of Road

CHATHAM, Ont., Aug. 30.—(CP)—Believed struck by a car which did not stop on the road to Erieau, George Duncan Broadwood, 14, of Cedar Springs, died from injuries in hospital today. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Duncan.

The accident is being investigated by Chief of Police Walter Fenton of Blenheim and Provincial Constable A. R. Peters of Chatham. Chief Fenton intimated in a statement it was likely the investigation would lead to some detentions. He declined to disclose the nature of his information.

The boy was in a semi-conscious condition when found. Dr. C. B. Langford of Blenheim said the lad suffered a bad head bruise and bruises on the right side of his chest, the right thigh and leg. It was feared he might have suffered abdominal injuries.

Woman Is Jailed Reckless Driving

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 30 (CP).—Magistrate James McKay on Saturday sent Winnifred Begley of Hagersville, Ont., to jail for four days, ordered her to pay a $15 fine or spend 10 days in jail. He also suspended her driving license after she pleaded guilty to reckless driving.

Mrs. Begley asked leniency on the grounds she intended selling her auto last night when the charge was laid. Constable Chappel said he arrested the woman after the automobile struck another while turning a corner.

The woman admitted consuming a glass of beer and a cocktail earlier in the evening. She told court she was not used to liquor, but the magistrate said he had no alternative but to find her guilty and sentence her as the reckless operator of a motor vehicle.

Punishment Asked Airman Who Made Attack On Envoy

Terms of Note to Japan Favorably Received By the British Press.

LONDON, Aug. 30 (CP Cable).—Great Britain today awaited a formal apology from Japan for the shooting in China of the British Ambassador, Sir Hugne Knatchbull-Hugessen.

The note demanded:

"1. Formal apology to be conveyed by the Japanese Government to His Majesty's Government;

"2. Suitable punishment for those responsible for the attack;

"3. Assurance by Japanese authorities that necessary measures will be taken to prevent recurrence of events of such a character."

Great Britain's protest was made public after it was delivered in Tokio to Foreign Minister Koki Hirota by James L. Dodds, British Charge d'Affaires.

Note Suppressed in Japan.

(The text of the British note was not made public in Japan, the Associated Press reports from Tokio. An official communique was issued announcing the visit of the British Charge d'Affaires, J. L. Dodds, to Foreign Minister Hirota, but no mention was made of the London communication. The communique said: "The Foreign Minister informed Mr. Dodds that the matter was being investigated jointly by the Japanese and British authorities at Shanghai, and that he would communicate with the British representative as soon as the affair was clarified.")

Sir Hughe Knatchbull-Hugessen, British Ambassador to China, was attacked by two Japanese airplanes Thursday while motoring from Nanking to Shanghai. Latest reports from Shanghai, where he lay gravely wounded in a hospital, indicated he was recovering, although his back was broken and his condition still critical.

Attack Branded "Inexcusable."

The British note emphasized "the inexcusable nature of what occurred" and insisted the attack constituted "an illegality," showing "negligence and complete disregard of the sanctity of civilian life."

The note said the wounding of Sir Hughe was "an outstanding example of the results to be expected from an indiscriminate attack."

It said the attack was as illegal as it was inhuman in that it failed to draw clear distinction between combatants and non-combatants in the conduct of hostilities which international law no less than the conscience of mankind has always enjoined.

Received by the Press the moderation of its terms and its broad exposition of the principles involved in the shooting of noncombatants came in for praise.

"The note will be approved by the public as just," the Times said. "No British government could have asked for less in satisfaction for the shocking outrage . . . To have presented stiffer demands would have been to allow well-justified resentment to outrun reason."

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express added the note was "written in moderate language that will not be mistaken on that account." Noting that the government had asked for a formal apology, the Morning Post declared "It is surprising that they (the government) should have had to ask at all for what might so properly have been forthcoming spontaneously and immediately."

Just A Convenience.

The Manchester Guardian commented that "international law and custom are to Japan not an obligation but a convenience."

The News-Chronicle, Liberal organ, said "the British not was well-drafted," adding: "The temptation to bluster has been withstood. There are no threats, no fire-eating, no bits of reprisals—but it leaves no room for quibbling."

The note revealed that the Brit-

Auto Dynamited In Detroit Lot

DETROIT, Aug. 30— (CP).— A doorman at the Club Ten Forty was killed yesterday and downtown Detroit rocked when an automobile belonging to Harry Millman, alleged by the police to be a former member of the purple gang here, was dynamited on a parking lot. Millman, eye-witness to the explosion, was waiting for the doorman at the club to bring him his car when the blast came.

The man who was killed was William Holmes, 39, Detroit negro.

Ten sticks of dynamite, wedged in the car's motor, exploded when Holmes turned on the ignition, police ballistics experts said after examining the wreckage. Wreckage of the car was strewn about the parking lot and on top of nearby buildings. Every window on the side of a building adjoining the parking lot was shattered.

Cow Springs Surprise Presents Quints

FARMER Hiram Long reported Friday quintuplet calves were born to Spot, his Guernsey-Short horn cow.

Long, who lost one of the calves before he could summon aid, exclaimed:

"Never," said C. C. Hisel, State veterinarian, have I heard of or read of such a thing."

BARNYARD BLUFF HON. ROWE TERMS HEPBURN'S CLAIM

HARROWSMITH, Ont., Aug. 30.—(CP)—Challenge of Conservative Leader Earl Rowe to show where Ontario can collect $70,000,000 in succession duties was before Premier Mitchell Hepburn to-day.

"It's pure barnyard bluff," Mr. Rowe told Conservatives at a picnic rally here Saturday. "I'll tell Mr. Hepburn that I'll collect $60,000 from a Liberal he hasn't collected from." In campaign speeches in preparation for Ontario's Oct. 6 election, Mr. Hepburn had declared his intention of collecting succession duties from delinquent estates.

Mr. Rowe questioned whether any Liberal could be proud of the government's record in regard to the Separate school question, first passing, then rescinding legislation reapportioning corporation taxes among schools.

"He tricked and disappointed," said the Conservative leader. "He disappointed one element after he went into power and betrayed the other since then and has lost the confidence of both."

The government, he said, had "the greatest record of racketeering ever known in Canada. Mr. Hepburn had promised a square deal for the returned men and has broken faith with them. He fired 552 returned men from Queen's Park with medals on their chests and brought in 600 Orit ward heelers with mud on their faces."

No Power in Spring.

He criticized the Premier for cancellation of power contracts with Quebec companies, declaring Mr. Hepburn had hoisted the black emblem of repudiation" with a resultant menace to the province's credit. The Premier had said no more power was necessary, but "he has contracted for 400,000 more horsepower, and unless he contracts for more parts of Ontario will be in darkness by spring."

"Hepburn played politics with hospitalization and cut down the money used for the aid of Ontario patients," the Conservative leader said. The Premier's opposition to the Committee for Industrial Organization, he declared, was designed to smother the Separate schools question. Mr. Rowe insisted a man had the right to join any organization as long as he maintained law and order.

The rally selected W. D. Black, who has sat in the Legislature since 1911 and once was Speaker, to carry the Conservative nomination in Addington county.

CURIOUS POSITION IS HELD BY BOY

BANFF, Alta., Aug. 30—(CP)—"Chief Bear-Bouncer and Golf Course Locker-Upper," is 16-year-old Ted Martin of this town, who holds one of the queerest jobs in Canada.

Each night he actually locks up the Banff Springs golf course to prevent bears, deer and elk from walking off with the greens. After locking the fence gates he sits beside the main entrance all night shooing away the big game as they amble down for a roll in the bunkers.

Occasionally before gates are closed an elk or two find they way through them. ThenTed, with shining lantern, has to cover the whole course to get them out.

Bears used to shuffle down from nearby Rundle mountain, pick the green flags off the course and carry them up the mountain side.

Officials found it cheaper to build the fence around the course than to continue buying new flags and replacing greens.

Vice Regal Party In Northern British Columbia

Climaxing an extended tour of Canada's Arctic and sub-Arctic areas by rail, river-boat and aeroplane, Their Excellencies Lord and Lady Tweedsmuir visited Tweedsmuir Park in Northern British Columbia for a 'back to nature' fishing and camping holiday. The four seaplanes which carried the party on their woodland jaunt are pictured top at their anchorage and at right part of the campsite is shown. Tetachuk Falls (left centre) on the river of the same name was viewed by the vice-regal party during their stay which proved both Lord and Lady Tweedsmuir efficient and successful anglers. J. W. Russia Broadening Its "Purge" As production Slump

By Richard D. Massock

MOSCOW, Aug. 28 (AP) — A broadening "purge" of Soviet officials and lowly peasants within Russia was reported today as the nation's production fell well behind 1937 quotas—evidence, authorities said, of sabotage, diversion and enemy spies.

With many parts of Russia "spy conscious," records of death, disgrace, exile and imprisonment for enemies of the state have mounted in proportion to the failure of shops and factories to meet an ever-increasing demand for new materials.

Inspired by prominent Soviet newspaper accounts of skillful detection of spies and wreckers, men, women and children have become self-ordained detectives and almost any gesture may inspire someone's suspicious curiosity.

Soviet officials are silent, and only occasional press accounts enlighten the public on punishment meted out to the Soviet unfaithful. The known dead "enemies of the state" can be counted in hundreds; the lesser offenders, who are in prison or exile or who are demoted, total thousands.

So closely watched are foreigners few Russian dentists will treat them, so they go to Helsingfors for dental care. Russian language teachers stopped visiting their foreign students weeks ago.

Y. L. Pyatakoff, former vice-commissar of heavy industry; L. P. Berberyakoff, former vice-commissar of railways, and 11 others have been tried and shot. Other ex-officials and hundreds of small fry await trial as wreckers, diversionists, traitors, Fascists and Trotskyists.

MOVIES TO DEPICT FREE PRESS SAGA

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30—(AP)—David O. Selznick, president of Selznick International Pictures, Inc., announced yesterday production will begin immediately on a film depicting history of The Associated Press and the part it has played in developing a free press.

The producer said the picture will describe The Associated Press at its beginning in 1846, show the growth of the non-profit co-operative association into the largest news-gathering organization in the world and, in effect, will be a cavalcade of American journalism in all its exciting and romantic aspects.

"The picture will be entitled 'Freedom of the Urea'," Selznick said, "and will present a truthful outline of the nature of The Associated Press and its firm development of the principle of unbiased news."

The production will be authenticated by hitherto unpublished records made available by The Associated Press. The Associated Press is a news gathering and distributing organization mutually owned by its member newspapers, and motivated by one purpose only — to provide swift, accurate and fair news reports the world over. This task involves daily effort, directly or indirectly, of 80,000 individuals throughout the world. The Associated Press makes no profit and does not sell its news.

The Associated Press' struggle to annihilate time and space will be related from the early days of the Morse Telegraph before which newspaper ingenuity drafted carrier pigeons, fast horses, and clipper ships to speed news.

It is a saga of triumph over terrific obstacles, for today there is no habitable spot on earth that is more than a few minutes from North American front pages whenever news breaks.

Four Craps Shooters "Faded" Penalties

Orange, N.J., Aug. 30

FOUR young Negro craps shooters successfully "faded" penalties in Orange police court.

Arrested for rolling the bones last Saturday, two pleaded guilty and two not guilty. Judge Frank H. Brown adjudged all guilty and told them to roll for their fines.

The boys loudly prayed for "Snakeyes."

Two negotiated five and two sixes, and the judge ended matters with a warning and suspended sentences.

SAW OLD ENGLAND OUT OF PORTHOLE

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Aug. 30 (CP). — A face that had smiled at the applause of Canadian audiences was smudged with tears the other day. At 18, Joyce Stanton, United States show girl, was facing deportation. Her blond dancing partner, Alice Delmar, two years older, was also involved in the proceedings.

They had stowed away on the Queen Mary at New York. Out of work, they thought it would be a "good joke" to sail to England and find a job at one of the cabarets. Determined to stop a stowaway epidemic, steamship officials took action against them.

Miss Stanton was saved a court appearance when her parents cabled her money to pay the return passage. She saw less of England than her friend. Miss Delmar was driven through Southampton to court, while Miss Stanton stayed on board the Queen Mary under guard of a master-at-arms. They were both sent home together.

When officials pointed out they were "stealing a passage," Miss Stanton declared she had not looked at it in that light, or would never have done it.

After they gave themselves up to the ship's commander they were allowed the freedom of the third-class quarters. "Third-class passengers took me for a strip-tease girl," said Miss Stanton. "I was a show-girl in a high-class Toronto club."

HEPBURN WILLING TO SEND TEST CASE TO SUPREME COURT

KINCARDINE, Ont., Aug. 30 (CP)—Willingness to have the Supreme Court of Canada decide whether the Canada Temperance Act is superior legislation to the Ontario Liquor Control Act was expressed here Saturday night by Premier Mitchell Hepburn.

If any county in which temperance forces believe the Canada Temperance Act, federal legislation which forbids the sale of alcoholic drinks, should be the ruling statue will make formal application to his government, a stated case will be submitted to the Supreme Court of Canada, Mr. Hepburn said.

Meanwhile the Ontario government will follow two decisions against the Canada Temperance Act—one by an Ontario county judge at Brampton holding the Liquor Control Act the more restrictive legislation—and therefore the law in force—and one by the New Brunswick Supreme Court holding the C.T.A. was overridden by provincial statutes, the premier said.

Superseded By O.T.A.

The Canada Temperance Act was effective in several Ontario counties before enactment in 1916 of the Ontario Temperance Act which then superseded it. When the Ontario Liquor Control Act was enacted temperance forces contended those areas formerly under the Canada Temperance Act should revert to that status. (The C.T.A. does not forbid importation of liquor into areas governed by it.)

ONLY RUINS LEFT WHERE ALBERTITE PROVED BONANZA

ALBERT MINES, N.B., Aug. 30—(CP)—Rotted timbers and scattered bricks here mark the site of New Brunswick's most unusual mining venture. Treasure worth millions of dollars in the form of Albertite, a light, hard, glossy-black substance found nowhere else in the world, was mined during a 30-year period starting in 1850. Since that period no more of the rare mineral has been located in worthwhile quantities.

Mined, hoisted and delivered to the wharf at Hillsboro at a cost not exceeding $2.50 a ton, the "black gold" sold for $15 to $20 a ton. The valuable fuel, actually solidified oil, yielded tremendous heat and left no ash.

Incomplete records show that during a ten-period ending in 1869, Albertite shipped to the United States amounted to 153,294 tons. Most went to Boston, where the product's high gas content was used by gas companies.

The solidified oil was first discovered in the parish of Hopewell about 1826 by Gould Hoar, who found an ore body 10 feet square under an uprooted tree in a densely-wooded section. When simple tests proved it neither coal nor indigo it was considered of no commercial value. Thirty years later Dr. Abram Gesner, a famous geologist, found an outcropping on Frederick Brook.

Hoard then sought his original find but he had set no markings and the search failed. He renewed the search annually in the spring and autumn until old age ended his hunt for the deposit which still eludes prospectors. Many Albert County residents believe vast stores of the precious mineral exist in this district to-day.

A celebrated lawsuit involved ownership of Albertite. In 1852 Dr. Gesner claimed it by right of discovery, contending that as the mineral was in no sense a "true coal" it was exempt from the ordinary Crown Land regulations. In this connection he was supported by Dr. James Robb of the University of New Brunswick, and R. C. Taylor, a noted chemist of Philadelphia.

Opposing argument claimed Albertite to be coal and subject to regulations then effective in the province. Several experts upheld this claim and induced a jury to decide against Dr. Gesner. Although the geologist lost his case and his interest in the property it has since been established that his contention was correct.

John Byers, mining engineer, who managed the Alberta mines for more than 20 years, and his superintendent, James Robertson, never lost a conviction that more Albertite lay southwest of the main shaft, according to records, and both men fought hard against decision of the operating company to abandon the workings.

Records also show that James Blight, engineer prominently associated with the development of gypsum, held the logical theory that the Albert Mines pocket was not the only great deposit of Albertite occurring in the country," and that "when operations ceased at Albert Mines James Blight for years explored adjacent territory where Albertite outcropped but lack of capital hampered his undertakings."

Radio 'Detective' Aids Police Sweep Land In Glance

NEW YORK, Aug. 30—(AP)—A radio "detective,' with eyes that can sweep the land in one look, was introduced to the police to-day by the Radio Corporation of America.

It could see the fingerprints of a New York criminal in San Francisco at the same time the prints were seen in New York.

It could be in Texas and spot a "wanted' man in the police line-up in the Great Lakes region.

It would do all that, but it couldn't make an arre '. It was a television set.

The mechanical sleuth was demonstrated to New York City police officials as evidence of television's possibilities in the field of crime detection. Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine was enthusiastic about it.

Once adopted, R.C.A. experts said, the radio "detectives" could be organized and be hooked together like telephones on a switchboard, or like teletypewriters. Anything that appeared on the pictue screen of one of them would appear on all the others.

Thus, police in far separated cities could "tune in' on each other's line-ups of criminals and suspects. Photographs and fingerprints could be transmitted simultaneouly.

ARE YOU LIKE THIS YOUNG MAN?

A few years ago he determined to solve the problem of uncertainty of future income by saving $5 every week.

He stuck to his resolution for a few months and then, being human, he let the weeks and months slip by without saving anything.

No one reminded him of his failure to save. Of course not. That was his own personal business. He saved $100; then was tempted to spend it, and did so. Now after two years of hit-or-miss methods he has found with the Imperial Life a savings plan that works.

An Imperial Life policy will help you stick to your resolution to build up a savings fund that will care for your dependents should you die, and provide a regular income for yourself after you retire.

Four men out of five who resolve to save by other means don't do it—can't do it. But four men out of five who save through the Imperial Life do keep up their regular deposits.

"FINANCIAL SECURITY THROUGH LIFE INSURANCE," by Paul Speicher, an international authority, is an interesting book which should be read by everyone who plans to provide financial security for himself and family. Your local Imperial Life representative will make a copy available to you without cost.

Miss Alice Hatley, sister of the bridegroom, attended as bridesmaid. Her distinctive gown of pale blue net over taffeta was slim-fitting, with flaring hemline, very full sleeves gathered at the wrists, taffeta belt, and very large collar trimmed with knife-pleating and finished with a single rose. JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

DICTATOR: One who dictates. One invested with absolute powers of government. And the dictionary goes on with dictatorial: pertaining to one who gives positive commands; overbearing; imperious; imperative; domineering; arbitrary; tyranical.

Dear Friends:

Never do we lift up a newspaper but we read of some dictator and his doings. This one has put some men to death, that one is making war with a helpless nation, always we are reading of someone imposing his will on others, to their hurt or detriment.

And we think how glad we are that there are no dictators in the land we live in. But, wait a minute, and see if there is not a dictator right inside your own body or brain.

Any bad habit can be worse than any dictator that ever lived. The body wants to be democratic, each one to get equal treatment in whatever form it is necessary, but when a bad habit gets the upper hand, it imposes on the good habit, it takes away the freedom from other parts of the body, and lords it over the rest to their discomfort.

Supposing it is the drink habit. It slows the brain, breeds carelessness, where carefulness ruled before. It begets laziness and shiftlessness, where once ambition and thrift reigned supreme. So that drink then becomes the dictator to the rest of the body, and all other things must give way to it.

Or supposing it is the habit of butting in to other people's business, then everything has to fall in line with that. Or maybe it is selfishness (the root of all evil) then the hands and brain that used to do things for others are bound to just one, and dictates that if things are not done for self they must not be done at all. A poor sort of a fellow. Take any bad habit and you will find it ruling you after a little while, and it is surprising how it will affect your life, so that you will find the worst dictators in all the world. They will cause you to lose friends, to make enemies, and once they get the upper hand they show no mercy.

We feel sorry when we read of some man or woman put to death by dictators, but compared to the one within ourselves, they are merciful. They give a quick death, but our bad habits are insidious. They work under cover, undermining our strength, promising things they never can fulfill, become tenacious and domineering, and it needs a lot of strength to break away from them.

Many's the one who has said in his or her foolishness, "Oh I can stop this any time I like. I can become sober or courteous, or good-tempered, or just, any time I want to." But when they tried they found these dictators of intemperance and discourtesy, ill-temper and injustice ruling every fiber of their bodies.

And another thing that can become a bad dictator is the habit of trying to run someone else's life for them. You find one in almost every family, and some even take them into offices and factories. They think they know what is good or bad for others, they want to run their own lives and everyone else's too. Their creed is "you must not do that, you should do this," and what a pain in the neck they can be.

So, when you resent the thought of what these people must suffer because they are ruled by dictators, just look inward and see what sort of a one you have there. Or look around you and see if you are allowing someone to do to you, what you resent being done to others.

Then you will see what bad rulers they can be, and do something about it. All dictators are not on foreign soil.

Your Friend, ROBERTA.

Cavan Bride-to-Be Is Given Shower

(Examiner Correspondence).

MILLBROOK, Aug. 28.—A pleasant social event, attended by over one hundred and fifty guests, was held at the home of William Lunn, Second Line, Cavan, on Thursday evening in honor of Miss Lazelle Lunn, a bride-to-be of the immediate future, her marriage to Mr. Leonard Morton, of Manvers, taking place on Saturday, August 28, in Bethany.

Mr. Lunn and his sister, Miss Martha Lunn, received the many guests, the warm evening making it possible to use the lawns as well as the house for the party. Late summer blossoms in abundance were used to decorate the home, a color scheme of pink and white being adhered to, other details in which this was carried out including the large white wedding-bell over the table, with streamers in pink and white descending therefrom, the silver basket of blossoms in the centre, and in the fact that the guest of honor, by special request, wore a pink dress with white accessories.

Ex-Warden James L. McCamus acted as chairman for the special event of the evening when he invited Miss Lunn to a central seat amidst the company, Miss Maretta Elgar reading an appreciative address, Mrs. Percy Elgar and Miss Mina Gibson bringing in a large basket decorated in pink and white, and overflowing with gifts, and presenting the bride-to-be with a miscellaneous shower on behalf of a wide circle of relatives and friends.

A brief reply by the recipient of the shower, and the singing of "For she's a jolly good fellow," preceded the opening of the daintily-tied parcels, those who assisted in this pleasant task including Misses Margaret Patterson, Helen Challice, and Nettie Elgar. Later lunch was served by the committee in charge, Miss Lunn, Miss Gibson and Mrs. Elgar, with others helping, and the evening was rounded out with dancing, Archie Patton, Walter Todd, Wilfrid Lunn, Bryan Brothers, of Garden Hill, and others, 'Calling off' for the square dances were Archie and Will Lunn, and Thompson Huggins of Monaghan.

A feature of peculiar interest was the fact that Mrs. Emmeline Thorne, grandmother of the bride-to-be, who has passed her eighty-sixth birthday, was among the guests for Thursday's party, and was given a seat beside the guest of honor while the gifts were being opened, and the messages on the enclosed cards were read.

Prepare Your Child's Eyes for School

NO child deserves the handicap of defective eyesight. You owe it to your child to be sure that he is not suffering with an unsuspected but harmful deficiency of vision. Many children go for years with headaches, cross dispositions, and poor school marks without their parents even knowing the source of the trouble—defects of vision that could easily be corrected. Give your child an even break at success—have his eyes examined before school starts.

He Keeps On Making Cheese

Charles Busby operates a cheese factory at Lisieux in Southern Saskatchewan. And he is right in the dry belt where there is no pasture for cows. At first glance it looks as though Mr. Busby should have folded up his cheese plant and gone out of business.

But he keeps on making cheese and it is of sufficiently high quality to win awards against cheese produced in modern cold storage plants in Regina and Saskatoon.

There are 31 farmers who deliver milk to the Busby cheese factory, and these cows have nothing to eat but Russian thistle which apears to delight in growing where nothing else will make a showing.

A Man And His Millions

It is difficult for a very rich man to die even from natural causes and be given the rites of proper burial without the fact that he was a rich man continually being brought to the front.

The case of the late Andrew Mellon serves as an illustration. He died at the age of 82 years and his death was not unexpected. He was worn out, but his wealth was counted by the hundreds of millions. Reading an Associated Press story from Pittsburgh written the day before the funeral we learn that "Andrew Mellon will come home tomorrow to the city of his fortune . . . The only member of the immediate family not on board the funeral train was Richard King Mellon, the nephew who will succeed to the head of the family's vast financial empire."

Telling of the place where the funeral service will be held it is recorded that "Rev. Dr. John L. Hutchinson, pastor of East Liberty Presbyterian Church, will conduct the funeral in the $3,000,000 church by the Mellon family." When it came to making some mention of the family the A. P. writer said "Andrew Mellon was the last of eight brothers and sisters whose father, Judge Thomas B. Mellon left a farm to seek his fortune in Pittsburgh more than 100 years ago."

There is mention made of the fact that in the last quarter of a century Andrew Mellon distributed $100,000,000 in bequests, and the closing paragraph tells that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania expects to be able to collect at least $28,000,000 by way of inheritance levies on the vast estate.

In another story it is recounted that a suit was pending against Andrew Mellon at the time of his death by the tax collection department of the U. S. government, the claim being that Mr. Mellon had declared for taxation an insufficient amount of his vast income.

So even on the day when they were taking the remains of Andrew Mellon to his home city for burial it was not possible to treat him in print as an ordinary man might have desired. He was being brought back to the city where he made millions; he was going to have his funeral service in a church his millions had erected, and the state was waiting decently and at one side to step in an secure more of his millions. And it may be worth nothing—he left them all behind.

He Cannot Be Pardoned

Dr. H. J. Cody, President of Toronto University, was speaking at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto and his text in a general way was the necessity of using perfect English. By way of illustration Dr. Cody recalled a chief magistrate speaking at an international gathering, and he said: 'I have saw this city grow.' He made use of the same phrase when referring to other things he had saw.'

Just which particular chief magistrate (or mayor) had committed this grammatical crime was not revealed by Dr. Cody. It may be the Toronto gentleman hed been nursing the breach for many weeks or months. His identity for the moment is kindly surrounded by the secrecy of generalization. Mayors of various places which Dr. Cody has visited, and who have been given to making public utterance of faulty word selection can now go into a huddle and find the offending member. Such a mayor might have been a crackerjack in running his own business; he might have been as keen as mustard when it came to striking estimates for the year, and he may have done a tremendous amount for his own community. But he said "I have saw." So thumbs down on him and let him be fed to the animals at once!

Shanghai Is A Great City

There are names appearing over some of the despatches coming from China which people learn to know. They have seen the same names on other articles from other places, and they are good writers. They have established a reputation for fairness and truth.

One of these writers now in Shanghai sends material of this sort; ". . . and those who ran were more terrified than the mangled. The high-explosive detonations deprived scores of their hearing and their wits.

"They wandered in aimless droves across the wide areas of the European district. They stampeded through the narrow twisted alleys of the native city, crushing the weaker ones to death with their slippered feet. In Nanking Road, Fifth Avenue of the Orient, well-dressed women staggered, mumbling incoherently. Some could not speak at all; when questioned they stared like astonished rabbits."

That is what is going on in Shanghai, China's greatest city, and in some ways the most remarkable city in the world. Remarkable because 100 years ago it was just another fishing village. Now it has a population of 3,500,000, almost as many people as we have living in the province of Ontario. When the British traders first went in there the zeal they displayed in wanting to own Shanghai amused the natives; when the concessions were made the Chinese themselves were certain they had slipped one over on the foreigner. The one thing the natives did not see was that the wealth of the whole country for export and import would pass through Shanghai. Nor could the Chinese at that time see a city with a section for parks, a reservation for the foreigners with great hotels and office buildings and magnificent streets. That is the Shanghai of today which Japan is pounding. It is admittedly the world's most polyglot metropolis and its fifth most important water port, doing a trade of a billion dollars a year.

A Strange Attack

There may be days when nothing exciting happens in the life of a policeman, but he never can be sure what is going to happen next. Alex. Stewart, chief of police in Barrie, was at the hospital with a doctor who found it necessary to put stitches in the arm of Joseph Golisky of Toronto, who had been injured in a motor accident.

Apparently there was some trouble before the stitching was done, but there was more of it afterward when the effects of the anaesthetic started wearing off. At that time the doctor and the chief of police were putting the injured man to bed when he made an attack.

The chief was stabbed in the side near the lung with a small screwdriver and one of his fingers was nearly bitten off, and the screwdriver had to be used to pry the teeth of the assailant apart. Other officers were called before the man was subdued. Golisky afterward called on the chief and explained he had no recollection of what had taken place and expressed regret for what had happened. Chief Stewart has since been confined to the hospital, the injuries to his hand being more serious than the stabs. What caused the attack is not known and when the case is called in court—one of assulting an officer—it may not be adequately explained.

Must Be A Mighty Man

London, Ont., and Middlesex County Caledonian games were held at Poplar Hill a few days ago, and it is recorded that the clans were all well represented. There was much to be done and the celebration lasted on into the night. There were many games and contests, much dancing and skilpin' aboot in general.

At the end of the published report there is the result of tossing the 56 and also tossing the caber. The 56 was tossed for height and also for distance, and by way of explanation the 56 is merely a nice block of iron weighing that many pounds with a ring for a handle.

We learn that R. Thomas of Lambeth won the 56 toss for height, and also for distance, and the same gentleman was also the winner of tossing the caber. We refer to him as a gentleman because we would be afraid to use any other phrase in mentioning a man who can fling such things about at the Caledonian games.

Just what this Mr. Thomas of Lambeth does we do not know. It is not stated in the papers. Lambeth is just a bit of a place and Mr. Thomas may perchance run a farm near by. If he did he would not need to be calling for some person to come and help him do this or that. If there were apple trees in the orchard which had grown crooked through age he could readily cause them to become straight. If there were fence posts to be taken out he would not have to dig below them and then shove on the bottom; he could merely pull the things out even if the ground were frozen. If the bull in the barn decided to go on a rampage we are certain Mr. Thomas could take the thing by either the tail or snout and toss it back into the pen where it belonged. When it came time to move the range from the summer cook-house back into the kitchen for fall and winter use he could do it himself without letting the fire out. But when it came time to use the cross-cut saw back in the bush we would not care to try and hold down the other end.

Pictures Tell The Truth

The Ottawa Journal admits it has received a letter from a reader who does not like the form of advertising being used by the Highways Department. There have been a number of wreck pictures used, and as well as wrecked cars there have been shown the bodies of dead people lying beside the road covered with a sheet. The Journal's correspondent says he does not like such pictures, but the Journal says in substance they are true and other forms of advertising have failed to produce required results. That is why the more severe method is being use.

There are comparatively few people who have ever seen a wreck. They may have assed along afterward; they probably have seen battered cars being towed in. It is different being present when the crash takes place.

Three years ago we saw one on a dark night in early November. And it was snowing. Soft stuff that killed visibility. A small car ran headlong into the back of an oil tank and there were five people in that little car.

The door of the car had to be pried off as it had become wedged. The first person taken out was a little lad of two or three years. When he was carried in the arms toward a farm house it was necessary to turn the hand over now and then because it was being constantly filled with blood. It was a half hour before a doctor arrived. The father of the child had his hands and face cut to shreds where he had been thrown against the windshield. His nose was smashed like a soft thing. The wife and mother cried in pain when she was moved. The hip was broken and also the leg.

In the farm home the folk gave what help they could. They tore up good sheets and put them in boiling water and then used them for bandages to stop the bleeding. There was oilcloth on the floors and it was so covered with blood that people slipped on it.

When the injured man was ready to be taken to the hospital a cup of hot tea had been prepared for him, but his hands were so bandaged he could not lift the cup. It was lifted for him and as he tried to drink blood dripped from his face into the saucer.

The lad of two had to be carried away on a wide board because he had a fractured skull and the doctor did not want him to move. When it was all over the farm wife brought in a mop and pail and started cleaning the floor. It was more than she could stand and she fainted.

No—the pictures which are being used in the Highway Department advertising are not exaggerated. They are like a plain statement of fact because the camera does not enlarge upon or diminish what it sees.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The weather man says we have been having unusually warm weather for this time of year, but the week ending October 6 also promises to be a trifle hot.

Liberal candidate in Huron-Bruce riding said motor license would probably be set at $5, but of course candidates generally see things afar off with a brightness which is amazing.

The Woodstock Sentinel-Review says the public accounts for the last fiscal year should have been published before an election was held. And by the same token a man should cut the lawn before he goes to the bowling green for the evening.

Jean Harlow, moving picture actress who died recently, made large takings in the way of salary for a number of years, but her estate when appraised recently was said to be worth only $41,000. There is a difference between making a lot and saving it.

Lady with grey hair was refused a marriage license in Detroit because she put down her age as 24. It is rather a silly fear which many folk possess about having their age known. Each passing year makes us all one year older and there is no way to escape that.

As a test case a single man sued the city of Calgary for failing to provide adequate relief. The plaintiff had been unemployed since 1928 with the exception of some work during harvest time. It is interesting to note that the case failed on two points (1) plaintiff was not able to show he was a resident of Calgary, and (2) it had not been shown there was no work for him.

COUSIN JAKE

(By A. R. K.)

¶ My Cousin Jake some years ago, unhitched his togue and let it go, whenever he got mad; 'twould wiggle at both ends I think, and Jake would never stop to think, it sounded rather bad.

¶ Jake always used to tell me then, he liked the plain outspoken men, he thought his way was best; if he had in him bits of hate, why Jake would never hesitate, to get it off his chest.

¶ And all the folk around knew Jake, and counted him a sham and fake, and they all passed him by; they did not come to visit him, nor were there many dropping in, and Jake long wondered why.

¶ And some one told him plain one day, just why the neighbors turned away, and Jake was fairly stung; if friendship ever was his hope, why then he better get a rope, and hitch it on his tongue.

¶ So Jake began on pleasant stuff, at first he found it rather tough, he had to train his chin; Jake found a neighbor who was kind, why then he'd keep that in his mind, and he'd speak well of him.

¶ Now Jake sits neath his basswood tree, and talks with neighbors two and three, and folk all think he's grand; he's numbered now with friendly men, and it began on that day when—he got his tongue in hand.

THE East Lambton Conservative Association was holding its annual meeting at Watford, and the business in hand at the moment was naming honorary presidents. Some one hastened to place the name of Hon. In court his method of driving cost him $14.25.

Try Your Hand At Law.

FACTS: When Thomas Garland was waylaid and robbed, his most serious injury was a cut on his thumb. But the surgeon whom he consulted told him that unless the thumb was amputated immediately his life was in danger. Garland refused to take the advice.

At the end of two weeks, lockjaw developed, and the thumb had to be amputated. Then it was too late, and Garland died.

The robber was indicted for murder. At the trial, the doctor testified that had the thumb been amputated promptly, Garland would not have died.

PROBLEM: Should Garland's neglect send the prisoner to the gallows?

RESULT: Prisoner guilty. It makes no difference whether the wound was instantly mortal, or whether death resulted because Garland did not adopt the best mode of treatment. The real point is that the wound inflicted by the prisoner was the cause of death.

Now Here Is Another.

FACTS: The reporter wrote "cultured gentleman;" the telegraph operator transmitted "colored gentleman," and the newspaper printed "Negro."

The gentleman is question was dumfounded when he read in his copy of the Times-Democrat that "Rev. Thos. J. Upton is a Negro." The minister immediately demanded a retraction and apology, which the newspaper was glad to make. He also asked the court to award him damages, claiming he had been libeled.

LAW: A false statement that exposes a person to ridicule or contempt is libel.

PROBLEM: Was the paper liable?

ANSWER: Rev. Upton was awarded $50. The Louisiana Court held that to call a white man colored is libelous. Retraction and apology are not sufficient to relieve a publishing company from liability.

HIDING THE GOLD

(Oakland California Tribune)

IF YOU were to dig a hole—as you have, indirectly—in order to bury some twelve and one-half billions of dollars in gold, you might have some curiosity as to the bulk and weight of the treasure. The gold which the United States has accumulated is in bullion and coins and occupies more space in the Fort Knox subterranean chambers than it would if it were melted and consolidated into a solid block.

The Wall Street Journal has given an estimating attention to this cache. It says that if the gold which Uncle Sam has buried, as a squirrel may conceal a nut, were melted and poured into one block it would form a cube a little less than twenty-seven feet three inches high and wide. It would fill Secretary Morgenthau's office in the Treasury Building way up to the decorated ceiling. It would be a heavy block, weighing 12,117.5 tons or (if you care to multiply) 24,235,000 pounds. It is, all but literally, enough old to "sink a battleship," though it may occupy limited space.

It is in a hole in the ground, and the buttercups may grow above. It is there to serve a purpose in being out of sight. Uncle Sam may smile and remark that Midas and dogfished were amateurs.

Many Farm Dogs Are Not Well Fed

That Is Why They Start Sheep Chasing; Writer Says Many Get Only the Scraps.

LETTER IN GLOBE AND MAIL

TO THE Editor of the Globe and Mail: If farmers would feed their dogs there would not be the bands of hungry animals roving the countryside and killing sheep and making themselves in other ways a nuisance. Anyone who lives in the country can bear testimony to the fact that if the farmer feeds his dogs at all, it is in small portions and stuff that cannot satisfy the big dogs which the farmers keep.

It should be a matter for the Humane or some other society to get after these farmers. It is disgraceful that such a condition as one reads about in Scarboro' and in Whitby should exist. If the police cannot handle the situation some other body should step in and do so.

The other night, driving along the Kingston Road about twenty miles east of the city, I saw a collie pulling to pieces a lunch box that had been tossed into the ditch by a passing motorist. I have been at so-called prosperous farms and seen what is handed out to dogs. No wonder they are hungry and roam the countryside at night seeking what they can devour. The dogs would not kill cattle and sheep if they were not hungry, and it is the owners who should be liable. If the Reeves and those in charge of township affairs would get after the owners and insist that the dogs be either properly fed or destroyed we would not be reading about the destruction.

Yes, I know that all farmers are not guilty of semi-starving their dogs, but I know enough about who do to make me sympathize with the dogs which they own—dogs which they keep because they are valuable to them in protecting their farms and bringing in the cattle. A farm of all places should yield enough in scraps to give these animals at least a bare subsistence. I am prepared for the brickbats that will be thrown at my head, and shall not take back a word of what I have said. I only hope it will awaken these rural owners of dogs to their responsibilities.

Unable To Find Family Fortune

Father Took Money Out and Buried It; Some Say An American Trader Got It.

CARTWRIGHT, Labrador, Fiction has thousands of stories in which hero succeeds in establishing his claim to a vast fortune before the end of the book. John Reeves has lived 85 years of his book and, although his claim is not denied, he has yet to bring his story to a happy ending by entering into his family fortune.

It all began when Reeves' father came out to Table Bay, 20 miles from here, from Scotland in 1840 and began what developed into a flourishing trade with the fishermen-settlers of the district. Through the years, the trader saved his money, keeping it in a large iron box fitted with a husky padlock.

One sorrowful day for the then-young Reeves, the old Scotsman decided his bedroom, where the strongbox was kept, was far too accessible. So, when nobody was looking, he took his treasured box and buried it—well and truly.

The following day Reeves Sr. was drowned when the dinghy in which he was sailing capsized in a squall. The tragedy was doubly stark for not only was the family's breadwinner removed, but the hiding-place of the money stored up against the future was, as far as the son and heir was concerned, likewise apparently lost.

A long search on the part of the "disinherited" son and his mother revealed nothing, so, on the death of the latter, John Reeves moved to a nearby fishing village to wrest a meagre living from the sea.

It was sometime later that a party of American traders visited Table Bay, where the story of the local treasure was fascinated by the yarn and the following summer saw the same trading schooner return to Table Bay, this time with a divining rod.

The rest is local rumor. Some say the American succeeded in locating the box and at night, unbeknown to anyone, smuggled the treasure abroad the vessel.

Wheather the treasure was found or not, it has made no difference to the heir for John Reeves wears cast-off clothing and lives sparsely on the government dole.

How Canada Cares For Her Lepers

Great Improvement Over Old Methods; Used to Be Roped Like Wild Animals.

TRACADIE, N. B., Many visitors coming to this Gloucester County village expect to see a grim prison for lepers doomed to a living death. Instead they find a pleasant—looking, modern hospital in attractive surroundings where leprosy victims sun themselves in wide verandahs, enjoy the freedom of broad fields and have a bathing beach of their own.

The nine lepers now here, five women and four men, are restricted to the lazaretto grounds but otherwise lead nearly normal lives. They eat and dress as they please, listen to radios and keep up with the times by reading newspapers. The disease is not painful, and they suffer more from loneliness and sensitiveness than anything else.

Percentage of cures is high. Patients have been discharged two or three years after entering the institution. Four of the present inmates are "cures" who could be discharged had they not been here so long they have no other home and no way to make a living. Lepers now stand a better than even chance of being cured. At least the disease can be halted and prevented from infecting anyone else. This is accomplished by injections of a specific compounded from chaulmoogra oil.

The Tracadie lazaretto is the only one in Canada apart from a leper colony maintained for Orientals on the Pacific coast where Chinese and Japanese live in small cottages and cook their native dishes. In the past the institution here has had as many as 50 patients at a time.

Although the disease is not highly contagious, despite popular belief to the contrary, elaborate precautions were taken until recently in bringing a new patient to Tracadie. This involved use of a special pullman car, disinfected twice after each trip. Federal government cost of transporting a leper from Toronto to Tracadie is said to have been about $800. For shorter distances an automobile is used now.

In recent years most cases entering the lazaretto contracted leprosy outside of Canada. A war veteran who became infected overseas walked around for years without knowing he had the disease. Another case concerned a woman who had lived in the tropics. She was in a Toronto maternity hospital when a doctor found her to be a leper. Cured, the woman rejoined her husband. The child did not have leprosy, and no one else was infected by her.

New Brunswick has few more tragic stories than that of the lepers, first known in the province near the middle 18th century. Tradition says that a vessel called L'Indienne was wrecked in the Miramichi and that Acadians on Beaubear's Island contracted the disease from salvaging clothing and foodstuffs. Another account is that the ship became icebound and the crew, including lepers, wintered with the Acadians.

Isolated on the island, the sufferers were imprisoned in a log stockade through which food was shoved with long poles. After some escaped the lepers were moved downriver to Sheldrake Island. Old writers penned harrowing descriptions of lepers being lanced by men who feared to touch them, torn from wives and children, herded like cattle into boats and towed to their island exile.

The afflicted had no medical care. Occasionally they rioted and burned buildings. When Chatham residents complained about the colony's proximity the lepers were moved again, this time to Tracadie. Here, still without any kind of care, they burned a building. A barnlike structure was then erected inside a high wall of cedar posts surmounted by sharp steel spikes. Some of the colony escaped by sawing through the logs.

Things went from bad to worse until Father LaFrance came to Tracadie as the first resident priest in the parish. At Quebec he described the lepers' plight, and in 1868 six nursing sisters arrived here for volunteer work with Sister St. Gote as their superior.

Immediate improvement resulted. The sisters' gallantry aroused government attention, and funds soon were forthcoming for a new lazaretto.

WHO'S TO BLAME

(New York Sun)

THE housewife should not blame the butcher for the price of beef, pork and other meats. He is paying more and more to the packers. The butcher should not blame the packers for the high prices, the complaints of customers and the falling-off of trade. The packers are paying higher prices for everything they buy from the farmers and ing.-cattle raisers. The farmers and the cattle raisers should not blame the drought for their inability to send more than half of their normal shipments into the packing-houses. The killing of pigs and of breeding swine and the ploughing under of grain crops in the early years of the New Deal have done more than any drought to lessen the supply of pork chops.

To the Editor

WANTED-BOOSTERS

Editor Examiner:

Sir: I noticed a night or two ago in your valuable paper, under the heading "Apsley Ball Team," a short poem, or ode, or whatever you like to call it. By the tone of it I don't think the budding poet, whoever he or she may be, has much of the community spirit in their make up. Why not, instead of knocking the local ball team, do they not try and encourage the boys. Every team is liable to hit a loseing streak. I have seen most of the games played here this season by the team, and some of the decisions handed out by the umpires have been decidedly raw, to say the least. But as the saying goes "Every knocks a boost," so why worry.

Yours sincerely,
BALL FAN.

DEBUNKING MUMMIES

(Cairo Sphinx)

PROFESSOR Blackman states emphatically that he has slept with mummies all round him and even with one under his bed and has never known a regret. He gives them an excellent reputation for quietude. This will probably be roundly endorsed by all those persons here who have had to do with mummies even if they have not had occasion to sleep among them. According to this well known Egyptologist, the superstition about mummies bringing bad luck comes from a misapprehension regarding the character of the Ancient Egyptians. Prof. Blackman gives them a few kind words, scouts the idea that they were always brooding over death and maintains that they were a very cheerful and pleasure-loving race, liking a good song, a good story and a good swig of wine or beer. Truly Prof. Blackman speaks well of mummies. It was about time someone said a good word for them.

ABOUT ADVERTISING

(Niagara Falls Review)

THE old idea that advertising adds to the cost of an article long has been dissipated. J. G. Johnston, Secretary of the Canadian Chain Store Association, addressing the Canadian Weekly Newspapermen at Halifax, points out that, without newspapers telling consumers how most efficiently to spend their pennies, the old wasteful methods of getting the goods to the consumer would have to be continued. It is pointed out that the amount of money spent on advertising is small compared with the saving to the consumer in lower selling costs. Advertising makes possible volume production and the saving in distribution is passed on to the consumer.

HOW THEY CURL

(New York Times)

EXPERTS are at odds on which way a pig's tail curls—whether clockwise or counter-clockwise, to the right or to the left. The debate was precipitated by the question of a farm girl at Whitehouse, N. J., propounded to the State Department of Agriculture. Now the controversy rages violently, with some saying one thing and some another. One does not need to be an expert to give a sensible answer which should dispose of the matter. The tail of a conservative or reactionary pig will curl to the right. The tail of a radical or C. I. O. pig will curl to the left. The tail of a middle-of-the-roader will just hang straight down.

HOW HE TELLS

(Niagara Falls Review)

A judge in New York makes not a bad distinction between real workers and agitators. When a number of them appeared before him charged with disorderly conduct during a waterfront strike, he asked them to show him their hands. Those who had calloused hands were allowed to go without bail, but all those with soft hands were required to put up a money bond for their further appearance. It may be of interest to note there were eight workers and three with soft hands.

OBITUARY

WILLIAM F. WICHER

(Examiner Correspondence)

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 30.—The funeral of the late William F. Wicher was held on Sunday afternoon from Bennett's Funeral Home, when the service was conducted by Captain Sharpe of the Salvation Army. Mr. Wicher who was a well-known and familiar figure to many, died suddenly on Friday evening last from a heart attack while chatting to several workmen on Tice street early in the evening. Born at Dartford, Ont., 76 years ago he came to Campbellford about the year 1912 and successfully worked as a carpenter for many years. He was predecessed by his wife six years ago and is now survived by one daughter, Grace of Peterborough. The pall-bearers were Messrs. Thomas Honey, George Hearst, Gordon Honey, John Miller, George Bailey and C. Merle. Interment was at Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

MRS. J. K. MOORE

On Wednesday, August 25th there passed away a rare and beautiful spirit, who through her devotion to the Master, in the home, in her church locally, and in his great missionary activities, served worthily and is now entered into the joy of her Lord.

The quiet beneficent influence of her life, so made itself felt, that with her passing, there came a deep sense of loss to those who knew and loved her.

Annie E. Moore, widow of the late John K. Moore, who predeceased her in 1932, was a daughter of the late George A. Elliott and Mary Armstrong, and was the last of a large family, all of whom were born and raised in Smith Township.

In her passing, Trinity United Church, Peterborough and many of its organizations, have lost one of its best loved and valued members.

Before union Mrs. Moore was for many years, the Peterborough district organizer for the Women's Missionary Society, and the many auxillaries, circles and bands of the district stand as a loving and lasting monument of her great missionary zeal.

She was one of the earliest members of the W.M.S. of Charlotte Street Methodist Church, and has faithfully carried on this work in Trinity United Church, until failing health during the past few months, prevented at the time of her death she was an honorary president of Peterborough Presbyterial. Although Mrs. Moore was devoted to all church life, the W.M.S. was especially dear to her heart.

The natural sweetness of her character was deepened and strengthened by her consecrated love for Christ, which motivated all her being, and was the secret of a life which radiated the spirit of Christian love.

Left to mourn the loss of a dear mother are one son, Charles E. Moore of Smith, and two daughters, Mrs. T. N. D. Kelly, of Peterborough and Helen, at home.

Her pastor, Rev. O. S. Easton conducted the funeral service at the home on Friday, August 27th, at 2 p.m. and paid high tribute to her sterling character, at the large gathering of sorrowing friends, where the Women's Association and the Women's Missionary Society were largely represented.

Mrs. Moore was carried to her last resting place in Little Lake Cemetery, by the loving hands of her two nephews, C. H. and A. L. Elliott, and her four grandsons, Donald and James Moore and Keith and Dean Kelly, where the pastor conducted the impressive grave-side service.

The boys were Denis Patterson, 13, of Summerstown, Ont., and Harvery Labelle, 16 of Cornwall. An inquest will be held.

The automobile was driven by Hubert Kinsella, 23, of Cornwall, who said he was returning to Cornwall with a party from a dance at Summerstown. Kinsella told police he did not see the boys until the moment before the crash.

It is estimated that 54,000 Japanese troops who arrived off Kiangsu Province landing points a week ago about half had come ashore.

Foreign war experts here said the Island Empire has 250,000 soldiers and sailors in China, both in Kiangsu Province and in North China where with another 250,000 ready to embark.

That Japan has prepared for a hard struggle in China was shown by the decision of Toyko government to appropriate another 1,500,000,000 yen (about $435,000,000) and to triple the peacetime strength of its fighting forces. The appropriation would bring Japan's war fun to 2,044,000,000 yen (about $592,760,000.)

Three hundred non-combatants were killed and several hundred wounded, a Chinese communique said, in a raid over the North Station, district, on the boundary of the international settlement and Chinese Chapei. Incendiary bombs set fire to 200 houses.

More than 100 civilians were killed and about 400 wounded in a raid on Nanking, a war office statement asserted. One of the Nanking targets was the National school for orphans.

Sixteen Japanese bombers took a toll of 300 dead or wounded at Nanchang, capital of Kiangsi province, about 400 miles inland from here. Chinese reports were that an American missionary girls' school was bombed at Nanchang but apparently no Americans were among the victims.

KIDDIES ENJOY ANNUAL OUTING

HASTINGS, Aug. 30—St. George's rectory ground was the scene of a happy gathering on Thursday afternoon when the Little Helpers of the Font roll and of the Woman's Auxiliary held their annual party.

There were 25 little helpers and adults present, the youngest child being Margaret Anne Blackbourne, 3-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Blackbourne. Mrs. Thomas Currell, secretary for the Little Helpers, gave a short report of her work done during the past year. Ten little helpers' names appear on the roll but two of these will pass on to the juniors. Rev. Wm. Stocks gave an address on the purpose of Little Helpers and told a beautiful story of Blind Chang of Manchuria and also had on display a Hebrew Bible containing five books.

The children then enjoyed the freedom of play, finding great enjoyment from the treasure hunts, scramoles and games, while the mothers enjoyed social intercourse. Members of the senior auxiliary served dainty refreshments, Mrs. Stocks serving the tea.

W.M.S. Meeting

St. Andrew's Women's Missionary Society held their monthly and devotional meeting in the basement of the church on Thursday afternoon with the president, Mrs. C. Dodd, presiding. Mrs. Wm. Whitred read the scripture and Mrs. Wm. West gave a splendid paper entitled "The Child Leader."

At the September meeting the ladies will entertain the members of the W.M.S. from the Norwood and Havelock churches.

A special meeting will be held on Thursday afternoon, September 2, for the purpose of quilting the quilts for the bale to be sent to the North West as soon as it can be prepared. Following the meeting a pot luck supper proved most appetizing.

Mrs. J. H. Hess opened her home on Thursday afternoon for the regular meeting of Trinity United W.A. Due to the very small attendance business was left over until a special meeting.

As Mr. Picobac turned in to ask for his mail, he found Herb, tobacco grower by instinct and hired man to the highest bidder, seated on the end of the post office steps.

"Hello, Herb," cried Mr. Picobac genially. "What are you sittin' here for? You're not out of a job, I hope."

"This is the first time I sat down for weeks," Herb spoke up. "A hired man ain't supposed to sit down."

Mr. Picobac nodded cheerfully. "A good man like you just naturally don't get a chance to do much sittin', Herb," he said. "A tobacco man is always a busy man."

"Only chance I ever get to sit is when I come to town," said Herb. "I'm waitin' for the bus, that's all."

"Well, Herb, I don't mind telling you I enjoy sitting down once in a while myself," confessed Mr. Picobac mopping his brow. "It seems to rest your hands and face. Your bus ain't due for a while yet. Let's you and me load our pipes from my new seal-tight Picobac pouch and sit down to a mild . . . cool . . . sweet smoke."

CHINA SIGNS PACT WITH THE SOVIETS, AID AGAINST JAPAN

efforts until the Shensi Province rebellion last December, in which the rebels held the Generalissimo prisoner for a fortnight and reputedly extracted from him a pledge to call off his long series of wars against the Chinese Communist Party and form an all-China front against Japan.

Chiang had been an enemy of Soviet Russia since 1927, when he broke with the Chinese Communist Party and ejected Soviet advisers who had been called in from Moscow in 1924 to aid in the nationalist revolution.

Negotiate Since January

The Shensi agreement, however, opened the way to a renewal of the Soviet - Chinese collaboration of 1924-27 and diplomatic conversations between the two powers have been under way since January 1 of this year.

The present non - aggression treaty, one of a series signed between Russian and neighboring states, is a first result. Whether Russia will go further, despite her domestic upheaval caused by Moscow's internal purge of anti-Stalinist elements in the Soviet republics, is a question none here is prepared to answer. The best guess, however, was that for the present she will not.

Moscow has good reason to hate Japan, for she was kicked from her strong position in North Manchuria when the Japanese created the pro-Japanese State of Manchoukuo five years ago, and has suffered continuous humiliation since as a result of the series of border clashes on her eastern frontier—in all of which she asserts that the Japanese Army has been the aggressor.

No Fear Of Shortage

"There is no fear of a power shortage as Mr. Rowe (Hon. Earl Rowe) would have you believe," said Mr. Hepburn. "If Mr. Rowe would spend less time following his race horse and more time studying the affairs of the province, he would be able to talk more intelligently. I chose the people of Ontario over the power barons of Quebec and am prepared to do so in the future."

NEW THEORY SUGGESTED.

BUHL, Idaho, Aug. 30.—(AP). — A University geologist tramping the restless bottom of Southern Idaho's "sinking canyon," injected a new and ominous theory to-day into the cause of the disturbance.

The theory—and it is nothing more than that said Dr. F. B. Laney, geology instructor at the University of Idaho—is that the break is an old fault somewhat similar to that which caused the San Francisco earthquake. The fault has slipped, he theorized, and caused the land above to sink.

National Problem

"The decision to ask for this second registration has not been taken lightly by the Commission, nor without a knowledge of the work imposed upon the Provinces and municipalities in carrying out our request. However, it has been felt that the end to be served; that is, the breaking down of the problem into all its phases, so that each can be given appropriate remedial treatment, is of more than sufficient consequence to warrant a second appeal.

"The problem of aid is a national one, as the Provinces and municipalities know only too well, and the Commission, therefore, feels it can rely upon their co-operation in such measures as this."

ish government, while resentful of the attack on the ambassador, was more gravely disturbed by the attacks on noncombatants. It said:

"His Majesty's government feel they must take this opportunity to emphasize the wider significance of this event. It is an outstanding example of results to be expected from indiscriminate attack attack from the air.

"Such events are inseparable from the proctice, as illegal as it is inhuman, of failing to draw that clear distinction between combatants and noncombatants in the conduct of hostilities, which iternational law, no less than the conscience of mankind has always enjoined.

"The fact that in the present case no actual state of war had been declared or expressly recognized by either party to exist emphasizes the inexcusable nature of what has occurred."

It was expected Japan would meet the terms of the note and thus close the incident. But in any case there was no hint of further action should Japan decide not to provide the redress demanded.

The note revealed a nickel-steel bullet had penetrated the abdomen and grazed the spine of the ambassador. It stated each of the two cars of the envoy's party was flying a Union Jack at the time of the attack, and that no Chinese troops were in the vicinity.

No indemnity was demanded, informed sources declaring the issues involved were too grave for the matter to be made a question of money.

A Statement by the Ontario Department of Health on

POLIOMYELITIS

("INFANTILE PARALYSIS")

In view of the prevalence of "infantile paralysis" in Ontario at the present time, and in recognition of the deep concern felt by parents over the protection of their children, the Provincial Department of Health is issuing the following statement concerning the nature of the disease and the question of what can be done to reduce the danger of infection.

Nature of the Disease

Like measles and scarlet fever, "infantile paralysis" is a communicable or "catching" disease. Like them also, it is mainly a disease of childhood. Yet the term "infantile" is apt to be misleading. While it is true that the majority of cases occur among children under ten years of age, the disease does occur, especially in rural districts, among older children and young adults.

The term "paralysis" is likewise misleading since it conveys the impression that some loss of muscular function is characteristic of every case of the disease. This is not true. It is now known that only a small proportion of those who contract the disease actually develop paralysis.

Since the disease is not limited to infants and since paralysis does not occur in all cases, the name "infantile paralysis" is now regarded as a misnomer. The correct name for the disease is "polio-myel-itis", which simply means acute inflammation ("itis") of the grey matter ("polio") of special portions of the spinal cord which control movement of the muscles. This inflammation is believed to be due to a special sort of infection which probably gains entrance to the nervous system through the upper part of the nose and throat.

Cause of the Disease

Poliomyelitis has been definitely recognized as a communicable disease since 1909 when investigators succeeded in securing from humans, ill with the disease, a minute living substance called a "virus" which was found to be capable of producing poliomyelitis in monkeys.

Much remains to be discovered about the nature of this virus but a good deal has already been learned. In size, it has been found to be less than one millionth of an inch in diameter. The virus is present in the nervous tissue of humans who have died from the disease. It is also found in the nose and throat, not only of persons ill with the disease, but also of persons who have been in contact with the disease.

How the Disease Spreads

The exact manner in which the disease is transmitted from one person to another is not known. However, the disease does not arise spontaneously. The source of infection is a human being who is carrying the virus. Such a person need not necessarily be suffering from the disease. Yet the mere presence of the virus in the nose and throat affords ample opportunity for spread of infection. In such cases minute particles are given off by coughing, sneezing and talking. Fingers are constantly being carried to and from the mouth and nose and in this way articles, such as improperly washed eating and drinking utensils, common towels, children's toys, etc., may become contaminated.

Any set of circumstances which permits the frequent and rapid transfer of nose and throat secretions from one person to another increases the possibility of infection.

There is no evidence that flies or other insects play an important part in the spread of poliomyelitis.

Chlorination of municipal water supplies as now practised, and the proper pasteurization of milk have eliminated water and milk as possible sources of infection.

Signs and Symptoms of the Disease

The early symptoms of poliomyelitis are neither constant nor regular in their appearance, but certain of them are sufficiently suggestive to warrant the summoning of the family physician.

The onset is usually sudden, with rapidly rising TEMPERATURE, fluctuating between 101-105 degrees. HEADACHE is another common symptom. The young child is apt to appear irritable and cries easily when disturbed. The patient is usually willing to stay in bed, appears drowsy and takes little interest in his surroundings.

VOMITING is fairly characteristic. Constipation is often present, whereas diarrhoea is unusual. Food is refused.

Often the characteristic symptoms of COLD or SORE THROAT are present.

SORENESS IN THE MUSCLES of the back and STIFFNESS and pain in the joints of the arms and legs may occur.

In many cases of poliomyelitis the condition does not go beyond this stage, and terminates after four to ten days' illness.

However, in other cases, the disease proceeds into a second stage, in which the elevation of temperature and rapid pulse are accompanied by marked irritability and drowsiness. The patient becomes mentally disturbed and takes on an anxious, frightened expression. Sleep may be disturbed by twitching and the hands may shake and tremble.

STIFFNESS OF THE SPINE. The head may be bent on the neck but efforts to bend the neck on the shoulders cause pain and are resisted. The child is unable, while sitting up in bed, to bend his head down to touch the knees. If he bends at all, it is at the hips with the back held rigid.

PECULIAR SITTING POSTURE. When he sits up he props himself behind with extended arms supporting a tender or painful spine.

Preventive Measures

The precautionary measure of first importance is to protect the child from contact with infection. Since other human beings are the primary source of infection, then children, who are evidently much more susceptible than adults, should be protected as far as is reasonably possible from contact with people.

"Keep your child in your own yard" is a wise precaution. In crowded stores, street cars, motion picture theatres, bathing pools, picnics,—in fact, in any setting where there is a large number of people, the chances of exposure to possible infection are tremendously increased.

Of equal importance for the protection of children is the prompt calling of a physician if the child shows the indications of illness described above.

Convalescent Serum

Medical opinion is divided concerning the effectiveness of the so-called "Convalescent Serum" in poliomyelitis. In the absence of conclusive evidence, the Department is continuing to supply this serum to physicians on request. Owing to the limited supply available, its use must of necessity be limited to cases suffering an attack of the disease.

Nasal Spray

Based on the assumption that the virus enters the body through the upper part of the nose, attempts are being made to prevent its entrance by spraying the nasal passages with certain chemicals. Since this method is still entirely in the experimental stage, it is not one which can be recommended for general use.

Precautions in the Care of Those Ill

When a diagnosis of poliomyelitis has been made, the patient must be isolated for a period of at least three weeks. Since other members of the family are likely to be carriers of the virus, the protection of the community requires that they be quarantined until the danger of further spread has been eliminated. Care should be taken to see that articles which may have become contaminated by the patient are disinfected or burned. Special precautions should be taken in regard to the disposal of nasal and alimentary discharges. Those who are handling the patient should exercise special care regarding their hands and person before coming in contact with other people.

Veterans Honor Comrades Lying In Little Lake Cemetery

Memorial Rites Are Held at Soldiers' Plot—Several Local Speakers.

Deploring the present-day race for armaments, speakers called upon the nation to show that the Canadian war dead did not die in vain as Canadian Legion members and returned men decorated the graves of their comrades in Little Lake Cemetery Sunday afternoon.

Fifty ex-service men wearing on their breasts their ribbons and medals and distinguishing themselves as Legion men with Legion berets took part in the impressive annual march. They moved down George street to the soldiers plot in the cemetery, headed by the Prince of Wales Rangers band. Many citizens joined in the memorial rites.

Legion President Max Sloan presided over the service assembly on the cemetery grounds. Addresses appropriate to the occasion were delivered by Mayor George A. Macdonald, J. J. Duffus, M.P., and Adjutant Neil Warrander of the Salvation Army. Among those on the platform were Father P. J. Kelly, Legion padre, and Mrs. W. Hughes, president of the Legion ladies' auxiliary.

Max Sloan

"The Canadian Legion is a strange organization," Chairman Sloan said, calling attention to the significance of the occasion. "It is founded on death where other organzations are founded on life." He declared that if another war is required to swell the Legion ranks of returned men, the organization will be content to allow its ranks to remain static. It is for those who returned from the front without permanent disability to aid their less fortunate comrades and thus honor their dead, he said.

"By this simple service today, we have paid a tribute of respect to those of our number who have finished their work on earth and while they have passed beyond the need of those kindly benefactions we owe each other in life, they still hold a place in our memory and love," Mayor Macdonald said. "Here today, we have come to awake the tender thoughts of old associations, to recall to mind the virtues of our departed comrades and to offer a floral offering that shall speak for us better than words can express.

"And there comes to us today the thought of lives cut short in the midst of usefulness, therefore let us heed the lesson that is taught, work while the day of life may last, so that after life, we shall still live in the hearts of our comrades. May we be enabled to emulate their virtues and meet them again in that land where the bonds of comradeship are not broken by the hand of death. So may our histories be written in colors glowing as the flowers we spread upon our comrade's graves."

J. J. Duffus

Mr. Duffus declared: "It is most unfortunate and extremely regretable that we have to admit a vast economic orgy called rearmament has come in the place of perpetual peace." He called upon the world to look upon the example of enduring peace set by the United States and Canada in their relations with each other.

Commending the existence of many monuments in Canada and the Vimy monument in France as permanent reminders of the sacrifices of the Great War, the speaker said those whom Provice allowed to return home from the battle front must carry on for Canada. The memory of those who died must be kept ever green, he declared.

"There are men before me here who know the cost of war," Adjutant Warrander said. "There were fortunate enough to be spared while their comrades to whom they are paying tribute today paid the supreme sacrifice. They are probably now asking themselves what the purpose of the war was."

He suggested there has been a tendency to spend too much money on elaborate stone monuments to the war dead while those who are still suffering from war effects are neglected.

Robert Hendry served as parade marshal.

Narcotic Case Is Stolen From Kit

COBOURG, Ont., Aug. 30.—(CP).—Narcotics and a case containing hypodermics were stolen Saturday from the office of Dr. W. Wade while the doctor was at his supper. A man called at the doctor's office complaining of an aching tooth. He was admitted by the maid, who asked him to wait until the doctor came out.

Dr. Wade told the visitor to see a dentist and after the man had left noticed his medical kit had been ransacked and the narcotic case stolen. Value of the 125 grains stolen was about $15.

CHRIST JESUS.

"Christ Jesus" was the subject of the lesson-sermon for First Church of Christ, Scientist, Peterborough on Sunday. The Golden Text was, "The Father judgeth no man, but hath committed all judgment unto the Son: that all men should honour the Son, even as they honour the Father." Selections from the Bible included "And he shall send Jesus Christ, which before was preached unto you: For Moses truly said unto the fathers, A prophet shall the Lord your God raise up unto you of your brethren, like unto me; him shall ye hear in all things whatsoever he shall say unto you." Correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook included "The advent of Jesus of Nazareth marked the first century of the Christian era, but the Christ is without beginning of years or end of days. Throughout all generations both before and after the Christian era, the Christ, as the spiritual idea—the reflection of God, has come with some measure of power and grace to all prepared to receive Christ, Truth."

CAMPBELLFORD IN DARKNESS.

(Examiner Correspondence)

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 30—Merchants on the west side of the river worked in the dark for a short while on Saturday night. It was 8.30 when the disruption in the service occured, when a fuse on the corner of Tice and Bridge Streets blew out. A record number of calls poured into the Water and Light Commission's offices, while men from the department were on the job putting the service back into operation.

ADJUSTMENTS ARE MADE AT AUBURN BY MANAGEMENT

Peaceful negotiations between union workers and the management of the Auburn mill of the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds resulted in a successful settlement when further difficulties arose at the plant during the past several days, it was learned this morning. Adjustments were made to-day in connection with the complaints.

The complaints concerned the clause in the agreement between the company and strikers which ended the recent strike, in which the company undertook to distribut available work fairly among its employees without discrimination against union men. Workers interviewed the management to protest that in several instances non-strikers were being favored in the sharing of available weaving. Several adjustments satisfactory to both sides were agreed to.

Workers who were prominent in leadership of the strike said to-day the company appears to be making every effort to abide by the agreement and that, except for lesser differences, things are now going smoothly. All those who were on strike are back to work. Many are one short hour weeks in accordance with the plan of work sharing, but hope to regain full time work as the plant resumes fuller operation.

Members of the union are canvassing the plant payroll energetically for further members. They claimed to-day they had made definite progress toward their objective of signing the plant up 100 per cent.

Although striking workers drew their first pay in more than a month on Friday many families were said to be still in serious need of supplies over the week-end and the relief organization set up by the strikers continued its work. Further contributions of food which continued appeals to the public have brought in are being distributed.

KAWARTHA CLUB HOLDS FIELD DAY

Ever hear of Tommy Tucker—the mythical young gaffer who sang for his supper? Well, on Saturday, believe it or not, thirty-two young people played tennis at the Kawartha Club for that very same prize. It was a real tennis field day. A tropical sun sizzled overhead, matches were fought tooth and nail and everybody got a big kick out of it all. A unique feature of the tournament was the fact that those taking part represented six provinces of the Dominion — many being men employed in the C.G.E. test department. George Baranovsky's B team, who walloped the A team, under the mentorship of Bert Blanchard, 9 events to 3, offered the latter crowd a huge vote of thanks for the free lunch.

The winners took all the singles events, split the men's doubles and won three out of six mixed doubles matches, losing two. The other was unfinished. Five of the encounters were three-set sieges while many of the two-set affairs strained the limit.

The girls gave a good account of themselves, particularly in singles, where Vi Davidson and Margaret Jackson played one of the feature matches. The junior champ turned in a plucky effort and made it a real battle, but found Miss Davidson's endurance a little too much for her. Jean Whitbeck, pretty young Vancouver miss, turned on the heat at required times and bested Anne Davis in another good number. A third singles match featured Jean Cowling and Meta Hart, the former having a slight edge in experience. In the men's singles, Ken Venning and Johnny Simpson "dug themselves in" for an afternoon of wearisome exchanges. When they finally did come "up for air," the former of the two was wearing the broader smile. Bert Blanchard clashed with Ormond Benson and after the smoke had cleared away (or was it dust?), scores favored the latter player, who was a bit stronger on service.

Real Struggles

Men's doubles matches showed somewhat spotty tennis, but in the mixed doubles there were some real struggles. Nan Boorman and Art Kidd rubbed out Tuna Hart and John Witbeck while Doris Ackford and Ken Venning got rid of Elinor Stacey and Gord Tollington in three fine sets. Betsy Scott and Alf Gratton grabbed a verdict from Marion Worboy and Evan Frith in another nifty contest.

Scores in the events were: Ladies' singles: V. Davidson vs. M. Jackson 3-6, 6-3, 6-2; J. Witbeck vs. A. Davis 7-5, 6-6, 6-3; J. Cowling vs. M. Hart 6-2, 6-4; men's singles: K. Venning vs. J. Simpson 6-3, 11-8; O. Benson vs. B. Blanchard 6-4, 10-8; men's doubles: W. Lind and P. Stewart vs. G. Baranovsky and A. Grisdale 6-3, 6-2; J. Witbeck and G. Baranovsky vs. R. Fourier and T. Henselwood 6-4, 6-1; mixed doubles: J. Witbeck and O. Benson vs. B. Pammett and T. Henselwood 6-2, 6-3; N. Boorman and A. Kidd vs. T. Hart and J. Witbeck 6-4, 6-3; M. Jackson and J. Simpson vs. V. Davidson and C. Muir 3-6, 6-4, 6-6 (unfinished); D. Ackford and K. Venning vs. E. Stacey and G. Tollington 2-6, 6-0, 6-3; B. Scott and A. Grattan vs. M. Worboy and E. Frith 7-5, 6-2; I. Killoran and J. Archibald vs. J. Cowling and J. Thompson 6-3, 3-6, 6-0. Final score: "B" team 9, "A" team 3. — "ROB".

Two Cars Damaged In Saturday Crash

(Examiner Correspondence)

HASTINGS, Aug. 30.—Frank Sargent while driving toward Norwood on the Hastings-Norwood road on Saturday night at 8.30 was sideswiped by a car driven by Ernie Blodgett of Centreton causing damaged fenders to both cars. Sargent claims the other driver failed to stop at the scene of the accident and went about a quarter of a mile before he was forced to stop because his front fender was rubbing on a tire. W. Wellman advised both drivers to settle the matter between them but no settlement was made. Sargent said he thought he would prefer a charge of being a "hit and run" driver against Blodgett.

Two Harvey Men Remanded on Other Charges Under Excise Act.

John Francis Willington Freeman, one of two Harvey Township residents arrested Friday afternoon at their home 6 miles north of Boocaygeon by Corporal T. J. Woods of the Lindsay detachment Royal Canadian Mounted Police, this morning pleaded guilty to charges of unlawful possession of a .32 calibre revolver and unlawful possession of illicit spirits.

In answer to the charge respecting the revolver, Freeman urged "it has been in the house as long as I can remember," and that it had belonged to his father, who has been dead for the past twelve years. He said he did not know the law required him to register the revolver.

On that charge Freeman was ordered to pay a nominal fine of $1 and $3 costs, and the revolver was confiscated by the Crown. On the other charge of unlawful possession of illicit spirits, he was remanded for sentence until Tuesday of next week.

Percy M. Middleton, 23, pleaded not guilty to a similar charge of unlawful possession of illicit spirits, and on application of Corporal Woods was remanded for trial to the same date.

Remarking on the fact that Middleton is six feet three inches tall, the magistrate told him: "A big strapping fellow like you should be in the Mounties." "Yes," Middleton agreed, "I tried to get a job with them, but couldn't."

Bait Attacks Fish To Reverse Story

(Examiner Correspondence).

MARMORA, Aug. 30. — Strange things are still happening in the waters of Crowe River, beneath the dam. Now it is a case of the bait taking the fish instead of the fish taking the bait.

Ed Danks and a pal of Buffalo pitched their tent this week-end on the western shore of Crowe River, near the site of the old cheese factory, and looked up their last year's guide, Bert Kouri. In addition to using minnows, Ed had a partiality for a black locust, and this is what happened at the end of his line.

The insect meeting a six-inch rock bass below the surface operated its two prongs to tenaciously hold the fish by its mouth, and the angler had to use great strategy to release the fish before returning it to the water.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, August 31

A lively day with fair progress is forecast from the predominant lunar and mutual configurations, but this trend of affairs may be held back by some adverse or afflicting circumstance, probably the illness or demise of an elderly person. Change of an unexpected nature looms, possibly in relation to a favorable turn in employment. In such new affiliations there may be much initiative in developing new plans. The mind may be under fine creative stimulus, but it may be necessary to defer practical operations.

Those whose birthday it is, although finding fair progress in affairs, may be subject to delays, impediments and disappointment, possibly through the illness or loss of an elderly person. This afflicting circumstance may postpone the launching of very important constructive projects, but it is a favorable time for working on plans and for sound creative work in connection with employment.

A child born on this day, while it may have a fine mind and may be keen and quick at constructive thinking, is apt to be disposed to procrastinate or postpone active operations, probably because of a moody or melancholy outlook. Its success may materialize late in life.

Hon. Paul Leduc Is Named In Ottawa

OTTAWA, Aug. 30—(CP).—Leading the Liberal campaign in Eastern Ontario, Hon. Paul Leduc, provincial attorney general, was named candidate for East Ottawa at a party convention here Saturday.

The Hepburn Government, Mr. Leduc told his audience, had done more for the working men than any previous administration. He cited various items of social legislation passed by the provincial government, naming the Standard Wages Act and the Minimum Wage Act.

"It is the government's intention to introduce unemployment insurance," the attorney general said. He continued:

"It was claimed the Hepburn Government was opposed to labor unions. That is untrue. We recognize the right of laborers to organize but what we oppose is any interference by outsiders in our labor problems. Sit-down strikes or any other illegal novelties imported from other countries will be severely dealt with."

CHURCH LAYMEN HOLD CONFERENCE WHITBY COLLEGE

A layman's leadership conference was held in the Ontario Ladies' College in Whitby on Saturday and Sunday 28th and 29th August, and was attended by laymen and ministers from the Toronto conference and the eastern section of the Bay of Quinte Conference.

The Saturday afternoon meeting was held in the open air under the trees in the beautiful lawns of the college. Several of the church leaders spoke of their work, including the moderator, Right Rev. Peter Bryce D.D., the president of the Toronto Conference, Rev. R. S. Laidlaw, D.D., Religious Education, Rev. Frank Langford D.D., Evangelism and Social Service, Rev. D. N. McLachlan, D.D., the Pension Fund, Rev. S. W. Dean, D.D., Foreign Missions, Rev. Jessie Arnup, D.D. After these address the members were divided into three groups for more intimate discussion of the church's work. The group on missionary education was led by Rev. Kenneth Beaton, B. A., that on church finance by Rev. Denzil Ridout D.D. and on organization and method by Rev. G. A. Williams, B.A. The groups broke up at 6 o'clock when supper was served in the large dining hall of the college. After supper D. T. C. Whong, who was the first native dentist to be registered in a Chinese college, and is at present pursuing his studies in Toronto spoke briefly. He thanked the United Church for sending missionaries to China. His people are disturbed by the present attack of Japan upon their land. He expects to do constructive Christian work when he returns to China.

Mr. H. J. Saunders of Toronto presided at the evening meeting in the College Hall. Rev. Kenneth Beaton spoke on the need of missionary education. He said that the people of this age were interested in several things, and that missions were linked on to all of them. People were interested in social reconstruction, and in India 70 million untouchables were moving on to a new status. Policemen take the worst criminals in Japan to Kajawa. The new light movement in China will teach three million people to read in three years. We are interested in good citizenship, in relieving distress, in international peace, in personal liberty. If we neglect the missionary cause each of the causes must inevitably suffer.

The reports from the afternoon groups were then given by leading laymen and the following suggestions were made.

Missionary Committee

Each church should have a missionary committee, representative of every section of the congregation. This committee to keep the cause before the people, to provide information, and sharpen conviction.

The value of group study, for which the book recommended is Dr. Jessie Arnups, "A New Church Faces A New World". The discussion of this book should be introduced into the sessions and official boards. The Presbytery Missionary committee should be in constant touch with the local committees in the charges.

There should be an annual every person canvass in every congregation for local and missionary funds. An effort should be made to educate young people, and new members regarding the obligation of Christian stewardship.

The Youth Budget plan was recommended as practised by the Presbyterian Church, north of U.S.A. The young people from six to 23 years of age assume responsibility for a definite portion of the church finance, and use their own methods in raising it.

It was recommended that every presbytery provide teams of laymen who shall speak in the churches on the different branches of the work. A demonstration of the value of this scheme was given when four laymen from Howard Park Church, Toronto, spoke on home missions, foreign missions, the pension fund and religious education. The speakers were thoroughly conversant with their subjects, and the addresses were most effective. The conference was continued until Sunday afternoon and broke up at 4.30 p.m. The following attended from Peterborough, D. T. Crawford, George A. Gillespie, P. P. Westbye, Dr. Charles M. Scott, Arthur Young and Rev. E. W. Young from St. Andrew's church, A. W. Pratten and J. W. Pierce from Trinity, J. F. Morrison from Knox church.

Seven hundred men, women and children arrived on a 14-car special from Smith's Falls on Saturday noon and were accorded a civic welcome by Mayor George Macdonald at the Canadian Pacific Railway station.

They were members of Perth and Smith's Falls Canadian Pacific Railway Recreation Clubs and their friends, together with other railroaders picked up en route at Tweed, Havelock and Norwood, who made this city the venue for their annual picnic.

When he met the visitors at the station the Mayor was accompanied by Assistant City Clerk E. A. Outram and by James J. Dorris, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce through whom arrangements for the picnic were made.

John R. Caswell, district resident engineer of the company, responded to the Mayor's address of welcome on behalf of the visitors. He represented Andrew Williams, popular superintendent of the company who was unable to be present.

Luncheon On Train

Mayor Macdonald and his party accepted an invitation from Mr. Caswell and enjoyed luncheon in the dining car of the picnic special.

The crowd of picknickers was readily dispersed at the station, a special bus service being run by Peterborough Bus Lines for the occasion, A bus was also provided for thirty-one underprivileged children who attended the picnic sponsored by Smith's Falls Rotary Club of which A. E. Dobbie is president.

At Nicholls Oval during the afternoon an enjoyable program of sports was run off for the children, while the majority of their elders attended the Smith's Falls-Ogdensburg ball game at Riverside Park, or made a tour of inspection of the city.

After the ball game the Lift Locks were operated for the benefit of the visitors through arrangements made with the superintendent of the Trent Canal, the "Kannatha" owned by Joseph Fontaine being locked through.

Mr. Caswell's committee who had charge of details in connection with the picnic included: E. MacMullen, chief ticket agent; Frank Marquette, E. Sutherland, yardmaster; M. J. Douglas, W. H. Wiseman, round house foreman; A. E. Dobbie, president of Smith's Falls Rotary Club; Gordon Kirkwood, Clare Purdy, Richard Drew, Fred Pruner, M. Couch. The train was in charge of Conductor E. J. Ryan, the trainmen being F. Hartwick, G. Kennedy and R. Gendron. The engineer was Harold Francis.

In addition to Mr. Williams, president of the Recreation Club, W. A. Woodside, secretary was also unable to be present. George McLaughlin, chairman of the Rotary Underprivileged Child Committee who had much to do with arrangements for attendance of the Underprivileged children, was also included among the absentees.

While there were only half the number expected, it was stated, the attendance was depleted on account of other attractions including Ottawa Fair and the C.N.E.

The Rambling REPORTERS

PICNIC SIDELIGHTS

The C.P.R. Picnic special which brought 700 railroaders and their friends from Smiths Falls district to the city on Saturday had among other items of refreshment aboard, 20-gallons of ice cream; 100 cases of soft drinks, chocolate bars, cigarettes, etc. On arrival here half the ice-cream had been consumed, while the stock of chocolate bars was replenished locally.

STRANGE SPIDER.

Another beast was brought in for the inspection of The Examiner's bug editor to-day. This time it was a strange variety of spider.

Found on a grape vine on a Smith township farm by Vernon Oliver, the spider measured about 3 inches across with its legs outspread. It was black with the exception of markings resembling the front view of a human skull in bright yelow on its back.

Mr. Oliver reported he had seen others of the same variety in his grain fields.—C.P.K.

HAS LICENSE CLEANED.

We wonder who the Ashburnham motorist was, who recently had his operator's license cleaned and pressed? Rumor has it that he left the license in his shirt pocket and when his wife washed the garment she put it in the washing tub, permit and all. On noticing the permit, later, when it was beginning to get all soggy and crumpled up with the action of the water, she promptly retrieved it from the tub, hung it on the line to dry, and smoothed it out with a hot iron. It is as good as new again, but even at that it's only good until December 31.—H.R.

137 PERSONS HELD FOLLOWING RAIDS

TRENTON, N.J., Aug. 30—(AP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation, with 13 persons already held in Mercer County Jail as a result of vice raids in three States, moved swiftly to-day in search of the "higher-ups" in its drive to wipe out white slaves traffic in this section of the United States.

J. Edgar Hoover, who directed the arrests Saturday night at establishments in Atlantic City, famed as a seashore resort and site of many conventions, Philadelphia and Wilmington, Del., said 37 of the prisoners were "principals, procurers and madames" and 100 inmates and "maids."

Federal agents planned to bring here from New York for questioning to-day a man identified by Hoover as Harry Roth, who he said was "reputedly a member of the Charles (Lucky) Luciano gang." Luciano is serving a 30-year prison term for vice operations.

Pair Are Charged Theft Of Cycles

When a 16-year-old youth who was placed on probation for a period of 2 years pleaded guilty before Magistrate A. E. Gee to two charges relating to theft of motorcycles this morning, his elder companion from the dock said he accepted the full blame for the younger lad's misdemeanors.

The other accused who pleaded guilty to similar charges and also to a third charge of breaking and entering and theft from a store in Mariposa Township was sentenced to one month's imprisonment to date back to the time of his arrest a week ago.

"Telling the elder youth he had no option but to commit him to gaol, Magistrate Gee declared, "I hope while you are there you will map out a course for yourself and decide to get a job and steer clear of police in the future. I shall be interested in seeing what you decide to make of yourself."

Both the accused were represented by W. B. Gordon, who stated on behalf of the younger of the pair that he had never before been in any kind of trouble. Of the older of the pair it was stated, he was an orphan who was without employment or home.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

BALL FANS here—a goodly gathering of 'em—saw how baseball should be played when Smiths Falls and Ogdensburg tangled here on Saturday at Riverside. It ended in an 8-3 nod for the Beavers. That was the second straight loss for Knotty Lee's team here, their previous one being against Kingston in playoffs two years back—remember?—when Umpire Woodley was mobbed! The pros turned in a fine display, fielding like big leaguers and doing some potent hitting in spots. Especially the Falls' gang. With their twirler, Mister "X" Resigno, turning in a fair mound chore, Messrs. Bebey and Smith worked for the losers, the latter going oke.

* * * * * *

THREE snappy double playes were dished up by the winners' infield and the defensive work all afternoon stood out. Those boys can really move around ,and they all have fine hands for grounders or flies and powerful throwing arms. The hitting totalled 25 safe blows, one a homer and four doubles. Two of the latter were homers but a pro ground rule here cut 'em down to two-base hits. There was no doubt on most of the hits—they were clean and on the nose. Smith's homer cleared the left field wall nicely. Yeah, it was a good exhibition of professional baseball.

THE Smiths Falls' scorer said our park was a fine one for a town this size, and he figured both Kingston and Peterborough could support minor loop pro ball clubs. We asked him how his town, about 10,000 population, could support the team. It was simple, according to this chap. Seems they are a farm club for the Leafs and have four players now on option from Toronto. They get $400 apiece for these which, along with some raffles, a possible sale or two, and an average attendance of over 800 at 35c each, gives the club enough to carry on. Salaries are not high, there being a league limit, and higher clubs farming out in this circuit must make up the difference in dough to the player or players. But there is little likelihood of pro ball coming here to stay for some time yet.

* * * * * *

SPEAKING of pro ball, Mel Jamieson, who is the new agent here at the C.P.R. ticket office, pitched professional ball for three years at one time. He started with Flint and after a fine season—winning 26 and losing three—he was signed by Detroit Tigers. Farmed out then for two years. The opportunity came for him to get the senior clerk's job at the C.P.R. ticket office in Peterborough and he took it. First got some advice from Hughie Jennings, who said a company like this was better than the uncertain business of baseball at that time. It was good advice as the young southpaw was moved from here within five years to become manager of the St. Thomas office of his company.

WHILE there he coached the Tom Cats six years and five of 'em the club won the southern section of the Inter-County Loop. Later he went to Brantford and there coached two junior teams to O.B.A.A. titles. He apparently knows how to teach the game, and we'd suggest that local baseball interests try to get him into action in some capacity for next year. Either minor or senior. A gent who has his reputation as a coach in Western Ontario must have something on the ball. Herb Ralph had him out a couple of times to instruct his junior Rotarians this year. Incidentally, Herb figures on working with several other active baseball men to revive the hantam section—in a big way—of the extinct City Baseball League in 1938. A first-rate idea, too.

OFF TOMORROW for Oshawa, the Petes are ready to do battle in the first of the three-game C.O.B.L. semi-finals. Lefty Biddle is likely to get the call for the GM-men, who will be worried over this first fray, and either Kitchen or Jakafby will get the slab assignment for the men of Collins. Return joust is here Thursday in the gloaming, and third tilt if necessary in the Motor City on Saturday. Guess the loop finals will commence the first of next week. One never knows what will happen in a short playoff serial and the locals have a fair chance of knocking off the 1936 Provincial champions and going in against the Ponies in the big series next week. If we get the pitching, we may come through. All the Petes are available again and Gunner Whitehill may also see mound duty in this series. Ash is okay and Burton back from vacation.

SOFTBALL fans shouldn't pass up that playoff tussle here this eve at 6.15 in Riverside. It's between Belleville and Westclox men, both having won a game. Kind of expect Ted Naish to go right back against the Corbin crew, or else Lefty Sturgeon. With Jack Bawden whistling 'em across for the visitors. Ought to be a dandy joust with elimination the fate of the losing squad. Admish is two bits and no one should kick on it. Westclox are in the red now and must guarantee plenty to get this game here, instead of on a neutral diamond. It is a deciding playoff scrap and if the locals win they need dough for further trips. With no other game on around town this fracas should pack in a huge crowd. It's at 6.15, and we understand the same umps—who looked good last tilt—will be working it.

CONGRATS to Ab Delahaye and his damsels from the clock shop for advancing into the second round of the P.W.S.U. playdowns. They rubbed out Oshawa there Saturday with a 10-2 eraser in the second straight game. Marg Snowden twirled lovely ball and had nice support in timely spots to make it a soft touch. A. Sturgeon clicked for four hits as M. Ferguson and M. Allison got three each, and M. Hawthorne turned in some neat defensive work at the hot corner. This is the furthest a team winning the local loop has gone since joining the P.W.S.U. three years ago, both Westclox and Keene being eliminated by Oshawa outfits in '35 and '36. The Armour Hill maidens will likely tangle with the Ottawa winners.

Welsh Community All Agog Over Farr–Louis Boxing Bout

Sadest Valley in World Has Changed Over For Big Fight.

TON-Y-PANDY, Wales, Aug. 30 (AP)—Ton-y-pandy, lost in the desolate valley of the Rhondda, left its grief in the coalpits today and bet its dreary life on Tommy Farr.

By all the laws of human nature this should be the saddest valley in the world and on all other days it seems it is. But Ton-y-pandy Tommy is fighting Joe Louis for the world's heavyweight title tonight and Ton-y-pandy is happy.

Not since the great religious revival swept the Rhondda valley in 1906 has Ton-y-pandy seen such enthusiasm. Then Evangelist Evan Roberts inspired the miners; now it is Farr.

Until the square-headed Tommy came along, the church fought boxing at every turn. Banners condemning the sport were hoisted across the streets at every prizefight hall. Ministers preached against this "un-Christian practice."

But today Ton-y-pandy's vicar and non-conformist minister were praying like the rest for a Farr victory.

The entire Spartan order of life in the village was upset when the miners came from the pits in the early afternoon and climbed Treasaw mountain with wood for a great bonfire which will be touched off if Farr wins.

They already had burned in effigy a London sports writer who kept insisting Tommy is little more than a set-up for Louis. They consider it an insult if you offer odds on Louis.

Few people have radios so a set strong enough to tune in New York was installed in Judge's Hall, where Tommy learned to box.

Richard Farr, Tommy's brother, is planning a radio party of his own. The rest of the fighter's family, sisters Phyllis and Sally and brother John, will be listening at Slough, just outside London.

For those who cannot get into Judge's Hall, loudspeakers were erected in the streets. Even miners who have to work all night in the pits will be advised on how the battle progresses. Bulletins will be chalked on the sides of the mine cars at the end of every round.

TORONTO FALLS ROCHESTER CLUB FOR TWIN COUNT

TORONTO, Aug. 30.—(CP)—Call of the playoffs is luring Rochester Red Wings into their best baseball of the International League season and a powerful combination of first rate pitching and timely hitting is enabling Wings to battle Buffalo and Baltimore for a post in the series.

Wings turned in one of their best performances of the year, trimming Toronto Maple Leafs in both ends of a double bill yesterday, 8-2, 6-1. Oscar Judd and Bill Walker, crack southpaws, did the hurling with Judd allowing four hits and Walker seven.

Royals Down Bisons.

Protecting their hold on second place Montreal Royals downed Buffalo Bisons twice, 12-6, 2-0. Paul Dunlap, Jefferies and Sankey collected three hits apiece in the opener as Mervin Duke registered his 19th victory of the season.

Newark Bears showed the rest of the league just how it is done when they slammed Jersey City Giants, 9-6, behind five-hit hurling by Vito Tamulis. It was the stocky left-hander's ninth consecutive victory and his 17th of the season.

Baltimore Orioles kept pace with Rochester by trimming Syracuse Chiefs in a night double bill 3-2, 5-4. Manager Bucky Crouse's club won behind Dusty Rhodes in the opener and then hit five Chief hurlers to take the second game.

As a result of the win, St. Thomas leads Stanford by one point while Stratford and Nationals are tied for third, two points behind the league leaders.

Fight Postponement Boosts Title Gate Near $400,000

Cauliflower Public Favors Louis 5-1 to Retain Newly Won Crown.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(AP)—The good fairies, if any, that flit about and protect the boxing game from violent harm have a job ahead of them tonight at the Yankee Stadium, providing Promoter Mike Jacobs doesn't think he smells rain again.

The game's little Pinkertons will need to be in sound shape, able to travel 15 rounds at a fast clip and to protect themselves at all times. Tommy Farr, the visiting problem child, is supposed to fight Champion Joe Louis that distance, and the little fellows had better be in there slugging on Joe's side every minute if they are able to earn their keep.

A Triple Threat

Nobody wants the Welshman to get hurt—not seriously. Even Mike Jacobs would be willing to settle for a nice, comfortable Louis victory on points. But everybody seems agreed it would be a triple-plated catastrophe if Tommy actually should saw the limb off behind all the experts and win the title, like he's been threatening.

Although he has the Welshman sewed up tighter than a telephone booth, win or lose, Jacobs has been noticed to blanch slightly, at the mere suggestion that Farr might win. Joe Louis, as champion, is a meal ticket that Mike, by all rights, has only just begun to punch.

Mike has been gleefully predicting a crowd of 40,000 and a $400,000 gate tonight since new customers kept coming right along after last Thursday's postponement. That's higher than anyone else will go in the figures.

The 5 to 1 odds that Louis will retain his newly-won crown tonight reflect the young Negro's personal popularity almost equally with the public's faith in the terrific punch that carried him to the top.

Pacific Coast Boat Driver Sets Mark

Bobby Watkins, an amateur, bettered Cummins' mark and set one for simon-pures to shoot at when he drove his class "C" racer around the same course at 49.450 miles an hour.

Local Girls Win Round Advance In Playdowns

Westclox Softballers Eliminate Oshawa, 10-2, in Two Straight of P.W.S.U. Series.

Westclox girls eliminated Oshawa Phillips by a 10-2 score Saturday in the Motor City to advance into the second round of the P.W.S.U. playdowns, probably against Ottawa. It was the second straight playdown victory for the local girls, and they clearly demonstrated their superiority Saturday before a good crowd of fans in Oshawa.

Bunching hits in three frames, and cashing in on Oshawa errors, the Clockmakers piled up the count to gain the nod. Meantime, they were getting four-hit pitching from Marg Snowden, who fanned eight and walked four in a good mound display. P. Szoldra started for Oshawa but gave way in the seventh to C. Siblock. The former was nicked for 14 hits and nine runs while neither fanning nor walking any of her rivals. C. Siblock gave up two hits and struck out one. Both sides kicked in with some miscues behind their hurlers.

LEADS HITTERS

A. Sturgeon had four hits in five for Westclox, with M. Ferguson and M. Allison each having three. A. Sturgeon and M. Ferguson hit doubles. None of the losers got more than one safe blow. M. Hawthorne handled eight chances perfectly for the winners, who also had a double-play. M. Sobil and C. Siblock stood out defensively for the Phillips' gang.

Oshawa got a run in the first on two walks, an error and a single. Their other tally came in the ninth on two miscues and a hit. Westclox tallied three times in the second on two hits, an out and two free bases. They got two more next heat on four safe hits, one a two-bagger. They had a big seventh frame to count five runs, batting around, on five hits, one a double, a walk and an error. After the first inning, Oshawa got but one runner as far as third until the ninth.

Remember When—

(By The Canadian Press)

Only the very old-timers will remember when the world's first "middleweight class" division bout was staged at Toronto Aug. 30, 1884. George Fulljames challenged the world. Jack Dempsey, "The Nonpareil," accepted and, using heavy driving gloves instead of bare fists, stopped Fulljames in 22 rounds. Bob Fitzsimmons won the title Jan. 14, 1891 and now Freddy Steele rules the division.

Nearly 150,000 motorcycles were made in Germany in the last 12 months.

Smiths Falls Win 8-3 Over Ogdensburg Colts

Move Into First Division With Neat Win Here in Classy Pro Contest.

Smiths Falls defeated Ogdensburg Colts, 8-3, here Saturday afternoon before a good crowd of fans at Riverside Park. It was a transferred Can.-Am. pro loop fixture, and gives the winner undisputed possession of fourth place in the standing.

Dishing up baseball of professional calibre, the teams put on a fine display, showing snappy fielding, some hard hitting and fair pitching. The winners had more punch and backed their twirler—who heaved a neat game—in great style. They came from behind to tie it up in the third and ran the count up in the next three frames on lusty clouting. Knotty Lee's gang did not get the pitching nor the timely hitting.

Scatters Hits

Xavier Resigno scattered 11 hits on the Falls' mound while fanning four and issuing no walks. Tom Bebey started for Ogdensburg but was in trouble frequently and left in the sixth frame. All runs were counted against him as he allowed 11 hits and a walk, while fanning one, during his sojourn. Al Smith went in as a relief flinger and stopped the Smith Falls' crew with three hits with no strikeouts or walks. Each side kicked in with but one error in a smart defensive showing.

Harig led the Beavers at bat with four singles in four times up, while Richards, Smith, Homan and Palau had two each. Homan hitting a double. VanRoboys led the losers with three for four, one being a double. Tibbetts clouted a double and single and Sugrue a two-bagger. Catches by Tibbetts and VanRoboys, and three fast double-plays, Richards to Smith to Henry, were fielding features.

Colts Start It

An error by Resigno singles by Cheek and Griditias and a double by Tibbetts gave the Colts three in the second. Harig hit in the Falls' half, went to third on Homan's double and was forced in when Downer was hit and Resigno walked. They tied it in the third on a walk and singles by Smith, Harig and Henry. Two more counted in the fourth when Richards singled and Smith homered over the left field fence. In the fifth, Homan beat out a hit, moved up when Downer was hit again and tallied on Palau's single. They got their final two in the sixth frame. Mooney was safe on Sugrue's misue, moved ahead on Richard's single, both advancing on a sacrifice and both scoring on Harig's fourth straight hit.

GIANTS NEARLY OVERHAUL CUBS IN TIGHT RACE

What with one thing and another, those Galloping Giants seemed headed to-day for another of their stretch miracles, such as wound up with the pennant a year ago and gave little old New York a World Series monopoly.

From the wreckage of a weekend of walloping that saw Bill Terry's Terriers all but overhaul the Cubs in the National League pennant push, and the western half of the National League collapse, it began to look like you could do worse than parlay the Giants and history to repeat.

Two Points Back

Paralleling their 1936 dash from second division to the championship, they pulled up to a bare two percentage points back of the Cubs yesterday, with a 7-2 win over Cincinnati's Sinking Reds.

The climax of their surge, however, was just one of the miracles worked in the course of the afternoon program. Take a look at some of these:

Connie Mack's Athletics, for whom rest and quiet should be prescribed after the belting around they've taken all season, turned in one of the year's clubbing masterpieces against the White Sox. They scored 12 runs in the first inning, six of them batted in by Bob Johnson, with a home and a single, for a pair of American League records as they took the opener of a double-header 16-6. The Sox slipped in with the nightcap, 5-3.

The A's equally unpredictable neighbors, the Fidgety Phillies, topped a five-game winning streak against first division outfits by banging the Cubs around 10-3 in their opener, with a barrage of four homers, and still held sixth place despite a 2-1 setback in the nightcap.

The Daffy Dodgers, believe it or not, pounded Pittsburgh's Pathetic Pirates in both ends of a twin bill, 5-3 and 6-3 and climbed out of the National League cellar, with the Reds dropping in.

Ray Harrell, an up-and-downer who hasn't been much help to the Cardinals this season, just missed a no-hitter by the margin of a sixth-inning single as he pitched the Gas House Gang to a 3-0 win over Boston Bees in their double bill nightcap after the Bees took the opener, 3-2.

Feller Loses Again

Bob Feller allowed only four walks, and still lost the ball game to the five-hit pitching of young Kendall Chase, whose unexpected ability gave the Senators a 6-2 decision over the Indians, after the Tribe clubbed out an 11-4 count in their first game.

If the Giants, who have been fortunate in getting a combination of timely hitting and effect pitching of their own, and obliging nose-dives on the part of their strongest rivals, were as certain of their crown as the Yanks are of the American League laurels, things would be simple. The Yanks moved 12½ games in front yesterday with a 7-4 edge over the Tigers as Lou Gehrig clouted Number 30, and Red Ruffing pitched victory Number 17.

Buck Newsom turned in a four-hitter to give the Red Sox a 2-0 win over the Browns in the opener of a double-header, but the Brownies belted three other guys 8-3 in the nightcap.

LEARNERS PROMINENT

FOLKESTONE, England—(CP)—Apprentice jockeys rode four winners out of six on one day of the Folkestone race meeting. R. Lacey had two winners, beating such veterans as Grouch and Sibbritt.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

THIRSK, England—(CP)—Pompon was first and Pompom second in racing here, giving many bookies a headache. Pompon was the first winner for Mrs. Tozer of Sheffield, newcomer to the English turf.

WORLD JUMP RECORD

BRISBANE, Australia—(CP)—Clearing eight feet, 3½ inches, Plain Eagle is believed to have set a world's record here. The horse landed on the bar and turned a somersault, but the bar stayed in place.

TOSS DIDN'T MATTER

MELBOURNE—(CP)—He used a different coin every time but Trevor Wallace, captain of Sea Lake Cricket Club, lost the toss in all five matches this season. And Sea Lake won them all.

GETS $1,800 JOB.

GALT, Ont., Aug. 30—(CP)—It was announced today Albert T. Brown, local newspaperman, has been appointed secretary-treasurer of the Board of Education at a salary of $1,800. He succeeds D. S. McPherson, resigned.

OVER-CONFIDENT

LEWES, England—(CP)—Jockey G. Armstrong was cautioned by the stewards after a race here. Armstrong on Scandal, hot favorite, had such a lead near the finish he dropped his reins, and was beaten by a head.

SOFTBALL BATTLE ON HERE TO-NIGHT

Belleville and Westclox men softballers clash tonight (Monday) at 6.15 in Riverside Park here. It is the third and deciding game of their O.A.S.A. intermediate "A" playdown series, the winner to go on in Ontario playdowns but the loser being eliminated. Belleville won the first tilt at home handily but dropped the next one here. The local management gave the Corbin Locks squad a good financial guarantee to get them to play the deciding tussle here instead of on neutral grounds, and this will give Peterborough fans a fine chance to see a first-rate scrap. These teams play good softball and the rivalry is keen.

Johnny Bawden, ace Belleville pitcher who hurled his team to an Ontario title last year—and beat Westclox in the first game of this series—is sure to pitch for the Lockmen. Either Ted Naish or Lefty Sturgeon will do the flinging for Harry Baptie's bunch, with Tom Parsons also ready. Admission is 25 cents as the club is not only in the red but must make up this guarantee, and also be ready to travel further if it wins. Such a playoff number is well worth a quarter and, with no other big game here tonight, a huge crowd is expected out.

Draw Held Likely Montreal Cricket

MONTREAL, Aug. 30.—(CP).—The touring Marylebone Cricket Club team and a representative Eastern Canada eleven went into the concluding stage of their two-day fixture here to-day on level terms. Playing on a hard, fast wicket Saturday, the Englishmen hit up 221 runs and when play closed their opponents had obtained 139 for five wickets in reply.

Unless bowlers achieve better success on the opening day a draw is likely. To date the visitors, who came to Montreal direct from a series on the Pacific Coast, have won 10 matches on their Canadian tour, four were drawn and one lost.

BEEN BETTER OFF NOT WORKING.

ANCASTER.—Heavy rains have reduced yields on many Ontario farms this year and Rennell Brown, owner of a threshing outfit, figures he would have been financially ahead if he had left his machine in his barn. Much damage to the separator was caused by handling sodden wheat.

RUSTLE OF SILKS

By
MARIE BLIZARD

READ THIS FIRST

Mary Barrett, ambitious to become a dress designer, has established herself in Paris through a partnership with Countess Anetka that was made possible by Mark Sutherland, an American playboy she met on shipboard. Mary likes Mark but misses Tony Castle, owner of a smart New York shop who gave her her start. She left the Castle shop suddenly nearly three years previously after an altercation with Tony's head buyer. More and more she realizes she is in love with Tony. Her success in Paris has been phenomenal and, thanks to Mari Barat, the name she has assumed, Anetka's shop is growing famous. Mark Sutherland, in Paris again, tells Mary he has big plans for her. Mark introduces Mary to a prominent American fashion editor, Claire Todd. Mary writes to Tony but destroys the letter next morning.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 21.

IT WAS TUESDAY.

There was a smudge of charcoal from her pencil—the third she had worn down in the last two hours—on Mary's face. Her hair was bound with a ribbon to keep it from tumbling down across her horn-rimmed glasses.

In the workroom Anetka's voice rose above the babble of the three new seamstresses. Jacques, the newly acquired porter, was unloading fabrics from the truck which Mary could see through the small window in the office where her sketch pad was propped against the desk. Discarded sheets littered the floor and swaths of fabrics covered the desk.

It was not noon, yet already the first two of her sketches were being made into muslin patterns.

Anetka opened the door to the office.

"You will have to change the coral lace. We cannot get the sable in time."

Without looking up, Mary answered, "Make it in silver lace and use chinchilla. There is a piece large enough for a narrow band at the collar and cuffs. Make the sleeves tight at the wrist."

At 4 o'clock Mary inspected the basted patterns and ordered the cutter to cut the fabrics. Keeping her fingers crossed, she watched the process with an eagle eye.

At 6 o'clock Anetka told her that Ivy Wollaston had telephoned to say that dinner was to be at 9 and Mary was expected. She waved Anetka away with instructions to tell Ivy that she was planning to have her tonsils extracted and couldn't come.

At 11 o'clock that night, when the curtains were drawn in the window and door, she relaxed on the biggest lounge in the salon and kicked off her shoes.

Anetka, a small figure of exhaustion, faced her. Mary said to her:

"Cheer up, darling, the worst is over. There'll be four suits pour le sport, the two little thin felt coats —that bright blue one with black wooden buttons is sure to be sensational enough to attract Mrs. Todd's interest—the silver lace and the flamingo gown. Now, then, remember that none of the orders promised for this week are to be delivered. We've simply got to keep them in the shop until Friday. They'll swell the number of things we have to show."

Anetka gulped. "How can we, Mary? Madame...."

"Madame, in fact, all the mesdames, can wait. What's an extra day or two to them when our future is at stake?"

Anetka resigned herself.

"Anetka Illovitch, I'll bet we're the only dressmaking house in all Paris that could turn out a collection in three days!"

True that it was a small "collection," and true that there was an enlarged staff of skilled tailors and finishers to be paid fabulous wages, but there WOULD be a collection for Claire Todd to see.

And into those few new models, Mari Barat had put much that she had long dreamed of. She was designing for Claire Todd but she also was designing for herself. In this important collection, she had no need to please the lady from the Crillon, the Left Bank, or Greenwich, Conn.

She had gambled with the thin felt coats. Anetka had pleaded with her not to try anything so revolutionary.

"But Schiaparelli made a sensation with her wood and metal. We've got to do something unusual, Anetka! This felt is beautiful! It's supple, gloriously colored warm and light. And I feel inspired when I sketch the lines for the coats. We may never sell them but they do make a grand splash. Now, we'll make one in bright blue—Yale blue we call it at home—and we'll accent it with dull black braid and great dull black wooden buttons. They the other of copper color with copperrim. If they take on—so we'll do it right now—we'll make a short jacket in black felt to wear with that lusterless wool."

Late that night, feeling no fatigue and urged by an enthusiasm that gave her fingers wings, Mary worked on the jacket, cutting it and sewing it herself.

For two days the little shop worked at a tense peak.

And on Friday the last of the models was finished at noon. The mannequins engaged for the day —two of them, one blond and one brunet—waited for the magic hour of 3.

The salon was bright and busy. There were the "props"— four of Anetka's friends who were to drop in and engage Anetka or Mary in furious conversation, ordering countless gowns—just in case no one else would come in while Mrs. Todd was there.

And there was Mari, looking cool, poised and chic, to greet the American writer. Mari, who was modest, but too modest, letting her creations speek for themselves, and never giving away the secret of how hastily, or by what work, they had come into being.

Claire Todd watched, sketched, talked and left an hour later thanking Mari for letting her see them, murmuring something pleasant and saying that she would drop her a note later and that she would like to have Mari and Anetka to luncheon with her before she left Paris.

Mari said thank you and that she would like to. Then she schooled herself not to worry about Claire's reaction, for she had no idea what it was.

Hank Todd lowered the Paris Herald and took a sip of his highball. "Claire," he said to his wife, "well have to buy this carpet if you wear it out with this pacing."

She made another turn about the room. "I'm going to do it, Hank!"

He regarded her with a puzzled expression. "Control yourself, girl. What would we do with this rag in our place?"

"Idiot!" she pronounced complacently. "I mean that girl, Mari Barat."

"You're about as easy to follow as one of these French taxis. Who is Mari Barat?"

"Hank, your a lousy audience. The girl we met with Mark. The girl I talked about all last night, and the grand things she's doing. See, you don't remember! You didn't know—which is the point! Lots of people don't, but they're going to when I get through. I'm going to discover her! It'll be a feather in my hat, make good reading matter and, a future for her!"

She sat down and began to tap at her typewriter. The headlines coming to her easily.

Hank picked up his paper again. She took it out of his hand promptly, took a sip of his highball and sat in his lap. "Listen, darling, I'm so bored writing about the same dressmakers, the same things about fashion, I'm stale. But with this girl...."

"What girl?"

She put her finger over his lips. "Mari Barat! She's woozy with dreams, but she's got her feet on the ground and her finger on the well-known pulse and she's going places! She's got imagination, which you haven't. She's got a gift for bringing out new ideas in a way that won't require too much adaptation when her stuff gets to New York. She does daring things in a way that will please the most conservative. That's salesmanship! And the American market will eat it up. Now, what I'm goin gto do is start showing stuff gradually and work up to spreads in a big manner. Watch your little bride work and watch my salary skoot up when I break this!"

"I happen to have a million dollars or so if there's a little pin money you'd like," he offered.

"You goose! It's not the money, it's the game for me!"

UNCLE WIGGILY'S HOSPITAL

"Buster, wil you please let me take your paddle ball?"

Baby Bunty, the little orphan rabbit, looked very cute as she asked this favor of Buster.

"No, you can't have my paddle ball," Buster answered, and his voice was as cross as were his words.

"Why not, Buster?" asked Baby Bunty. "You aren't using it."

"Well, I might want to use it and then you'd have it and I couldn't find you for maybe you'd be off looking for adventures and—"

"Oh, no, Buster, I promise you," said Bunty, eagerly. "I'm not going adventuring all by myself and Unkie Wig isn't here so I can't go with him. So I'd be sure to stay around here and you could have your paddle ball back any time you wanted it."

"No! You can't have it!" said Buster. "Go on away."

"But why won't you let me take it, Buster?"

"'Cause you might get the rubber string all tangled or tie knots in it and spoil my paddle ball. Now, go on away, I told you!"

Selfish Boy

"Oh, dear!" sighed Baby Bunty. The little orphan rabbit looked at Buster's paddle ball toy. The rabbit boy had it beside him as he was reading a book. He wasn't using his toy, which was made of a wooden paddle like a pancake turner. Fastened to it was a long rubber string and on the end of the string was a rubber ball.

"Oh, I so much want to practice with Buster's paddle ball!" said Bunty sadly. "I can bat it 50 times without missing and I want to do it 100 times. Oh, dear!"

Just as Bunty said this last there was a rustling noise in the bushes near the camping tent where the orphan rabbit was living with Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh!" exclaimed Bunty as she heard this rustling. "Maybe it's one of the Bad Chaps and he might take Buster's paddle ball and—"

But Bunty need not have been frightened. For the rustling noise in the bushes was made by Mr. Longears himself. Out hopped Uncle Wiggily in time to twinkle his pink nose and hear Bunty's "Oh, dear!"

"What's the matter, Bunty?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Buster won't let me play with his paddle ball," said Bunty.

"Why not?" asked Uncle Wiggily looking at the toy beside the rabbit boy who didn't look up from the book he was reading.

"Oh, I don't know, but he won't let me take it," Bunty said and there were tear in her eyes. Her own paddle ball toy was lost.

"Buster!" all of a sudden called Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, yes, Daddy! Excuse me. I didn't hear you coming," said Buster very politely.

"Why won't you let Bunty take you paddle ball?" asked the rabbit boy's father.

"I might want it myself," said Buster.

"Well, if you are going to use it yourself that might be a good reason," said Uncle Wiggily. "But as you aren't playing with it why not let Bunty take it until you want it?"

"No! I mean no, thank you," said Buster and he sat on the paddle.

Uncle Wiggily's pink nose suddenly stopped twinkling. "Buster," said the rabbit gentleman, "come with me!"

"Where, Daddy?" asked Buster in surprise.

"To my hospital," said Mr. Longears.

"But, Daddy, I'm not sick! I don't need to go to a hospital."

"Well, that's where you're going," said Mr. Longears. So he led Buster away. And if the refrigerator will let the radio take some ice cubes to use for building blocks to make a house, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's medicine.

Cheerful Home Loving Man Desired By W.I. Members

Percy Institute Members Answer Roll Call in Most Unusual Manner.

(Examiner Correspondence).

WARKWORTH, Aug. 30.—The Percy W. I. held their August meeting at the home of Mrs. James Black on Friday afternoon with a very large attendance of members and visitors. The president, Mrs. George Helson, opened the meeting with the Institute Ode, followed by the Lord's Prayer.

The motto "Life is like a garden. It bears the fruit you sow," was repeated in unison after which Miss K. Towns gave a short reading on the motto.

The roll call was answered by giving "one characteristic I desire in a husband." This proved to be very amusing, but the majority thought the cheerful, home loving husband was most to be desired.

Social is Planned

A great deal of business was discussed one of the main items was the planning of a social to be held early in September. Committees were appointed to look after the same. Reports were read from the Sunshine and Sick committees and letters of appreciation were read from those receiving treats.

As this was "Girls Day" the program was left entirely with the girls, with Miss Opal Shaw as convenor, assisted by Miss Clarince Hutchinson. The first item was a well prepared paper on the Spic and Span girl by Mrs. Eric Merrills, one of the club members. This was followed by a reading "The recipe for success", by Miss Mary Herriott. The paper on "The Country Girl's creed" given by Miss Orletta Gummer was much enjoyed, also the vocal duet, 'Be Nobody's darling but mine" so beautifully rendered by Miss Ruth Morgan and Mrs. Don Massey, and last but not least the splendid demonstration by the Girls' Clothing Club, on "Would you be well dressed." The girls taking part were Miss Doris Dugan, Miss May Nelson, and Mrs. McVety. The girls dealt chiefly with the care of the hair, care of the teeth and posture. Mrs. Helson their leader, completed the program by giving the club story as written by one of the members. The singing of the National Anthem and serving of lunch by the hostess and her assistants brought to a close one of the most interesting as well as helpful meetings of the year.

ARMED BANDITS HIJACK TOURIST ASLEEP IN CAR

BEAMSVILLE, Aug. 30. — Two armed bandits hijacked a United States tourist as he was sleeping in his car near Beamsville early Sunday morning, drove him in his car down a lonely road, tied him and dumped him by the roadside, disappearing with his car, with $100 of his cash, with his $120 gold watch, his wallet and all his personal papers.

The victim, Edward Charles Shaw, aged 36, of 300 Franklin street, Buffalo, followed the thugs' advice. "Just yell loud enough and some one will hear you," they told him as they left him trussed up. So with his hands and feet bound with sash cord, and with him doubletied so that his legs were cruelly twisted and lashed together, he screamed for help. A farmer and his wife heard him and released him.

Car Found On Side Road

This afternoon Shaw's car was found on a little-travelled road two miles from the scene of the hold-up. It is being examined for fingerprints. The police believe that the bandits were unfamiliar with the district, missed a turn on the highway and got lost in the fog on the side road.

Thus one more victim is added to the list of those who have been held up and robbed while sleeping in their cars. Last night a general alarm went out. Motorists found stopped along the highway will be warned not to sleep in their cars in the country.

Parked To Sleep

Shaw was travelling from his home to Toronto. He parked two miles east of Beamsville on the highway at 3 a.m., locked all the windows and doors of his car, and slept.

At 6 a.m. he was wakened by a pounding on the car and heard: "Open up, this is the police." He saw a man on each side of the car, one masked with a handkerchief. Both held revolvers.

He refused their order. One man smashed the car window with a gun butt, reached in, unlocked the door. They forced him into the rear seat and drove off with him until they came to a more secluded spot, where they bound him and dumped him out. Here he was found by George Cartmer, a near-by farmer, who with his wife heard his shouts.

Fog Aided Thugs

Shaw was unable to give much of a description of his assailants. The fog that covered this district aided them in their banditry.

The police are working on two theories. One is that the gunmen had an accomplice in another car. The other is that they are still hiding out in some isolated building or section of bushland.

Alleged Murderer Dies In Hotel Fire

After a search of the bush near Parry Sound, Ont., failed to reveal any trace of William Hamilton, Parry Sound butcher, who is alleged to have murdered Mrs. George Buck, of Toronto, police officers found the charred body of the alleged murder in the ruins of the summer hotel to which he set fire. The photograph (ABOVE), shows the hotel totally destroyed. Hamilton is said to have stabbed Mrs. Buck with a huge knife when she told him the woman proprietor of the hotel was away. Hamilton forced his way into the building and brutally stabbed the Toronto woman, who was on her holidays, before setting fire to the dwelling. The woman proprietor of the hotel and her daughter, escaped possible death when they rowed out into Six Mile Lake on which the hotel was situated.

Are Women Better Shoppers Than Men?

GRANTING a woman's reputation for wise buying, let's trace the methods by which she has earned it. Where does she find out about the advantages and details of electric refrigeration? What tells her how to keep the whole household clean—rugs, floors, bathroom tiling—and have energy left over for golf and parties? How does she learn about new and delicous entrees and desserts that surprse and delight her family? And where does she discover those subtleties of dress and make-up that a man appreciates but never understands?

Why, she reads the advertisements. She is a consistent, thoughtful reader of advertisements, because she has found that she can believe them — and profit thereby. Overlooking the advertisements would be depriving herself of data continuously useful in her job of Purchasing Agent to the Family.

For that matter, watch a wise man buy a car or a suit or an insurance policy. Not a bad shopper himself! He reads the advertisements too!

ABERHART PLANS TO ENFORCE BANK ACTS

DEATH LIST FROM PLAGUE STANDS AT 27

TORONTO, August 31—(C.P.). — Five more Ontario municipalities were added to-day to the lengthening list of those where school opening has been deferred because of the infantile paralysis epidemic. All Ontario schools were to open to-morrow, but a dozen or more have decided to postpone opening until September 7 or longer.

Death list from the plague which struck populated centres of Southern Ontario in June and spread through many parts of the province stands at 27. Close to 400 have been stricken since the outbreak began, and health officials were fearful hot, humid weather might cause another flare-up.

Gananoque and Napanee were Eastern Ontario centre postponing school opening last night, although taking the step only as a precautionary measure because each is free of the disease. Gananoque children won't have to return until September 7, a school trustee there who himself lost a child in an epidemic ten years ago having made a plea for postponement. Napanee set September 13.

With five cases in that area, Kitchener and Waterloo acted jointly to keep their schools closed as did Sarnia, until September 7. Similar provisions had previously been made in London, Toronto, and other afflicted centres.

Montreal Offers Serum

Montreal remembering how the Ontario Health Department aided her in a similar epidemic some years ago, offered to obtain anti-paralysis serum from its recovered sufferers for use in Ontario. At many places throughout the province blood was being taken from donors and health officials announced at Toronto the department had a week's supply on hand.

Medical forces were being marshalled at all points in the fight against the plague. A program to be followed throughout seven zones into which Ontario was divided was mapped out by newly-appointed consultants to medical officers of health at a Toronto meeting yesterday. The new appointees will be on call to the health officers in their districts.

Experts Meet

Experts gathered in Toronto to discuss the situation and consider whether all necessary steps were being taken in the provincial capital where nearly two-thirds of the Ontario cases have been reported and where six persons died during the week-end. A call went out to 5,000 children to have them submit to a nasal injection of zinc sulphate to test its efficacy as a preventative measure.

The London Flying Club postponed its air meet, scheduled for Labor Day, for two or three weeks because of the epidemic and the St. Catharines air show, to have been held this Friday, was also reported postponed, for the same reason.

83 SWIMMERS PLUNGE INTO LAKE

LAKEFRONT, Toronto, Aug. 31.—(CP).— Eighty-three long distance swimming specialists plunged into Lake Ontario at 2 p.m. E.D.T. today in the annual Canadian National Exhibition 10-mile marathon. The temperature of the water was 76 when the race started.

Tom Mix, former cowboy screen star, fired the shot which sent the marathoners away seeking first prize money of $2,500. The swim was delayed by failure of Mix to appear on scheduled starting time.

Michael Hambourg, blind Toronto swimmer was the last to leave the starting barge. He has taken part in the event yearly but has been able to finish. His boat, a bell attached to lead him around the course, reached him about 100 yards from the start.

Others were forced to wait until the swimmers spread before they could pick up their charges.

Milton Gordon of Toronto was the first to be pulled from the water. He was dragged out barely 300 yards from the start.

Bombing of U. S. Liner Said By Japan to be Part of Chinese Plan.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 31 (AP)—In the second air attack on a mercy ship in two days, an air bomber of unknown identity today power dived and bombed the Italian operated steamer Lung Shan thronged with Chinese refugees. It created panic but caused no damage.

The ship was bombed near Woosung, north of Shanghai, where the Whangpoo and Yangtze rivers flow together for the embattled city's only waterway—and only avenue of escape—to the sea.

General Chiang Kai-Shek warned at Nanking that "Japanese aggression" to establish "a continental empire for herself" is a threat not only to the sovereignty of China but also to "international safety."

The attack on the Italian ship followed by a day the bombing of the United States liner President Hoover by Chinese planes in the China Sea off the Yantze estuary. One steward was killed.

Terrific Bombardment

Japanese commanders declared Japanese forces captured Woosung 12 Miles north of Shanghai, at the outset of a "big push" against the city's Chinese troops.

A terrific bombardment, which resounded through the international areas, evidently was the first phase of the developing offensive through the Kiangwan sector, Shanghai's "back door" to the north: Japanese officers said Shanghai's North Station was bombed.

Before the advance began, the Japanese army and foreign police combined forces to drive 12,000 bewildered Chinese from their homes in the Hongzew and Yangtwepoo districts on Shanghai's north side.

The frightened populace resisted at first. They fled, however, when Japanese police convinced them they had a choice between flight and death.

Pollution, a food shortage verging on famine among war-stranded native refugees, and over-burdened water and sanitation resources created a disease menace.

Foreign and municipal authorities joined forces with emergency relief workers to combat the danger of epidemics, particularly the dreaded cholera to which the hunger-weakened Chinese are particularly susceptible.

140 Missionaries Cut Off.

Advices from Peiping said consular officials in North China were alarmed for the safety of 140 missionaries who have not been heard from since Friday. They are believed to be caught before parallel Japanese columns advancing southward from Peiping and Tientsin.

General Chiang, warning of commercial and political consequences to the rest of the world of Japanese domination of China, declared: "The question of intervention rests with the Powers which created the

1½ BILLION SPENT BY MOTOR TRADE IN LAST 30 YEARS

TORONTO, Aug. 31 (CP).—Total expenditures of the automotive industry in Canada from 1907 to 1937, including those on account of wages, salaries, goods and services, approximate $1,500,000,000, Col. A. E. Nash, Toronto accountant, told an Automotive Day luncheon at the Canadian National Exhibition here today.

In a review of 30 years in the industry Col. Nash traced the development of the automobile from its "extremely noisy" beginning to the smoothly-running motors now on the streets. The Great War, he said, was partly responsible for the industry's development.

"While no year since 1929 has shown the same volume of production, a steady growth has been occurring in recent years and is being maintained into 1937," Col. Nash said. "Present prospects for 1938 are that this growth will continue."

To Court Martial Chinese Aviators

NANKING, China, Aug. 31 (CP).—Court martial awaits the Chinese aviators who bombed the liner President Hoover, headquarters of General Chiang Kai-Shek announced today. Chiang was "most gravely concerned" over the incident, his aides said.

WASHINGTON, Aug 31 (AP).—Ambassador Chengting T. Wang of China expressed to Secretary Hull today his government's "profound regret" for the bombing of the United States Liner President Hoover near Shanghai yesterday.

Ambassador Wang issued a statement to newspapermen after calling on the Secretary. Wang said in the statement bombing of the Hoover was a "mistake" and the Chinese airmen had no intention of attacking the ship of any friendly country.

Distress Warrant Against Jardine

LONDON, Aug. 31 (CP-Havas).—Rev. Anderson Jardine who resign 1 his living at St. Paul's church, Darlington, after performing the religious ceremony at the wedding of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, today was summoned for non-payment of property taxes amounting to £9, 10s. 8d (about $42.50).

The distress warrant issued could not be served immediately because Jardine is now on a lecture tour in the United States.

5,000 Welsh Mine Folk Climb Trealaw To Touch Off Bonfire

Tony-y-pandy Celebrates Even Though Tommy Farr Did Not Win.

By SCOTTY RESTON,

TON-Y-PANDY, Wales, Aug. 31.—(AP).—A high lonely flame on Trealaw Mountain to-day illuminated the strangest scene ever inspired by a professional boxer.

It had been arranged that the bonfire should be touched off only if Tommy Farr, Ton-y-pandy's own, should win his fight with Joe Louis in New York. Tommy lost but the bonfire flared just the same.

Set Off Before Dawn

The manner of his losing was so magnificent and the pride of his countrymen so deep that 5,000 miners and their weeping wives climbed the steep slopes of Trealaw just before dawn and touched off the fire of "victory."

In the flickering flamelight over the desolate coal-pitted valley of the Rhondda river, the Welshmen sang, as only Welshmen sing, "Land of Our Fathers."

The music echoed down in the dreary valley where half the men are on the dole and the other half earn the equivalent of $12.50 a week in the mines.

Solemn Ceremony.

So fervent was the song, so intense were the coal-smudged faces that it was difficult to comprehend the significance of the gathering. It seemed like a solemn religious ceremony.

Miners all over the valley had waited for sight of the bonfire as a signal of victory. When the flames burst, little bands in other communities started up the slopes of their own hills and soon fires plumed every pinnacle for miles.

Before the fight Tony-y-pandy was tense. Court street, where Tommy lived when he was a pit boy, was decked with flags and one huge banner said "Tommy Farr —Our Champion."

Those who had tickets went to Judge's Hall for singing and dancing which lasted until the broadcast of the fight started early today. Others milled through the streets.

Major Douglas Endorses Premier Aberhart's Move

Time Has Come When Social Credit Plans May Be Given Test.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—(CP Cable)—Major C. H. Douglas, founder of Social Credit, today said he heartily approved of the decision of Premier William Aberhart of Alberta to enforce his government's banking legislation, which has been disallowed by the Dominion authorities.

He told The Canadian Press that the time was now approaching when Social Credit plans might be given a test. Heretofore there had been a marked difference between Social Credit theory and the activity of the Alberta Social Credit government, owing to the Provincial Government's lack of power to put into operation Social Credit plans.

"But now the Alberta government has decided to carry on and now that it has begun to acquire power over its own credit, we shall see a movement towards narrowing the split between theory and practice," Douglas said.

"We are contemplating—we who are assisting in advising the Alberta government — executing arrangements which will benefit every section of the population. I must stress that they are not solely for the down and out. The existing positions and jobs of the people of Alberta will be made more secure and they all will benefit."

SEVEN ARE KILLED TRANSPORT CRASH

GOSHEN, Ind., Aug. 31 (AP).—At least seven persons were reported to have been killed five miles north of here today in a crash of a heavily-loaded transport bus and a sedan. Twenty injured were brought to hospitals here and at least 15 others were reported taken to nearby cities.

Three of the dead were identified as A. O. Carpentier of Iowa City, Mrs. James Kelleher fo Albany, and Raymond J. Bushkin of St. Louis.

Carpentier and Mrs. Kelleher were passengers and Bushkin was an attendant on the bus.

Witnesses said the sedan drove onto the main highway and crashed into the bus. The vehicle overturned and came to a stop on its top.

Fire In Hoosegow Destroys Cushions

Simcoe, Aug. 31.

FIRE broke out in the Simcoe town prison at the rear of the County jail yesterday, ten minutes after an Indian had been incarcerated. The fire was in a cushion, one of several placed in the jail recently for the use of transients who have been its principal tenants.

Two police officers answering a call to Lynwood Park, picked up the Indian, alleged to have been drunk and locked him in the rear cell. A few minutes later smoke was seen billowing from the cell and a fire alarm sent in. The Indian is now in the County Jail without cushions.

NEW HYMN BOOK IS BEFORE SYNOD

HALIFAX, Aug. 31 (CP).—Discussion on a new hymnal occupied the greater part of the morning session when the two houses of the Anglican General Synod met in joint session today.

Rt. Rev. L. W. B. Broughall, Bishop of Niagara, read the report of the committee entrusted with the preparation of a revised hymnal, to be called "The Book of Common Praise." The existing hymnal is known as "The Hymn Book."

A draft copy of the new book was placed in the hands of delegates and was presented as the result of the committee's work over the last three years.

According to the report, the new hymn book contains 157 hymns and 267 tunes not in the present book. Names of sections have been changed as the committee saw fit and new sections added.

Bishop Broughall prefaced reading of the report with remarks emphasizing the "extreme difficulty" the committee encountered, particularly in removing hymns at present in the hymn book. Such omissions were not made in haste, the Bishop said, but each deliberated on at length.

Composition of the new book was changed to allow inclusion of more material while occupying less volume, he said. One of the chief changes of this nature is the omission of the Scriptural texts from the smaller editions.

Young Canadian Woman Lawyer Prosecutes Man On Murder Charge

WALTHAM, Mass., Aug. 31 (CP).—When Edward P. Simpson, alleged killer of a Newton, Mass., police officer, stood in Waltham district court to face a charge of murder, the prosecutor who appeared was a young, strikingly attractive Nova Scotia woman, Jeanette C. Chisholm, native of Antigonish.

Simpson, sought by police for days before they found his hideaway in a Dorchester district apartment early Saturday and indicted yesterday by a Middlesex County grand jury, was led into the court between two burly policemen. As a low murmur of excitement swept the room, Miss Chisholm, Middlesex County's trim, alert assistant district attorney, took her official place.

It was difficult to find a parallel for such a movement. Precedents were shattered. In the words of court officials, it was the beginning of a new era for woman and the law.

When appointed by District Attorney Bishop in December, 1936, as his assistant, it was believed the Nova Scotia woman would prosecute only cases in which women or children were involved. Yet, the cases in which she has prosecuted men far outnumber those in which women were defendants.

Saturday, however, was the first time she had appeared in a murder case, and for that matter the first time in Massachusetts that a woman appeared as prosecutor in such an important criminal case.

Lawyers often ask secretly what Miss Chisholm's age is—but it's not a secret she tries to keep. On September 9 she will be 33. "I'm thrilled with my job and I work hard at it," she confided. Her ambition is to be a judge.

GENERAL CROZIER DIES AT HIS HOME IN 58TH YEAR

LONDON, Aug. 31.—(CP)—Brigadier-General Frank Percy Crozier, whose book "The Men I Killed" precipitated an international controversy last week, died today at his home at Walton-On-Thames. He was 58 years old.

A veteran of the South African and Great Wars, he made his experiences the subject of considerable writing.

The controversy over "The Men I Killed" was capped last week by a Lisbon newspaper's urging of the Portuguese government to make an official inquiry into Crozier's statement he had ordered his troops to shoot many Portuguese fleeing their positions in the Great War.

The newspaper, Diario de Noticias, declared last Friday that Portugal should obtain complete reparation.

The book also related Crozier personally killed a British subaltern fleeting from the Germans and a British soldier who had attacked a French woman.

Crozier, in a letter to the press, explained "The main purpose of this book is to expose the humbug of those in authority, false imperialists, false church leaders and others."

Attack On Welsh

A demand for a public inquiry into the charges was voiced by Sir Charles Edwards, Labor Member of Parliament for a Welsh constituency. In his book, Crozier declared: "My Welshmen took and held Bourlon Wood against endless counter attacks because they understood it is better to die at the hands of the enemy than be shot out of hand like rats by their own officers."

In a letter to War Minister Leslie Hore-Belisha, Sir Charles said he believed he was writing on behalf of the Welsh nation as a whole in demanding that the government take immediate notice of what General Crozier had written. He sug-

10-Year-Old Girl Is Killed With Handle Of A Crank

Man Who Lost Daughter Same Age Confesses to Slaying Girl.

DETROIT, Michigan, August 31 (AP)—A few hours after police had been asked to search for 10-year-old Evelyn Mack, a former neighbor led police to her body at the outskirts of the city today. Her head was crushed with a crank handle. Police Lieut. Walter Bachor said Joseph Jacobs, the former neighbor, confessed he killed her.

Jacobs is the father of three children. His wife told police he had been erratic since the death eight years ago, of a daughter who would have been the same age as Evelyn.

Yesterday afternoon, police said, Jacobs called at the home of Vernon R. Mack, a designer for the Packard Motor Car Co. After some conversation, he asked Evelyn to accompany him to a nearby grocery.

When they did not return, the family asked police to search for them.

Police today found Jacobs tinkering with his automobile near the Ambassador Bridge.

Lieut. Bachor said Jacobs said he had killed the girl and led him to the body.

Legislation Is Law And Will Remain So Premier King Is Told

Must Be Declared 'Ultra Vires' By the Courts Premier Declares.

EDMONTON, Aug. 31 (CP).—Premier Aberhart of Alberta today prepared to go ahead with the enforcement of the banking legislation passed by the Alberta Legislature and disallowed by the Federal Government.

"Our legislation is still law and will remain law until declared 'ultra vires' by the courts," the Alberta Premier declared in a lengthy letter to Prime Minister Mackenzie King, which was made public here yesterday.

The letter was written August 26, after Premier Aberhart had sent a telegram to Prime Minister King, declaring the Federal authorities lacked power to disallow the legislation which was directed at licensing bankers and barring the courts to unlicensed bankers.

Licensing of bankers was scheduled to go into effect August 27, but so far bankers have continued to operate without a license. What action will be taken to enforce the licensing and provide for a board of control has not been disclosed.

It was expected Premier Aberhart's letter would be considered during a meeting of the Federal Cabinet at Ottawa this afternoon. Pending the Cabinet session, no comment on the letter was available. Premier King is expected to arrive in Ottawa today from his summer home in the Gatineau Hills.

"While awaiting the outcome of any negotiations that might be entered into, we must in the meantime proceed most rapidly to end poverty and starvation in this province," said Premier Aberhart in his letter.

Put Legislation Into Effect.

"In order to accomplish this, we are going to implement immediately the legislation passed at our last session and which you purported to disallow."

Banks were under the impression, said Premier Aberhart, that their charters permitted them to go into a province "and do what they like." This was not the case, he contended.

"Albertans are determined to show them that such is not the case, that whilst, legally, they may be able to do so, there are other considerations that legal ones in the lives of all of us: Considerations, the observance of which is more vital than that of the letter of the law, because, if we do not observe them, living can be made very unpleasant if not impossible for us."

In his letter, Premier Aberhart said:

"The more closely I got into your telegram of the 17th of August, 1937 (notification of the disallowance), the more evident it seems that, to your advisors, the letter of the law is essential whilst the people's welfare is of relatively little importance.

"...OUR PEOPLE insist that this shall be altered quickly; we feel sure their will can be made to prevail without any alteration of our constitution."

Gate-Crasher Eats All The Left-Overs

Lindsay, Aug. 31.

A NEW form of gate-crashing has arisen at the Village of Sunderland. Robert Baird held a party in celebration of his eightieth birthday. A large number of guests were invited and a large supply of foodstuffs was purchased. The party was a great success, but there was a considerable amount of food left over. After the last guest had departed Baird retired for the night. Arising in the morning, he discovered that some one had entered the house during his sleep and made off with the balance of the food.

FIRE DESTROYED J. BERTRAM'S BARN SMITH TOWNSHIP

"Spring Garden Farm" on the First Line of Smith Township was on Monday afternoon the scene of a spectacular fire which burned down the barn and poultry houses. Loss of which is partly covered by insurance was estimated at $10,000.

The blaze which broke out just as threshing operations were about to end for the day spread with amazing rapidity and threatened destruction of the stately brick residence, the home of John A. Bertram and family, which was built seventy-nine years ago by his grandfather, the late John Bertram, former Member of Parliament for Peterborough West.

So imminent was the danger to the house that pending the arrival of the City Fire Department, which responded under Chief George Gimblett, members of the Bertram family assisted by willing neighbors moved all the furniture and household effects out into the garden.

Owing to the praise of the firefighters, Mr. Bertram acknowledged "The Fire Department did wonderful work in saving the house." He said he also wished to thank the Canadian Johnson Motor Company for the pump they loaned the department to aid in fighting the blaze and to express his gratitude to the neighbors for their willing assistance.

The barn, a modern structure covering an approximate area of 60 by 50 feet was equipped with electric lighting, structural steel stanchions and stall, a water pressure system and a milk cooler. It was completely destroyed along with 55 tons of hay, 30 tons of straw, and 200 bushels of white wheat.

Other buildings adjoining the barn which were also razed included two ice-houses and two large poultry houses together with poultry equipment and an unestimated number of hens.

A threshing mill owned by W. Steinkrauss of the Second Line of Smith which was in the barn at the time of the outbreak in the straw was also lost in the fire. It was believed to be partly covered by insurance.

Mr. Bertram told a reporter he and the threshing gang had about completed threshing for the day and he had returned to the house around 2.30 p.m. (Standard Time), when the outbreak occurred. "In five minutes the barn was a blazing inferno that threatened the house and it was only the good work of the fire department that prevented the loss being heavier," he said. Members of the threshing gang were: Ab. McConnell, thresh-

Twenty New Cases Infantile Paralysis

TORONTO, Aug. 31 (CP).—Twenty new cases of infantile paralysis were reported to the Toronto Health Department today, bringing the total of those stricken since June 10 to 276. There have been 15 deaths here since the epidemic broke out.

NEWSPAPER PLANT WRECKED BY BOMB

BELLE CENTER, O., Aug. 31. — (AP).—A bomb explosion and fire to-day wrecked the publishing plant of J. E. Manahan, who printers under contract the American Examiner, Inc., a crusading weekly paper.

Sheriff Charles Bewley said he found in the wreckage of the building six flashlight batteries, wired together, and that they apparently had been used to set off a charge of high explosive. Manahan estimated the damage at about $15,000.

Manahan declined to say with whom he held his contract to print the Examiner, a paper founded by Grover Fleming.

Fleming now is serving an indeterminate sentence up to five years in the London, O., prison farm on a charge of circulating obscene literature.

EIGHT CASES IN STRATFORD

International City Rocked By Shells Of Japanese Guns

United States' Authorities Close Port to All American Shipping.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 31. — (AP) — Heavy guns of Japanese warships in the Yangtze and Whangpoo rivers opened fire today in what appeared to be the prelude of Japan's big push against the Chinese lines encircling Shanghai.

This international city of 3,560,000 persons, rocked to the steady bombardment. The Japanese shells were pitting a wide area around Woosung and its historic forts at the confluence of the two rivers 12 miles north of here.

There apparently was a gap in the Japanese lines between Woosung and Liuho, 12 miles to the northwest, which the Japanese were trying to close so they would have a consolidated position for their drive on Shanghai.

Chinese howitzers were rushed into position on the International Recreation Club race course just west of the already wrecked Shanghai municipal centre at Kiangwan. The heavy implacements only a few miles north of the International Settlement boundary soon added their dull roar to the cannonade.

Because of increasing peril to neutral shipping United States authorities closed the port of Shanghai to all vessels flying the American flag other than warships.

Bombing of Lines

The order from Admiral Harry Yarnell, commander in chief of the Asiatic fleet, and Consul General Clarence Gauss was the direct result of the bombing yesterday by Chinese planes of the liner President Hoover and the killing of one of her seamen.

The effect of the action was to maroon some 2,000 Americans, including 500 women and children, in this shattered city.

The Japanese army presented an ultimatum to the civil authorities ordering all Chinese civilians evacuated by night fall from the Yangtzepoo and Wayside areas in the northeastern zone of the International Settlement.

The general situation in Shanghai was growing steadily worse with an added threat of cholera because of over-taxed sanitation facilities and the steady drain on the water supply.

S. Haskell, was the United States seaman who died as a result of leg and stomach wounds in the bombing of the President Hoover. Five other members of the crew and three passengers were injured in the attack.

The Chinese government at Nanking assumed full responsibility for the bombardment and promised "fullest redress" for the attack. It called the bombing a "most regrettable, unfortunate mistake."

The official Central Chinese News Agency reported more than 80 civilians had been killed in a raid by 26 Japanese bombers on Tsingchow, on the Tientsin-Pukow railroad in North China.

Paralysis Victims In Stratford Blondes

Stratford, Aug. 31.

UNUSUAL feature of the poliomyelitis epidemic in Stratford is that all seven children who have contracted the disease are blonds, a local doctor said today.

He attached no particular significance to the fact, although the same physician, in telephone conversation today, with a doctor at the Institute of Public Health in London regarding infantile paralysis, said the London man told him all cases that have come to his attention also were blonds.

PREMIER HEPBURN PLACES NEW ISSUE BEFORE ELECTORS

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 31.—(CP)—A new issue was before Ontario electors to-day with Premier Mitchell Hepburn's description of himself as "the last stumbling block in the way of the scheme to deepen the St. Lawrence."

The waterways plan, aimed to make the St. Lawrence navigable for ocean-going ships above Montreal and to provide for power developments, was brought into the Provincial campaign here last night with Mr. Hepburn's declaration he was opposer to it.

Transport Systems Losing Money.

"While our own transport systems are operating at a loss I am strongly against it," he said. "But Mr. King (Prime Minister King() is in favor of it. Mr. Roosevelt (President Roosevelt) is in favor of it. The State of New York is in favor of it. Hon. Earl Rowe (Ontario Conservative leader) is in favor of it."

Former Premier Georgs Henry "blindly signed" an agreement with the Federal government committing Ontario to a $70,000,000 expenditure on the waterways scheme, Mr. Hepburn said, adding "but I stand in the way. If you want to go into debt another $100,000,000 then vote for Mr. Rowe."

No Shortage of Power.

Addresing a Liberal convention that renominated Dr. A. S. Duncan, London's member in the last Legislature, Mr. Hepburn rapped Mr. Rowe for charging Ontario faces a shortage of electrical power. Available anytime for Ontario's publicly-owned Hydro-Electric power system are 430,000 horse power from the Gatineau, McLaren and Beauharnois Power Companies, he said.

"We can get that additional 430,000 horse power at a cost of $6,800,000," he went on. "If Mr. Rowe can show me where there are customers to use it then we'll supply them. If he can't get those customers then it's time he stopped shouting about a power shortage."

Credit should be given to his government for the establishment of lower interest rates on public borrowings, the Premier said. His government's drive to bring down the cost of money had directly benefitted the municipalities in their borrowings.

MOTHER DAUGHTER HURT IN COLLISION

PORT HOPE, Aug. 31.—When the car she was driving was in a collision at Hope and Ward sts., here Sunday, Mrs. A. L. Mennie, wife of Provincial Constable Mennie of Cobourg, sustained a fractured rib and her daughter, Helen, suffered a strained neck. Both mother and daughter were treated at Port Hope hospital and then allowed to return home.

Provincial Traffic Oficer H. R. MacKellar, who investigated, stated the Mennie car was proceeding north on Hope street, when at the corner of Ward street, it collided with a westbound car driven by Miss Blanche Yates, Queen street, Preston. Following the collision, the officer stated, the Yates car veered across the street and snapped off a post to which a letter box was attached. Both cars were considerably damaged.

Passengers in the Yates car were Miss Yates' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Yates, Preston, and other passengers in the Mennie car were Misses Marion and Isabel Chapman of Guelph.

1,700 EMPLOYEES CANADIAN COTTONS ARE BACK AT WORK

CORNWALL, Aug. 31 (CP)—The 1,700 employees of Canadian Cottons Ltd., who walked out from the three mills here some days ago, will return to work Wednesday. Workers spokesmen last night assured provincial conciliation Officer Louis Fine there would be no repetition of the surprise strike of last week.

The men return with the original undertaking given to Premier Hepburn by the company still holding good. All disputed matters will be dealt with by the workers' grievance committees which are shortly to be elected. The Ontario Industry and Labor Board is the medium to which the contentious issues will be referred for adjustment.

This walkout followed only three days after resumption of work by the strikers in the three plants, after they had been on strike for a month. The second strike was not called by the Textile Union, and the cause of the dispute was vague.

TWENTY-FOUR BLOOMS ON ROSENEATH PLANT

ROSENEATH, Aug. 31.—A night blooming cereus owned by Mrs. W. R. Taylor, Roseneath, has this season up to date produced twenty-four blooms, in four blooming periods. At one blooming there were ten blossoms, and it is now bearing a fifth crop of buds.

The blossoms of this rare plant which are of marvellous and fleeting beauty, start to open about 6.30 p.m. and are fully opened by 10.30 p.m. They are eight to nine inches in diameter, pure ivory colored on the inside and pale rose shaded on the outer petals. The blooms which close before sunrise throw off a heavy fragrance all during the night. This fragrance lingers throughout the house for some hours after the bloom has closed.

The plant six feet in height, is eleven years old and blossoms at six years of age. The owner has been most generous in her gifts of cuttings to her friends of this rare plant.

C. J. Mills, Mayor of Southwark, England, has received a medal for being a postman for 39 years.

Ontario Moves To Combat Infantile Paralysis Outbreak

With 245 cases already reported in the city of Toronto, and with other areas, both urban and rural, noting more or less serious outbreaks from day to day, the Ontario provincial department of health took official cognizance of the prevalence of poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis) in the province with a newspaper announcement to parents describing the nature, symptoms and preventive measures for the dread disease. While the outbreak was still officially regarded as below epidemic proportions, reopening of schools has been delayed two weeks in Toronto and one or two nearby centres, to minimize transmission of the virus. One precautionary measure which, while widely used, is still regarded as in the experimental stage, is being demonstrated at TOP LEFT and LOWER RIGHT by Dr. John Hough of the Hagmeier Clinic, Preston, Ont., who is spraying the nasal passages of district children with a zinc sulphate solution to guard against infection. Use of the spray is based upon the belief that infection may be contracted through the nose and throat; the treatment should be administered by a physician. At LOWER LEFT and TOP RIGHT is pictured one little Toronto sufferer encased in the huge Drinker machine or "iron lung" at the Hospital for Sick Children. This machine has proved effective in continuing respiration and saving the lives of patients whose lungs have been attacked by the paralysis. The machine, by pumping and withdrawing air at a governed rate of speed, supplies artificial respiration to the patient.

INSURGENTS WIN NORTH-EAST SPAIN

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Aug. 31—(AP)—Insurgent and government forces on the northwest Spanish front claimed victory to-day in a land and air battle near Belchite, 20 miles south of Zaragoza.

Insurgent dispatches declared the government offensive had been smashed by an aerial attack of 150 planes, including 40 bombers.

The government reported, however, that Belchite was surrounded and insurgents' control of Zaragoza was menaced by further government advances along the Aragon front.

Only Two Planes Lost

A Valencia defence ministry announcement said each side lost only one plane in the air battle.

Belchite was apparently the immediate government objective in an effort to score important gains before General Franco could get reinforcements from the Biscayan front near Santander to bolster his insurgent units which have defended Zaragoza since the civil war commenced.

A BRAIN TWISTER.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 31. (AP).—This legal brain twister confronted Attorney General Mac Q. Williams: "Must a school board member be able to read and write the English language?"

"A Mr. X," wrote a county attorney, "was elected to a district school board. Now other members desire to remove Mr. X because he can not read or write English."

Williams can't find a law to cover the situation.

Premier Confirms Kidnap Threats

LONDON, Aug. 31 (CP).—Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario last night confirmed that threats were received in a "roundabout" way to kidnap his two adopted children. He said precautions had been taken, but refused to discuss the matter further.

When the Premier addressed a political meeting here last night two Provincial police constables in civilian clothes were seated in the front row, a few seats from the Premier.

Gold mined in the Transvaal of South Africa in a recent month was valued at $34,265,000.

PROTECTION APPRECIATED.

TORONTO, Aug. 31 (CP).—Appreciation of the governments of Canada in their protection of the negro race was voiced in a resolution passed yesterday by the regional conference of negroes of the Universal Negro Improvement Association from the United States and Canada, meeting here. ENRICHED OPPORTUNITIES.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (AP).—A general trend upward in school expenditures led educationists to predict today enriched opportunities for 30,700,000 boys, girls and adults expected to enroll in U.S. public and private schools this September.

Officials at the office of education estimated that increases in school budgets reported from the 48 states will be reflected in enlarged teaching staffs, additional school materials, and smaller per-pupil teacher loads.

CHURCH IS URGED FOLLOW IN STEPS OF EARLY PIONEERS

HALIFAX, Aug. 31—(CP)—Business session of the 14th General Assembly of the Church of England in Canada got underway here Monday, as Most Rev. D. T. Owen of Toronto, Primate of all Canada, gave his addres sand committees were formed to guide discussions. Sessions will continue until all business is completed.

Pleas for the church of to-day to follow in the footsteps of early pioneers who established it in Canada were made by visiting bishops at opening services on Sunday. Rt. Rev. J. G. F. Day, Bishop of Ossory, Ireland, spoke in the morning and Rt. Rev. C. E. Seager, Bishop of Huron, in the evening.

"The Canada of the future will become more and more distinctly Canadian and less and less distinctly British," Bishop Seager said.

The inflow of English-speaking people into Canada was slackening, while people of other nations were coming in, making Canada a distinctive nation, he said. For that reason, the Church in Canada had a real task, if it was to serve the country to the best advantage.

Much Is Expected.

Taking as his text, "Unto Whomsoever much is given, from him much shall be required," Bishop Seager stressed the many advantages which the Church of England had enjoyed in Canada compared with its position in the United States. Because much had been given it in Canada, much was expected of it.

The Church of England in Canada had not had to exist through a civil war in its infancy, as had the church in the United States. It had enjoyed the good feeling of those in power, and national feeling had been with it from the start.

He emphasized the pioneer spirit of optimism as another benefit the church had enjoyed in Canada, and stressed the fact that church workers to-day were the "present-day pioneers of a Canada yet to be."

Need Optimism.

If the people of to-day would recapture something of the optimism of the old pioneers, as exemplified in Charles Inglis, first Bishop of Nova Scotia, they might realize the future foreseen a few years ago, for nothing had happened to prevent the materialization of the future, Dr. Seager fsaid.

"The Canadian church is and will be for a long time, a missionary church, but it is lacking much of the spirit that drove onward the early missionaries."

A Jew was found dead in the bottom of a well and another in a field, both shot. They had lived on the Karkur Sharon Plain.

MANITOBA WINS AWARDS IN BUTTER

Out of 354 awards, Ontario gained but 15. Manitoba led the parade, with Alberta a close second. In the first section not one Ontario exhibitor was classed among the first-prize awards. Two managed to scrape into the second-prize list.

In the second section, the banner Provincial representatives placed two in the first brackets and three in the second class.

Winner of the Sweepstakes Silver Cup for the highest score in creamery butter was the Gladstone Creamery, Gladstone, Man., with a flavor score of 42.4 and total point score of 97.4.

Silver medal winners in the three sections were Elkhorn Creamery, Elkhorn, Man., and the Gladstone Creamery.

Healey—O'Brien

DOWNEYVILLE, Aug. 31.—On Saturday morning at 9.30, August 28, St. Luke's church, Downeyville, was the scene of a very pretty wedding when Mary Elizabeth O'Brien, Reg. N., formerly of Duyer Hill, near Ottawa, became the bride of Charles Healey of Norwood.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law, D. M. O'Leary, was charmingly attired in a gown of ivory crepe satin, made on princess lines, with Queen Anne collar and long tight-fitting sleeves. She wore a veil which fell from a coronet of orange blossoms, white accessories, and carried a bouquet of Briarcliffe roses and fern.

Mrs. D. M. O'Leary, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a gown of pink sheer with picture hat and matching accessories. Her bouquet was of Premier roses and sweet peas.

The groom was attended by his brother, James Healey, also of Norwood.

Th Nuptial Mas was celebrated by the Rev. Father V. G. McFadden of Downeyville and assisting in the Sanctuary was the Rev. Father J. J. McCarthy of Norwood. Servers at the Mass were Joseph and Dennis O'Leary, nephews of the bride. Austin and Bernard O'Leary acted as ushers. The wedding music was played by Mrs. Walter Herlihey of Downeyville, who also sang the Ave Marie.

Following the ceremony, a reception attended by fifty guests was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. O'Leary, where the rooms were decorated with flowers, streamers and pink and white bells. The toast to the bride was proposed by the Rev. Father V. G. McFadden and responded to by D. M. O'Leary. In a short speech the Rev. Father J. J. McCarthy welcomed the bride to her new parish, to which the groom responded on behalf of himself and his bride.

Mrs. Charles Healey was the recipient of many gifts from her numerous friends. The groom's gift to the bride was a white-gold bracelet set with diamonds, to the matron of honor a black morocco purse and to the best man a gold tie pin and clasp.

The happy couple left on a two-weeks' motor trip to Niagara Falls and Detroit, the bride travelling in a navy blue serge costume, with pink satin blouse and navy accessories.

When they return, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Healey will reside near Westwood. All their friends wish them long years of happiness and prosperity.

New Lawns Should Be Prepared Now

Where new lawns are to be made this fall, it is wise to prepare the soil now, especially if regrading is contemplated or much new soil is required. Many of the perennial weeds will still sprout and may then be detected and removed before the new seeding is done. Seeding should be postponed until the new soil has settled, the weeds have been removed and the autumn rains start, if this is possible. Under these conditions, fall sown grass seeding is often much more successful than that done in the spring.

✧ ✧ ✧

Young seedlings of delphinium, foxglove and lupine are often discovered in the border. These should be lifted into permanent places in the border and protected this first winter, or they can be moved to the cold frame and then in the spring be used to fill in any vacant spaces where old perennials failed to carry over. The seedlings of phlox should not be saved, for they are apt not to be true to color.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"THIS fountain never dries up. It is never frozen over. No sediment defiles it. Every good thing sought outside of Christ has had its defects, and the very best has brought disappointment. We must drink at this fountain if we would receive strength, joy and life. The proclamation is, not come to the bible and read, come to the altar and pray, come to the front and be baptized, or come to the sacramental table and partake, but come unto Me and drink." T. Cuyler.

Dear Friends:

I have written you before about the manner in which the way to God is confused. We are taught many "isms," we are told we must do this and we mustn't do that. We are told the FORMS of prayer, but many times we forget or never learned the words our Saviour told us.

He said: "I am the WAY the TRUTH and the Life. No man cometh to the Father, BUT BY ME." All other forms and all other sacrifices were cast into the discard by those words. And without pushing religion at you although it does you no harm to hear of it sometimes isn't it grand to know we have a Friend at court?

When we want anything on earth, we often wish we had a friend with "pull to intercede for us so that we would get the promotion or the new job, or the extra wages. We think how much we would appreciate anything he would do for us, even if it was only speaking a word or two in our favor. And if they DO get us what we desire, we tell them fervently we will never forget them.

But—having a Friend with all the "pull" that no human ever possessed, we slight Him, we are too proud to approach Him, we think more of the puny efforts around us, those who can only help us to temporary things and forget that life does not go on forever and that we should make sure of eternity.

We get jaded and weary, need something to pep us up, but we will not think of the words of our Friend who said: "Come unto me, all ye who are weary and heavy laden. Drink of the living waters that will refresh you." No, we seek our favorite soft drink, or maybe something more potent, and wonder why they don't satisfy.

Many people have tried many ways to get satisfaction in life. There are all kinds of cults, all forms of religion. Some think if they dress up in uniforms, the outward thing will bring inward peace. Some think if they punish themselves, or rattle off a lot of prayers, or do any of the many things humans do, that these will take the place of what our LoLrd said. The Japanese have prayer wheels, the Chinese have Confucious, the Mohammedans have their forms, and we have all our different churches and meeting places, yet none are any good unless we remember that "no man cometh to the Father BUT BY ME."

One lady said to me "Roberta, I HAVE prayed, I HAVE tried to believe, I HAVE looked for an answer, but I never got one." And it came out later, that she had done all these things, and the reason her prayers were not answered was that she did not want God's way, but her own way.

She did not truly believe, for she never stopped worrying, she asked God for a certain thing, then tried to do it herself. She knew all her former efforts had ended in failure, yet she would not keep hands and voice off, and let the One with "pull" intercede for her, and that was why she was not answered.

I know how hard it is to keep still and wait on God. You want action right away. You forget that this trouble did not come up quickly, but you want to end it quickly, and the best way is to stop it before it begins. And in conclusion this: "Verily, verily, I say unto you. Whatsoever ye shall ask the Father in my name, He shall give it to you. Hitherto ye have asked nothing in My Name. Ask and ye shall receive, that your joy may be full." Hoping this will comfort "M. M." and those who are in sore trouble. Your Friend, ROBERTA.

Preserving Time

"There's no other pie half so sweet,
As that in which apples and blackberries meet", is the old English saying, and this delicious combination of fruit flavors is much improved when minus the seeds.

Blackberry and Apple Jelly

3 qts. blackberries or loganberries.
1 to 2 doz. green apples.
Water to cover.
About 3 lbs. granulated sugar.

Crush berries in preserving kettle; add apples which have been wiped and cut in eighths with stems and blossom ends removed; cover with water. Cook until apples are soft. Strain (or drip through jelly-bag if a clear jelly is desired) and measure.

Boil 20 minutes and then add three cups of heated sugar to four cups of juice; boil 3 minutes, skim, and pour into sterilized glasses.

Sensible Clothes For Youngsters

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH.D.

MANY PARENTS are growing sensible about the choice of play clothes for young children. These clothes permit the child freedom of activity, and in wearing them he does not have to look noticeably different from his playmates. Because play clothes are fairly well standardized nowadays, wise selection is not necessarily a matter of money.

Considerate parents let children share in the selection of their clothes. Here are important questions: Will the child like them? Are they made of suitable materials? Are they well made? Are they comfortable, fitting properly?

We want to make sure that necks and armholes are so cut and tailored as not to bind, and are sufficiently roomy; that seats in underwear, bloomers and shorts are amply large. Some manufacturers are skimpy with materials and it is often discovered too late by the parent. Be sure the clothes are amply cut. Look for inverted pleats and darts. They generally improve the fit of the garment and afford adequate roominess.

Knitted suits of different weights are generally desirable for indoor and outdoor use, since they afford freedom of activity, are comfortable, and still snug, until they shrink too much.

Fabrics Correct?

About the fabrics, let us ask in choosing them: Are they durable? Are they light of weight? Are they soft in texture? Will they wash easily? Let us try to get warmth without excessive weight and cumbersomeness.

Outdoor garments for boys and girls should have adjustable hems, to allow for growth. Double-breasted ones give extra warmth, because of their overlapping.

Experts recommend the raglan or saddle sleeves with cuffs. Big armholes are easy to slip on. They give freedom to the shoulders, arms and body. Underneath them sweaters may be comfortably worn. Cuffs can be let out as the arms grow longer.

In comparison with inexpensive clothes on the market, home-made clothes at still less cost may have these advantages: ample cut, proper fasteners, long plackets, large buttons and roomy buttonholes, extra long waist-tail, raglan sleeves, deep hems, adjustable straps, comfortable but well-fitted waist lines, sleeve, neck and big bands.

Right In Old Ontario!

Edward Charles Shaw, 35 years of age, and a resident of Buffalo was travelling toward Toronto when he came upon a spot near Beamsville which looked to him about right enough to spend a few hours in slumber. At an early hour in the morning he pulled his car off the highway, locked all the windows and doors in his car and then he slept. For a time.

The awakening came about six in the morning when two masked men, each possessing a weapon, cracked open one of the windows and dragged Mr. Shaw out. They tied his hands and feet and took $100 in cash from him, and they also took his watch for which in prosperous days he had paid $120. Driving a short distance along a stub road they left him and went on with the car.

It may have been that Mr. Shaw knowing he was in Canada felt it would be quite safe enough to sleep in his car at night, particularly when he locked doors and windows. That should be sufficient intimation that he desired to be left alone. Truth is he was about as thoroughly riddled of cash and possessions as would have happened in any well-known bandit country.

And in Ontario of ours it was possible for the men who set upon him to be armed with the weapons of banditry. Nor is Mr. Shaw of Buffalo the first to be robbed while sleeping in his car. His name comes a fair distance down a list which is growing, and police have caused a general warning to be issued to drivers of cars that it is not considered safe to sleep in them, especially out in the country.

And this is right here in Ontario where we rather pride ourselves that we have a fair degree of law, order, safety and all such desirable things. Nor is it saying too much to suggest that the condition is due to the continued existence of revolvers in this country in the hands or pockets of those who are not entitled to possess them. Some time ago we made quite a gallant gesture at the gun business by putting new teeth in the Criminal Code, but the trouble is the teeth do not seem to bite often enough nor yet hard enough.

He Will Run Again

The United Farmers may have weakened in some districts: even in many districts. But not in South Grey. It is a busy season, but there were sufficient farmers who knocked off for the afternoon when the nomination meeting was held in Durham, and they placed Farquhar Oliver in the running again.

Mr. Oliver is the youngest man to have been elected to the Ontario Legislature. When he was 22 years of age—that was in 1926—he was elected, and that was at the time when the U. F. O. as a provincial political force had begun to weaken. It was in 1919 the U. F. O. swept the provincial election with 44 members; in 1923 the number dropped to 17; in 1926 to three members, and in 1929 and 1934 to one member. And Farquhar Oliver has always been that one member. He is a bachelor and a farmer; is 33 years of age and has been a member of the Legislature for 11 years. He went there shortly after he was old enough to vote.

Nature The Great Restorer

"Lone Wolf" self-styled Cree Indian medicine man reached Peterborough over the week-end in a 19-foot boat he had rowed every inch of the way from Winnipeg.

A bronzed specimen of health and strength with firm muscles rippling under the tattoed figures on his arms he was a picturesque figure. He would have looked more at home in the birch bark canoe of his ancestors.

But this man who had safely navigated 1,400 miles of inland waterways on his arrival here, and who had rowed his cumbersome craft not only through placid canals but over storm-tossed lakes, was not always the picture of health he is today.

Gassed while serving overseas with the Canadian Forces he returned to Canada broken in health and suffering the tortures of chronic asthma.

Seeking the solution to his own peculiar problem "Lone Wolf" sought the healing influences of the great outdoors. He found relief for his malady in the pine scented forests and renewed health and vigour in the kindly sun and the refreshing rain.

The nomadic life has a great deal of appeal in it to everyone who is hemmed in by the restrictions of modern civilization, but we must also admit it is not only too severe but utterly impractical for the majority, whether they be in good health or in search of it.

Against that is the plain fact that this Indian of 57 years had to face his own problem in his own way. He says "I have made a new pair of lungs by my method of living," and even in this age of dollars and cents we have yet to see a price which was considered too high for such equipment.

Always Paying Taxes

People in United States have a penchant for bringing more statistics to light than in other places. Some person has been considering the case of the man who does not own property and who is not making enough to pay income tax. Possibly such a one does not worry much about paying taxes. He may consider he has paid his tribute when he settles for the rent of a small home or the room where he may lodge.

But when the figure hunters have finished considering the case of the man who may be making $18 a week his lot is not so happy nor is his position in regard to taxation so simple. They find he is paying $116 a year in what they refer to as hidden taxes. They are concealed in the price of goods or services which he has to purchase.

The mechanic or minor department head in some establishment may make income enough to permit him to operate a car. He owns no home and his salary is not in the brackets reached by income taxation, but he pays—on the average—$229 each and every year in hidden taxes. Truth is all the people are paying taxes pretty much every day in the week, but most of them do not realize it.

What Kind of a Husband?

Our Warkworth correspondent records the tidings of the Percy Women's Institute holding its August meeting at the home of Mrs. James Black. When it came to marking the roll call there was something a trifle novel introduced, and we learn each member was required to answer to her name with "One characteristic I desire in a husband." Our correspondent does not deal at length with the matter, but chronicles the fact that "the cheerful, home-loving husband was most to be desired."

If one had been allowed to sit quietly and undisturbed in that gathering it might have been possible to have learned a great deal. It would have been like listening to the opinion of a group of experts because nearly all those present would have been in possession of husbands of some kind or other. Such an opportunity does not often present itself; the chance of hearing a number of ladies taking husbands apart; saying out openly the thing nearest and dearest to the heart, and perhaps expressing a longing for some peculiar qualities which certain husbands lacked entirely.

That general verdict about the "good-natured and home-loving" sort of husband lets the men off too easy. Every last man in the district can smile and believe he has come through the process unscathed. The spotlight of publicity was not turned upon his secret sore spots and although the little woman could have said a great many things about him she was content to let the matter pass and refused to have her husband placed upon the table where several unlovely sections might have been cut from him.

Of course husbands have always been a choice topic of conversation where the ladies have gathered together, but when a recording secretary is present it might be difficult to engage in a free flow of candid opinion.

That Old Straw Hat

We noticed in a catalogue some new contraption for gathering eggs. There were small pieces which swung at the side like pages in a book and these could be turned in as required. The reading matter said it was possible to collect four or five dozen eggs that way with no fear of breaking them.

No doubt there are new ways of collecting eggs or anything else which needs to be collected on the farm, but on the Tenth Concession there were two rather primitive articles used for picking up such things, the apron and grandfather's straw hat. When it came time for applesauce we are certain most of the early apples came in via the apron and often enough a dozen ears of corn would come the same way.

But grandfather's old sun hat was a remarkable thing. The story was he had it from the days when the pioneer women used to gather the straw and make hats for the men. Of course that is not done any more probably because a straw hat is cheap and also there are few who would know how to do it. But grandfather's old hat was sufficient to provide shade for the head and it took in a great section of the shoulders as well. When the hens took to laying in the side of the straw stack or in the mow at times or even in the manager when the stock was out, grandfather's hat was the travelling campanion of the one who went in search of eggs. It was also good as a nest for kittens, and served well for tomatoes or cucumbers, and in early fall we recall seeing it used for mushrooms; a little later on it held beechnuts or hickory nuts. When it was not on active service it was handy about the house for puttings in. Anything which did not belong any place else went in that soft old straw hat of other years. Whether there are any of its variety living today we do not know, but our guess is that the species is extinct.

A Million Dollars

Of course it is an old question—how much is a million dollars—but it can be answered in a variety of ways. One writer furnishes these answers:

If you had started to save $1 a day out of your wages for 800 years before the Christian era, you would just about have a million dollars.

Or if you had put $2 in the savings bank every day from a little after the year the Roman Empire blew up you would have the million.

Or if you were able to put $5 away every day since about the days of the Crusades, you would be able to own a million.

A million dollars is a stupendous amount of money.

Will They Do It?

The Owen Sound Sun-Times has an idea that if girls would refuse to dance with young men smelling of liquor, then the drinking business would be attended to. The paper puts it this way: "It rests with the girls to say whether dance hall drinking is to continue or not. Will they do their part?"

We wonder if the Owen Sound paper has a correct idea of the number of girls and women who patronize beverage rooms throughout this province? According to theory there should be a force for sobriety in the company of any young lady. There was a time when she would not tolerate the company of a man who had been drinking. There used to be a saying about "lips that have touched liquor shall never touch mine," but the trail of women and girls toward drinking places has taken the keen edge off that old attitude.

Possibly the girl who is inclined to have no particular rules in this regard would not cherish the idea of being tied to a drunken husband, but in the meantime she is not going out of her way to discipline young men with whom she comes in contact. If the Owen Sound young ladies decide to take the matter in hand we should like to hear of the progress they make.

A AND B

(By A. R. K.)

¶ My Neighbor A delights to fish, it is his greatest hope and wish, he has his lines and hooks; he studies fish and all their ways, and he will often read for days, of fish lore in the books.

¶ And Neighbor A. can catch them too, he seems to know just what to do, and how to sneak on them; they do not run when he arrives, nor hurry off to meet their wives, he finds them in their den.

¶ And Neighbor A. enjoys his sport, and he is such a splendid sort, he sorts his fish with care; he thinks of places he will stop, and from his basket he will drop, a trophy here and there.

¶ And Neighbor B. he fishes too, he is a sportsman through and through, he catches fish with ease, he's not a fussy sort of man, for bait he'll use a piece of ham, or crackers and some cheese.

¶ And when he turns toward his home, he does not keep his fish alone, he gives them here and there; he thinks of friends around the block, and at the door he'll gladly knock, perhaps he'll leave a pair.

¶ But Neighbor B. he is a bird, for him I'll say a kindly word, he cleans his fish each one; I can't clean fish how oft I try, and that is just the reason why—I'm glad to see B. come.

CONFIDENTIAL reports from Washington say United States is not at all easy regarding the latest turn of events in China. United States is not on good terms with Japan, and believes there may be trouble in the future over relations on the Pacific. Washington is more inclined to be pro-Chinese.

There is opposition to declaring the American Neutrality Act to be in force in the present trouble because that automatically cancels all shipments of war goods from United States and forbids the financing of loans.

United States recently made a monetary agreement with China to furnish that country with gold in place of silver, and there is no desire to disturb that deal.

The Department of Commerce is said to be opposed to any interference with shipping.

The Department of Agriculture wants to sell all the cotton possible in the year of a bumper crop, and cotton is in demand during war time.

A Little More Trouble.

ALWAYS is there another spot where more trouble can easily be touched into action. The latest spot is Brazil, and although nothing may come of it the build-up is interesting.

This way: Brazil is making a lease of six destroyers from United States for the purpose of training her men for her own navy if and when she gets a navy. Other Latin-American countries do not mind a great deal because they realize if Brazil did not get the cruisers from United States she could get them elsewhere, and it may be they will ask United States for something like that on their own account.

Why, then, any trouble? Just here—Germany and Italy are zealously interested at the moment in building up trade with Brazil and do not care to see Brazil becoming a naval power. However Brazil is heading that way.

When Appendicitis Comes

HERE IS what Dr. J. Russell Verbrycke, Jr., consultant at Garfield Memorial Hospital in Washington, D.C., has to say about appendicitis:

An alarming increase in the deaths from appendicitis is the direct result of self-treatment.

Never take a physic when there is abdominal pain which might be appendicitis.

Promiscuous use of eliminants cause more deaths than all other factors combined.

In 25 years I have never seen a ruptured appendix except where the patient had taken a purgative.

I have seen innumerable cases showing the amazing ability of an appendix to withstand inflammation and recover, confirming my belief that an appendix will not rupture unless thus goaded—if under proper treatment.

All of this does not alter the fact that the patient should be in the hospital under close observation.

Unions and Their Money.

C. E. SOKOLSKY writing in The Commentator, says:

The American Federation of Labor never represented ten per cent. of America's wage earners; John Lewis's C. I. O. does not today represent five per cent. of them. Yet each maintains a large and effective lobby at Washington to bring pressure upon Congress and upon every branch of the administration to accept it as the sole spokesman for American labor.

The unions posess the only secret political slush fund in the country. If a corporation made a contribution to a campaign its officers are committing an illegal expenditure. John Lewis has boasted that with his United Mine Workers funds he helped place President Roosevelt where he is today, and he has demanded a pay-off.

If we take the total number of workers which John Lewis claims for his C. I. O., the dues alone at 50 cents per month, not counting initiation fees and assessments, would amount to $18,000,000 a year. This gives some idea of the huge amount now collected by labor unions and spent to a large extent in recent years for political purposes."

Only Heaven Is Given Away

By ROSE DARROUGH In Good Housekeeping

I BOUGHT a gay-roofed little house upon a sunny hill,
Where heaven is very close to earth and all the world is still.
It took my savings, every cent, although the cost was small,
But, oh, the lovely things I bought, and paid for not at all!
The sleepy valleys that below in tawny sunshine lie,
The oaks that sprawl across their slopes and climb to meet the sky.
Stray winds that sing of other things than those our eyes may see,
Blue wisps of mist, and raveled clouds that, fleeing, beckon me.
White suns of mad, glad April, October's wine to quaff,
On crystal winter mornings my hearth fire's crackling laugh,
The silent stars that march at night so close above my head,
The sound of raindrops on the roof when I am snug in bed.
For joist and beam and shingles gay I spent my savings small,
But on the lovely things God gave He put no price at all.

Some Plain Questions Are Asked

Taken From Chapter of Accidents; They Could All Have Been Avoided.

Paul W. Kearney in This Week

PHILADELPHIA: Two children were playing with a kitten in their home when the kitten, seeking to escape, jumped into an open closet and knocked down a gun standing in the corner. The gun went off and one of the children received part of the charge of buckshot in the head.

QUESTION: Why leave a loaded gun in the same house with children?

✧ ✧ ✧

GLOUCESTER, N. J.: A 15-year-old boy was fatally wounded by the accidental firing of a shotgun which an older companion was "showing him how to handle."

QUESTION: Wouldn't it be reasonable to find out how to handle a gun yourself before attempting to show somebody else how?

✧ ✧ ✧

BOSTON: A college student was shot in the thigh in a friendly tussle for a revolver which his pal had snatched from him.

QUESTION: Wouldn't you think that a college man would know enough not to play with a gun?

CHARLOTTE, N. C.: Dave Andrews, 9, was taken to the hospital in a critical condition with a bullet in his lung. His companion, also 9, found a toy pistol on the table and, aiming it at Dave, shouted, "Stick 'em up"; then pulled the trigger. The "toy" was a 32-caliber revolver.

QUESTION: Why are loaded revolvers left around where children can pick them up?

✧ ✧ ✧

NEW YARK: A three-year-old child, shot in the ear with a "BB" ball from an air rifle fired by an older boy, ran home in tears—and dropped dead on his doorstep. The shot had penetrated his brain.

QUESTION: Why didn't the parent who bought that air rifle teach his boy how to use it—and how not to?

✧ ✧ ✧

Certainly the questions seem trite and the answers simple. Yet because a lot of people don't know the answers we have a steady average of 3,000 fatal firearms accidents every year with probably fifty times as many injuries. And more than a fourth of them occur in the home.

Who Owns the Liquor Control Baby?

Now Walking In the Ontario Election; A Lot of Explaining Now Being Done.

(Woodstock Sentinel-Review)

THE MOST casual observer of political straws which may be indicative of the prevailing wind can scarcely fail to note a new and interesting attitude on the part of government campaigners toward the Liquor Control Act amendments which inaugurated beverage rooms.

"We were in no way responsible for the present Act as it appears on the statutes," said Premier Hepburn at Paris. "It was enacted by a former legislative just prior to the election of 1934, and it was designed for the purpose of creating a new issue to becloud maladministration. . . . It is not our Act; it is being applied in a modified form."

Upon the same evening, at Wingham, we read, Dr. W. D. Smith, late member for Dufferin-Simcoe, said he was a "dry," with the beverage room in his riding, and had frequently voted against his leader in caucus on the beer question.

"I have heard Mr. Hepburn himself say that he wished all his members were dry," Dr. Smith is reported as saying to Huron-Bruce Liberals. "Temperance is a baby we inherited, and we must look after it."

There is no question that Mr. Hepburn previous to the 1934 election found it tactically advisable to announce that he would, if he became premier, proclaim the beverage room amendments recently enacted. But the only period during which he could accurately say "It is not our Act" was up to the time the Legislature held its first session in his regime. It was then within his power and right to alter or repeal the amendments or do anything he chose with the legislation. The allusion to a "modified form" is to the fact that authorities have not been issued to restaurants, although that was provided for in the Act. But it is still in the Act. Whether the late Legislature amended the Act or not, it had the opportunity to do so, and the legislation is now the Hepburn government's measure, regardless of what the government may say.

The interesting thing, of course, is that the premier should take the contrary position. After administering it and defending it for three years, what is the significance, at this particular time, of saying: "It is not our Act?" Is there an announcement coming soon as to proposed changes?

A FAMILY OF WRENS

(Port Arthur News-Chronicle)

A MAN who takes an interest in such things tells the News-Chronicle that he has been observing a family of wrens nesting near his home and that he has made the estimate that in the twenty days it takes to rear a brood the parent birds carry 8,000 insects to the nesting place as food: moths, flies, grubs and insects of all kinds, even small caterpillars. He made the estimate on repeatedly observing the number of trips made per hour and a working day of fifteen hours.

To the Editor

GLASS BOTTLES AS TOYS

Editor Examiner:

Sir: I wonder if parents will heed a warning against allowing their children to play with glass bottles. May I here tell you some of the results:

A few years back 3 children played in a yard; pickle bottles had been thrown out. One boy aged 5 was swinging bottles in imitation of exercises; they came together; the glass flew in small splinters and struck straight into the eyesight of his 3 year-old-sister.

A boy of 7 in excitement broke a bottle over the 5 year old-lads head when his sister screamed with her eye.

There is a young woman whose lovely face is marred for life; a boy who stutters because of a severed nerve, all because a careless mother threw bottles out. It is also a slovenly habit in any household. There should be a place for bottles. Scissors should also be kept on a hook out of reach of children, also forks kept out of their hands. But give them a knife; let them cut their own throat while they are unaccountable rather than have them go through life with a scar made by parent's carelessness.

CONCERNED.

MAKING REPUBLICANS

(London Spectator)

ON MONDAY, when the Duchess of Kent was driving with her two children to the coast, her car collided with another and its windows were broken. No one, fortunately, was so much as scratched.

The Times recorded all the relevant facts in a paragraph of four inches. In the Daily Mail the incident required (1) a two-line heading across five columns, (2) 30 inches of descriptive matter, (3) a picture of the Duchess setting out from home, (4) a picture of the Princess Alexandria, (5) a picture of the gate (now and hereafter removed from the category of all ordinary gates) through which the Duchess went into a field to wait for another car, (6) a leading article on "Royal Escape."

Which paper is the more likely to turn a patriotic monarchist into a republican?

COL. JOHN BY

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

THE PRIME MINISTER has been telling an Ottawa audience how much that city owes to the efforts of Lieutenant Colonel John By, the chief builder of the Rideau canal, in laying out the original streets of what is now the Capital city of the Dominion, and paving the way for that development in town planning which is now proceeding.

The remaining part of eastern Ontario through which the Rideau canal passes is also under a debt to Lieutenant Colonel By, who is said to have died at a comparatively early age because censure, instead of praise, came to him from the British authorities for what he had done in building the canal through the virtual wilderness which then prevailed.

FIND NO TRACE OF RUSS PLANE

COPPERMINE, N.W.T., Aug. 31 C.P.). — Pilot Herbert Hollick-Kenyon landed the big Soviet flying boat on the bay here last night, after an unsuccessful flight over a vast strength of the Arctic searching for the missing Russian Polar fliers.

It was the third flight the search party commanded by Sir Hubert Wilkins had made into the north since they arrived at this base on the Arctic coast after a flight from New York, via Toronto, Fort Arthur and Fort Smith, N.W.T.

Sir Hubert said Hollick-Kenyon landed the plane at Walker Inlet, Prince Patrick Island, when they ran into heavy weather. The search party waited at Walker Inlet until favorable weather reports were received by radio and then took off for a lengthy flight over Beaufort Sea.

Poor visibility hampered the searchers over the zone where Sir Hubert believes the fliers were forced down.

CHINESE BANDITS KIDNAP PRIESTS

PEIPING, Aug. 31 (CP-Havas)—Ten Marist fathers, three of them French, one Irish and six others of various nationalities, were held as villages in the hills near Peiping today by bandits who raided their seminary not far from the city.

The head of the seminary and one aged father were released, the former because he was seriously wounded and the latter because of his age. The bandits asked $166,000 ransom.

Representatives of the French embassy started out for the bandit refuge with a detachment of Japanese soldiers but the weather made pursuit of the kidnappers difficult.

Part of Chinese Plan

The Chinese bombing of the liner President Hoover was part of a plan to force foreign intervention in the Sino-Japanese conflict, the Tokyo Miyako charged to-day.

The paper said the "attacks" on Shanghai foreign areas and on foreign warships and passenger vessels were part of this plan.

The bombing of the Hoover, for which the Chinese have assumed full responsibility, offered a welcome opportunity to divert attention from the delicate situation created by the wounding of Sir Hughe Knatchell-Hugessen, the British Ambassador in China, by a Japanese plane attack last week.

A new slant was given to the attack the British Ambassador in connection with the charge issued by Domei (Japanese) News Agency that two of the planes responsible for the bombing of the President Hoover were disguised with Japanese insignia. The suggestion was indirectly advanced that this "revelation" would probably necessitate an "exhaustive investigation" of the Knatchell-Hugessen incident before Japan could reply to the British Government's note.

Japan could not be expected to proffer the apology demanded by Great Britain until the nationality of the aviators responsible was definitely established, it was said. To date, it was added, Japan has only Britain's word on this point.

Reports that the Chinese were using the disguise of foreign flags and insignia were extended by Japanese sources to-day to Yangtze river shipping. Domei issued a dispatch from Hankow stating "Foreign shipping circles were alarmed" by the fact that Chinese shipping firms were allegedly repainting Chinese vessels to make them look like ships of established British lines.

One Chinese vessel arrived at Hankow, Domei said, repainted in colors used by the Jardine Matheson Company river steamers, including red funnels and the Union Jack on the hull. Two others were disguised to look like ships of the Butterfield and Swire Company, the other large British river shipping firm, Domei claimed.

The world's largest exhibition and entertainment center, Earl's Court in London, which will be opened shortly, cost $7,500,000, and when not used for boxing events and expositions will be a garage for 2,000 cars.

DEAN CARLISLE IS RE-ELECTED AS PROLOCUTOR

HALIFAX, Aug. 31.—(CP).— Its first day of general business sessions behind it, the 14th General Synod of the Church of England in Canada met to-day in joint session of the Upper and Lower Houses to discuss the hymnal and the educational and evangelical campaign.

Rt. Rev. C. C. Bardsley, Bishop of Leicester, was expected to address the joint session on the educational and evangelical program, making reference to the success of such a program in England.

Dean Arthur Carlisle of Montreal was re-elected prolocutor of the Lower House in sessions yesterday, with Chancellor R. V. Harris of Halifax as deputy-prolocutor. Dr. G. H. Osborne, Ottawa, was returned to the office of registrar which he has held for 32 years, while Rev. Canon F. H. Hartles, Toronto, was elected honorary clerical secretary.

For the position of honorary lay secretary, delegates unanimously elected E. J. Bream of Edmonton.

In the Primate's address at the opening session, Archbishop Owen pleaded for unity within the Church as it fought against outside influences.

"I view with a kind of horror any signs of division among ourselves," he said. "The task of the Church in the changing world of to-day is not impossible, but the time is full of difficulty, not to say menace. The age calls us to draw closely together in the name of the Church. Any petty difference among ourselves when the Church is being undermined from without would be tragic."

NINE SLAIN IN RIOTS.

In other outbreaks a Jew and two Arabs were wounded by a bomb which exploded between Jaffa and Tel Aviv. Gunfire was exchanged in a number of riotous incidents. Two Arabs were wounded in Jerusalem, and another north of Tel Aviv.

British authorities appealed to both sides to restore order by a display of good will.

BOOS CLAIMED BOX OFFICE BOOM

TIFTON, Ga., Aug. 31.— (AP).— Contending boos are a box office boon, Tifton booers framed a vigorous reply to-day to an injunction banning booing of commercial advertisements in movie programs.

On the petition of Theatre Manager R. E. Martin, Superior Judge R. Eve issued the temporary restraining order against the oral outbursts of Local No. 3 of the Society for the Booing of Commercial Advertisements in Motion Picture Theatres.

Also named in the suit was the Tifton Gazette which printed an advertisement wherein members of Local No. 3 appealed for public support.

Damages were mentioned in Martin's petition also, but Publisher John Herring (himself a non-booer) scorned any such claim and asserted that far from injuring business the booing had been a box office bonanza.

FARMERS RESCUE HORSE FROM MARSH

TRENT RIVER, Aug. 31.—Missing three days, a valuable horse owned by Mr. Robert Carnrite, was found by him at an early hour Sunday morning sunk in a marsh on the farm of Mr. Carnrite two miles south of here. Along with other horses the animal, a western horse, 9 years old, went to the marsh for a drink, but was missing when the other horses returned. Mr. Carnrite, who lives in the village, received word Saturday night, and set out early the following morning to search for the animal. On reaching the marsh he heard groans, but the morning being misty could not locate the animal. After walking several paces he discovered the horse's head, the rest of its body being sunk in the mud. Mr. Carnrite immediately called for help, which was readily given by 23 when, who managed to get a rope tied over the horse's neck. After digging around the animal they fastened ropes on its legs and finally dragged it to mainland, where it collapsed from exhaustion. The men worked for some time rubbing the animals legs till it was able to stand up, and with assistance was taken to the stable, still weak from the effects of the venture.

Government To Aid Preparing Classes

(Examiner Correspondence).

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 31.—"The main purpose of the trip to Toronto was to gain the sanction of the Deputy Minister to plans previously made by the Board," Chairman W. Roy Loucks told The Examiner in an interview regarding the proposed changes in the High School curriculum. After making careful inquiries the Board had come to the conclusion that the rooms in the High School previously set aside for the teaching of manual training and domestic science were too small. Faced with several options, Mr. Loucks and two other members of the Board journeyed to Toronto, where they learned that the rooms were classed as entirely satisfactory in every respect except size. However, this defect was offset by the lighting facilities and other advantages of the rooms. The rooms are to be redecorated at once and the specified equipment purchased, following the Board meeting on Monday," Mr. Loucks stated.

In connection with the expense of preparing the rooms it was learned that the government grant will pay for fifty per cent. of the expenditure while an annual grant of $400 per annum will be made to the Board. It is expected that the rooms will be ready for the classes by the middle of September, when Miss K. O'Shaughnessy and Ella Darling, who have been attending Summer School in Toronto, will take charge of the subjects.

CHOLERA EPIDEMIC HITS SHANGHAI

SHANGHAI, Aug. 31. —(AP)— Cholera broke out tonight in Shanghai's French concession.

The outbreak became known shortly before midnight and French concession authorities took every measure to halt its spread. Cholera is a deadly intestinal disease which yearly takes its toll of underfed Asiatics.

Hundreds of rotting bodies of slain Chinese civilians brought millions of disease carrying rats and insects to the areas north of Soochow Creek.

Sanitary officers from the international Settlement were seriously hampered in their work there. The Japanese military insisted the stricken sections be closed because of the presence of looters and the danger of Chinese troops returning there from the north and west.

Japanese were firing the bodies after saturating them with gasoline.

This in itself horrified the surviving Chinese, for they believe the burning of a body means there can be no

MIND CAN CONTROL EFFECTS OF PAIN DOCTORS CLAIM

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(Associated Press Science Editor)

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 31—(AP)—New medical experiments showing the mind can control effect of pain were reported to the American Association of Applied and Professional Psychologists here to-day by Ralph R. Brown, psychologist, and Victor H. Vogel, M.D., past assistant surgeon, both of the United States public Health Service.

They had four persons with tacks pricking their feet try to imagine they felt no pain: All continued to hurt, but the imagination caused unexpected physical modifications.

Without trying to will the pain away blood pressure tended to rise, pulses went up, breathing was faster, trembling greater and electrical potentials of the skin changed. These changes were involuntary.

But they became less when the patient tried to imagine there was no pain. This was verified by hypnotizing the same four with tacks pricking their feet. They had no memory of pain. But their bodies showed all the involuntary reactions of pain

The reactions were smaller under the influence of hypnotism. But no smaller than when the patients tried to imagine there was no pain.

"It appears," the health officials reported, "that in the subjects which we have observed, imagination in the normal waking state may be just about as effective with respect to influencing the physiological reactions to pain as that which may be observed following suggestion in the trance state (hypnotism).

"The effects produced by imagination in the waking state are of significance in demonstrating the possibility of voluntarily influencing those physiological processes which have generally been considered as autonomous.

"The finding lends supoprt to the idea that physchological processes may play an important role in facilitating or inhibiting the psysiological functions concerned with mantaining or re-establishing physical health.

"JUNGLE" WHISTLE BY CHIEF W. CAREY LANDS 5 SUSPECTS

COBOURG, Aug. 31. — Cobourg police arrested five men Saturday afternoon, then recovered articles believed stolen in this district. Two of the men were arrested when they mistook a ruse by Chief W. J. Carey of Cobourg as a signal from one of their comrades. The arrested men, police said, gave the names of Kenneth Locke, Eric Morrow, Frank Sims, Sem Stewart and Irvin Donnelly, the last man they believe took no part in the alleged thefts.

With their arrest police found a collection of various articles in the car used by the men, consisting of four watches, several fountain pens and pencils, a loaded .32 calibre revolver, compacts, rings, various items of jewelry, a rug, flashlights and other items.

Some of it was identified Sunday as coming from homes in Bowmanville, Cobourg and Baltimore and it is thought that a portion of the loot came from Port Hope. The men are being held in Cobourg jail on vagrancy charges.

For the last few days, Chief of Police W. J. Carey has been looking for an old car in which Locke and Morrow were believed to have been riding and on Friday he and ex-Chief John C. Ruse saw the car on the main street. However, the car, which held four men, got away before the police could stop it but on Saturday afternoon, Constable Gavin Reid saw the car parked, empty, off the main street. He at once notified Chief Carey, who, aware that Locke sometimes called at the general delivery wicket in the post office, went there and found Locke, whom he arrested. When the car was subsequently searched, the allegedly stolen goods were found.

A search was made around Cobourg for the rest of the men and when nothing was found, Chief Carey went to Port Hope where he, Chief Thomas Murphy and Provincial Constable Hugh McKellar of that town visited the hobo "jungle."

No trace of the men was found at that time, but Carey noticed a movement of the bushes as if someone had just departed that way. Carey waited a moment or two and then gave a low whistle. It was interpreted by the wanted men as a signal from some of their pals that the police had left and that the coast was clear. However, they found their mistake when they came back and found the police waiting for them. Sims and Morrow being arrested at that time. A short period later, the police found Stewart and Donnelly at the railway station in Port Hope and all were brought to Cobourg.

On Monday they appeared before Justice of the Peace Leslie Wilson, and were remanded on vagrancy charges until September 4.

BLIND NO LONGER UNDER HANDICAP; SKILLED WORKMAN

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 31—"Our main purpose is to help the blind to help themselves," Arthur W. Sparks, field secretary for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind told Rotarians at their noon-day luncheon, held in the St. Lawrence Hotel, Monday. "The Institute, which was founded in 1918, serves a duel purpose in rendering service to the blind and in preventing blindness." By providing suitable employment to every blind person and suitable assistance to the unemployable, the Canadian National Institute is recognized as one of the most outstanding institutions in Canada serving a total of over 9,000 blind Canadians of which 2,926 are in the Ontario division.

Free radio licenses, free passes to theatres, passes on street cars in 20 Canadian cities, and free transportation on Canadian railways are some of the many things which have been given the blind through the work of the Institute.

"Blindness, once considered a tragedy, is no more, for there have been ways of providing employment and recreation that the blind may spend their teims happily and usefully," stated the speaker, who 17 years ago was the victim of an accident which left him blind. "The Institute's main purpose is to offset the unhappiness and misery that follow blindness. We, as blinded persons, go through a period of reconciliation which has been considerably shortened by the progressive work done by the Institute during the past few years.

Broom Industry

Referring to the broom industry, which is probably one of the most familiar industries undertaken by the blind, the speaker pointed out that it is necessary for the workers to be doubly careful in this or in whatever endeavor they follow, due to the fact that the purchaser invariably looks for faults in the workmanship. The furniture industry is a branch which has been recently opened to the blind workmen. Suitable guards have been installed on all the machines which might be considered dangerous in the work of manufacturing tables, counters and chairs. Cafeteria concessions in government buildings and in many factories offer an opportunity to those who do not wish to work in the factories. These people are given a general training in business and are taught to keep books in Braille. "When the news stand and concession idea was first begun there were but seven during the first year and the net turnover was in the neighborhood of about $12,000. During the last fiscal year the turnover had mounted to approximately $1,982,000, which indicated that a large number of Canada's blind citizens had been able to earn anywhere from $20 to $80 per week.

"All that is asked is 48 hours test in order to attain the speed of the sighted operator, and in many cases the blind worker is found to attain an even greater speed of production and be more efficient than the sighted," said Mr. Sparks.

Talking Books

In the Institute's Library are over 20,000 volumes of all kinds of reading matter used by 1,600 Ontario blind last year. The talking books which form a new division of the library are being distributed free to those who for some reason are unable to read in Braille. These records, which are 12 to 15 inches in diameter, and very finely grooved, last about half an hour each and the very best readers are engaged for the purpose of making the recordings.

Through the sales department all types of Braille apparatus, such as thermometers, barometers, typewriters, watches, rulers and many other items are sold at cost. The home teaching staff, all of whom are blind and specially trained for the work gave over 13,000 instruction lessons in Canada last year.

In conclusion, the speaker intimated that a new era of progress was anticipated with the granting of pensions to the blind, and expressed the hope that the Rotarians would assist in the tag day which it is planned to hold on September 25. Dr. H. B. Longmore moved a vote of thanks to the speaker for his interesting address.

TRYING TO RAISE LEMONS.

Mrs. Benjamin Kerr, 89 Princess Street, has an idea that the citrus belt might be extended northward. In June of last year, she planted a number of lemon seeds after soaking them for a week or so. Now she has five of these young trees growing in flower pots, some of them about 18 inches in height. Mrs. Kerr thinks if the growing were done in greenhouses, where there is a more uniform heat and perhaps more moisture, the lemons would have a better chance to become accustomed to this climate. There are no insects which have so far been observed which go near the young lemon plants.

By a new method invented in Berlin for judging sporting contests two slow motion picture cameras are combined to make stereoscopic shots at the goal at the rate of 100 pairs a second.

BLACK ROT HAS HIT TOMATOES IN NORTHUMBERLAND

TORONTO, Aug. 31.— (CP). — Harvesting is in full swing throughout Ontario this week, the Ontario Department of Agriculture states in its weekly crop report. Threshing, however, is just getting under way in Northern Ontario, but is practically completed in Grey county.

Wheat is yielding 30 to 40 bushels to the acre generally but rust had caused considerable damage in Dundas county and Sudbury district. Alfalfa is being thresned in Southwestern Ontario with a yield ranging mostly from two to four bushels per acre, although in Haldimand county weather conditions have raised grave fears for the alfalfa seed crop.

In Central Ontario, the tomato crop in Northumberland county is not likely to be heavy due to black rot, sunscalds, cracks. In Prince Edward county tomatoes are a good crop with more being canned than in any previous season. Corn, too, is the best in years.

Ontario county pastures are in good condition, but weathering reduced the quality of the grain crop. Peterborough reports oats disappointing.

Middlesex has an active demand for heavy finished steers, several loads of which went at $9 to $9.50. Cheese production in Lennox and Addington is keeping up well with colored selling at 14¼, white at 14 cents. Buyers are picking up young Algoma cattle, paying $35-$40 for good two-year-olds and $20-$25 for yearlings.

SIAMESE TWINS GIVE TO POLICE KNOTTY PROBLEM

When Peterborough newspaper reporters put an idea into the heads of the Siamese twins—the Hilton sisters who appeared at a local theatre early this summer—they started something. Chief of Police Eugene T. Weatherly of Cincinatti is still scratching his head and wondering to what extent one has been put over him.

Interviewing the girls during their visit here, reporters suggested it would be interesting to see what would happen if one of them should commit an offense against the law of the land. The police would be faced with the problem of taking one into custody without offending against the constitutional guarantees of the other's liberty, it was pointed out.

The girls apparently took the suggestion to heart.

During a subsequent visit to Cincinnati, one of the girls drew a traffic ticket for parking on the wrong side of the street. They both walked into police headquarters with the ticket and asked what was to be done about it. Then the head scratching began.

It was a situation which had never before confronted the upholders of Cincinatti's law. Criminal codes at hand made no reference to two people parking on the wrong side of the street or, in fact, two people doing anything. Scratching of heads was found to be useless.

Chief Weatherly finally solved the situation by sort of cuttin gthe Gordian knot. He announced the twins could go free.

"We can't hold both of them — and we can't separate them," he declared. "I'll cancel the tag to save time and worry."

He refused to state whether the same procedure would be followed in the case of theft or murder.

CAMERON GORRIE COMES TO Y.M.C.A.

Appointment of Cameron Gorrie, assistant secretary of the Notre Dame branch of the Y.M.C.A. in Montreal, to succeed Donald McHoull as boys' secretary in the Peterborough Association, was announced at the Y.M.C.A. today. Mr. Gorrie will commence his duties September 1st.

Mr. Gorrie is a native of British Columbia and is a graduate of the University of British Columbia. He has had three years' experience in Association work and his work was highly recommended to the local board of directors by Montreal Y.M.C.A. officials.

Don McHoull resigned the post to enter the teaching profession.

Suspect Is Held

Joseph Bruno who has been sought by Pennsylvania state police for the past nine months in connection with the slaying of seven persons in a "political massacre" is shown (ABOVE), at New York after he had been taken into custody by police. Bruno and several members of his family were being held at Pottsville, Pa., when he escaped during December of last year. The killings occurred when a political parade was fired upon as it passed Bruno's house.

U.S. Missionaries Feared Cut Off

PEIPING, Aug. 31 (AP)—Anxiety was expressed here today for 99 United States missionaries in Shantung province who have not been heard from since the consulate at Tsianan, the provincial capital, was closed last Friday.

The Shantung missionaries, as well as 40 more in southern Hopeh province, were directly in the path of two Japanese columns advancing southward from Peiping and Tientsin.

The spearhead of the Japanese advance along the Tientsin to Pukow railroad was reported well within bombardment range of the city of Machang, 40 miles south of Tientsin. The 8,000 men of the vanguard had pushed ahead 10 miles in the last 48 hours.

An Eighteen Pound Lunge

George Henlin, tourist visitor from Pittford, New York, and guide Jack Russell are shown with a prize catch they made in the waters of Chemong Lake just north of the Floating Bridge this week. The 'lunge weighed 18½ pounds and measured 43 inches in length. Mr. Henlin already had a couple of good 'lunge and some fine bass to his credit on this week's fishing.

Many Staff Changes Among Public School Teachers

Also Extensive Changes in Course of Study in First 6 Grades.

There will be several changes affecting the teaching staffs when the public schools reopen at the close of the summer vacation on Wednesday morning, Keith S. Wightman, public schools inspector announces. They are chiefly readjustments caused by promotions or retirements.

During the term several extensive changes are to be made in the course of study in the first six grades. Inspector Wightman said the changes would be made gradually as it would take some time to adapt the schools to the change.

In succeeding Alexander Mowat as inspector, Mr. Wightman left the principalship of Central School vacant and this is to be filled by R. J. Bolton, former principal of King Edward School.

F. H. Dearborn formerly vice-principal at Queen Alexandra School is promoted to the principalship of King Edward School, while E. R. Frost vice-principal of Prince of Wales School is transferred as vice-principal of Queen Alexandra School.

P. Windrim who has been on the staff of Central School has received promotion as vice-principal of Prince of Wales' School.

Arnold Noftall formerly on the temporary staff at Prince of Wales School has been given a permanent position of the staff at King Edward School.

Thomas Allen returns to his old appointment at Prince of Wales School after an absence of two years at Queens University.

Miss Constance Wagar formerly on the staff at Prince of Wales School is taking over for this year as art supervisor in the public schools and at the Normal School. Her place on Prince of Wales staff is being filled by a Mrs. Jamison.

The vacancy at Prince of Wales School caused by resignation of Miss Sadie L. Steele as teacher of an auxilliary class is to be filled by a Mrs. Scott.

Miss D. L. Burgess returns to her position at Queen Alexandra School after two years leave of absence spent in study at Queen's University.

STILL AWAITS BABY.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 31 (CP)—Although she has had no word of her baby since he was taken from his carriage in a public park nearly a year ago, Mrs Robert Browe, still believes he is alive and will be returned to her.

The boy had been taken to the park by his two young brothers. Some unknown person gave the two brothers money to buy candy. When they returned from the store the baby was gone.

Hastings Man Hurt Run Over By Car

HASTINGS, Aug. 31.—Arthur J. McKenty had a very narrow escape from injury this morning about 7.30 o'clock when he was cranking his car in front of his door on Front street. The car, which was in gear lurched forward and Mr. McKenty, to avoid being hit, stepped backwards and tripped. One of the wheels is believed to have passed over his right shoulder and crashed into the front of A. Margle's store. Dr. Campbell treated the shoulder of Mr. McKenty and pronounced his injuries not serious.

FOUR TEACHERS JOIN THE STAFF AT THE COLLEGIATE

There will be four new teachers on the staff of Peterborough Collegiate Institute and Vocational School, when that seat of learning reopens for the Fall term on Wednesday morning, Dr. H. R. H. Kenner, principal announces. They are: Miss Ida McBride, B.A.; Miss Christine Copus B.A.; Miss Muir, B.A., and Mr. W. E. Jackson.

Miss McBride is to take the place of Miss Meta G. Meredith, who resigned as teacher of industrial and household arts English and History. Miss Copus will join the staff as an extra assistant in the household arts department. Miss Muir will fill a temporary vacancy, while Miss Edith Murphy, B.A., is absent on a year's sick leave; and Mr. Jackson will have charge of drafting in the industrial arts department. He will fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of E. J. Davis, B.Sc., who is assuming charge of vocational training in Cornwall Collegiate Institute and Vocational School with the reopening of schools in that city.

There are several changes in the curriculum in accordance with regulations of the Ontario Department of Health, and Dr. Kenner and members of his staff have been busy during the past few weeks revising the courses of study ready for the opening of school.

LABOR WAR ENDED.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31—(AP)—The labor war among the High C's is ended.

Peace was restored last night when members of the Grand Opera Artists' Association voted to relinquish their American Federation of Labor charter to the American Guild of Musical Artists, headed by Lawrence Tibbett.

Three Cars With Sequent Licenses Phenomenon Seen By P.C. Wheeler

Strange things happen in the early hours of the morning of which police are often quiet observers, and in the realm of the unusual. Constable Joseph Wheeler saw a numerical sequence of automobile license numbers Monday morning which he doesn't expect ever to see again. It happened on George Street, about 1.30 o'clock in the morning, and the numbers were impressed upon Officer Wheeler's attention by the fact that he was scanning everything that passed for a car that was wanted at Cobourg. Within a period of fifteen minutes three cars that passed him were 22-R-23, 22-R-23, and 22-R-24, and they were in succession as if they had been lined up according to their unit order. Such a sequence could happen again, but Constable Wheeler doesn't expect to see it. He believes that neither the uncertain law of chance and whatever might be calculated according to algebraic permutations would not hold out much hope of the natural order of three cars being duplicated on George Street, especially at 1.30 on a Monday morning. A trio of wags with sequent numbers could arrange a little show of that kind, but otherwise the constable doesn't expect a similar three in a row to pass him again for a long time.

FOUR CASES OF PARALYSIS ARE NOW REPORTED

Two further outbreaks of infantile paralysis in the city are reported by Dr. G. Murray Fraser, medical officer of health, bringing the total number of cases here this year up to four.

Latest victims of the dread disease, both patients of Dr. Herbert N. Young are a 10-year-old Ashburnham girl and a 6-year-old boy living on Stewart street north.

Both children were recently in Toronto, it was stated, and one of them was also in Hamilton.

The two other cases previously reported were a 15-months old boy on McDonnel street and a 4½-year-old boy on Division street, who are both said to be making satisfactory progress towards recovery.

In each of the four outbreaks all precautions have been taken and regulations under the Public Health Act strictly enforced.

Last year there were seven outbreaks of poliomyelitis here, one of which resulted fatally.

With the Boy Scouts

October 9 has been set and duly granted by the Police Commission as Bay Scout Apple Day, and once more the wheels have been set in motion to bring us again before the citizens of our city.

It means a lot of work for us all and I would ask your co-operation towards its ultimate success.

First.—Cash boxes are required and I have up to date received no response except from Mr. Moscrop for cocoa tins. There will be quite a bit of work to do on these; so would ask all Scouts to save cocoa tins and let me have same.

Next.—We need lots of good Scout craft work to build up two good show windows at least. Some time ago I asked for model scout camp, 18 x 24 inches, built by patrols. Also some good posters advertising Apple Day, 12 x 18, or 15 x 20, idea and work done by Scout submitting same. Map work, first class, not copy of city map.

Knot board.—All tenderfoot knots and as many others as possible. The size of boards will not be considered, but the knots and descriptions, whipping, etc.

Remember all kinds of work appertaining to badge work will count, the best chosen for window displays.

The Patrol Leaders' Conference is slowly drawing nearer. We will want billets for some 70 or 80 out-of-town boys. These billets will be for sleeping accommodation, breakfast and lunch Saturday.

Patrol Leaders and Seconds are requested to notify their Scouters if they can accommodate one of the out-of-town visitors.

This conference is the largest of its kind ever attempted, for it covers a large area. It is up to the city to make the thing a success. October promises to be a big month.

Next October 31 is the end of our year and all registrations are to be in by time. Why not let us all cooperate with the local association and get our Packs, Troops and Crews registered on time.

The first Rover Crew started a series of hikes around town in "A Know Your City" campaign. The hike finished at the Assistant Leader's residence, where Mrs. Ellis served light refreshments.

Tuesday night September 14, 7.30, the Akelas Pack meeting will be held in St. John's Parish Hall, and all Leaders are requested to hold that date open.

St. Andrew's Cubs, attention. The pack will resume its meetings next Friday, at 6.30 p.m., and I'm sure you will all helo to make your Akela happy by being on hand promptly.

And if you have a little chum who would like to join the pack, bring him along and introduce him to Akela as there may be one or two places vacant.

Let us all go.—"The Skipper."

Sawmill Workers Are Given Increase

NEWCASTLE, N.B., Aug. 31. — (CP)—Termination of an 11-day-old strike involving about 1,500 sawmill and Longshoremen workers in Miramichi district was announced early to-day.

The announcement came after a protracted conference last night between members of a Citizens' committee, employees and representatives of the men.

Full details of the settlement were not available immediately. It was said, however, Longshoremen would receive five cents more per hour loading long lumber and all mill men a minimum of 28 cents an hour.

Ironic Accident

After braving death countless times in testing aeroplanes, diving and climbing and speeding along at 300 miles per hour, all without serious accident, Major Alford J. Williams (ABOVE), fell out of a lower berth while riding a train from Pittsburg to New York and cracked his left knee cap. The Major is shown as he recovering at a New York Hospital.

Wins $100,000

Happy William R. Staggs, 25-year-old navy flying cadet stationed aboard the U.S.S. Ranger at San Diego, who was presented with a $100,000 cheque by representatives of the P. Lorillard Co., after he was announced as first prize winner in the Old Gold puzzle contest. Young Staggs, is a graduate of Pensacola, Fla., Naval Training School. His present naval pay is $125 per month, plus $30 monthly subsistence allowance. Authorities announced federal and state income taxes will take $40,950 of Stagg's winnings.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, September 1

The ruling planetary influences for this day make for lively and intriguing conditions, although this enterprise may be in relation to private interests, or to those forms of business or occupation involving social, artistic, domestic or romantic activities. An element of secrecy or subtlety is shown, probably in connection with mergers, combines or secret organizations. Tacit understandings thrive, but be careful with loans, speculation and shun extravagance, as there are social temptations.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a lively year, particularly in the private life, where social, artistic, domestic or affectional matters are paramount. But in all there loom the elements of intrigue and subtlety. Secret understandings or collusion may be of benefit, but be careful with loans, do not be imposed on and beware of excesses, extravagance and indulgence.

A child born on this day may have strong leanings toward social, domestic and romantic activities to the neglect of more sordid or practical affairs. Generally, it will lean toward the subtle, elusive and intriguing, with temptations to be overgenerous, indulgent and extravagant. It should be popular and friendly and may accumulate a fortune.

Stop-Over Permit To Be Lengthened

TORONTO, Aug. 31.—(CP). — Canadian motorists may soon obtain a six-month instead of a three-month stop-over permit for their automobiles when they visit the United States, according to word received at the annual convention here of the Canadian Automobile Association. Word came from the American Automobile Association.

Committees are working on the legislation necessary to make the change, a message from Washington headquarters said. It pointed out United States' residents can bring their cars into Canada for six months.

Where They Get 'Em.

LAKEFIELD, — The number of fish caught in Lake Katchewanooka has reached a new high this season with sportsmen who indulge in the alluring pastime reporting good catches in the lake ever since the season opened on July 1.

The waters around Third Island seem to be a favorite hangout for the muskies of maturer years, for in this area maskinonge ranging anywhere from ten to twenty pounds have been hooked with astonishing regularity. Frank Payne of Lakefield, who made a good catch the opening day, and has had excellent luck all season, hauled in a ten-pound lunge last Sunday. He broke his own record yesterday afternoon (August 29) when he landed a beautiful muskie which tipped the scales at 12 pounds.

Bass fishing in these waters has been good this season as well, the bass caught ranging from one to three pounds.

STRIKERS' RELIEF COMMITTEE HAS SMALL BALANCE

It is expected that Fred T. Tuggey, chairman will shortly call a meeting to disburse a balance of $38.10 which remains to the credit of the Textile Workers' Relief Committee.

A statement of receipts and expenditures just released shows that a total of $1142.19 was collected by the strikers in their two tag day efforts and from other donations, after various expenses have been met there remains a balance in bank of $38.10 for distribution.

A large number of contributions were anonymous and put in as proceeds of tag days, and for this reason the names of a good many people who made donations do not appear as having done so.

Mrs. Terrace, a member of the committee distributed milk tickets through a sub-committee. There are accounts and receipts, it is stated, for all monies distributed and all accounts were paid by cheque and passed by the committee.

TORY CONVENTION SEPTEMBER 8TH

The Conservative executive of the Peterboro county riding, including the city, decided on Monday evening to call an open convention in the Canadian Legion Hall Wednesday, September 8 at 7 p.m., standard time. Thirty-five members were present with Col. R. E. Birdsall of Asphodel presiding. The convention will also be the occasion of the annual meeting of the provincial riding association.

T. P. Lancaster, M.L.A., Havelock, was present Monday, and according to a prominent member of the association there will be no opposition to his re-nomination. From anther quarter it was learned that Herbert Bradburn's name was being mentioned locally, but it was not thought that he would oppose Mr. Lancaster, who came out of the old east riding which he had represented, to win the enlarged constituency from the Liberal candidate three years ago James Hawthorne.

Meanwhile the Liberal will name a candidate at their convention Wednesday afternoon in the Legion Hall, and from several sources it was reported that Alex. L. Elliott is being generally boomed as the party's nominee.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

WEATHER permitting, the Petes are playing today in Oshawa in the first game of the C.O.B.L. semi-finals. It is a two out of three serial, next game being here Thursday p.m. and third, if necessary, in the Motor City on Saturday after luncheon. Winner meets Kingston Ponies in loop finals next week. Manager Fred Collins and his crew are all set for a tough series and hoping to get the pitching that will enable 'em to eliminate Oshawa. They might just do it, too. All the gang are available once again, and Cy Whatley cut his vacation in the Niagara district short to return yesterday for these playoffs. Looks like Biddle on the GM-men's mound today with either Russ Kitchen or Joe Jakafby for the locals. After their long layoff, the locals should be ready for the battle of their lives.

* * * * * *

IN club hitting this year, Oshawa led with an average of .299 while Kingston came next with .268, then the Petes with .237 and Napanee with a cellar mark of .228. When it came to club fielding, ye Ponies copped the duke with .939, Napanee being up there with .938, the Petes right behind with a mark of .937 and the GM-men having a mere .932—despite the Oshawa scribe's boast early this season that the Motor Citizens would have the best defensive infield in the circuit. Jamieson led the pitchers with seven wins and a defeat, while Biddle worked no less than 106 inning and led in strikeouts with 93.

* * * * * *

VIN McQuaide, the clubbing cop from Kingston, hit the apple at a .382 clip, just one point better than Red Jubenville of Oshawa. Eddie Starr had .347, while Foley and Biddle each got .333 averages. Buck, May and Burton are listed in a three-way .326 tie, with Scrutton doing .322. Hurst had two more than Calladine with .314 and Bennett had .310 to lead Handford by one point. Moose Mathews, who belted the ball at the grand figure of .442 last year, has a measly .302 this semester. And Doc Rowden isn't even in the .300 class. Remember, Georgie, our prediction this past Spring about these chaps hitting over their heads in 1936? But Foley again proved a consistent clouter, coming on fast toward the end of the schedule.

* * * * * *

JACK KIRKWOOD informs us he will not be playing rugby this fall. He didn't see much action last year, either, acting as referee most of the season. Kirkwood was as efficient a lineman as any in the group the last several seasons and a deadly tackler who seemed to sense in advance where the play was coming through. He'd help the Orfuns a lot this autumn but has decided to do some refereeing instead. He'll officiate for P.C.I. in C.O.S.S.A. struggles, and maybe handle some of the O.R.F.U. tilts in this grouping, too. Grid workouts for the Orfuns continue, nightly this week at King Edward Park. And it won't be long till Coach Bamforth has his P.C.I. prospects hard at it again.

WESTCLOX men softballers knocked Belleville out of the O.A.S.A. playdowns here last e'en by a 7-3 wallop before a good gang of rooters in Riverside Park. Ted Naish went back on the mound and twirled another neat game, getting grand support from his buddies afield and some timely blows. Bawden on the Belleville slab was just another pitcher and folks here still wonder how he hurled his outfit to an Ontario title last summer. Even with St. Denis, Kearns clouted a homer and two singles, and Currie had three for four, too. Cook helped himself to four in four appearances on the other side, one being a homer. A nice game and a nice win for Harry Baptie and his bunch of hustlers. They now meet the Kingston-Cornwall winner.

* * * * * *

AND the Westclox gals go into the second round of their P.W.S.U. playdowns, playing in Ottawa tomorrow and back here in one game—or two, if necessary—on Saturday. A lengthy jaunt for the gals. Oshawa scribe says: "Marg Snowden hurled four-hit ball for Westclox and her mates gave her good support in the pinches. Oshawa were weak at bat and not too strong in the field, but for an inexperienced team playing their first game in organized ball, the Phillips girls did well to get into the Provincial playoffs, and it is no disgrace to be eliminated by a team as classy as the Peterborough femmes."

OVER in East City last night, the Immaculate Conception church softball loop finished up with Beavers beating Giants to cop the title and the J. J. Duffus Cup. They had a good season and the boys are now planning on forming a bowling league for the winter, a meeting for this purpose being called for the basement of the church at eight bells Sunday eve, Sept. 12th. Those interested should attend at that time. Last night's deciding playoff tilt saw Bud Kennedy's gang prove superior all the way with Grisdale twirling nice ball for 'em. The outfit run by John Driscoll, which took the sour side of a 12-4 count, used three flingers. O'Dette being blasted out in the first, Allen lasting till the eighth and Guerin finishing up. Grisdale gave seven hits and a walk as he fanned four.

* * * * * *

SEE where Lorne Beare, goalie of Port Perry and Lindsay, has been signed up by the Atlantic City Sea Gulls for this winter. Beare is no stranger here, having performed for Lindsay juniors at the Brock several times. Had a lot of class but we doubted if he'd go far in pro company. However, he seems to be on his way up. He tried out with Boston Bruins last season and Art Ross predicted a bright future for the youngster, after seeing him hold the Bruins' first squad scoreless in a 40-minute workout. Haven't heard definitely yet if Drake Jopling will return to N'Yawk to play in the Eastern U.S. League—yeah, they call it amateur!—or not. Won't be long till there is plenty of puck chatter locally. Right now, Frank Buckland is wearing a puckered brow produced no doubt by puck angles.

* * * * * *

HITHER and yawn: Tommy Farr crossed up the fight experts by his game showing in N'Yawk last night while Joe Louis—though winning—didn't look like a real champ in doing it....Lot of ring fans here enjoyed the broadcast..Auburns have a lacrosse practise at seven tonight....We hear Schriberts invited Marilyn McCarthy to pitch for them in an exhibition gals' softball scrap in Toronto this week.... Keene and C.G.E. gals have an exhibition softball scrap Friday eve at 6.30 in the Bawl....Don Johnson, 197-pound gridder who played at Bracebridge and Huntsville—also lacrosse—has been here for some time being transferred by the Hydro....No further word on the local men's softball playoffs....Game in Oshawa this p.m. commences at 5.30 o'clock....Orchids to veteran net star, George Scott, who meets Roy Tranter tonight in city tennis semi-finals; Mr. Scott had to knock off three young stars on his way up this time....POME: Hi diddle diddle the Petes got to Biddle; or would it be vice versa? Or maybe Doze Ogden will win with his foggin'—which should be a durn sight wursa!

Bears' Ace Hurling Fine Ball

Pitching sensational ball for the Newark Bears of the International League, Atlea Richard Donald, ABOVE, has been a big factor in the Bears cinching of the 1937 pennant so early in the season. Donald has shattered all previous minor league pitching records, and no doubt, he will be on the Yankee pitching staff next year. Incidentally, the Bears are part of the Ruppert farm system.

SEVEN ATHLETES CANADA'S HOPES IN EMPIRE MEET

TORONTO, Aug 31 (CP)—Only five months before they go to the marks down in Sydney, New South Wales, the best Canadian prospects for Empire track and field titles stand out distinctly — Howie McPhee, Lee Orr, Johnny Loaring, Larry O'Connor and Walter Young. The games open late in January.

All the others are far behind this quintet, with the exception of Jim Courtright of Ottawa, improving rapidly with his javelin, and skinny Bill Fritz of Toronto, a razzle-dazzle quarter-miler. That makes seven. Possibly the men's track squad won't number more than 15.

Since the 1936 Olympics, the track picture has been brightened by the appearance of Young, jobless distance runner who won the Boston marathon and a job on the Verdun, Que., police force. He gives the Empire Games committee something to cheer about, though he must prove himself in an official trial before being selected for the trip to Australia.

More good news was given out by O'Connor, the University of Toronto long-legs who ran the 120-yard high hurdles in 14.4 seconds recently to win his event in a dual meet here between the visiting Oxford-Cambridge team and Toronto West End Y.M.C.A. No Canadian has ever been caught in time so fast.

But when he reaches Sydney, O'Connor must face Donald Finlay of England, No. 2 hurdler in the world and a consistent 14.3 man when he hits a fast track and fast competition. Anway it will be a race. On the basis of his work this summer, O'Connor ranks as one of the world's greatest.

Loaring the Favorite

Since the retirement of Glenn Hardin of the United States, Windsor's John Loaring is perhaps the best quarter-mile hurdler in competition. He will be the one hot Canadian favorite to win in Sydney. And John may also be the best Canadian 440-yard flat racer on the Australian scene, though he has no edge on the flat over Fritz. Both have beaten 48 seconds.

The trouble is, England's Arthur Godfrey Brown, who caused such a stir in campus meets in the United States by his running for Oxford-Cambridge this summer, also will be present in Sydney. Brown can get down to 46.7 and there never has been a Canadian capable of that time.

Orr, who placed fifth in the 200-metre final at the Berlin Olympics, pulled his time down to well under 23 seconds for 220 yards this spring while competing for Washington State University. But McPhee, disappointing in the Berlin Games after his sensational trials at home, remains the best sprinter until a better one comes along.

Canada will clean up in the Sydney sprints if McPhee returns to form—10.3 for 100 metres. Even if he doesn't, Orr might be good enough. Because for all their failure to win, they were the best Empire dashmen in the 1936 games and they're young and ambitious.

Courtright can throw a javelin 220 feet, making him another potential winner. That makes seven who have a chance and there have been leaner track years.

Outstanding Track Stars

MARY HAYDON JIMMY COURTRIGHT

Records fell again as the artists of the dirt track swung into action in Ottawa. Jimmy Courtright, Canadian Javelin throwing champion, broke the Canadian open record of 207.4½ feet, established by Stanley Lay, of New Zealand, in 1930, at Hamilton, during the British Empire games, and set a new mark of 214.2 feet at the Central Canada Exhibition track meet in Ottawa. Another prominent athlete at the meet was Mary Haydon, Canadian Junior High Jump champion, who also performed well. She established the record jump of 5 feet ¼ in. at Toronto some three weeks ago.

QUINTE NETTERS DEFEAT TRENTON

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 31.—Winning two matches of three completed, Belleville Country Club tennis players had a decided edge over Trenton Old Orchard Club in the semi-final playoffs of the Quinte Tennis League, Saturday. The Belleville players dropped the first mixed doubles match, but rallied to take the first men's doubles and ladies' doubles events.

Trenton Team Wins.

Miss Thelma Johnston and Jack McCarthy of Trenton defeated Miss Grace McCreery and Art Cole, of Belleville, in straight sets. They captured the first set after a hard-fought series of games by a score of 7-5, and won the next 6-4.

Making a fine comeback after a slow start, Miss Esther Moncrieff and Miss Marlo MacLean, of Belleville, defeated Miss Bernice Jolliken and Miss Margaret Bowen, of Trenton, 6-4, 1-6, 6-3. The Belleville team rallied 2-4 in the opening set, but a fighting comeback netted four straight games and the first set. Trenton took the second set handily, but the Belleville team showed real class in the deciding set to coast to a 6-2 win.

.... Belleville Wins. .. ..

In the third match, Bud Odell and Dason MacLean, of Belleville, had little difficulty in winning over Ewen Cook and Larry Goulet, of Trenton. The ace Belleville pair ran out the match in straight sets by scores of 6-3, 6-1. The second mixed doubles and men's doubles matches will be played on Tuesday, with Belleville needing but one victory to take the round. The winning team will meet Campbellford on Wednesday, in the first of the final playoffs for the title.

Close Competition In Tourney Tennis

Monday's city tournament matches consisted of two men's singles and one ladies. The first to be played was between R. Tranter of Kawartha Club and Dr. Magee of the Peterborough Club. Going to three sets, Tranter won out after a good fight to the scores of 4-6, 6-3, 6-3.

The second match was between J. Donaldson of Kawartha and M. Cotton of the Peterborough Club. This was just another great battle between these two players, who have battled it out before. Donaldson was playing some of his finest tennis, but Cotton's steady play finally won him the match by the scores of 3-6, 6-2, 6-4.

The ladies' single match was a hard fight all the way through with long rallies outstanding on every point. Miss Davidson won the first set 6-3. The second set was a real battle, with Miss Cowan breaking through to finally win the set 12-10. In the last set Miss Cowan seemed to have everything her own way and was leading 4 to 1 when Miss Davidson began creeping up on her, tying it up at 4 all and then going ahead to win the set 6-4, and the match 6-3, 10-12, 6-4.

Sports Spice

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.— (AP). — Many people think Mickey Cochrane will give up the reins at Detroit after this year and that Tony Lazzeri of the Yankees will succeed him instead of going to Cleveland.... Mike Jacobs was only joshing when he offered Max Schmeling 12½ per cent. of the gate to fight the Louis-Farr winner here in October.... Mike knows that show would kill his "carnival of champions" billed for Sept. 23....Also he knows Max isn't interested in 12½ per cent.... If the German fights in this country this year it will be in Philadelphia or Chicago....A better bet is, the fight will go over to next June with Max getting at least 25 per cent of the gate....Paste that one in your hats, boys.

If Farr beats Louis to-night, just listen to that limb crash with all the fight writers aboard....Abe Feldman's knockdown of Tommy Farr was on the level....

Baron Gottfried Von Cramm, who has played 'em all, rates Don Budge better than Perry any day in the week, but says Ellsworth Vines could make 'em all look bad.... Those 6 to 1 odds on Louis and Farr will soar by ring time—you can bet on that....Bookmakers say less than $10,000 of Farr money has been laid on the line in New York.

No Soccer Games Permitted Kingston

The Peterborough and District Football Association discussed the postponed game with Kingston Maple Leafs soccer club last night. The C.C.F. club representative informed the executive that they had went to considerable expense in making arrangements for a banquet to be given the players after the game which was to be held in Woodman of World Hall, also the expense of marking out the field and erecting the nets for the game.

When the local club went to Kingston a few weeks ago, they were defeated five goals to two, and had a heavy expense for that long trip and expected some remuneration on the return visit.

The secretary was instructed to write the Kingston club informing them that no more clubs will be permitted to play Kingston from this district. It was three years ago, when Harry Latham had his leg broken in the Kingston-Peterborough game and in that same season they did not make an appearance after the Petes had travelled to Kingston.

A few enthusiastic players are interested in the juvenile club that has been formed in the King Edward Park district. If arrangements can be made with George Brook's juveniles in Deloro they will play them the first game at Deloro on Saturday afternoon—if not the next Saturday.

All C.C.F. players are requested to be at a practice game on Thursday night at 6 o'clock. The game with Kingston has been definitely cancelled. The draw for the C.C.F. prizes will take place at the game on Saturday afternoon between the C.G.E. and C.C.F. and five prizes will be given instead of three.

On Monday, Labor Day, the local Canadian General will travel to Toronto to play Kenwoods in a return league fixture. The club and friends are expected to travel in two buses.

In every swing there are two critical stages. Most players are of the opinion that there is only one, namely, the instant the clubhead strikes the ball.

Obviously, what takes place at this stage in the swing is important, but since the action is so fast that it is impossible to direct it consciously, other stages become of greater value when it comes to establishing control.

The two most important stages when it comes to controlling the action are the start of the back swing and the start of the downswing. How the club is moved in taking it away from the ball determines how it will move throughout the rest of the swing. And, even though it is moved properly in the backswing, the downswing cannot be successful if the very first move forward is not properly made. However, start your backswing right and nine-tenths of your troubles are over.

The best way to start your backswing is by making your left foot the starter. The swing should start with the rolling of the left foot. The proper way to roll the foot is to let the outer edge of the shoe come off the ground without lifting the heel.

Learn to make this rolling of the left foot the first move in your swing and the rest of the job will be downhill.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

DIDN'T WE tell you who would win the fight?—Didn't we call the round?—Yes we did—not. We were just one of the many "wise" guys who knew the fight was a fake and a set-up. We believe that Tommy Farr in defeat was greater than Joe Lewis in victory. We humbly apologize to the great Tommy for ever doubting his genuineness and ability. We offer him 100 p.c. congratulations.

OVER AT Canington Monday night, R. Hendry's rink came second in the Central Ontario Lawn Bowling Association rinks play-off. W. Livingstone, Cannington, winning the cup. Robert was supported by T. McArthur, R. French and G. Soulby. They each received silver entree dishes.

THE DRAW for our club doubles for men is being made and will be posted in the club house in a day or two. The draw for the ladies' denotes will also be posted up in the club house along about the end of the week.

Tuesday's question: "It is possible to kill two ends with the one bowl; it did happen and might happen again." It was down in Norwood about three years ago; J. T. Braund was skipping against the late Dr. Sutton of Norwood. On this particular end, everything was going against "J. T." When it came his turn to play he says to us: "What will I do, draw or play a runner?" Well, you know me, Al. And J. T. let go as hard as he could. He made a beautiful hit, killing the jack. His own bowl followed through for about 6 feet, hit another bowl and then glanced over at about a forty-five degree angle, hit the jack on the next rink, killing that jack as well. Some shot, some speed, and we might add, some confusion.

TO-NIGHT'S question is one for old bowlers to look up—"When is a "dead" bowl declared not a dead bowl?"

The boys sure did appreciate T. Cavanagh's thoughtfulness in supplying the club with a radio. Many of the boys came to bowl alright, but we think the fight drew the bigger crowd. Thanks, Tommy.

Monday's Scores.

The Germans required only 70 minutes yesterday to gain their first triumph in three starts against the Americans this season, by scores of 6-4, 7-5, 6-4.

Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, who shared four previous women's titles teamed with Alice Marble, the U.S. singles titlist, to defeat Mrs. John Van Ryn and Carolin Babcock, last year's winners, 7-5, 6-4.

Belleville Rubbed Out By Westclox Gang

Locals Advance Into Second Round of O.A.S.A. Playdowns With Victory Here.

Westclox eliminated Corbin Locks of Belleville, 7 to 3, here last night in the deciding game of their O.A.S.A. intermediate series. A good crowd of fans at Riverside Park saw a snappy game, lasting less than an hour. Each team had won a game at home, and the third one was played here with Belleville's agreement. The latter team is through while the Baptie boys continue in Ontario playdowns.

The locals hit in timely fashion yesterday while getting good pitching from Naish—who also won the second game of this series—and dishing up nice fielding. Aside from a run in the first and two in the ninth, the visitors never looked dangerous and Westclox appeared the better outfit.

Naish Wins Again

Ted Naish scattered nine hits while fanning one and walking one in a good performance, keeping the Corbins popping up most of the time. He had fine backing. Jack Bawden was nicked for 13 safe blows on the other slab, including a homer and double, while fanning four and issued one free ticket. His support was shaky in spots.

Kearns and Currie each had three hits in four times for the winners, one of Kearns' being a homer. W. Calladine had two hits and Ellis a double. Cook had a perfect night for the losers with a homer and three singles in four, while Reid, Hannah and Whalen hit two-baggers. A Bawden-to-Reid double play, a catch by Kearns and a pick-up by Reid were defensive features.

Belleville Starts It

Belleville got a run in the first. Cook hit but was forced by Ethier, who took third on Reid's double and scored on an out. They did not get another till the ninth when a double by Whalen and Cook's homer sent in two more. Westclox got two in the fourth when Kearns homered to centre, Ellis doubled and Currie singled. They added three in the sixth on singles by W. Calladine, Kearns and Currie, with a walk, a sacrifice and two errors thrown in. Westclox tallied twice more in the seventh on singles by Starr, Kearns and O'Leary, plus a miscue by Belleville.

UDELL (SAMMY) HALE, CLEVELAND SECOND BASEMAN, PLAYING ALMOST PERFECT BALL AT HIS NEW POSITION

Close Decision Holds Title Against The Farr Challenge Crowd Boos Louis' Victory

Judges and Referee Unanimous in Giving Champion Verdict.

By Sam Robertson
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(CP)—Joe Louis still wore his world heavyweight championship robes today, slightly ragged about the edges as they were, but Tomypandy Tommy Farr of Wales held all the glory after their 15 round clash here last night.

At the end of the 45 minutes of rugged fighting—at least 30 minutes more than 90 per cent of the "experts" expected there would be—the referee and two judges were unanimous in giving the decision to the Detroit Negro.

Crowd Boos Decision

However, as the announcer lifted Louis' tired right hand with the shout, "the winner and still champion—", a vast majority of the crowd of 37,000 sent a thunder of boos swirling down about the ring that left no doubt the champion of the British Empire had won their hearts with his gallant stand.

The British bulldog with the honey-colored hair stood the experts on their heads and the fans on their seats by often carrying the fight to the heavy clouting champion and by taking the few dynamite charges Joe was able to explode and coming back for more.

In the eyes of an American fight public ready to scoff at British boxing after seeing the Becketts and Scotts, the spectacle bordered on the unbelievable.

Farr, the 1 to 7 shot in the betting, rushing into the face of the colored boy's feared guns to stand toe to toe and exchange smashes to the body and head was amazing enough. But when the final round came and the erstwhile coal miner from Wales went charging headlong into the fresher and still stiff punching champion to outscore and outbully him, the sight swept the crowd off their feet.

At the end, the cheers for Farr the defeated were greater in volume than the mingling of cheers and great swelling of derisive shouts for the winner and champion.

However, those who hooted at the Negro must have lost sight of the actual facts of the fight in their wonderment at the courage and craftiness of the white man. For the great majority of writers at the ringside agreed with the officials in awarding the decision to the titleholder.

Joe's lightning left hand was sharp as it ever was and as it split and bloodied the Welshman's face it drummed up points steadily from the third round on. His right, the greatest weapon, found the elusive, bobbing target not more than six times, but it was labelled "knock-out" every time and a less durable man than Farr would have bitten the resin dust.

The consensus of ringsiders was that Louis took eight rounds, and Farr five, with the other two even.

Like the champion, Tough Tommy piled up most of his points with a left hand that also was charged with a bit of lightning, if not an abundance of power. The Briton succeeded in biffing home about 10 solid right crosses, but there wasn't a knockout drop in this weapon either.

Not A Knockdown.

The fight failed to provide a single knockdown. Both men came out of it with injured right hands, but this did not seem to explain the fact neither was off his feet in 15 rounds that often were furious. Farr simply did not bowl his man over because he did not have the necessary "zing" in his punches. Louis did, and he loosed several shots that could have been haymakers. However, the Tonypandy thumper was too nimble. He danced away from many stiff shots and weaved under others. His head rolled with some of the champions hardest smashes and throttled their steam.

All of which seemed to add up to the conclusion that the Brown Bomber can not explode his bombs on an opponent who can move fast and think the same way. Farr could never hope to match Louis in power of punching speed, but he was far quicker on foot and he was able to out-general the champion, especially in the third and seventh rounds, when Joe fired from both ports.

The hardy young Briton held his ground well and his head high through the first rounds, but in the third the Louis lefts that smashed into his scarred face with trip-hammer regularity started slowing him up. Louis blasted his first right hand charge flush on Tommy's chin and stepped back, as though expecting his fot to tumble.

Cut About Face

Blood from a wide gash under the left eye masked the Welshman's face. But he hesitated only a second, then charged in looping a right and left to the Negro's kinky topped head as the bell sounded.

Louis also has a new and round-eyed respect for Farr even though there wasn't much doubt that the brown ex-bomber deserved the decision.

He did, as badly scared as he looked in sports. In fact, he looked as dumb as a dime detective most of the evening and he took a lot of fancy punches, first and last. He never learned how to fight Farr. Yet he was the better man, and Tonypandy Tommy will be the last to deny it. Tommy didn't deny it last night even as he sat and tried to look out between battered eyes and listened to the "raspberries" that echoed and re-echoed across Yankee Stadium after Louis had been declared the winner.

Giants Climax Pennant Drive By Landing In Top Position

Mel Ott and Carl Hubbell Play Prominent Part in New York Triumph.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31 (CP).—Old John McGraw, who's probably managing a pennant winner in whatever Valhalla baseball men go to, looked down on his New York Giants today and found the view well nigh perfect.

They were leading the National League—by a margin thin as a dime, but leading nevertheless—and it was a trio of McGraw men who showed the rest of the club the way.

First, there was Bill Terry, who can take a bow, himself, for the manner he's handled the reins since old Jawn gave them up in '32.

Then there was Master Melvin Ott, the veteran youngster of the National League, the little fellow who lifts up his front foot, swings at those high hard ones, and deposits them where they do the most good—for his side.

And last, but far from least, there was King Carl Hubbell, the master of the screwball, and, win or lose, the flinger with the greatest set of pitching brains in the game.

These three, and the fight that was McGraw's heritage to the Giants, made it appear today that the old man's boys are on the way to their second straight pennant, their third under Terry. At the moment, here were the statistics on the two clubs still in the red-hot pennant parade:

	Won	Lost	Pctg.	To Play
Giants	71	46	.607	37
Cubs	72	47	.605	35

Yesterday, with the Cubs idle, the Giants had a chance to go into the lead. All they needed was the chance. They turned the trick with a 4-3 decision over the Cincinnati Reds, and that's where McGraw's boys came in.

Of course, they had a lot of help from Terry's new Terriers. But Ott, pulled in from the outfield and now playing as good third base as any in the league and well out of his disastrous hitting slump, belted his 28th homer with a mate aboard.

Things were fine until Rookie Cliff Melton and Relief Flinger Dick Coffman couldn't stand prosperity in the seventh. Then Terry came up out of the dugout with a rush and waved widely for Hubbell. Old squarepants sauntered in—in the memory of the oldest resident he's never been known to hurry — and had the Reds begging for mercy. Six men went down in order, before he gave up a dinky little scratch single and then retired the last batter.

The Giants' game was the only one in the National League. The American League, meantime, played host to two games. The Detroit Tigers tripped the Yankees 5-4 in one, with Hank Greenberg belting No. 30 and Roundhouse Rudy York poking No. 28. The Cleveland Indians pushed over a ninth inning run for a 7-6 win over the Senators in the other.

ROCHESTER KEEPS IN PLAYOFF RACE

TORONTO, Aug. 31 (CP)—The most rabid battling of the International League season has been reserved for the latter part of the season and with fourth place as the goal. After a runaway pennant chase, three clubs, Baltimore, Buffalo and Rochester, are settling down to a catch-as-catch-can battle for the last playoff post.

Baltimore leads but the Bisons and Wings are not far behind. While the Orioles took a night off last night, Bisons shaded second-place Montreal Royals, 3-2, and Red Wings topped Toronto, 4-3.

The Herd snapped out of a losing streak of four straight to win behind Ken Ash. Ash making his first start after a long rest, allowed only six hits and fanned the same number.

The Bisons scored the winning marker in the eighth when Ed Chapman walked, took second on a sacrifice and scored when Bud Hafey manhandled Eddie Phillips' single.

Red Wings' win extended the Maple Leafs' losing streak to eight straight. Herb Moore shaded Babe Davis in a pitching duel, although each rookie allowed nine hits.

The Newark Bears' contest with Syracuse will be played at a later date, while a Jersey City-Baltimore game was played earlier in the season.

Port Hope Netters Win Singles Titles

PORT HOPE, Aug. 31.—Miss Adeline Armstrong and Earl Harvey were crowned singles champions in the final championship matches at the Port Hope Tennis Club on Saturday afternoon.

Miss Armstrong eliminated Miss Dorothy Davidson in straight sets by scores of 7-5 and 6-2. Mr. Harvey defeated Jack Hozack in a hard-fought, three-set match by scores 7-5, 9-7, and 6-2.

A large number of tennis enthusiasts watched the final play, at the conclusion of which lunch was served.

HARDSTAFF AT PEAK

LEICESTER, England — (CP). — Joseph Hardstaff of Nottinghamshire made the highest cricket score in his career, against Leicestershire here, compiling 266 runs before he was bowled.

SUDBURY. — Huber Hiscox, 23-year-old "trusty" from Toronto, who escaped from Burwash Prison Farm yesterday, was still at large today.

BORN

DIXON. — At Nicholls Hospital, on August 29, 1937, to Mr. and Mrs. Reg. R. Dixon, (nee Ethel Taylor), a daughter Dianne (Louise).

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. T. Cleworth Morden, Mount Pleasant, announce the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Persse, to George Stewart, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Blake, Marmora. The wedding to take place September twenty-second, in the United Church, Mount Pleasant.

IN MEMORIAM

ALLEN.—In sad but loving memory of Bert, the dearly beloved son of Mrs. Albert Allen, who was drowned in Little Lake, Peterborough, on August 28, 1925.

Even death has a wonderful mission,
Though it robs us of one we love.
It lifts our hearts from our surroundings
To long for that meeting above.
No matter how heavy the burden,
No matter how great the despair,
Heaven seems near and dearer
To know that our loved ones is there.
Twelve years have passed away, dear Bert,
Since you were called away.
How well do we remember
That sad and weary day.

—Ever remembered by his loving Mother, Sister and Brothers, Mrs. Albert Allen and family, Rockcroft, Ontario.

BROWN.—In loving memory of our Baby Jackie, who died December 16, 1935, and Kenneth, who was killed one year ago to-day on the C.G.E. pole.

Sleep on, dear children,
On Jesus' breast.
He called you both
For He knows best.
We have not your little hands to hold,
For you are two lambs in the Shepherd's fold.

—Always remembered by Mother, Daddy and Brothers.

gested a full apology from the author to Welsh soldiers and the Welsh nation unless he were able to justify the allegations.

One of Crozier's previous works, "A Brass Hat in No Man's Land," published in 1930, also aroused the ire of sections of the army. It stressed "the brutelike mentality which is so necessary for victory."

With Lithuanian Army

Crozier until recently was Inspector-General of the Lithuanian army and military adviser to the Lithuanian government.

He began his active military career in the Boer war, in which he won the Queen's medal with six clasps. After the peace he continued in the Northern Nigeria and Zululand campaigns and "retired" in 1908.

He then went to Canada and for the next four years he was with the Canadian forces with the rank of captain. When the Great War broke out he enlisted from the Canadian Reserve of officers in the Royal Irish Fusiliers.

On Jan. 1, 1916 he was appointed Brigadier-General commanding the 119th Infantry Brigade, in which command he was mentioned in despatches seven times and was awarded many other honors. In post-armistice operations in 1919 he commanded the Third Battalion of the Welch Regiment and later was general officer commanding the 40th Division in France.

Retired from the British forces, he joined the Lithuanians against the Germans in the Baltic and late in 1919 fought against the Russian Bolsheviks. The next year he served on the Polish front.

Late in 1920 he went to Ireland to command an auxiliary Division of the Royal Irish constabulary, which he had raised. He resigned in February, 1921.

The General declared it was by his orders machine-guns were turned on the Portuguese who fled in disorder south of Armentieres on April 9, 1918, creating a critical situation.

"Because of that," he wrote, "I ordered the shooting by machine-gun and rifle fire of many Portuguese in order to stem the tide."

General Crozier added: "Strictly from the military point of view, I have no regrets for having killed a subaltern of the British infantry on the same morning I ordered our machine-guns and rifles to be turned on the fleeing Portuguese."

Wrote Previous Book

Army indignation was voiced against statements in a previous war book by the general, "A Brass Hat in No Man's Land," published in 1930. The book, described as "one of the most sensational dealings with the war" was written in 10 days, according to the General.

In it he told stories of a private being shot for cowardice and desertion, a bullying N.C.O. being blown up by his own men, battalion commanders, "to whom the safety of the line was of less importance than the whiskey bottle," and other episodes of the grim and sordid side of modern warfare.

Views of War

The author's views of war were expressed in the following extracts:

"The German atrocities, the employment of gas in action, the violation of French women, and the 'official murder' of Nurse Cavell, all help to bring out the brute-like bestiality which is so necessary for victory.

"Far better to eradicate the cause—war itself—than to build up false hopes that it can be waged in any other way than by brute force and brutal means."

An attack on some features of the high command during the war made by the general in another book, "Impressions and Recollections," written in the same year. In it he refers to the "trouble, waste, inefficiency, misery and individual demoralization caused by alcohol in France and at home during the war."

"Many Colonels, Majors, Captains and subaltern in my own small knowledge, rendered themselves useless for war at various times in France owing to their taking too much strong drink," he said.

He recalled his experiences in the auxiliary Royal Irish Constabulary in a book he wrote in 1932 entitled "Irland Forever."

In it he said: "In 1920 and 1921 the whole cabinet should have been marched to the tower in company with the chief of the imperial staff, and there shot on account of what they permitted to be done in the King's name and by authority of his uniform in Ireland."

He accused Sir Henry Wilson (later assassinated by two Irishmen) of organizing a murder gang in Dublin and asserted that the 13 British officers killed on "Bloody Sunday"—Nov. 22, 1920, were "commissioned assassins."

RUSTLE OF SILKS

By MARIE BLIZARD

READ THIS FIRST:

Mary Barrett, ambitious to become a dress designer, has established herself in Paris through a partnership with Countess Anetka that was made possible by Mark Sutherland, an American playboy she met on shipboard. Mary likes Mark but misses Tony Castle, owner of a smart New York shop who gave her her start. She left the Castle shop suddenly nearly three years previously after an altercation with Tony's head buyer. More and more she realizes she is in love with Tony. Her success in Paris has been phenomenal and, thanks to Mari Barat, the name she has assumed, Anetka's shop is growing famous. Mark Sutherland, in Paris again, tells Mary he has big plans for her. Mark introduces Mary to a prominent American fashion editor, Claire Todd. Mary writes to Tony but destroys the letter next morning. Claire Todd decided to "discover" Mari Barat for American fashion readers.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 22

Claire said. "Hank Todd, if you insist on taking that costume home, I shall consider it grounds for divorce."

Hank tossed a handful of shirts into a gladstone bag, snapped it to and leaped over a chair.

"Woman, you may know women's fashions but you don't know the first thing about What the Well Dressed Man Prefers! I am most certainly going to take back those raspberry pants and that fine orange shirt. When I appear on the golf course at Westchester in that..."

"...the caddies will be looking for the pot of gold." Claire laughed resignedly and rolled the offending costume into a small package. She stuffed it into a drawer of the trunk she was packing and looked at the clock on the mantel.

"Oh, darling! I simply can't go without those gloves I promised myself. You remember the shop? Do you mind running down to get them? I'll be bathed, dressed and ready for our last jaunt as soon as you get back."

A few minutes later, the last of their three trunks was packed and Claire had only one small suitcase to finish.

There was a discreet knock and Mark Sutherland stood in the doorway.

"Hello! What's all this mean?"

"Hello, Mark! It means that the Todds are making one of their usual, unexpected getaways. Hank had a cable this morning that he's got to appear at a board meeting and we find we can get a boat from Southampton tomorrow, so we're flying to England tonight."

"Sorry you're leaving so abruptly; I had some things planned."

"So am I. You'll find highball things in the cabinet. Help yourself and I'll be with you in a minute. Husbands are nice to have, Mark, but they're really no help at moments like this."

"That's because you've spoiled him, Claire. You business women are too independent."

Claire sat back on her knees and regarded him wordlessly for a few minutes.

"What's the matter, pet, my tie the wrong color?" Mark asked.

"No, merely your attitude," she replied, settling down with her arms clasped around her knees. "Mother's going to have a heart-to-heart talk with you, Mark."

"Shot." he invited and poured soda into his glass. "One for you?"

"No, thanks...Mark, you knew Hank long before I did. Knew him in his 'batching' days. Would you say that he was less, or more happy?"

"Well, now—"

"Oh, come on, Mark, be serious for once!"

"He looks as contented as the proverbial cow to me."

"I'd go so far as to bet you that he'd even admit it, darling, and if you remember Hank, he was the lad who said there was absolutely nothing in matrimony for a man who could afford a valet. Right?"

"Right," he agreed.

"And he had everything you've got. He had as much opportunity for fun, as many means of having his life made easy and comfortable."

"Ah, but he met you! A girl in a thousand! And the female is more deadly than the male, as we have always been taught."

"A girl in 10 thousand," she corrected. "And nothing deadly about me, I assure you."

"Didn't I propose to you once myself?"

"Yes, when you were 19 and had no sense, and I was 17 and did have! You know, Mark, I'm not very different from most brides; when I'm happy, I want everybody else to me. I think I've been good for Hank and I think a girl with a head on her shoulders would be good for you."

Mark regarded her suspiciously. "Mrs. Todd, what are you leading up to?"

"Merely a suggestion," she returned amiably. "Merely a suggestion that you get wise to yourself and consider matrimony. There's more than one way of having fun but you seem to have stuck too close to the one way you know."

"Look here, you're not planning to divorce old Hank and set your cap for me are you?" He pretended to be appalled.

"Not if you were the last man on earth!" she returned with an equal lack of gallantry. "In fact, I doubt if you have much to offer as a husband. I happen to have a sentimental regard for you and hoped to show you a way to give yourself a break."

"Thanks," he said solemnly and stirred the swizzle stick in his glass. "To be specific: How about this girl, Mari Barat?"

"Oh, yes, how about her? I meant to ask you that. You went around to see her collection, didn't you?"

"Yes, and liked it, but we'll talk about that later. By the way, I told her I'd like to have her to luncheon before I left. Please will you tell her I'll drop her a note? I'm not going to have time to get it off before I leave."

She jumped up easily and made a note on a pad on her desk. Then she poured herself a glass of soda and resumed her pursuit:

"Mark, she's lovely, she's intelligent and she's a gentlewoman. You can't fool her or twist her around your little finger. She's not one to be impressed by your money of your accomplishments. No"—as he started to interrupt her—"let me go on. You two seem to have established a firm basis of companionship and you like her a lot more than you admit."

"Not more than I've admitted to her."

"Did you tell her you were in love with her?"

Mark rocked with laughter. "Claire it must be this Paris air! You girls who are as brittle as glass in New York go to pieces when you get over here. Love! Why should I mention it? I'm not in love."

"Well, you're as near as you'll ever come to it. Take my advice: Life's more fun for two and the most pleasant approach to it is through a church. I don't know how she feels about you, but I have a hunch that she'd make a good wife for you. Tell me about her. Where does she come from?"

"Brooklyn," he answered shortly, "and that's all I know about her."

"She's a gentlewoman, Mark, which is more than can be said for a good number of the girls in our crowd. And don't let me hear of you going snobbish on me. Don't get any idea that you're too good for her."

"It's not that, Claire. It's just that the idea of marriage doesn't appeal to me."

Claire made a gesture of hopelessness. "Then don't waste her time. A career isn't going to be enough for that girl. I've seen her kind before. They're intense, whole-hearted in everything they do and halfway measures are not part of their program. As I well know, they suffice for you. Now run along, Mark, and let me dress. You'll find Hank dawdling along the way from the rue Cambon. And don't forget what I've told you!"

Mark pinched her cheek, having forgotten it already.

Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S MEDICINE

"Daddy, Daddy, I don't want to go to a hospital! Truly I don't! I'm not sick, Daddy!"

"Oh, yes you are, Buster," said Mr. Longears. "You may not know it but you are quite ill, so I am going to put you in my new hospital. When you are better, after you take some medicine, you may come out."

"Medicine? Oh, will it—will it be bitter?" asked Buster.

"You can tell after you taste it," said Uncle Wiggily and his nose didn't twinkle at all and instead of being a jolly pink it was rather blue.

"Oh, dear!" sighed Buster. "I don't want to go to a hospital, even if it's yours, Daddy. And I didn't know you had one, anyhow."

"Well, I have," said Mr. Longears and he led Buster on past the big camping tent toward a smaller tent standing off to one side.

"Oh, wait a minute, Daddy!" called Buster, hanging back.

"What's the matter?" asked his father.

Can't Have It

"My paddle ball. I left it where I was reading under a pine tree. If I have to go to a hospital, and I don't see why, as I'm not sick, then I'd better have my paddle ball toy."

"No," said Uncle Wiggily. "You can't play paddle ball in my hospital. Leave the toy where it is."

"But may I take my story book?" asked the boy rabbit, wondering whether this might not turn out to be a dream after all.

"Yes, you may take your story book," said his father. "But that is all. Now here we are at my hospital."

Buster looked at the small tent. He had never noticed it before nor had he noticed the sign on it which read:

UNCLE WIGGILY'S HOSPITAL. MEDICINE FOR EVERYTHING.

"Why-er-why, Daddy, I didn't know a hospital was here!" said Buster in surprise.

"I only started it a little while ago," said the rabbit gentleman. "You are the first patient. I may have more. Come in."

Buster followed his father into the small tent. It was like an army or a Boy Scout hospital, with a small cot bed and a table on which were many bottles of medicine.

"Ugh!" whispered Buster. "I guess a lot of those medicines are very bitter ones. Oh, dear! Why do I have to come here?"

"You will soon find out," his father said. "Now undress yourself and get into bed. Here are some pajamas for you. The nurse will be here in a little while."

He'll See

"Oh, a nurse!" exclaimed Buster. "What nurse?"

"You'll soon see," said his father going out. "After she looks you over and takes your temperature I'll come back and give you the medicine."

"Oh, what does all this mean?" thought Buster as he began to put on the pajamas, which were white and cool. "It must be a dream."

He heard a noise at the entrance of the tent. In came Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, all dressed in white with a little glass tube in her paw.

"I'm going to take your temperature, Buster," said Nurse Jane.

"But I have no fever!" protested the boy rabbit. "There's nothing the matter with me."

"Your father thinks there is," said Nurse Jane, putting the thermometer under Buster's tongue. "Now keep your mouth closed."

Nurse Jane shook her head and twiddled her tail when she looked at the thermometer.

"What does it say?" asked Uncle Wiggily, coming in like a doctor.

"It says 'very mean,' sir," squeaked Nurse Jane.

"Now for the medicine," said Dr. Longears.

And if the Sunday paper will stop coming around on Monday and saying it is Tuesday, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's cure.

Condition Vessel For Chinese Gov't

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 31—(CP).—The Chinese freighter Winon is in dock here, to be put in condition for the Chinese government. Her captain, A. R. Smith, believes if he attempts to reach a Chinese port he may be torpedoed by a Japanese gunboat, but the Chinese crew, scraping and painting with celestial blandness are willing to try to return to their native land and their families, if they have survived.

BUSINESS BRISK NATIVES THRIVE IN ARCTIC PORT

TUKTOYAKTUK, N.W.T., Aug. 31—(CP).—You can buy a package of pins, a sewing machine, toys, a jar of face cream or a ton of coal at this busy town above the Arctic Circle near the mouth of the Mackenzie River. You can watch an Eskimo use a motion picture camera, walk into a tent and hear a phonograph sing white men's songs its owner doesn't understand or sit down to dinner in an Eskimo schooner that cost $23,000.

Here Lord Tweedsmuir this summer met Jim Woiki, the Eskimo whose hobby is photography and who spent part of last winter in California and part in Vancouver. The governor-general went aboard a ship owned by Jim and his partner, Fred Saketok. It was the auxiliary schooner "North Star," a name that cost her owners $1,000, so beautiful was it carved and gilded on the mahogany stern.

His Excellency was amazed at the neatness and cleanliness below decks, the polished table and bright new paint. His aide-de-camp, Lieut. S. O. Rivers-Smith, R.N., said it would have done credit to the navy.

Lord Tweedsmuir met C. V. Rowan, Hudson's Bay Company post manager and A. Copland, district manager for the same company. Mr. Copland conducted him through a warehouse stocked with goods worth more than $100,000 awaiting transfer to boats going east and west along the Arctic coast.

Tuktoyaktuk, Tuktuk to the average white man who finds the real name a big mouthful, is the main transfer point for the western Arctic, replacing Herschel Island where the harbor was more often choked by wind-driven ice.

At Tuktoyaktuk, Lord Tweedsmuir found the most intelligent of the western Eskimo, men who in good times with fox-skin prices high made as much as $25,000 a year, travelled by chartered airplane when they were in a hurry and even flew to Edmonton for their wedding trips.

Coal Costs High

The governor-general saw the vast stores of dry goods, small machinery, gasoline and kerosene for airplane engines, outboard motors, lamps and primus stoves, to give heat and light in a country that has no fuel but seal and whale oil.

He learned a wealthy man might buy a ton of coal for $100 f.o.b. and then pay the freight costs to the point he wanted it landed. He saw tons of merchandise to be taken before winter to Coppermine on Coronation Gulf, Cambridge Bay, King William Land and Victoria Island points where trading, Royal Canadian Mounted Police and mission posts are established.

In the miscellany were bolts of flannelette, bright ginghams for Eskimo girls to make summer dresses, silk stockings which some of them wear, traps, fish nets, webbing for dog harness, rifles, ammunition, carpenters' tools, outboard motors, canoes, compasses, lumber, nails, paint and building insulation, besides all sorts of groceries and canned goods.

U.S. GIRL RESCUED AT FENELON FALLS

LINDSAY, Aug. 31.—A drowning accident was averted at Fenelon Falls at the week-end. A young American girl attempted to swim out from shore to one of the piers on Cameron Lake. She got into trouble when well out in the lake, and would undoubtedly have been drowned had not Ivor Lee, who was swimming in the vicinity, went to the rescue and brought her to shore.

A diamond rattler, rarely seen in this district was captured during the week-end by a couple of berry pickers in Haliburton County. The snake, so called because of the diamond shaped marks extending from head to tail, put up quite a fight before being subdued. It measured thirty-one inches in length.

The week-end saw the departure of a great many tourists from the lake resorts in this district. However, this does not mean that the tourist season is at an end. Saturday saw the arrival of many new visitors, and the influx was in evidence even on Sunday. Reports from the different resorts during the week-end are to the effect that most of them are still filled to capacity. The Examiner had a conversation with a tourist from Ohio who has been holidaying in this district every summer for the past thirty years. He always planned to arrive here late in May and remain until mid October. Many of the tourists who have left for home are returning for the Fall hunt.

TORONTO, August 31—(C.P.).—Miriam Ruben, 18-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. Ruben of Sudbury, was reported in "fair" condition in hospital here to-day after being brought by airplane from the Northern Ontario city during the week-end. The child suffered scalds when a pot of hot water fell on her.

The scalds were suffered three days ago. When the child did not respond favorably to treatment, the parents decided she should be brought to hospital here.

C. I. O. THREATENS TO STOP SHIPMENT OF WAR MATERIAL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31—(AP).—Threat by the Committee for Industrial Organization to prevent a United States ship from carrying war supplies to China added a new problem today to the difficulties raised for federal officials by the Sino-Japanese hostilities.

Ralph Emerson, legislative representative for the National Maritime Union, predicted a sit-down strike by union seamen would prevent the government-owned freighter, Wichita, from reaching China with a cargo of bombing planes and barbed wire.

"It will never get past Manila," Emerson said. The National Maritime Union is an affiliate of John L. Lewis' C.I.O.

Emerson also expressed opinion the maritime commission, finding itself in a delicate position by virtue of its ownership of the freighter, would take steps to end the Wichita's voyage.

The Wichita sailed from Baltimore Friday just before Secretary of State Hull received Japan's official notification of a blockade of Chinese ports.

Japan's advices said her blockade would be aimed only at Chinese shipping and would not affect "peaceful commerce" of other nations.

Emerson's threat of a sit-down strike to prevent the Wichita from reaching China was regarded here as an unofficial move to put into operation one of the chief features of American neutrality law—a ban on shipment of war implements and supplies to warring nations.

Emerson said the seamen were extremely reluctant to engage in the hazardous service of carrying war cargoes even if suggestions of a $250 bonus for each crew member were made.

Fixed Easter Is Debated By Synod

HALIFAX, Aug. 31 (CP).—Question of a fixed date for Easter was discussed on Monday at the first business meeting of the General Synod of the Church of England in Canada, now holding its fourteenth session.

A letter from the chaplain of Most Rev. Cosmo Gordon Lang, Archbishop of Canterbury, said "no objection in principle can be raised to the proposal of a fixed date for Easter," but the Church of England cannot act alone without the support of the Roman Catholic Church.

The Archbishop of Canterbury had gone as far as possible without that support and "has made it clear the next step lies with the Vatican," the letter said.

The meeting passed a motion of R. W. Allin, Toronto, that the Synod approve in principle of a fixed date for Easter.

The young cashier raised such a commotion which attracted the attention of a taxi driver, that the would-be robber turned and fled with an empty envelope.

"Look back, but don't turn back!"

Overheard at the beach

Blue suit: . . . yes, I know. But why don't people ever learn from experience!

Brown suit: We've never tried exactly this beverage room system before . . .

Blue suit: No, but it's the agitators and the people who believe them without knowing the facts who never seem to learn. Look back, and you'll see that prohibition has never worked . . . it has always caused evils greater than the ones it sought to correct.

Blue suit: Of course there are a few people who go to extremes. But just because of that we don't have to turn right back into the hands of the bootleggers! People are going to drink, you know. And the way to get moderation is to make the drinking of small quantities of mildly stimulating beverages both legal and public!

Brown suit: But what about these people who don't know when to stop?

Blue suit: Laws won't change these people. But in time education will reduce their number, stop young people growing up in their footsteps. That's why I say: look back at history but don't turn back and make all these mistakes over again. HARVEY MURPHY BAILED ON FALSE NEWS CHARGE

MEDICAL MEN FEAR EPIDEMIC IS NOT AT PEAK

TORONTO, Sept. 1.—Emphasizing that they did not wish to assume an alarmist attitude, but believed the exact picture of the infantile paralysis epidemic should be placed before the public, officials of the Provincial Health Department of Health stated yesterday that the epidemic had not run more than 25 per cent of its course, they considered.

They believed, they said, that 50 per cent of the cases for the year would be reported in September, and that the epidemic would ease off in October with 25 per cent additional cases. Their statements, they said, were based on careful study of past experiences with the disease.

"The figures now already exceed the entire figure for 1930," Dr. B. T McGhie, Deputy Minister of Hospitals, stated.

On instruction from Hon. Dr. J. A. Faulkner, the Deputy Minister and departmental statisticians outlined the epidemic situation to date. Indications were that the present poliomyelitis epidemic was the most serious experienced by the Province.

The departmental officials believed they were now able to present an accurate picture of the progress of the epidemic in the Province by compiling figures based on the actual distribution of serum through the departmental laboratories and the branch centres. They reported 727 cases up to Monday midnight.

Establish Serum Clinics

Six doctors, it was revealed, have been going about the Province collecting blood of persons who have suffered from infantile paralysis, in order that there may be plenty of serum on hand. Clinics for this purpose have already been held at Ottawa, Oshawa, Belleville, Kingston, Peterborough, Kitchener, Galt, Hamilton, London and St. Catharines.

Communications have been sent out to Winnipeg and Montreal asking for assistance in providing serum, so that, if this epidemic follows the course of past epidemics, there may be ample supply of the serum. Every day the laboratories of the Department of Health receive a supply of blood, which is immediately made up into serum.

Dr. J. T. Finair, Chief Medical Officer of Health, is making a tour of the districts where the disease is most prevalent and consulting with Medical Officers of Health. Instructions have gone out that these officers see to it that every case in their district is registered. Already consultations have been held in Simcoe, Peel, York, Lincoln, Welland, Haldimand, Norfolk and Brant. In many places, mental hospitals, because of the availability of the telephone switchboards, are being utilized as a central check on the situation.

Departmental officials said bluntly that where the epidemic is prevalent in a district, the parents should not be in the position of having to send their children to school. The school law, they pointed out,

YOUNG BRIDE DIES ON WEDDING DAY

MONTREAL, Sept. 1 (CP)—Noella Boucher, 19, was buried yesterday from the church which was to have been the scene of her wedding last Saturday to Maurice Lalonde.

Wedding guests had assembled at the church awaiting the bride when they learned the dark-eyed girl had been stricken with peritonitis. They hurried to her bedside and special arrangements were made for the wedding ceremony to continue there.

Crying with joy the girl weakly made her responses at the ceremony, guests raised their glasses in toasts to the newlyweds and the couple spent the afternoon happily planning their future. But at five o'clock the time Noella and Maurice had planned originally to leave on their honeymoon, she suffered a relapse and died within a few minutes.

Yesterday the casket was placed at the foot of the church altar which Saturday was decorated with flowers and flickering candles. Funeral attire replaced the colorful wedding costumes of only a few days ago, and broken-hearted Lalonde, tears welling in his eyes, walked haltingly behind the hearse that bore the body of his bride.

Brakeman Is Hurt By Rifle Bellet

Charged with unlawful wounding, Harry Hunt, 21, of this city, elected summary trial on his arraignment before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K. C., this morning and pleaded not guilty. He was remanded for one week on bail of $1,000. The charge alleges that Hunt discharged an air rifle in a garden at the rear of his brother-in-law's house on Westcott street, that resulted in the wounding of B. E. Morison, a railway brakeman, who was riding on top of a freight car that as passing at the time. It is reported that to inches of bone in Morrison's left forearm was shattered by the pellet.

Naval Convoys Are Likely To Be Used To Rescue Refugees

Armed Warship Would Resist Any Attempt to Molest Foreign Shipping.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 1 (AP).—Japanese naval authorities warned all foreign shipping today to steer clear of the Japanese naval concentrations in the Whangpoo River and the Yangtze estuary.

The only route to the open sea and safety for hundreds of foreigners marooned in Shanghai.

British and United States naval commanders were understood to be discussing inauguration of naval convoys to force a safe passage down the river for mercy ships carrying refugees.

Under the proposed plan armed warship escorts would resist forcibly any attempts to molest foreign shipping.

The Japanese naval authorities further announced developments might compel their fleet to take stringent action to stop shipments of arms and munitions to China from foreign nations.

Meanwhile fighting swept the Whangpoo's banks from the northern edge of the city to Woosung where it meets the Yangtze 12 miles north of the international settlement.

Heavy Chinese Losses

Chinese admitted heavy losses in the Changwahpang and Paoshan sectors, near Woosung, from Japanese naval shelling and aerial bombardment.

The Chinese were withdrawing slowly to prepared second line positions further inland and out of range of the Japanese naval guns.

Japanese planes dropped eight bombs on Chinese positions near the British patrol lines on the northwestern edge of the International Settlement. British troops were forced to withdraw temporarily out of danger.

Two Cities Captured

Japanese claimed that both Woosung proper and the walled city of Paoshan, a few miles up the Yangtze, had been stormed and captured despite savage Chinese resistance. The Japanese reported they held the historic Woosung forts.

In the Western sector the Japanese lines were broken in many places and Chinese resistance prevented the Japanese from solidifying their scattered forces into true front line positions.

This was farther inland where the guns of the Japanese fleet were less effective. Chinese claimed that the Japanese headquarters at Lotien had been demolished and the Japanese brigade commander killed with other members of his staff.

Japanese planes ranged over the western section of Shanghai, bombing Chinese communication with Nanking and other interior bases. In the Shanghai-Nanking area and other interior bases. In the Shanghai-Nanking area Chinese were estimated to have concentrated 250,000 troops. Opposed to these Japan was believed to have 100,000 men already landed or waiting to land from transport ships in the Yangtze.

JULY POWER PEAK 1,200 H. P. ABOVE ONE YEAR AGO

Despite the strike shut-down of the Auburn and Bonner-Worth plants, the peak power demand in Peterborough during July was 1,200 horsepower over that of July, 1936, Utilities General Manager Ross Dobbin reported to the Commission on Tuesday. The peak was 7,800 horsepower.

Principal item in the gain was increase of the Canadian General Electric load to 1,500 horsepower. If the Auburn and Bonner-Worth plants had been operating, the peak would have been in the vicinity of 8,500 horsepower, it was estimated.

Gains were made in the sale of domestic and commercial power during the month. Sale of 459,329 kilowatt hours to domestic consumers represented a gain of 10 per cent. over last year. To commercial light consumers 270,035 kilowatt hours were sold, an increase of 14.2 per cent. Commercial power consumers bought 882,862 kilowatt hours, a gain of 13.5 per cent.

During the month, revenue from the sale of off-peak power was $160, a big decline from last July's $1,368.

The Waterworks Department report to the Commission indicated pumpage during July was 106,000,000 gallons, a decrease from 133,000,000 gallons last year. The decrease was the result of slightly lower temperatures and increased rainfall, the report suggested.

The maximum day's pumpage was 5,182,000 gallons on July 8 as compared with 5,760,000 gallons on the same day in 1936. In 1936 the maximum rate of pumpage was 10 million gallons per day for two hours on July 8, and this year the maximum rate on the same day was 9 million gallons per day.

During July the Filtration Plant was able to produce all the water required without stepping up the rate of filtration as was done in 1936 an dthere were very few complaints of low pressure, the report stated.

The body, in the 13-foot water, was recovered two hours later with grappling irons.

British Destroyer Attacked By Unidentified Submarine

Warship Said to be Not Hit Although Aid is Sent By Admiralty.

LONDON, Sept. 1 (AP). — The Admiralty announced today that the destroyer Havock had been attacked during the night by an unidentified submarine off Cape San Antonio in the Mediterranean. The warship was not hit.

Her sister destroyer, the Hyerion, and the flotilla leader Hardy were speeding under forced draught to the Havock's assistance.

The British warship's exact position was not disclosed. The Admiralty merely said the attack occurred near Cape San Antonio, off the eastern coast of Spain, midway between Alicante and Valencia.

The 1,335-ton Havock carries a complement of 145 officers and men.

The Hardy and the Hyperion left Gibraltar late last night.

The emergency sailing orders were received, special patrols were put out to round up the sailors from the cafes and bars where they were spending shore leave. Then the two warships steamed out of the bay at full speed in an easterly direction.

The Admiralty said the unidentified submarine fired a torpedo at the Havock which narrowly missed its target.

Too Many Barbers So Veteran Retires

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 (AP).—A "to let" sign hung today in the window of Greenwich village's oldest barber shop, owned by August Pingpank, 86.

The man whose name sounds like someone plunking a banjo is closing up after a 50-year assault on the village's long-haired gentry.

"So soon as it's let I'll retire," he said, looking at a row of 40 old-time gilded shaving mugs adorning one wall. Why?—too many barber schools—and too many young barbers."

All Citizens Of Zenda On Flight To New York

Ontario Group to See Premiere of Motion Picture "The Prisoner of Zenda."

ZENDA, Ont., Sept. 1 (CP). — Headed by Reeve Vernon Fewster, and bearing international goodwill gifts of maple syrup and maple sugar, the "city" of Zenda took to the skies today, bound for New York and the world premiere of the motion picture, "The Prisoner of Zenda."

Zenda's 12 residents early today climbed into a motor caravan of five Woodstock taxis and headed for the airport at Jarvis.

The giant skyliner bored into the skies bearing the dozen Zenda citizens toward a civic welcome on the steps of the New York summer city hall, with Mayor Fiorello Laguardia extending a greeting hand. The population was scheduled to land at Floyd Bennett Field.

Named in 1896 after the famous Anthony Hope novel from which the picture was taken, Zenda became the first city in history to climb into a plane and visit, en masse, the great metropolis.

Near Woodstock.

Zenda is 17 miles from Woodstock, seat of the rich agricultural county of Oxford. Tomorrow night the city of Zenda will be guest of honor at the Music Hall Theatre viewing the story for which the town was named.

Three houses, a dairy, a little red school-house and a general store comprise Zenda proper.

Those in the party include: Reeve Vernon Fewster, Donald and Mrs. Howes, Robert and Mrs. Fewster, Doris Hadcock, Olive Fewster, Harry Hadcock, George Fewster, Harry A. Little, Andrew Fewster and Mary Matheson.

News of the trip swept from the Zenda hamlet throughout Ontario. New York, the large city publications, awaited the unusual sight of an entire city clambering from a plane to see the sights.

Heretofore, Zenda has been famed only for its annual garden party, which draws upwards of 5,000 visitors. Its citizens, however, are also proud of their farming and dairying.

52 ENUMERATORS START ON TUESDAY TO CANVASS CITY

Plans for the preparation of the voters' list for the provincial elections have been completed by Vincent Eastwood, returning officer for the riding of Peterborough.

Fifty-two enumerators have been appointed and will begin work next Tuesday morning with four days to make a complete canvass of the city by Friday night. The preliminary draft of names will be referred to the election board for their revision, and sittings will be held for the purpose of adding or removing names in the final review. The list will then be printed and will be official. Only those persons in the city will be permitted to vote whose names on election day appear in the list.

The special voters' list will be used only in the city and at Curve Lake. Elsewhere in the county the most recent township village voters' lists that have been confirmed will be used. These are acceptable because changes of residence are comparatively few outside the city.

Another duty that devolves to the returning oficer is to arrange for polling placec and appoint deputy returning officers and poll clerks. In the city there will be 39 polling places and the total for the riding 101 exclusive of split polls.

The Election Board.

The members of the election board are Judge Smoke, chairman; Sheriff John Harstone; V. J. McElderry, Clerk of the Peace; Magistrate O. A. Langley, local Master of the Supreme Court; and Fred J. A. Hall, who was appointed on Tuesday. W. R. Philp is the secretary of the Board.

Sidney Whatley is assisting Mr. Eastwood, and the preparatory work was up to schedule this morning.

Worst Infantile Paralysis Epidemic To Ever Hit Province Of Ontario

TORONTO, Sept. 1 (CP).—A picture of Ontario's worst infantile paralysis epidemic was before the province today, etched in its broad outlines by the Department of Health so all precautions may be taken. Here were the blackest spots in the picture:

Since early June, 727 persons have "caught" the disease; 29 have died.

The peak, health officials estimate, will not be reached until mid-September.

Within the next two months approximately 2,100 more cases will develop.

Approximately one-tenth of Ontario's population of 3,000,000 — or 250,000 persons—are "susceptible" to the disease.

In announcing these details, an authority of Health Minister Dr. J. A. Faulkner, public health officials stressed they were not taking an alarmist view of the situation. They merely emphasized the need for extreme caution.

"The schools should be closed where there is danger," said Dr. B. T. McGhie, Deputy Minister. Health officials generally were agreed parents should not be under compulsion to send their children to school.

In more than a score of Ontario municipalities, however, this precaution had already been taken and schools, scheduled to resume classes today did not open their doors. In other places, even where the disease was under treatment, the view was held that children were better in school, where they might be watched than allowed to congregate on the street.

Several municipalities made last-minute decisions to postpone school opening until after Labor Day. Among these were Goderich, Aylmer and Malahide Townships, Simcoe (until further notice), Tiverton, Kincardine and Ripley Township.

Toronto, most populous, remained the city hardest hit. With 27 new cases reported yesterday, its case list since June 10 stood at 283. This figure topped the peak of a 1930 epidemic in which 263 cases led to 26 deaths. Toronto's death toll in the current outbreak was 11.

Six Young Canadians Ready For Round-The-World Trip

Adventure and Romance Ahead For Sailors Who Plan to Leave Oakville.

OAKVILLE, Sept. 1.—High adventure and romance on a modern, pay-as-you-go basis will shortly be undertaken by six young Canadians in the fifty-foot schooner Sea Fever.

The crew of six, three young men and their wives, have sold their homes and their cars to finance the start of a round-the-world trip in the Sea Fever. They will sail from Oakville Harbor within a few weeks, and will pay their passage, they hope, by selling stories, moving pictures and paintings.

The six are: Neville Maingay of Montreal, owner and skipper of the ting ship, and his wife, Elsie; Mr. and Mrs. Mansell Scruton of Toronto, and Emile L'Africain, Montreal, and Miss Betty Warren of Regina.

Romance Begins Early.

The romance of their trip will start even before they are under way. Miss Warren and Mr. L'Africain will be married this Saturday aboard the Sea Fever during a short cruise on Lake Ontario. Miss Warren is preparing now for the trip—she's studying the volume "Galley Meals."

The Sea Fever will sail from

Charge Arose Out of Strikers' Meeting Held on Market Square.

Harvey Murphy of Toronto, president of the Ontario Federation of Unemployment was this afternoon bailed for trial to the sum of $1,000 following preliminary hearing on a charge of publishing false news.

The charge against Murphy alleges that at a strikers' meeting on the Market Square on August 10 he wilfully stated that Ivena Reid, an employee of the Bonner-Worth Mill, was injured in the face by tear gas released by the city or provincial police during a disturbance at the mill.

The hearing was before Magistrate O. A. Langley, and Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry prosecuted and J. L. Cohen of Toronto, represented Murphy.

Seven Called By Crown

Four police officers, a newspaper correspondent, and three medical men were called by the Crown.

Provincial Constable David Silvester of the local detachment testified that on the evening of August 12 last he was on the Market Square and saw the accused Murphy speaking from a motor truck. There was a large crowd of strikers and others present.

Relative to events of preceding days, the officer related there had been some conflict between police and strikers at the Bonner-Worth Mill during which a tear gas bomb was released.

Constable Silvester declared in evidence, "The accused was speaking of police action at the Bonner-Worth Mill and about the use of batons and tear gas. Speaking of the tear gas, he said, the police and other authorities claimed it was a harmless thing. But Murphy produced Ivena Reid, a young girl on the platform and said he was going to prove tear gas was very harmful. The girl's face was bandaged and Murphy stated she was an example of a girl who had been faced by tear gas and who was probably disfigured for life."

"He went on to state that the tear gas at the police station should be cleared out," the officer said.

"Was anything said as to the manner in which it should be cleared out," Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., asked.

"He said now is the time it should be cleared out," the officer replied.

Asked in cross-examination by J. L. Cohen, K.C., defence counsel questions relative to his official capacity the officer said he was a member of the provincial police and also high county constable.

The oficer said he was on special duty at the strikers' meeting on the evening in question. He was there to see there was no disorder and also to see what the speakers had to say.

He admitted under cross-examination that he had not taken any notes on the statements made by Murphy and which were the subject of the charge of spreading false information, "only mental notes." In reply to questioning he said Murphy spoke about the girl and the tear gas for three to five minutes.

Leo P. McGillen, correspondent for a Toronto newspaper, gave evidence that he picked up Ivena Reid and another girl when they were on their way in from Chemong on August 7th, a few days before the disturbance at Bonner-Worth Mill. He said the girl had several small

TRAIN COLLIDES WITH HANDCAR FOUR ARE INJURED

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Sept 1 (CP)—Auxiliary crews worked feverishly today to clear the main line track of the Canadian Pacific Railway one mile west of Shannonville and six miles east of Belleville after an engine and 19 cars were derailed as the result of a collision with a handcar.

G. H. Francis, engineer of Smith's Falls, J. Carpenter, fireman of Smiths Falls; L. Black, front end brakeman of Smiths Falls, and Timothy Haley, transient of no address, were injured and taken to Belleville Hospital. The remaining members of the crew, J. Hart, conductor and C. Warren, brakeman, both of Smiths Falls were not injured.

Track Ripped Up

The track was ripped up for 50 yards, the wooden cars involved in the derailment being a splintered mass while the steel cars were warped with the sudden jolting.

The main line will not be opened until late tonight or possibly Thursday and in the meantime all trains will be rerouted over the Canadian National Railways.

The remaining 46 cars of the freight remained on the track and were not damaged.

Francis and Carpenter, both jumped from the engine, the former suffering a concussion and Carpenter a broken ankle and ribs. Black suffered fractured ribs, internal injuries and a broken knee cap. Haley, the transient has a fractured pelvis and severe concussions.

The section crew composed of W. J. Hanna, J. Burshaw, and Harold Lloyd, all of Belleville, were proceeding to Shannonville to assist the crew at that point in repairing track and were able to jump from the handcar when they saw a collision was inevitable.

Hanna, boss sectionman, said there was a heavy fog and the train was not seen until it was close upon them. "We tried to get the car off the tracks but the wheel stuck alongside the rail and we had to jump for our lives," said one of the Party.

Walking Is Way To Keep Young

LONDON, Sept. 1.—(CP).— Take it from 80-year-old Robert Buet—walking is the wa yto keep young.

Buet, a Chelsea pensioner whose father fought at Waterloo, still walks 15 miles daily.

Besides claiming the walking championship Buet boasts the longest pair of moustaches in Chelsea Barracks—18 inches from end to end.

FISH RE-STOCKING BEEN SPEEDED UP

BARRIE, Ont., Sept. 1—(CP). — The Conservative party's platform, as announced by Hon. Earl Rowe, party leader, was termed "ridiculous" and indicated his "lack of knowledge of provincial affairs" by Hon. Harry C. Nixon, provincial secretary, at the Centre Simcoe Liberal convention here last night.

The sitting member, Hon. Dr. L. J. Simpson Minister of Education, was chosen Liberal candidate for the forthcoming election. Mr. Rowe has declared his intention of running as Dr. Simpson's opponent.

"Mr. Rowe says we haven't stocked the lakes with fish the way we should have," the provincial secretary said. "Let me tell him that in his home county of Simcoe we have put over three times the number of fish in our term of office than in the three years of the Henry administration.

"In Renfrew County alone we put more fish in the waters last year than the Henry Government would have put in 40 years at the rate of re-stocking before the Hepburn government came into power."

REBELS FAIL TO HALT PUSH ON BELCHITE

BENDAYE, Franco - Spanish Frontier, Sept. 1 (AP). — Using numerous air squadrons for the first time against the Spanish Government's big push on the Aragon front, the insurgents were reported today to have made 13 separate attacks from the air to crack the siege ring around Belchite.

Government forces, which threatened to strangle the strategic town in Northeastern Spain, 20 miles south of Zaragoza, reported the aerial counter-thrusts failed to halt their steady advance.

The fall of Belchite would facilitate the government's attempts to drive a wedge through the long Aragon salient, splitting off thousands of insurgent troops and hundreds of square miles of insurgent territory in the lower end from which Franco's forces for weeks have threatened the lifeline broadway link between Madrid and Valencia.

Cavalry Wiped Out

Valencia Ministry of Defence communique related the forces below Teruel at the southern tip of the Aragon front had captured several dominant positions by swift assault with the aid of artillery barrage.

Insurgent cavalry was reported wiped out by artillery fire on the road between Torremocha and Celajas, northwest of Teruel, after government troops had been dislodged from a hill at Santa Eulalia.

An insurgent communique asserted, however, that Franco's men had broken "all resistance" in their counter-drive at Belcnite an delsewhere on the Aragon front. An insurgent radio broadcast said 13,500 government militiamen had been killed in the week-old Aragon push. Nearly the same number had been taken prisoners, it was said.

CAR SALES HAVE DOUBLED AT "EX"

TORONTO, Sept. 1 (CP)—Storekeepers of Ontario will invade the Canadian National Exhibition today for food products and merchants day. A "treasure hunt" for 1,000 prizes will occupy their wives and families in the food products building while the merchants discuss trade affairs among themselves. Attendance yesterday was down about 11,000 from last year.

Thousands of manufacturers and tradesmen gathered yesterday for automotive day at the fair. While a selected group heard Col. A. E. Nash describe the growth of their billion-dollar industry as guests of the exhibition directors, the others examined the million-dollar display of 1937 and 1938 models in the automotive building.

More than 60 per cent of Canada's cars are six years old or more, said Col. Nash, Toronto accountant. The industry, he believed, was continuing its forward march delayed several years by the 1929 financial collapse.

Dealers exhibiting in the automotive show reported "off the floor" sales up 100 per cent from last year. Prospective buyers were more numerous, said J. L. Kirkhope, in charge of one of the large exhibits.

REVOLVER SLIPS FROM ITS HOLSTER MAN IS KILLED

HAMILTON, Ont., Sept. 1 (CP)—David Gardiner, 52, died on an operating table in hospital here yesterday from a bullet wound received when Police Constable Allan Burton's service revolver dropped from its holster. Coroner Dr. D. G. McIlwraith ordered an inquest.

Acting Inspector of Detectives Joseph Chamberlain obtained statements from witnesses and announced that Gardiner, a salesman, was shot while he stood talking with Constable Burton in a garage. Burton had removed the holster from his belt and the pistol dropped out, hitting the concrete floor and discharging.

Survived by his wife and one daughter, Gardiner came here recently from Kitchener.

Inquest Ordered.

Although satisfied that death was the result of an accident, authorities ordered complete investigation, and last night Acting Inspector of Detectives Joseph Chamberlain had obtained complete statements from all witnesses. Coroner Dr. D. G. McIlwraith ordered an inquest.

Gardiner, a salesman who recently came to this city from Kitchener, was a married man, and is survived by his widow and daughter.

George Doolittle, 16 Strachan Street East, and Robert Beck, 73 Somerset Avenue, were eyewitnesses. They were talking with Gardiner when Constable Burton arrived. The officer was about to be relieved by Constable Sindall and had stepped into the garage to remove his revolver. Officials stated that it was customary for police to exchange guns on the street. Constable Burton said because of extreme heat he stepped into the building and while removing the pistol entered into a discussion on the Farr-Louis fight with the other men.

Stories Corroborative.

Stories told by men in the garage were corroborative of that given by the constable. He said he had taken the holster from his belt, and had refastened the belt. While he held the holster in his hand the revolver slipped out, fell to the floor and when it hit there was a sharp report.

The muzzle of the revolver was pointed upward, and the slug caught Gardiner in the stomach. Constable Burton has been a member of the Police Department for more than eight years. The pistol was of the hammer type.

WELL KNOWN VETERAN DEAD.

BRANTFORD. — Frances Henry Prudd, 39, well known veteran of St. Thomas, died in hospital here during the week-end. He became ill while attending the convention of the Imperial Veterans' Association earlier this month.

At the outbreak of the Great War he entered active service with submarines operating out of Glasgow, Scotland. Later he served with distinction in the Royal Air Force in France and Egypt.

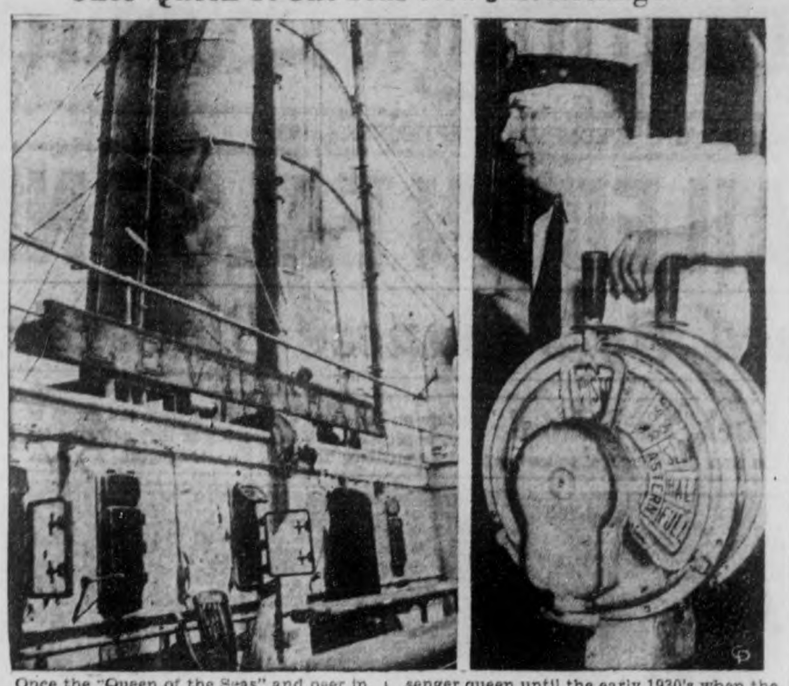
Once 'Queen Of The Seas' Now Just Rotting Hulk



Once the "Queen of the Seas" and peer in speed and size of all passenger vessels playing the Atlantic swells, the S.S. Leviathan is now just a rotting hulk at Pier Four, Hoboken, N.J. Christened the Waterland when launched in 1904, and pride of the German merchantile fleet, the ship had made only two and one-half crossings for Germany when America entered the world war and she was seized by the U.S. government and pressed into transport service. After the war, the ship continued as passenger queen until the early 1930's when the vessels like the Europa, Bremen and others outdid her in speed and style. Since 1934 the Leviathan has been tied up in Hoboken, idle and lifeless, where she is rapidly becoming a landmark and where she will stay until the U. S. army or navy decide to take her as a training ship or some foreign power receives permission to purchase the hulk. The ship is kept in a state of repair with a crew of 22 men under Captain Charles S. Lenz (RIGHT), instead of the 900 needed when she was a first class liner.

NOT SOAKING RICH BY COLLECTIONS HEPBURN CLAIMS

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Sept. 1 (CP)—Pressing for collection of succession duties is not "soaking the rich, but collecting monies actually due Ontario," Premier Mitchell Hepburn told Oxford Liberals last night, met in convention for the renomination of A. S. Dewan, the riding's representative in the last legislature.

Mr. Hepburn said he feared that if the Conservatives were to win the general election Oct. 6 litigation now under way to collect duties from certain estates would be abandoned. He appealed for re-election of his government that the suits might be energetically pressed.

An increase in taxation would be the chief result of the reopening of Ontario House, provincial trade agency in London, England, closed by his government, said the premier but it was in keeping with other plans of Conservative leader Earl Rowe to increase taxation. Ontario House had been a useless duplication of federal trade agencies.

Saved Lumber Agency

His administration had practically "saved" Northern Ontario's lumber industry and greatly reduced unemployment there by opening new markets for pulpwood and by other measures, Mr. Hepburn said.

The issue revolving around the Committee for Industrial Organization, United States labor organization bobbed up in the speeches of both Mr. Hepburn and Mr. Dewan, the latter saying:

"I am against any organization of the type which is nothing but racketeering, dragging money from the working man in order to let a few men live in luxury across the line."

Mr. Hepburn said C.I.O. activities had cost many men jobs in Toronto. At one plant, 300 men struck. Their employers, who had not made money in four years, transferred its export business to an overseas plant and the 300 lost their jobs.

CROLL REMAINS IN LIBERAL PARTY

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 1—(CP)—David Croll, who resigned from the Ontario Cabinet because he disagreed with Premier Hepburn's labor policy, told on open-air meeting here last night, "the Liberal party is wide enough for both of us."

Mr. Croll, named as Liberal candidate for re-election to the Windsor-Walkerville seat in the October 6 election, spoke on labor, health insurance, housing conditions and amalgation of Windsor and other Border Cities. He led in the amalgamation of Windsor, Walkerville, Sandwich and East Windsor into the present city of Windsor.

"When I became Minister of Municipal Affairs," he said, "I found certain things about Walkerville which people never knew before. I saw Walkerville from behind and saw what was wrong. I found the municipality had been run so long by Walkers that the people didn't know they were free men."

Asked by a hearer if he had the support of Mr. Hepburn, Mr. Croll said, "I was nominated unopposed at the Liberal convention for my riding."

Two Young British Princesses Call Often On Glamis Postmistress

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose will not find life quite so gay when they return from their holidays in Scotland.

Queen Elizabeth has made no secret of her anxiety over the possible effect of public appearances at Coronation time on her children. In the autumn they will lead a strictly family life with perhaps a Christmas pantomime and one or two Christmas parties in anticipation.

Princess Elizabeth, heir presumptive to the Throne, is learning to be a Queen even while she is having her holidays. At Glamis with her grandfather, Lord Strathmore, she made daily tours of the estate and listened to the way he discussed matters with officials and tenants. Like her other grandfather King George V, in his lifetime, she likes to call at the cottages on the estates, sit and munch biscuits and chat.

A particular friend of both the younger Princesses is the postmistress at Glamis, at whose shop they sometimes buy presents for special occasions.

BANK LEGISLATION VETO BE PRINTED CANADA GAZETTE

OTTAWA, Sept. 1.—(CP).—Proclamation of Federal disallowance of Alberta's banking and judicature legislation will probably be made this week in the Canada Gazette instead of in the Royal Gazette of the province which would be the customary procedure.

It was learned here yesterday proclamation had not been made by Lieutenant-Governor Bowen of Alberta. Until that is done the Act of the Federal Government disallowing the legislation is not complete so far as the courts are concerned.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King said yesterday, following the weekly Cabinet Council, he would write Premier Aberhart of Alberta acknowledging his letter which announced the Social Credit Government's determination to proceed with its program of bank control and curtailment of appeals to the courts.

Legislation providing machinery for licensing bankers in Alberta and curtailing the right of appeals to the courts was disallowed by the Federal government two weeks ago. Mr. Aberhart wrote the Prime Minister challenging the constitutional right of the government to disallow provincial legislation, declaring he would proceed with his program.

Questioned yesterday regarding the procedur with respect to proclamation, the Prime Minister said he had not been definitely advised from Alberta. A precedent existed, however, to cover the contingency of the Lieutenant-Governor being unable to make his proclamation through the Provincial Royal Gazette.

In the event the Lieutenant-Governor fails to get the necessary advice from his ministers to make the proclamation in the ordinary way, he has recourse to the Canada Gazette. Proclamation in that publication would be looked upon by the courts as their authority to treat the legislation as having been disallowed and no longer effective.

WOMAN IS 105 ILL FIRST TIME

BALLINAFAD, Sept. 1.—Mrs. Agnes Young, Halton County's "grand old lady," celebrated her one hundred and fifth birthday in good spirits Tuesday despite the fact she was ill for the first time in her life.

She was a trifle fretful because her illness kept her indoors. The restriction was irksome after a life of intense activity. Until she was past 90 years of age she worked and found pleasure in lighter duties. She even continued to climb stairs until she was 102. She suffered an attack of influenza this spring and she is still convalescing, although she hasn't bothered receiving attention from a doctor for several months.

Her receipe for longevity is quite simple. First of all, of course, comes health. To obtain and keep good health, one must have lots of hard work, fresh air, plenty of sleep and the right kind of diet. She never believed in heavy eating and she still prefers two small meals to one large one.

No Formal Protest Made By Canada

OTTAWA, Sept. 1 (CP). — War between China and Japan has not yet involved the Dominion Government in any formal action, Prime Minister Mackenzie King stated last night in reply to a question. His government had not been asked for any opinion by the British Government prior to that government's demands to Japan after the wounding of the British Ambassador to China.

"We will consider that when the occasion arises," Mr. Mackenzie King replied, when asked if the Canadian Minister to Japan would be withdrawn in the event the British Ambassador at Tokyo were recalled as a result of the present situation.

Headache After Headache

Now She's Free From Them

A woman writes:—"I would like everyone who suffers from headaches to try Kruschen Salts. Before taking Kruschen I was seldom free from a headache. But since I have been taking it regularly I have hardly had a headache, for which I am very thankful. I have been taking a small dose of Kruschen every morning in a glass of warm water, before my breakfast, and I feel so well."—(Mrs.) A.E.D.

How do you deal with headaches? Do you just take something to deaden the pain, without getting rid of the trouble which causes the pain?

Headaches can generally be traced to a disordered stomach and to the unsuspected retention in the system of stagnating waste material which poisons the blood. Remove these poisons — prevent them forming again—and you'll never have to worry any more—from that cause. And that is just how Kruschen Salts bring swift and lasting relief from headaches. Kruschen aids Nature to cleanse your body completely of dogging waste matter.—(Advt.)

Wood—Nasli

A wedding of local interest took place at ten o'clock on Saturday morning, August 28, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nasli of Wellington, when the former's sister, Florence Ida, only daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Nasli, became the bride of Joseph Cotton Wood, B.S.A., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Wood of South Monaghan. The Rev. G. McKeen of Wellington permored the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her brother, the bride wore a gown of rose marquisette, fashioned on princess lines. Her sister-in-law, Mrs. H. Nasli, was her only attendant. William W. Wood of Ottawa, twin brother of the groom, was groomsman. The guests included only immediate friends.

On their return from a trip to western points, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wood will make their home in Burke's Falls, Ontario.

Lynch—Greenan

St. Mary's Church, Lindsay, was the scene of a pretty wedding at nine o'clock on August 24, when Mary A., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Greenan of Lindsay, became the bride of Frank J. Lynch, son of Mrs. H. Lynch and the late Thomas Lynch of Otonabee. The Rev. P. J. Lynch of Kearney, brother of the groom, performed the nuptial ceremonies and was served by James Greenan, brother of the bride, and John Brennan of Toronto, both students of St. Augustine's Seminary. Also present in the sanctuary was the Rt. Rev. Monsignor McColl of Lindsay.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, entered the church to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march. She wore a toe-length gown of French blue guipure lace over taffeta, the bodice of which was trimmed with self-covered buttons from the neckline to the waist, and finished with a peplum. The cuffs of the full-length sleeves and the small collar were trimmed with silk net pleated ruching. Her off-the-face matching blue felt hat had a square brim and was trimmed with corded ribbon, falling in streamers. She wore white lace gloves, white slippers, and carried a bouquet of Premier roses and maidenhair fern.

Miss Eileen Greenan, sister of the bride, attended as bridesmaid. She wore a toe-length gown of aquamarine blue muslin de soie trimmed with navy blue, and matching hat, gloves and slippers. She carried a bouquet of Briarcliff roses and maidenhair fern.

The groom was assisted by his brother, Joseph Lynch. The altar was decorated with a profusion of pink and white gladioli.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for the bridal party and immediate relatives. The dining-room decorations were carried out in pink and white, and the table, which was centred with the bride's cake, was beautifully decorated with pink and white carnations and scabiosa.

Later in the afternoon the happy couple left by motor for a trip to Ste. Anne de Beaupre and a holiday at Wasaga Beach, the bride travelling in a brown tailored shark-skin suit, small brown turban and matching accessories. On their return they will reside in Otonabee.

SMART CLOTHES FOR COLLEGE

By LISBETH

There are certain garments that a college girl needs as the backbone of her back-to-school wardrobe.

The emphasis is, of course, on practical clothes such as sweaters and skirts with cardigan sweaters for the cooler days, advises Harper's Bazaar. On the campus washable sports dresses are worn during the fall, then one-piece woollen dresses, separate jackets and suits that have a separate usefulness in the jacket and skirts campus requirements.

The full-length separate coat, fur collared or not, is, of course, another indispensable part of every girl's wardrobe for college. I am showing two that are very smart and new.

These two smart girls from school pause beside their roadster to show how chic they look all ready for the opening term. At the left is a leather belted style coat in henna colored wool fleece cloth, fitted at the waist and with flared skirt. The notched collar of raccoon is new and very sporty.

At the right is a casual swagger coat of natural camel's hair collared in fluffy lynx. An ascot scarf of the coat fabric is tucked in at the neckline.

For the Week-End

For the week-end our college girl will need two or three two-piece tweed suits, sheer wool and crepe dresses, with fur coat or tweed with fur collar. With these are worn suede pumps, sandals and high-front shoes with chic hats and appropriate accessories.

Dinner and informal evening dresses vary according to the time and place. The street-length dressy afternoon frock is now worn where the floor-length one was indispensable before for concerts and faculty dinners.

Shorts may be worn for tennis and everybody now wears bandanas, tied in immigrant fashion. "Beer jackets," so-called, were very popular last spring and are good for fall in new water-proof materials.

In the dormitories, mantailored pajamas and robes measure up to most students' standards, although nightgowns and feminine negligees are staging a comeback. This item is left up to individual discretion and type.

Clothes for the college girl to wear in town are the same as those of any average chic young woman, although the tendency is toward more tailored and informal types. Formal clothes, appropriate for proms, are where the girls show the most individuality and glamor. One evening wrap, in a dark color, that will go with any evening gown, is a necessity.

Jewelry to Front, Back and All Sides

PARIS, Sept. 1.—The use of jewelled gold and silver belts, huge clips, jewelled buttons and brilliant sequins, rich brocades, velvets and heavy satins with broadcloth for day and evening, worn with amazing jewels, is outstanding in the fashions shown here. Necklaces, bracelets, enormous clips, buckles, rings and innumerable individual brooches with flower sprays, bow knots, etc., bring back the 1900 and 1860 models. The eighteenth century display of jewels is fascinating. Yesterday we saw a woman wearing a daytime crepe dress with a string of emeralds, emerald and diamond earrings, a huge, square cut emerald and also a diamond. A lady on the opposite side of the room wore six diamond bracelets, two huge clips and a string of pearls with a silk sweater. Both were extremely smart women. Fall fashions have entered with gusto, glitter and glamour. Big, important, bold jewels will be in fashion and demand.

Preserving Time

For crisp, green, sweet home-made pickles this tried and tested recipe cannot be beaten.

Nine-Day Pickles

4 qts. small cucumbers
1 cup salt
3 pints vinegar
3 lbs. white sugar
1 oz. allspice buds
1 oz. cassia buds
1 oz. celery seed
4 tablespoon alum

Wipe cucumbers, cut into suitable pieces, and put in a stone jar or crock. Make a brine of 1 cup salt dissolved in 2 quarts boiling water and when cold pour over the cucumbers. Let stand for 3 days. Drain cucumbers from brine and put in fresh water, changing water daily for 3 days. Drain and pour on 1 gallon of boiling water in which 1 tablespoon alum has been dissolved. Let stand 6 hours, then drain from alum water and put cucumbers in glass jars or crock. Combine and boil for 10 minutes the vinegar, sugar, allspice buds, cassia buds and celery seed; then pour over pickles. Drain and reheat the liquid daily for 3 days.

Manchester Woman Swallowed A Needle

A MANCHESTER woman swallowed a needle—one and a quarter inches in length—and knew nothing about it for two days. More than a month later the needle had worked its way to the surface of the neck for easy removal. This strange case is reported from the Withington Hospital, Manchester, in the current issue of the Lancet.

The woman, aged 63, was sitting sewing when a niece rushed in to say a relative had died. The woman dropped her sewing and fainted. Two days later she complained of a prickling sensation in her throat, was X-rayed and the needle was discovered to be lying horizontally and the operation was performed.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

Think what a "book" means. It means meeting a dime novel hero, if we like that kind of hero. But it also means meeting the poets, the thinkers, the great men and women, the genuine heroes if we like that kind. It means admission to the new marvels of science, if one choose admission. It means an introduction to the noblest company that all generations have generated, if we claim the introduction.

—W. C. Gannet.

Dear Friends:

Not long ago, a man boasted to me that he hardly ever read, not even the newspapers. He liked to be with people, he was uneasy when he was alone, he needed company to entertain him. What he should have said was that he was too lazy to think, to lazy to find amusement by and with himself.

And these people can be an awful drag on others, for they will learn nothing by themselves, but are like blood-suckers drawing their substance from others, and having no entertainment within themselves, none to give out, so that one feels vacuumned after being with them a few hours.

Books are such grand entertainment, reading is such an education for you get the brain work of so many, the ideas that haven't come to you, the experiences we may never have. History shows us how far the world has advanced, newspapers like our own Examiner give us what is occurring in all parts of the world, funny stories lift us out of ourselves, travel stories take us in imagination to places we may never see, so you can see how much you lose if you don't read.

Books are good companions also, never get mad at you, you can stop after you begin, you can read the thing in driblets stop and let your thoughts roam far away, shut the book up and neglect it for any length of time, yet whenever you are ready to come back to it, it is there all ready for your enjoyment. (Unless you have loaned it to someone who forgot to give it back.)

Those who read much are generally good companions for they are never without something to talk about. Those who do not read seem so futile, without any resources, dependent on others, and bores of the first water. If they try to find amusements with those like themselves who do not read either, it would not be so bad.

But they generally seek out someone who likes reading, taking up their time with trivialities. They realize the lack they have, yet want their knowledge all predigested for them. They might as well ask us to chew their food for them and be done with it. It is just as if they wanted to know certain people, but will not take the troubel to meet them.

What they seem to want is a set of ideas from someone else, and it matters little if they be right or wrong. And they shudder away from thinking things out as if it would give them the plague. Do I sound bitter? It is because I have had an overdose of that type of person.

Bacon tells us this: "Read not to contradict nor confute, nor to believe and take for granted, nor to find talk and discourse, but to weigh and consider. Some books are to be tasted, others to be swallowed, and some few to be chewed and digested: that is some books are to be read only in parts, others to be read, but not curiously, and some few to be read wholly, and with diligence and attention."

But get all the pleasure you can out of reading, for out of the one thing springs many pleasures. Ever read the bible? You are missing something, for within its pages are travel, romance, love, justice, customs, dress, everything your heart could desire. Life and death are within it's covers, hope and courage, and best of all the key to open all doors.

Hoping you like to read what I write,

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

Prepare Your Child's Eyes for School

DEFECTIVE vision is an insidious handicap that no child can overcome—a handicap because it produces headaches, a dislike for school, poor marks, reticence, and a cross disposition—insidious because it can continue for years before its presence is discovered. Only a complete examination with up-to-date equipment can reveal inadequacies of vision. An examination will assure him and will assure you that his eyes—whether he wears glasses or not—will give him their best in good vision.

Instructing The West

Often enough have we heard speakers explaining that farmers in Western Canada were mining the soil; we have heard them say they were going in for growing wheat and nothing else. We have read of statistics prepared to prove the point, and there were years when they seemed to be impressive enough. Yes—the West was growing too much wheat and the world could not possible use it all.

Perhaps too that idea has been aided in achieving sizable proportion by the pictures we have seen of the Western farms, and they looked to be all wheat fields. The folks out in the West did not know much about mixed farming or good dairy development as we understand and follow it in Ontario. Therefore it would be necessary for the East to keep on delivering lectures to the West on how the thing ought to be done.

All of which is very interesting until one begins to read the results of the butter display at the Canadian National in Toronto. And this is what happened:

Manitoba exhibitors took every major prize award and virtually all the minor awards. Out of 354 awards Ontario gained but 15. Manitoba stepped well out in front of the parade and Alberta was a close second.

In order that good butter should be produced Manitoba and Alberta must have good cows, and the good cows in turn must be well and properly fed. Also they must have good butter makers, and all these things do not belong to a people who have gone top-heavy on growing wheat and nothing else. So perhaps on the question of what to do and how to do it on those Western farms outside the drought area we had better talk of something else.

His Way Of Handling It

James Handlan of Kane, Man., had a good crop of wheat. There were many acres and each acre produced many bushels. To be exact Mr. Handlan had 950 acres in wheat and it ran 40 bushels to the acre. And that would give him over 38,000 bushels of wheat. It was the new kind, Thatcher, which is rust-resistant.

The market value of that wheat crop is $57,000. At least that was the cash offer made to James Handlan, and it needs no argument to show it would have been a simple splendid way of turning grain into cash at once.

But James Handlan of Kane, Man., thought differently. He says the wheat is the sort which should be planted in that section, and he wants the prairie farmers to have a chance to secure it for seeding purposes. That will mean a good deal of handling, a good many separate accounts and quite a volume of business transaction. But the Manitoban prefers to have it that way in order that there may be rust-resisting seed grain available. He knows he has a good thing and he wants to pass it around to farmers who will profit by producing such wheat. It is pleasant to read of such a man.

Not Popular—But Right

A woman of 55 and her daughter of 14 years were killed when the car in which they were riding was struck by a radial car near Kitchener. There was an inquest and a recommedation was made that legislation be instituted compelling all vehicles to stop at any public railway crossing.

We do not believe any such legislation will ever be passed because there are so many people who do not want it. They have said so many times.

And yet almost every time when there is a fatal accident at a level crossing the jurors feel they should say something about stopping at crossings. Perhaps they feel that had there been a stop law the accident might not have taken place.

The Examiner knows a stop law applied to railway crossings would not be popular, but we can think of no good reason why such a law should not become operative. We have red and green lights at a good many places in nearly all our cities and drivers of cars act accordingly whether they want to or not. They know the lights are making travelling safer for them.

It is quite certain if law said cars were to stop before crossing the railway tracks, and if the cars did stop, there would be no need for fatal accidents. The fact that the law said to stop, and the signs at crossings said to stop would set in motion a process of education. At present we have nothing of that kind in the province. That is why we have juries inquiring into fatal accidents making suggestions about a new stop law.

Lesson In Sportsmanship

As a rule the editorial pages of newspapers do not pay much attention to prize fighting, leaving that and kindred matters to the gentlemen who manage the sports pages.

There is something which needs saying though in connection with the heavyweight fight between Joe Louis, the U. S. champion and holder of the world title, and Tommy Farr, the Welshman.

Sports writers in United States went out of their way to make it certain that Farr was just another fighter from Britain who would not last long; it would be only a few rounds at the utmost and Farr would be out.

Truth is Farr was not out at the end of 15 rounds. He was not one bit closer to being out than was Louis, and the crowd in New York roundly booed the decision that Louis had won on points, while the man from Wales was given nothing less than an ovation.

Farr had a small following; he brought only a few with him when he came to train; he was not well known and the press build-up had been all against him. And that leaves this to be said—the coal miner from Wales gave the sports writers of United States a long-needed lesson in sportsmanship.

The Parents Decide

The Examiner has received two letters from mothers of children, and the question asked was the same. If not in actual words, then in purpose. Just this: "We are going to Toronto Exhibition for a day, and want to know if there are any good reasons for not taking the children." The Examiner has answered each letter and the reply has been that in a case of that kind the question should be placed before the family physician. If there is any actual doubt in the mind of the mothers, then there would be little joy in the trip to the fair with the children going along because that one thought would be uppermost in the mind all the time: "I am exposing my child in a place where there might be infantile paralysis."

There is nothing of which this paper as aware which could be quoted definitely to say that a child taken to an exhibition would be exposed to infantile paralysis, or would be any more liable to become a victim than remaining at home. But in the case of a mother dealing with her children the advice of the family physician should be sought—and taken.

Apparently there are many parents who are not taking their children to Toronto Exhibition. The attendance figures in Children's Day prove that without chance for argument. The attendance was down 78,000 from Children's Day records of 1936. Reports tell of a number of families coming, but the children were kept in hand; a short time only was spent on the grounds; there would be the purchase of a balloon or some similar trophy and then departure. The conclusion is that parents, probably making decisions for themselves on what to do with children in a crowded place, decided to keep them home.

They Are Being Trained

Robert Ley is Hitler's Labor leader, and he is now working on a plan to educate and train young Germans for future leadership. There have been 350 candidates selected. There are three qualifications which are considered above all else:

1: They must be top-notch soldiers.
2: Fanatical preachers of Nazi-ism.
3: Men with a capacity for implicit and unconditional obedience. Soldierly leadership will be their first ideal.

Possibly the whole scheme is put together in those few word, "capactiy for implicit and unconditional obedience." And that obedience will be directed toward affairs as they are determined and decided upon by Hitler.

These young Germans will not be leaders; they will be imitators and followers. They will never find anything which is wrong, nor will they dare come across a grievance and move toward bringing about its cure. They will not produce men who will battle against such things as future Corn Laws, nor will there come from the Nazi school the human ingredients which produced a Magna Charter. They will be propagandists, dull fellows who do not think, but obey only.

She's Just Plain Homesick

We noticed a story in a New York paper giving the experience of a young lady who had been living there for two years. In part she said:

"If it were possible I would go back home in Omaha and live. I know the people there in the town where I was born. I do do not think I actually know ten people in New York city. I was sick for three weeks and the only visitor I had was the nurse from the place where I work and she came I guess because it was her duty and so she could fill in some forms in connection with my case. When I was able to sit up again I had a chair near the window where I sat to read. I could look out there and I guess it would not have taken long to have seen a thousand people pass, and that is as many as live in my home town in Omaha. The difference is I would know nearly all of the thousand there and not one in the thousand that might pass here.

"If I had been sick back home the people would have known it and they would come and see how I was getting along. They would have brought me flowers from their own gardens and they would perhaps have brought jelly they had made themselves. I wouldn't have had to send out word I was sick because at home every person seems to know how every other person is getting along and they seem to be interested. I have gone to church a number of times and a few people have spoken to me but they all live so far away I never see any of them except on Sunday morning.

"When I left home to come here they had a meeting at our place and they gave me that little clock on the table, and some other friends gave me a writing case. I am quite certain if I were to decide to leave New York there would be no community gathering; there would be so few who would say they were sorry I was going away. I now and then get letters from friends at home saying they miss me, but no one in New York would put it that way. I just don't seem to amount to anything here. It's too big and I'm too small, while out home in Omaha we all seemed to be about the same size."

It is not the intention of this paper to try and point any particular moral from this story. The girl who made those statements is just plain homesick, and it is a fact that the most lonesome place in the world can well be where the most people live.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Robbers have worked out a new scheme of beating and stealing from tourists, but so far we have noticed they never pick on those who are on the way home.

It is said that Russian pigs in the process of being bred for better bacon are becoming bald. That is sad because they not only lose their hair but in a short time their heads as well.

A Detroit theologian says that man in 10,000 years of trying has invented no new sin. Where then does he place the crooner, and the smart young fellow who always says "Oh yeah."

U. S. Secretary of State has asked China and Japan not to have a war. We wonder what this secretary calls what has been going on in Shanghai for days on end?

The war may force Japan to drop out of the Olympic games. Come to think of it, though, we should imagine running 100 metres at high speed might come in handy now and then for a soldier.

When it comes to dealing effectively with the infantile paralysis outbreak attention is drawn to that fine and wholesome admission of many learned men: "There is so much which as yet we do not understand."

When we see a car with much luggage on the side and a canoe strapped on top going through the city our detective instinct leads to the conclusion that the 1937 vacation has been concluded.

Wilbur Glenn Voliva, leader of Zion City, Ill., has been told by court to hand over his possessions to satisfy creditors. One of Voliva's theories is that the world is flat, and possibly he is more certain than ever that his theory is right.

Major Douglas says he agrees with Premier Aberhart in the passing of his banking legislation which has been killed by Ottawa. The Major's approval really makes little difference. He cables his views from London to Mr. Aberhart and this country is not governed that way.

Young man at Toronto ran a typewriter at the rate of 139 words a minute for one full hour. And that means he punched the keys at the rate of about 12 times per second. Even when we become excessively annoyed it is not possible to work at anything approaching that rate.

One authority says that when children become unmanageable to "switch their attention." If memory is correct such cases were met with switching on the Tenth Concession, but the switching was not done on what you might call the attention.

It has been disclosed that the late Andrew Mellon, one of the rich men of United States, made what he regarded as adequate provision for members of the family. The rest of his estate goes to charitable purposes, estimated at $200,000,000. During his life he is said to have given away $100,000,000. Whether conditions should be such that a man can make so much money is debatable, but it is well that one so rich should have preserved his sense of responsibility to the public from whom he got his wealth.

FLIES

(By A. R. K.)

¶ Six flies sat on me yesterday, nor would they leave and go away, they hopped about instead; I aimed at them such heavy blows, when they had straddled on my nose, they skipped then to my head.

¶ I folded up a paper then, and planned how I would finish them, each one would get a blow; but when I swung my paper hard, I always missed them by a yard, for I was far too slow.

¶ The disappointment made me keen, I tried it with a magazine, the killing must be done; I poked myself upon the ear, but never did the fly get near, I missed them every one.

¶ I waited till they were at ease, and started cleaning off their knees, and I let drive once more; I was not either fast nor deft, when I was through why there were left, as many as before.

¶ Got stranda of sticky paper then, ah I would finished soon with them, of flies I would be bare; I hopped to hasten from the room, and found out then quite sudden soon, the stuff stuck in my hair.

¶ I'll have to take some leasons soon, before the changing of the moon, on how to strike and kill; so I can swat with some success, and make the flies in here grow less—with some degree of skill.

Canadian Women are the most beautiful in the world largely because they are "conscious of self" and not self-conscious according to Mme Marceline d'Alroy, English writer and lecturer. She admired Canadian women for the way they dressed and their confidence in their clothes and themselves.

"Charm is the best inside a person, expressed outwardly through voice, manners speech, gestures and clothe," she said, "while glamor is merely commercial fake, put on the outside only, like make-up. Glamor is superficial quality, but charm is vital."

Origin of the Baton.

THE BATON of the orchestral conductor first came into use after the death of Lully, January 8, 1687. As director of music at the court of Louis XIV, he disliked the old practice of clapping hands and conch shells or stamping feet on the floor to emphasize the beat and rhythm. Lully adopted a staff about six feet long. One day he bought it down on his foot, and from the bruise blood-poisoning set in causing the great musician's death. Since then batons have been light wands.

Home More Dangerous Than Highway

Accident Record Has Great Surprises; Some Advice On Things to Be Avoided.

FOR THE first time since 1928 more persons were killed by accidents in their own homes than on the highways, according to a report issued by the U. S. National Safety Council. During 1936 home accidents accounted for 36,500 fatalities and mutilated 170,000 other persons, while highway accidents claimed 37,800 lives and seriously injured 105,000. The economic bill levied by home accidents came to $720,000,000.

The Safety Council conducted an interesting enquiry last year into the causes of home accidents treated at Cook County hospital, Chicago. The study included 4,602 cases. The average number of days of disability was 65 per case. There were 286 deaths, twenty permanent total and 286 permanent partial disabilities. Sixty-three per cent. of the injuries resulted from falls; 57 per cent. of the injured were under 15 years of age; 39 per cent. of the accidents occured outside the house and 68 per cent. of the injuries were fractures.

The report found that about 18 per cent of all school child accidents in the United States occurred in school buildings, 17 per cent. on school grounds, 7 per cent. on the way to or from work and 28 per cent. at home. From those figures it seems that parents have more reason for worrying about the possibility of accidents to children at home than on the way to school or in the rough and tumble play of the school ground.

Carelessness and indifference are principal factors in the cause of these accidents, injuries and deaths. Application of common sense can eliminate many physical hazards are correct unsafe habits and practices in the average home. Some of the rules recommended are:

See that stairways are adequately lighted and are provided with hand rails.

Use a stepladder, not an improvised chair or box affair, when working around the house.

Insist that children do not leave playtoys on floors and stairs.

See to it that small rugs are anchored to the floor with a nonskid gacking.

Equip bathtubs with hand holds and rubber suction mats.

Replace frayed appliance cords.

Place pots and pans on the stove so that the handles are inward, not outward.

Make sure all electric wiring is free of contact with rails and other metal objects.

Do not allow rubbish and old newspapers to accumulate.

Touch electrical fixtures with dry hands only.

Fasten pillows and bedclothes in children's cribs to prevent suffocation.

Keep the medicine cabinet locked and lye and ammonia out of the reach of children.

Unload firearms kept in the house.

Chinese Bombers Hit Their Own People

Nearest Was 600 Yards From Objective; Tragic Developments of Fateful Saturday.

From the London Times

IT IS estimated that 1,047 people, including 11 foreigners, were killed and 1,000 injured in Shanghai on Saturday by bombs from Chinese aeroplanes which had gone up to attack Japanese warships.

Our Shanghai Correspondent telegraphs:— What happened in Shanghai on Saturday within the space of a few minutes has, perhaps, never been paralleled elsewhere. It was a demonstration of the murderous power of modern aerial bombs. Twenty bombs were discharged by Chinese aeroplanes, killing 1,047 people and wounding about 1,000, many of them grievously. The nearest bomb landed 600 yards from its objective.

The morning opened with the appearance of three Chinese aeroplanes, which flew twice over the Japanese flagship Izumo lying in the Whangpoo River and dropped six bombs, five of which landed in the river and raised huge columns of water. The other bomb hit the warehouse of Jardine Matheson and Co. The Izumo and another Japanese warship each catapulted aeroplanes into the air, covering the operation with two salvoes by anti-aircraft guns.

These events were the prelude to tragic developments in the afternoon, when the streets were alive with people listening to the distant gunfire and watching the congested traffic. They were expecting further aerial developments. The foreign sections of Shanghai were overwhelmed by hundreds of thousands of refugees from the Chinese City. Many of them were without shelter and were practically camping in the main streets. A typhoon was subjecting Shanghai to a fierce gale, and the 60-miles-an-hour wind was a blessed relief in the present midsummer heat. Continuous low-flying clouds caused poor visibility, but the view was clear at the lower level. At 4 o'clock a squadron of aeroplanes from the south crossed the French Concession and the International Settlement. They were heading north and were evidently bent on again attacking the Japanese warships. A tremendous bombardment by Japanese anti aircraft guns ensued.

No bomb explosions were observed for a long time. Then from one aeroplane two bombs were seen to drop where Tibet Road crosses Avenue Edward VII., the boundary between the International Settlement and the French Concession. There followed immediately a huge belch of red flame and a tremendous explosion. These two bombs killed 450 persons and wounded 650, including five foreigners. They also destroyed 12 motorcars.

Later another pair of bombs were dropped between the Cathay Hotel and the Palace Hotel, which stand opposite each other where Nanking Road, the main thoroughfare in the International Settlement, joins the Bund. These bombs killed and wounded hundreds more, including about 12 foreigners.

At the same time an attempt was made to bomb H. M. cruiser Cumberland, which had brought Vice-Admiral Sir Charles Little, Commander-in-Chief, China Station, from North China to Shanghai, and the heavy cruiser Augusta, flagship of the United States Asiatic Fleet. These two ships were lying off Woosung in the Whangpoo River. Two dives were made over the Cumberland, but the attacks luckily failed because the pilots flattened out too early and misdirected their bombs.

To Fight Lewis to the Bitter End

American Federation Takes Its Stand; Has Bearing On the Ontario Elections.

(Brantford Expositor)

THE AMERICAN Federation of Labor has decided to fight the Committee for Industrial Organization framed by John L. Lewis to the bitter end. This was the key-note of the seventy-fourth annual convention of the New York State Federation of Labor. The delegates at this conference did not mince their language, but declared that the Lewis organization not only divided the ranks of labor and discredited the parent organization, which had achieved so much in the last half-century for the cause of the workers, but was also unpatriotic, inasmuch as Lewis was seeking to use it as a stepping stone to political power. William Green, the President of the American Federation of Labor, characterized the Lewis faction as a "spitting, tearing,rending movement."

If the labor elements in the United States believe that the time has arrived to choose between constitutional methods of progress and an organization that sponsors violence, sabotage, and sit-down strikes, there is good reason for the people of Ontario to take a definite stand on the matter. Premier Hepburn's action seems to have obtained very wide endorsation throughout the Province. The newspapers have not discussed the question in a partisan manner, but have expressed strong and independent views, as the following quotation from the Hamilton Spectator shows: "Mr. Hepburn's forthright utterances are greatly to be preferred to Mr. Rowe's equivocal language, in our judgment." It is unfortunate that a question of this kind should have been dragged into politics, especially in an election in which there are so many other important issues to be dealt with. Nevertheless, it is bound to be a widely-discussed matter during the next few weeks.

They work in shifts, changing from week to week, from day to night duty, but invariably put in an average of 12 hours per day. They have no day off for rest or recreation.

BLUEBERRIES

BLUEBERRIES mean one thing to one who has picked them from their bushes, and another thing to one who has bought rather stale dried-up berries from a store. There is a difference.

But apparently cultivated blueberries are in a class apart.

In the State of Washington are only two growers of this delectable fruit. The last man to go into the business got his plants down east, carefully prunes and cultivates, and often has berries three-quarters of an inch in diameter—about the size of small plumbs.

Probably no one in the east ever thought of cultivation, the fruit being so widely grown—and all ready to be picked.

Dream Comes True Gets Hole-In-One

LONDON, Sept. 1—(CP).—Talk about your coincidences.

"Last night I dreamed I holed out in one," said Walter Gatward to his caddie as he walked to the first tee at the Bush Hill golf course.

"Which hole?" asked the caddie.

"The 12th," said Gatward.

Two hours later his dream came true.

Gatward's celebrations at the club bar were abruptly stopped when another golfer came in smiling and ordered drinks all round.

"I have just holed out in one," explained Ernest Smith.

"Which hole?" asked Gatward.

"The 12th," replied Smith.

The distance is 112 yards.

UTILITIES LEFT HOLDING THE BAG

Left holding the bag on a number of recent occasions by fly-by-the-night refreshment booth and restaurant proprietors and by transient apartment dwellers, the Peterborough Utilities Commission decided to check such losses on Tuesday. In future, two months' advance on gas and electricity bills will be demanded in such cases where risk may exist, at the discretion of the Commision accountant.

Two apartment houses in particular were mentioned by Commissioners during discussion of the matter. On recent occasions, apartment tenants flew their coops without warning and without paying their gas and light bills, it was said. The apartment owners could not be held responsible, as the contracts were made directly with the tenants, it appeared.

Several hot dog stands folded up without warning and left Utilities bills during the summer, it was reported.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Sept. 1—(CP).—Wheat future moved irregularly today for the third successive session on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Moderate export buying brought prices up from seasonal low points, but a reaction in the final minutes left values ⅝ cents lower to unchanged.

Trading was quiet and hedging of yesterday's 2,262,000-bushel wheat receipts from Western Canada was light.

After starting with fractional losses on reports of rain in the Argentine, wheat future quickly reacted to purchases of 250,000 bushels by export interests and southern investment buying.

EQUIPMENT COSTS AROUND $3,000.00

CAMPBELLFORD Sept. 1—The regular meeting of the High School Board was devoted to the discussion of the proposed equipment for the Household Arts and Manual Training Rooms which are to be ready for occupancy by the middle of September. Although the suggestion was made that the purchase of all necessary electrical equipment be left in the hands of the chairman of the Property committee to purchase locally in order to expedite the work of installation, it was the general feeling of the Board that the articles should be bought by tender and a motion to that effect was passed. A further motion authorized the purchase of the recommended equipment for the Manual Training Room, which is estimated at about $814.00 without the required hand tools. Mr. F. C. Bonnycastle, chairman of the Property committee, stated that the total cost of the equipment for the two rooms would be in the neighborhood of $3,000, which would leave the Board's share (making allowance for the Provincial grant of 50 p.c.) at $1,500.

Although the rumor that several cases of infantile paralysis were reported in the district, was placed before the Board, it was decided after taking the matter up with the M.O.H., that no delay in the date of school's re-opening would be made.

A report from the Property committee indicated that four windows in the room of Principal Chas. Haig of the Public school had been broken recently. Several good sized stones found on the floor of the room indicated the cause of the break. Mr. Bonnycastle also reported that the wire fence between the Johnson property and the Public school had been broken. On motion it was decided to have the fence repaired and to take further steps to prevent children from playing on it.

Following the passing of the accounts the meeting was adjorned.

made it obligatory for parents to send their children to school if the schools were kept open.

"Naturally, they should not be placed in this position where there is danger," the Deputy Minister said. "The schools should be closed where there is danger. Theatres are in a different position. Parents do not have to send their children to the theatres if they are open."

Children Worst Hit.

Statisticians stated that the victims of infantile paralysis were very largely children. In the 1930 epidemic, 86 per cent. of those who contracted the disease were under the age of 20 and 62 per cent. were unde rthe age of 10 years. The total number of cases in 1930 was 671 with 92 deaths. In 1929 there were 477 caseswith 46 deaths. It is doubtful if the percentage of deaths in the present epidemic is as large. Out of 611 patients in this instance there had been approximately 20 deaths, the statisticians said.

The epidemic, they stated, started this year in the Niagara Peninsula. Sections of the Province where the disease had reached epidemic proportions were given as Middlesex, Norfolk, Wentworth, the Muskoka district and Frontenac. In the district of Barrie and farther north, it was noticeable that most of the cases were of adults, they said.

Statisticians pointed out that up to Aug. 21, when the latest complete report had reached them, there had been 409 cases. Since that time serum had been provided for 318 additional cases, including 86 cases on Sunday and Monday, bringing the total number of cases to 727.

In Toronto 127 cases had been reported up to Aug. 21, and since that time serum had been provided for 129 further cases, the officials said. The serum sent out from the departmental laboratories had been sent to 160 centres throughout the Province.

One statistician told the press that it was possible that the epidemic might run its course sooner than in 1930 as cases had been reported earlier. There were fifty cases reported between January and July, an additional fifty-eight on Aug. 7, a further seventy-two on Aug. 14, and 231 on Aug. 21.

With Nasal Spray Result.

No further attempt would be made to try out the zinc sulphate nasal spray until there was some indication of its results among the 5,000 children in Toronto, officials said. "With the spray used over that number of children, we should have an answer to its efficacy when the experiment is completed and the observations made. Until then, we shall not recommend its use elsewhere in the Province," they explained.

Still Holiday Time.

It still was holiday time today to thousands of Ontario children. In more than a score of urban centres and rural townships school bells failed to toll the dirge that signalled the end of vacation days. The kids had another week—many of them a fortnight—in which to play.

But the members of the various boards of education were not all of one mind as to the effectiveness of the measure. Many were of the opinion the children would be better protected in the schools, where medical supervision is provided and that adequate supervisory steps could not be taken if they were scattered.

STAY-AT-HOME STRIKE.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Sept. 1—(CP Cable).—Parents today were conducting a stay-at-home strike for their children following a decision to reopen the schools, which had been closed in the Melbourne district owing to infantile paralysis.

The disease is increasing and only a few children returned to school. Cases are averaging 60 a week and so far there have been 17 deaths.

ARE YOU ONLY A THREE-QUARTER WIFE?

THERE are certain things a woman has to put up with and be a good sport.

Men, because they are men, can never understand a three-quarter wife—a wife who is all love and kindness three weeks in a month and a hell cat the rest of the time.

No matter how your back aches—no matter how loudly your nerves scream—don't take it out on your husband.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

Champion Typists Meet

(Examiner Correspondence)

BETHANY, Sept. 1.—On Sunday, August 29 at 1.30 o'clock a reunion service for the Preston and Hannah families was held at St. Mary's Church, Manvers parish, the rector, Rev. A. R. Holden officiating.

The address was based from the gospel for the day, my 14th Sunday after Trinity, ???? Luke 17 and 16, theme "Giving Him Thanks."

A hearty welcome was extended by the rector to the friends gathered to worship in this old family church of their fathers with the attendant congregation present. Several having been detained by illness, who belonged to the immediate circle, who had gathered from Barrie, Gelert, Toronto, Peterborough, Bethany and Hamilton.

The rector referred to the building of St. Mary's Church, some 86 years ago, mainly by the families five fathers, who had donated the ground for the beautiful cemetery surrounding it, and extending an invitation that they continue to meet annually, for worship and to "Give Him Thanks." Through the kindness and generosity of Mrs. D. R. Hughes (nee Lila Hannah) of Toronto to whom St. Mary's Church resident congregation are deeply indebted, for the magnificent gift, of redecorating and beautifying this beautiful old edifice, a few years ago, thereby enabling them and their families to continue to worship in St. Mary's, dedicated so many years ago, for the glory of God.

The late Mr. Isiac Preston, who gave the grounds for the cemetery plot and Mary Johnston whom the church was named, were instrumental and most active in giving of their labor and sustenance in the beginning to the community and some families gathered in reunion on Sunday were direct grand children of those pioneers. During the service, Miss Janet Lawery of Chesley, rendered in pleasing voice a beautiful solo.

TORONTO—A 32-foot motor launch burned to the waterline three-quarters of a mile off suburban Port Credit last night. Raymond Roy, Toronto, the owner, his two guests, Raymond Paquette and A. C. White, were forced to swim to shore, a 20-minute effort.

NASAL SPRAY IS UNPROVED M.O.H. CLAIMS

The nasal spray must be regarded as an unproved and experimental measure in the fight against a spread of infantile paralysis, Medical Officer of Health Dr. G. Murray Fraser said when asked for an opinion today.

"Until it has been absolutely proved it is effective, I can't say I approve," Dr. Fraser stated. "I think it is apt to give a false sense of security."

The medical officer commented that the spray has been used extensively in the United States and varying results were reported. While in one large area use of the spray treatment apparently gave no immunity, more hopeful results were reported from another area, he said.

Not Provided

The nasal spray treatment is not being provided in Peterborough through the Health office but persons desiring their children to have the spray can obtain treatment through their family doctors, Dr. Fraser said. He stated his attitude in the matter co-incided with that of the Provincial Department of Health.

The view that the opening of schools here today would prove an advantage rather than a disadvantage in the event of a further spread of the disease in the city was expressed by Dr. Fraser.

"The children will be in no more danger in the schools than playing in the parks and at the bathing beaches," he said. 'In schools they will be under medical and nursing supervision and the supervision of their teachers so that any sign of the disease is apt to be detected at an early stage. It would be pointless to close the schools unless all other places where children gather such as Sunday schools, churches, picnics and bathing beaches be also closed.

"There are only four cases in the city, all of which are recovering now," Dr. Fraser said. "I certainly do not see any reason for closing schools nor can I see any reason for alarm."

FLYING BOAT BE SEEN AT PORT HOPE

A chance to see the great trans-Atlantic flying boat Cambria in flight will be afforded persons in this area as it passes from Kingston up the shore of Lake Ontario to Toronto Friday. The schedule of a goodwill flight the ship will make over Ontario was announced in Montreal today.

Leaving Montreal at 9.45 a.m. Friday, the Cambrai wil visit Ottawa. She will remain there for a time and then fly over Kingston, Belleville, Trenton, Cobourg, Port Hope and Oshawa, landing at Toronto.

A tour over Western Ontario points will be made Saturday. After further stops at Windsor, Toronto and Hamilton, the ship will return to Montreal via Belleville, Kingston, Brockville and Cornwall. As the schedule does not state the ship will stick closely to the Lakeshore route from Toronto to Belleville on the return flight, it is considered possible that a flight over Peterborough is to be included at that time.

Building Activity Declined In August

Forty-one permits issued during the month just ended authorized building construction in the city to the total value of $15,465 records on file at the city engineer's office indicate. This sum was a decrease over August of last year in which month permits aggregated $23,523.

Of the total permits issued in August they were classified as follows: Miscellaneous, 31—$4,030; dwellings, 3—$7,200; alterations to dwellings, 2—$3,900; garages, 4—$335.

For the first eight months of the current year building construction aggregated $170,807 by comparison with $182,805.75 for the same period of last year.

GOD SAVE THE KING!

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, September 2

An eventful and memorable day is presaged from the powerful planetary operations. Matters of first importance and far-reaching effect will occur, in culmination to a period of static or stagnation. Breaking away from these congestions may result in radical change, with new interests of major significance, and with associations and environs strange and quite unforeseen.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of notable events, with many sudden things precipitating that will have strong bearing on the future life, its contracts, environs and interests. Change, removal, travel, adventure and romance looms, with elderly women playing important roles. High tensions of initiative and enterprise will engineer such moves into fortune, with increased values in real possessions and other stabilizing factors for progress and properity.

A child born on this day may have many talents, energies and graces for a successful, progressive career. It may be profound and steady as well as gentle, friendly, attractive and romantic.

CAMPBELL SETS NEW SPEED RECORD FOR MOTORBOATS

LOCARNO, Switzerland, Sept. 1 (AP)—Sir Malcolm Campbell, famed British sportsman, added the world's motorboat speed record to his international automobile speed standard today.

The 52-year-old Briton piloted his 23-foot speedboat, Bluebird, over Lake Maggiore's smooth waters at a rate of 126.795 miles per hour to eclipse Gar Wood's five-year-old mark of 124.86 m.p.h.

Sir Malcolm already holds the world automobile record of 301.33 m.p.h., set at Bonneville Salt Flats in Utah in 1935.

Sir Malcolm's aquatic Bluebird—his record-smashing automobile was called by the same name—was powered by a Rolls Royce aero engine and travelled over the measure mile course in smooth and effortless fashion.

Likely Turn To Air

With land-speed record already among his trophies, Sir Malcolm built his motorboat with the idea of lifting the water speed record as well. With that now in his grasp, it is suggested the Briton might well turn to the air in his never-ending quest for new thrills. He was in the Royal Flying Corps during the Great War.

Bluebird's speed under the metric system was 202.57 kilometres per hour compared with Wood's 200.14. Wood established the former record at Algonac, Mich., Sept. 20, 1932.

Bluebird, not only captured the unlimited motorboat record but also set up a new mark for single engined boats. The previous record for this type of craft was 110.10 m.p.h., established by Hubert Scott-Paine's Miss Briton III at Venice, Italy, in 1934.

A. B. CUNNINGHAM SERIOUSLY HURT

A. B. Cunningham, 331 Reid street, director of Peterboro's community gardens for the last four years, was seriously injured in a traffic accident on George street, north of Brock street, at 12.20 p.m. to-day. Crossing from the west to the east side of the street in front of F. R. J. MacPherson's plumbing and heating shop, Mr. Cunningham avoided a south bound automobile to which his attention was attracted by its warning horn and stepped in front of another car, going north, driven by T. F. Beatty, 242 Dublin street, proprietor of the service station at 124 Simcoe street, according to police information. He was carried unconscious into MacPherson's store, and was given first aid attention by a nurse from the United State who is in the district on a vacation.

Mr. Cunningham was removed to Nicholls Hospital, and it was reported he had suffered concussion, a broken arm, and severe head injury.

The Rambling REPORTERS

SPINS OWN COCOON

When little Constance Reeds, 232 Wolsley street, caught an unusually big, green caterpillar on her lawn yesterday and put it in a bottle to bring to The Examiner for identification, the caterpillar decided to take things philosophically. It immediately began to spin a cocoon about itself in he bottle and by today was completely enshrouded in its silken cover.

The caterpillar was the not uncommon tomato worm, about four inches in length and a half inch in diameter with decorative yellow and red bumps on its body. The little girl intends to put the cocoon away to see what kind of butterfly emerges in the Spring. —CPK.

Oshawa Plays Here On Thursday Night

Oshawa GM-men meet the Petes here tomorrow (Thursday) night at 5.30 in Riverside Park. It is the second game of the two-in-three C.O.B.L. semi-finals, the first in Oshawa ending in a 5-5 draw. The team that wins this tilt tomorrow has a big edge in the short series and should go through to the finals against Kingston. It may be the final appearance here this year of the local ballsters, if they should lose, as the other game—or games—will be in Oshawa. However, the Petes are confident now of knocking off the 1936 Ontario champions, after their fine showing Tuesday in the Motor City.

A huge twilight crowd is expected to see these teams clash Thursday night. It ought to be a grand ball game between well-matched squads battling bitterly to cop the nod. Joe Jakafby is likely to pitch for the Collins' crew, with Whitehill and Kitchen in reserve. Lefty Biddle will probably go on the Motor City mound, and a stirring hurlers' duel is anticipated. Both clubs will be at full strength for the important melee and plenty of exciting baseball should result.

1938 EXHIBITION BE WEEK LATER DIRECTORS SAY

Holding of the 1938 Peterborough Exhibition a week later than it was held this year was agreed upon by the Board as it reviewed the success of the recent show at a meeting last night. The change will be recommended to the 1938 Board.

Considerable discussion centered on the subject. Farm members claim this year's Fair missed the patronage of large numbers of farmers busy with harvest work. A fuller and higher quality range of agricultural exhibits could be had at the later date, it was argued.

The retarded dates would place the Peterborough Exhibition in the same week as the Ottawa Exhibition and in the week immediately preceding the Toronto Exhibition.

General satisfaction with the outcome of Exhibition this year, a new attendance record being attained despite poor weather, was expressed by the Board under the chairmanship of President Tom Brown. Members endorsed the principal policies followed this year in ticket sales and in the disposal of four cars as attendance inducements.

The Board approved acceptance of a new junior field crop competition as part of its junior farmer program. To be organized by Agricultural Representative Art Runions, the competition will take the place of the Boys Winter Wheat Club which concluded its activities this year.

The competition will be open only to boys on the original wheat club enrolment, Mr. Runions said. Organization will be carried out immediately in order that sowing will not be delayed. The wind-up of the competition will be a showing at the 1938 Exhibition.

The project has been given approval of J. A. Carroll, superintendent of the Agricultural Societies Branch of the Department of Agriculture.

The cottage in Minsk, White Russia, which was the first headquarters of a Russian Social-Democratic Labor Party in 1898, has been restored and opened as a museum.

Evening Is The Best Time To Sell Muskmelons As People Stay Home

"Yes, this is about the best time of day to sell muskmelons," said a grower from the Cobourg district who was making his calls about 9 o'clock last evening. When the weather has been warm you find a good many people sitting on their verandahs and you have a chance to reach them at once."

"Better than morning or afternoon?" an Examiner man asked.

"Ever so much; at least three times as fast," was the ready answer.

"How many of those melons will you get from an acre?"

"Pretty close to 250 bushels," replied the Cobourg man, who went on to explain: "I was going to get some new seed this spring of a variety which is large and with very little seed space in the centre but the price was $40 per pound."

"You mean that — $40 for one pound of seed?"

"Yes, that is what they wanted, but it looked so stiff I did not get it although it might pay in the end."

"But can't you use your own seed from the melons you grow?"

"Yes, that can be done for a year or so, but then it seems to run out. The edible part of the melon seems to get less each year and the seed and pulp part inside grows greater, so it is necessary then to start with new seed."

"Of the $40 kind?" The Examiner suggested.

"No, I haven't gone that high yet. I tried a new kind this year and paid 25 cents for a package and in it there were 35 seeds. This has been a good season for them, but it takes a lot of selling and moving around to get rid of an acre before they start going bad on you at the end of the season. That's why I prefer to work at home in the daytime and get out to the city to sell at night."

"So it must be a fact that people stay home in the evenings?"

"They do. Take these streets around here, and tonight I dare say three out of every four houses have the people sitting out on the verandah."

SMITH TOWNSHIP SCHOOL IS CLOSED PARALYSIS CASE

Re-opening of Hall's School of school section No. 4 in Smith township was postponed until after Labor Day today when a case of infantile paralysis appeared in the area. The case is the first to be reported from the Peterborough rural district.

A young girl, the victim is believed to have a good chance for successful recovery as the disease was diagnosed in its early stage. It came to the attention of township Medical Officer Dr. J. A. Morgan on Tuesday. The source of her infection is undetermined. She had not been away recently or in any danger area as far as is known.

The decision to keep Hall's School closed was reached hastily by school trustees when informed of the case. Postponment of the opening for the week will give them an opportunity to determine whether any widespread danger exists, they decided.

Dr. Morgan said there is no need for general alarm in the County at present. Almost every summer produces one or two cases of infantile paralysis, he said.

The matter will likely be discussed at a meeting of the Board of Health under the chairmanship of Reeve George Mullen Thursday afternoon.

HARVEY MURPHY LET OUT ON BAIL AFTER HEARING

red marks on her face, which he told her was impetigo. He recognized the condition because he had himself been troubled with it.

On August 10, McGillen said he next saw the girl near the Bonner-Worth Mill. He did not particularly observe the marks on her face because he got some tear gas in his eyes.

On the 12th of August, witness testified, he saw the girl on the Market Square.

In cross-examination by Mr. Cohen he described the effect of the tear gas on himself, stating he had found it disturbing and his eyes and ears were irritated.

He said he had not heard Murphy's remarks relative to tear gas because he had not been in a position to hear, but he had seen the girl go the platform with her face bandaged.

He said the crowd was very orderly and in good humor and that Murphy's speech did not appear to have any unusual reaction on the crowd.

Medical Evidence.

Dr. Agnes Moffat saw Ivena Reid on two occasions, she related in evidence. The first occasion was on the afternoon of August 12 a few hours before the strike meeting in question. The doctor said the girl was suffering from impetigo.

Speaking of the treatment, Dr. Moffatt said she bather the sores and applied a five per cent ammoniated mercury ointment and afterwards applied bandages to keep the ointment from rubbing off and to keep the sores from spreading.

Dr. Moffat saw the girl on the following day and after removing the bandages suggested the girl should undergo another treatment if the condition was to be cleared up.

Asked by Mr. Cohen if she knew Dr. Norman M. Wrong as a skin specialist, she replied in the affirmative, but would not commit herself to a positive statement when asked if she would agree with Dr. Wrong if she knew he had positively declared tear gas was a skin irritant.

She herself did not believe tear gas was a skin irritant, though she did not go so far as to say impetigo might be spread if some? one having tear gas started to rub their eyes.

"Are you prepared to say tear gas would aggravate such a condition," she was asked by defence counsel.

"No, I am not," Dr. Moffatt declared.

Dr. J. H. Eastwood, who saw Ivena Reid on the same day that Dr. Moffat first saw the girl agreed the patient had a condition known as impetigo.

Dr. Herbert N. Young, who saw the Reid girl on August 10, said on that occasion she had three or four spots of impetigo on her face. The marks were easily discernible and were weeping or erupting. He saw the girl on the following Friday and the condition was considerably aggravated. The sores had spread over a greater portion of the girl's face.

He could not say what had caused the spread of the disease, but he did not consider it natural that it should have spread to such an extent.

Under cross-examination, Dr. Young told defence counsel that on the second occasion he examined the girl the condition was unduly worse, and agreed an irritant of some kind would have the effect he noted.

He expressed the opinion tear gas could have caused such irritation, and in the absence of any other explanation thought it reasonable to suppose tear gas had aggravated the condition.

Provincial Constable Albert Clark of Kitchener, who was one of the squad of provincials sent here on strike duty, gave evidence of being on duty on the market square. He saw Murphy giving a lecture to a group of people. The officer was mingling with the crowd on instructions of Chief Constable Newhall, and saw a girl with a bandage round her head brought to the platform.

Murphy said in effect the officer testified, "That this girl is an example of the danger or the effect of tear gas. He put the girl on the platform, and said this will show you the brutality police used on Tuesday morning. This girl's face was hurt by tear gas. I think it is time we should put a stop to that sort of thing and clear the tear gas out of the police station."

The officer said the remarks more or less excited the people around him.

Under cross-examination, Constable Clerk declared that to every remark made by speakers pertaining to the police there was an outbreak of cheering and booing.

In reply to a question by defence counsel, witness remarked, "When Murphy showed the girl with her face bandaged, he did really excite the crowd. If they had leadership at that time there would have been trouble."

Constable John Deannard of the City Police Department said that during the week beginning August 9 he saw Ivena Reid near the Bonner-Worth mill on several occasions.

Chief Constable Samuel Newhall said that as a result of something he heard, he went to the market square during the meeting on the evening of August 10, and arrived just as the girl was called to the platform. "I heard Murphy say, this is the work of the brutal police. She will be disfigured for life."

Witness said Murphy continued to state that something should be done about the tear gas kept at the police station and there was a very hostile feeling amongst the crowd.

Speaking of the effects of tear gas, the Chief stated in the witness box he had received three or four good doses of it during his lifetime, chiefly at police conventions at Chicago, Montreal, and also at Exhibition grounds.

He had never seen anyone suffer with skin complaints as a result of tear gas and he did not believe it was in the least harmful, though it had the ability to make a person extremely uncomfortable for forty-five minutes or so.

He told Mr. Cohen during cross-examination that tear gas was a good cure for bad head colds and that it had been known to have the effect of sobering up a drunk.

The Chief declared that after Murphy's remarks about tear gas, the crowd started to straggle away. He himself returned to the police station to prepare a charge against Murphy and later came out to interview some citizens.

Chief Newhall was unable to recall names of the citizens he interviewed with exception of Mr. McGillen, and Constable Archie Menzies and Constable Clark of Kitchener.

This evidence closed the crown's case.

The defence offered no evidence, neither did the accused make any statement in answer to the formal question.

DESERVING CREDIT.

Fred T. Mahood of this city has accomplished a great achievement. Some years ago he undertook to remove the stones of a vacant lot between London and Edinburgh streets, on the east side of George street, in view of preparing it for garden purposes. He took twelve team loads of it, and to look over his garden this year we would conclude it was a great credit to him; such a variety of vegetables all up to date in appearance. Greater credit is due to him from the fact that his physical reserve is below par. Stones are still coming to the surface, but Mr. Mahood has gathered them and placed them in a large pile between two advertising boards that are placed in the centre of the lot. And they are there as a monument to his determination to succeed.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

FOR awhile the past two weeks it looked like our ball teams were being rubbed out of Provincial playdown competition very rapidly, with Belleville boys using the eraser on us. Chuck Dorrington's Young Petes were knocked off in junior O.A.S.A. by the Aajmaa outfit of Belleville and Herb Ralph's Rotarians dropped out in junior O.B.A.A. before the Kiwanis crew of the Quinte city. However, the Westclox men softballers ousted the Corbin Locks of Belleville in O.A.S.A. intermediate playdowns, and our Westclox gals put the skids under Oshawa in the P.W.S.U. series. So we still have gals' and men's softball squads in playdowns, Auburns still quite prominent in lacrosse and the Petes still in the baseball wars. We don't know how long these teams will last—but they're in there yet.

* * * * * *

WESTCLOX damsels are playing in Ottawa today in the first tilt of their second round P.W.S.U. playdowns. Return game—or games, if two are necessary—will be here on Saturday. Either at the Bowl or in Riverside Park, probably the latter. Westclox men meet Kingston next in the second round of their O.A.S.A. playdowns, first game here. Kingston put out Cornwall. If Belleville were good enough to win the Ontario title last year, the classy Clockmakers should be just about good enough for it this semester, we should think.

* * * * * *

LOOKS like a big year for Westclox sports, what? They had a good puck squad in the Senior City Hockey League last winter, losing out in playoffs to Lakefield. They won the gals' cage title again at the Y.W.C.A. the past spring. And they won city titles in both gals' and men's softball this summer—both these latter clubs also winning first rounds in Ontario playdowns. The employees of this company also go in for bowling and shop softball. Yeah, they're having a big year in athletics and it should do a lot to give the workers a satisfied spirit and a strong company feeling. With the advertising not doing any harm, either. The C.G.E. Company is also prominent in a lot of local athletic events.

FRED BEAUDRY, filling in on the Kingston sports desk as Walsh vacations, writes: "A lot of local interest is centred in the Oshawa-Peterborough playoffs for the right to meet Kingston in C.O.B.L. finals. The Ontario champions really should have no trouble knocking off the in-and-out Petes. In fact, we'll be greatly surprised if the Petes even made it close. Oshawa has a wide edge in batting, pitching, base-running and almost every department but fielding. Biddle and Turner should register wins over the Petes though rumor persists that Jake's flipper is not what it used to be."

* * * * * *

NO DOUBT, the Kingston filler-in is quite surprised today as he hears of the 5-5 tie game betwixt the GM-men and Petes in Oshawa last eve. It was really 6-5 in the 10th for the locals when the game was called for darkness. So the score reverts back to the ninth and Burton is robbed of a triple in that heat and Calladine a single. The boys went in there battling yesterday and should have won. They shelled out Turner and didn't find the great Biddle too big a mystery. Russ Kitchen pitched a swell courageous game, not letting teammates' errors in bad spots get him down. He earned a win but at least he didn't get a loss. Some 600 fans and the Oshawa squad got the scare of their lives in this first playoff tussle as it looked like curtains for the 1936 Ontario champs.

* * * * * *

THESE teams tangle here tomorrow (Thursday), e'en in Riverside, and they go back to Oshawa on Saturday. A replay of the tie game, if necessary, will likely be in Oshawa on Labor Day. The Petes were peeved when the game was called last p.m. when they were a run up, but it was pretty dark and the homesters might have pushed across a couple in the dusk. The umping was okay. It looks like Lefty Biddle and Joe Jakafby in tomorrow's game here and a huge crowd will likely be on deck for this big playoff affair. It will be a grand battle.

VERN JANEWAY of this city will compete Saturday in the 2-mile swim at the Toronto Exhibition for the Canadian amateur championship. A big field of aquatic stars will take part, but Vern's chances are rated good. Local swim experts figure Janeway about fourth. Flanagan of Miami is thought to be the class of the entries, with Devlin of the Broadview "Y" a probable runner-up—or is it swimmer-up?—and likely Pirie of Central "Y" third. Then Vern Janeway of Peterborough. Yeah, that is how some of the boys around here predict the finish. Vern has been doing some great swimming around the district this summer at regattas and he has the speed, form and endurance to go along with the best of 'em.

LOCAL 222 lacrossers of Oshawa copped a neat win over Norwood in the Motor City the other night, it being the first of the C.O.L.A. semi-finals. Return game is in Norwood Friday night and the 22-ers should easily hold their 15-goal lead. Norwood gave them a fine fight for a time but faded gradually. Barron scored 11 goals in a great attacking performance, and he'll be a hard gee to hold when the Oshawa gang plays the Auburns next week in the league finals. Yeah, that will be a serious series, all right.

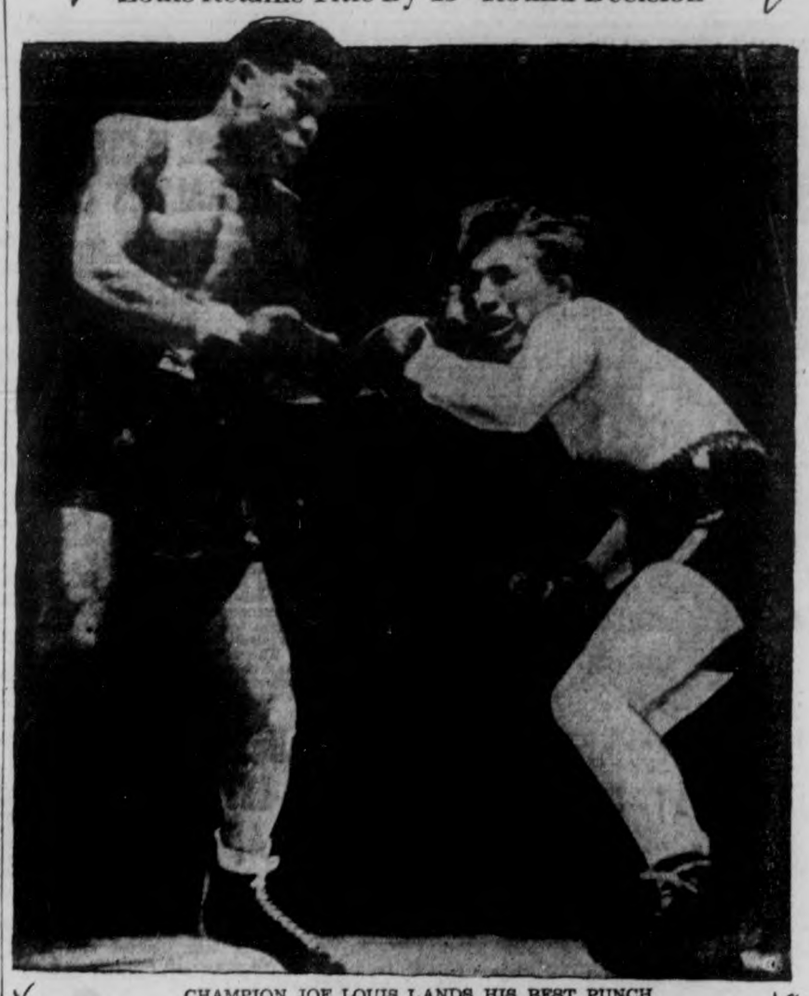
Louis Retains Title By 15 - Round Decision



CHAMPION JOE LOUIS LANDS HIS BEST PUNCH

Fighting an aggressive and courageous battle, challenger Tommy Farr, of Wales, just failed by a decision to capture the heavyweight championship of the world, when he met title-hilder Joe Louis in their 15-round bout in New York. Given little chance by the majority of boxing writers to even stay the route against Louis, the Welshman from Tonypandy had Detroit's negro slugger puzzled by his persistent crowding style and a fast left hand and won recognition from the crowd as a game and rugged scrapper. He failed to show enough power in his punches to threaten a knock-out. Louis' best round was the seventh, when he had Tommy in trouble from a succession of left and right hands to the head which cut the challenger badly. Farr came back in succeeding rounds to force the champion to give ground. At the finish Tommy's face was badly battered. Louis, whose face also bore evidence that Tommy's left had landed frequently won a unanimous decision. This picture from the ringside tells the story of the scrap.

Rudy York Of Detroit Tigers Breaks One Of Ruth's Records

Bengal Backstop Shatters the Bambino's Mark For Seventeen in One Month.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1. — Bump Hadley held the Cleveland Indians to eight hits in hurling the New York Yankees to a 7 to 3 American League victory. It was his fourth straight and ninth of the season. He started shaky, the Indians taking a three-run lead in the first three innings. Harder held the Yanks to two hits until the fifth, when Lou Gehrig clouted his thirty-first homer of the year—with the bases loaded—and gave New York enough runs to win. Averill clouted a circuit smash for Cleveland. Hudlin, Brown and Wyatt were found for a total of thirteen hits by the New York sluggers, Powell setting the pace with three singles.

Breaks Record

Rudy York, sensational slugging catcher of the Detroit Tigers, hit two home runs to run his total to eighteen for the month of August, one more than Babe Ruth's record of seventeen set in September, 1927. He also got two single, a "four-for-four" day, in leading the Tigers to a 12 to 3 triumph over the Washington Senators. He batted in six runs and ran his season home run total to thirty. Roxie Lawson was solved for eleven hits in scoring his seventeenth win.

The Chicago White Sox came from behind to score two runs in the ninth and nose out the Boston Red Sox, 7 to 6. Jimmy Foxx had sent Boston to a one-run lead by belting a home run with one aboard in the first half of the final frame. Manager Jimmy Dykes singled home the tying run, and scored the winner on Luke Sewell's one-base blow.

Nose Out Athletics 3-1

The St. Louis Browns nosed the Philadelphia Athletics, 2 to 1, behind the eight-hit pitching of Elon Hogsett in the first game of a double-header. Sam West's two-bagger and Joe Vosnik's single in eighth and Clift getting another in and gave St. Louis the winning run.

The A's triumphed in the night-cap, 7 to 3, Rookie Edgar Smith scattering seven hits for his third win. All of St. Louis's runs were the result of homers, Hemsley clouted one with a mate aboard in the sixth broke a 1-to-1 deadlock in the ninth.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

ON MONDAY next, Labor Day, there will be a mixed tournament held on our local greens; 2 p.m. is the hour and the fee 25 cents; it will be wide open. The draw will be from the board, with Mrs. R. Hendry and Mrs. H. Staunton in charge.

IT IS EXPECTED that a number of ladies from Lakefield will pay a friendly visit to our club on Friday afternoon and then in the evening compete in our mixed tournament.

"WHEN IS a dead bowl, not a dead bowl?" This question, on the face of it, may seem ridiculous. Supposing a player belonging to a rink playing opposite you, should innocently pick up one of your bowls and place it on the bank; that bowl automatically becomes dead. After the mistake has been discovered and both skips are agreed it was a mistake, then the bowl shall be replaced as near its original position as possible.

A decided change in putting greens calls for a change in putters. When the putting surface is slow and heavy it is best to use a putter of at least medium weight. When the surface is fast so that only a light tap is needed to send the ball across the green, a putter with a light head is needed.

I have often suggested a change in putters to those lacking confidence in their work on the greens and now we have an instance where it is rather necessary. The biggest handicap a player can have is the feeling that his putts will run too far beyond the cup. Such a feeling robs him of all touch and rhythm. He either jabs at the ball or tries to scrape it into the hole.

In a short time this sort of thing creeps into his handling of other clubs so that his whole game is affected. A light putter would prevent all of this damage. The lighter head enables him to stroke the ball on the fast putting surface without being in such danger of sending it too far.

This club also responds better to any touch the player may want to use on certain putts. It is particularly helpful in making tricky side-hill putts where the least bit of extra roll would send the ball off the green. The next time you find yourself on fast greens give the lighter putter a trial.

LEAFS BEATEN 10TH STRAIGHT TO BOOST WINGS

TORONTO, Sept. 1.—(CP)—According to the envious hurlers of seven other International League clubs, the Newark pitchers "should pay to get in the ball park." Which is a left-handed tribute to the tremendous hitting power the 1937 champions carry.

The Bears' pitchers can on occasion show they have the stuff to pitch under any conditions. The second game of Newark's double bill with Syracuse Chiefs last night was one of those occasions and Marius Ugo Russo was the hurler.

Rosso turned in a three-hitter to give the Bears a 1-0 victory, their 100th, over the brilliant but erratic Johnny Vandermeer after the Chiefs had beat out a 9-2 tattoo with their war clubs in the opener. Russo struck out five to lead Vandercoer in his specialty by two whiffs.

Buffalo Bisons gained a half game on Baltimore in their fight for fourth place and a shot at the playoffs by shading Montreal Royals 9-8. The Herd scored three times in the seventh to take the game and reduce the Orioles' lead to two games. Truett Sewell of the Bisons was not around at the finish but he won his 17th game of the season, while the Herd combed Crip Polli and Jim Pattison for 14 hits.

Toronto Maple Leafs lost their 10th straight game when they bowed to Rochester Red Wings 3-2. The Wings jumped Joe Mulligan for three runs in the eighth on four straight singles. Catcher Hugh Poland's blow, the last of the four, scored the tieing and winning runs.

The Baltimore-Jersey City game at Baltimore was postponed because of rain.

Campbellford Rinks Triumph in Trebles

(Examiner Correspondence)

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 1.—Two local teams and a team skipped by Mrs. W. Whitty of Stirling were the winners in the ladies' Irish trebles tournament held on Tuesday afternoon. Rinks from Norwood, Stirling, Madoc and Kingston visited the local club to take part in the tournament in which eight teams were entered. A delightful supper was served by the ladies of the Campbellford Club. The first prize for three wins with the highest score went to Mrs. W. Whitty of Stirling. She was assisted by Mrs. Le Grow and Mrs. Tompkins. The winner of the second prize was the team skipped by Mrs. W. S. Wiggins, with Miss L. Smith and Mrs. A. J. Meyers making the team. Mrs. L. B. Glover's team won third with one win and high score, and was assisted by Mrs. J. D. Mills and Mrs. F. M. Locke.

TAKE IRELAND IN NEW ROUTE FOR AIR RACE

LONDON, Sept. 1.—(CP).—With 31 entries and an enlarged itinerary this year's King's Cup air races should provide keen competition for many of Britain's top-notch aviators.

The race will be held Sept. 10 and 11 and the route has been extended to take in part of the Irish Free State and Ulster.

The first day's course is from Hatfield airport on the outskirts of London, via Skegness, Lincolnshire, York, Scarborough and Whitby to Newcastle, a compulsory landing point. The other places are "turning points," which competitors must pass.

From Newcastle the planes will fly north to Aberdeen, southwest to Glasgow and across the sea to Ulster with a control landing point at Newtownards. From there they will proceed to Dublin, the stopping place for the first night.

Starters will be divided into two classes, consisting of planes of more and less than 150 horsepower. The first day will constitute an eliminating contest. To-thirds of the number in each class who make the best showing will continue into the second and final day.

From Dublin the survivors will retrace their route to Newtownards, with turning points at Portpatrick, Carlisle and St. Bees Head and Cumberland. Blackpool, Lancashire coast resort, is a control landing point. From there the route lies via Stoke-on-Trent and Leicester to Cardiff. After a final halt there the planes will fly back to Hatfield.

Entrants include Flight-Lieut. Tommy Rose and Capt. Neville Stack, who took part in the 1934 London-Melbourne air race; C. E. Gardner, last year's winner; F. G. Miles and Flying-Officer A. E. Clouston.

R. J. Wright will pilot Lord Wakefield's entry and Capt. E. W. Percival that of Lady Wakefield. Capt. Stack is entered as co-pilot with Miss L. Dillon in the latter's craft. Brig.-General A. C. Lewin, an enthusiastic amateur, is bringing his own plane from Kenya to compete in the race. He will be his own pilot.

Most of the machines entered this year have been seen in previous races. Among the new ones are the T.K. 4, designed and built by students of de Havilland School and C.W.A. Cygnet, an all-metal cabin monoplane.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1—(AP). — Guess who's the higest paid manager in the majors? . . . No, not Joe McCarthy of the Yankees ($36,000 per), nor Bill Terry of the Giants ($27,500). . . . The lucky guy is Mickey Cochrane of Detroit. . . . We cant tell you what he draws down, but its tops. . . The info comes straight down the baseball alley and will stand up. . . . Furthermore "Black Mike is in so solid with his bosses he can lead the Tigers as long as he wants to—and doesn't have to sign a contract.

We figure Mike Jacobs cleared $50,000 for himself out of the Farr-Louis brawl. . . . which ain't exactly tin. . . . Tommy Farr took a man's sized swig of a concoction of brandy, port wine and sherry just before he left his dressing room. . . . Yum, yum. . . . As if there isn't enough heat around, we offer you the National League pennant race.

Also induced former Mayor Jimmy Walker to do same. . . . Both collected. . . Johnston said a week ago if the Welshman would only keep his head against Louis, he'd turn in a big surprise. . . . Bill Terry wants it understood he isn't about to accept a reported offer of $40,000 per to shift from the Giants to Cleveland.

FARR TO HAVE SECOND CHANCE AT HEAVY TITLE

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 (AP) — Pleased by the outcome of Monday night's title match between Joe Louis and Tommy Farr, Promoter Mike Jacobs talked gleefully today of a return bout next June that will "do better than a million."

There hasn't been time for Mike to make any definite decision as to what his next heavyweight move will be but, for the time being at least, he seemed to think that Farr's brilliant and unexpected feat in staying the limit of 15 rounds with the Brown Bomber entitled the rugged Welshman to another shot at the crown without further argument or discussion.

Although the fight failed to draw as well as he had expected, partly because of bad weather, Jacobs said he was fairly well satisfied with the gate and said he now controls not only the heavyweight champion but three of the leading contenders—Max Schmeling, who knocked out the Negro in 12 rounds; Bob Pastor, who stayed 10 rounds with him, and Farr.

He may attempt to match Schmeling either against Farr or Pastor in a Madison Square Garden feature this winter or he may forget all about that and concentrate on a second Louis-Farr engagement next June. Mike takes over the Garden's boxing division on Oct. 1.

Petes And Oshawa Tie In Semi-Final Tussle

Locals Hold GM-Men to 5-all Draw in First C.O.B.L. Play-off Contest.

The first game of the C.O.B.L. semi-finals in Oshawa last night ended in a 5-5 tie, the contest being called in the 10th for darkness. Next fixture in this two-out-of-three series will be held in Riverside Park on Thursday evening, the teams then playing in Oshawa on Saturday. If a replay of the draw tilt is necessary, it will be in Oshawa early next week.

The Petes easily earned the draw against the GM-men last night and had a 6-5 lead in the overtime stanza when it was called. They counted a run in the 10th and after May led off with a double in the extra inning, Umpire Ken Colling decided it was too dark for the players to have a fair chance at fielding balls and called off the contest. About 600 fans saw a fine battle.

After spotting the homesters an early 2-1 lead, the Petes got a run in the fifth, but Oshawa did the same. The visitors went to town to score three in the sixth, and when Oshawa got two in the seventh, they sewed it up in the eighth with a marker—and that's how the game ended.' The Petes played a bangup game all the way and deserved a victory.

Russ Goes Good

Russ Kitchen pitched winning ball for the Collins' crew and should have had a win. He kept 10 hits scattered while fanning three and issuing one walk, bearing down hard in the pinches. His support was wobbly in spots. Jack Turner started for Oshawa but was batted out in the sixth after giving four runs, seven hits and fanning one. Jake Biddle took over then and was nicked for a run, two hits and a walk as he struck out two the rest of the way. The home flingers had good support.

Whatley, Long and Kearns had two hits each for the Petes, Kearns and Long hitting doubles. Burton banged out a triple in the extra inning which did not count in the box score. Bennett, Mathews and Foley had two hits apiece for the Motors' crowd, with Rowden hitting a homer. Foley a triple and Miller and May two-base blows. Catches by Hurst, Rowden, Wallace and Starr were defensive features.

Foley led off in the first with a triple but died on third. In the second, Rowden was hit by a thrown ball, took second on Bennett's hit, stole third as Bennett also pilfered a base and scored on Starr's bad peg, Bennett taking third. The latter tallied on a hit by Turner. The Petes did not threaten till the fifth when Whatley singled and scored on a double by Long. In Oshawa's half, Foley singled, stole, moved up on Mathews' hit and scored when Kitchen missed Rowden's bunt.

Petes Get Three

The Petes got three in a big sixth frame. Kearns hit and stole, going to third when Starr singled, the latter also stealing. Both advanced a base on a hit by Burton, the latter moving ahead on the throw-in. Calladine was safe on an error that scored Starr and sent Burton to third, and the latter counted on a hit by Whatley. Biddle went in and retired the side in order, though Hurst pulled a circus grab to rob Long of a hit.

Oshawa got two in the seventh after two were out. Mathews' single got through Burton and he scored. Rowden homered to deep centre for the other marker. The Petes tied it up in the eighth when Burton was safe on Jubenville's miscue, took second on a hit by Clark and scored on a timely bingle by Long. In Oshawa's ninth, Miller as a pinch-hitter led off with a double and took third on an out but he expired on that base. In the Petes' half of the 10th, with one out, Burton tripled and scored on Calladine's single, the latter then stealing second and third but the next two going out. After May had doubled in Oshawa's half, the game was called owing to darkness.

CUBS DISLODGE GIANTS AT TOP CARDINALS HELP

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—The New York Giants were knocked out of the National League lead after a one-day tenure Tuesday when the St. Louis Cardinals slugged out an 8-to-1 triumph. The Chicago Cubs moved back ahead by licking the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Big Bob Weiland, Cardinal southpaw, kept nine hits well scattered, while his mates blasted Castleman, Brennan and Baker for 16, including four-base wallops by Mize, Padgett and Medwick. The Giants' only run came when Wally Berger clouted his fifteenth homer of the season in the fourth.

Cubs Lick Dodgers.

Chicago scored twice in the eighth to lick Brooklyn, 4 to 2. Tex Carleton, who had failed in three of his last four starts, went the route for the Cubs, distributing eight hits. With the score tied, 2 to 2, in the eighth, Galan doubled, reached third when Hassett fumbled Herman's grounder, and scored on Demaree's fly. Herman took third on Jurges's single and came home when Brown juggled Cavarretti's grounder. The win sent the Cubs a full game ahead of the Giants in the torrid race.

Pirates Shut Out 3-0.

Pittsburg was shut out, 3 to 0, by the Philadelphia Phillies. Bucky Walters gave up only five hits to the Bucs, the same number allowed by Ed Brandt. Morris Arnovich's homer with Norris and Martin aboard in the sixth gave the Phils all their runs.

Danny MacFayden twirled a three-hitter as the Boston Bees halted the Cincinnati Reds, 7 to 2. His mates reached Mooty and Hallahan for 10, including a circuit clout by Vince DiMaggio. It was MacFayden's seventh win in his past eight starts and his eleventh of the season.

FRANK PRITCHARD REPEATS VICTORY IN SWIM MARATHON

TORONTO, Sept. 1 (CP).—King of the warm-water swimmers, Frank Pritchard went home to his Buffalo job today after a busman's holiday that netted him $2,500. The swarthy lifeguard yesterday won the Canadian National Exhibition's annual marathon swim, held this year over a 10-mile lakefront course in waters that approached bath-tub temperature.

Gone was the glamor of the event's early years, when nearly 100,000 Exhibition visitors watched all day as the swimmers carved through freezing Lake Ontario for 15 or 21 miles. Then only the hardiest of the grease-coated entrants went the route—this time no more than 10,000 watched at a time. The water was the warmest of the summer and a good many of those who took the plunge didn't bother to put on an outer coating of grease.

Under such sultry conditions, Pritchard provided most of the day's features. He went to the front in the fifth mile, then plodded along undisturbed to finish in 4.19:28, more than six minutes faster than Bill Nolan of Chelsea, Mass., in second place, and the early leader.

Nolan, who finished sixth in 1936, and young Ben Gazell, of Toronto, in fourth place, provided the rest of the excitement. The Chelsea stylist set a torrid pace at the start, then kept up a minimum stroking effort of 60 a minute all the way. Gazell, making his first professional plunge, battled with Gianni Gambi of Italy and with Pritchard over the early stages, then fell back but came in strongly.

Gambi, another fast-stroking veteran, finished third.

The first 10 finishers and their rewards were: Frank Pritchard, $2,500; Bill Nolan, $750; Gianni Gambi, $350; Ben Gazell, $200; Stan Pritchard, Buffalo, $150; Renato Bacigalupo, Italy, $100; Ed Faulkner, Kansas City, $75; Bill Sadio, Corona, N.Y., $50; Howard Norton, Dundas, Ont., $50; Nick Ostapyk, Ottawa, $50.

CANADIANS QUIT BRITISH HOCKEY

LONDON, Sept. 1 (CP)—British hockey promoters are faced with a tough problem. From present indications 50 per cent of the Canadian players on the line-ups of the British Ice Hockey League teams are planning to remain in Canada next season. With many gaps to fill, the various rinks have been in touch with scouts in Canada to find recruits.

Two reasons are given for the situation. One is that player's weekly expenses have been reduced from $60 to $40. Another is that the pace of English hockey is too hard and the season too prolonged.

According to Norman McQuade, English international player who lives in Canada and now is holidaying in England, Jack Wilkinson, Wembley Monarchs captain, has taken over a team competing in the Quebec senior group. With him in the venture are Frankie LeBlanc, also of the Monarchs, Desmond Smith, Edgar Murphy and Bobby Walton, all of Wembley Lions, the league champions, and Johnny Lacelle, Manchester goalkeeper.

Discussing the probable importation of Canadian youngsters to fill the gaps, a London hockey writer declared: "I think the change will be for the general good. The recruits will be young enough to mould to the traditions of British sport, and clubs can expect long service from them. Younger Blood, of course, means a faster and, I hope, a cleaner game."

RUSTLE OF SILKS

By
MARIE BLIZARD

READ THIS FIRST:

Mary Barrett, ambitious to become a dress designer, has established herself in Paris through a partnership with Countess Anetka that was made possible by Mark Sutherland, an American playboy she met on shipboard. Mary likes Mark but misses Tony Castle, owner of a smart New York shop who gave her her start. She left the Castle shop suddenly nearly three years previously after an altercation with Tony's head buyer. More and more she realizes she is in love with Tony. Her success in Paris has been phenomenal and, thanks to Mari Barat, the name she has assumed, Anetka's shop is growing famous. Mark Sutherland, in Paris again, tells Mary he has big plans for her. Mark introduces Mary to a prominent American fashion editor, Claire Todd. Mary writes to Tony but destroys the letter next morning. Claire Todd decides to "discover" Barat for American fashion readers. Claire urges Mark to ask Mary to marry him.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 23

THE THIN felt coats appeared in the window at Anetka's in the morning. At 2 the first one was sold. At 4 the second was bought by Roxanne Rohde.

"Even if Mrs. Todd wasn't impressed, it was a good idea," Mary pointed out to her partner.

"She was not impressed," Anetka wailed dolefully.

"We shall see," Mary replied. She felt deeply disappointed that there had been no word at all from Mrs. Todd. It was more than a week since the writer had visited them and the promised invitation to lunch had not arrived.

"And if she were, what good would it do?" Anetka asked.

"It would get the name of our shop over. If people read about our things, they would seek us out."

"We do not need it," Anetka comforted. "We have now so much as we can do. We cannot compute with the great houses."

"Compete, darling, is the word. And perhaps we can't now, but we will someday."

Mary tried to feel that Claire's ignoring her was of no importance, but so impatient was she to force ahead as quickly as time could allow her energetic moves, she felt that her plans had received a serious setback.

Never in all the history of her rise — the comet of her success which streaked across the firmament of the couture—did she consider that it had been phenomenal. She had no patience with long waiting, with walking about obstacles that could be brudled. She recognized no obstacles, and refused to admit that there could have been any to rise against the horizon to which her path was direct.

She was to know gratitude to the destiny that had propelled her along a straight, smooth path that led through the lives of Tony Castle and the Countess Anetka Illovitch, without ever realizing that it was their heartaches, their experience, their experimentation that built the foundations for her success.

Later there were to be others who set the cement of her endeavor, but for them it was no gamble.

Mark Sutherland had flown to Zurich the day after Claire and Hank Todd left suddenly. He didn't return until a fortnight later. And by then Claire's lines were blurred in his memory.

Mary found him wholly unsatisfactory.

"She had to leave suddenly," he explained. "Said something about writing you. Did you have a lunch date or something?"

"That wasn't the important thing, Mark. What did she say about my material?"

Mark made a concerted effort to remember, but the best he could do was to say that she said "something about it being okay."

"Okay," Mary wrung her hands. "That could mean anything. I'd rather she said it didn't have anything and then I'd begin all over again. Mediocrity is the death of my work. 'Okay,' indeed."

"She had a lot of other things to say about you."

"Well, go on. I'm dying to hear. Perhaps that way I can get some idea."

"She said she thought you'd make a good wife for me."

His smile was amused, his eyes were serious, watching her reaction.

She glanced at him hurriedly, trying to read his expression. Then she tightened her lips, shook her head and burst into a ripple of laughter.

"No wonder you didn't hear any more. I'll bet you fled like a frightened rabbit."

"Like a conquering lion," he replied.

Neither of them had told the other a thing. That ability of Mary's never to commit herself was to keep Mark Sutherland by her side for many years.

Later she told Anetka about that conversation.

"I do not want him to marry you," Anetka said firmly.

"He has lots of money, social position, great houses in America that are like castles," Mary said, leading her on.

"But he is not a GOOD man. He is too gay. He would want to be what you call the boss."

"And don't you think I want a dominating man?" Mary was amused.

"Non, non." Anetka shook her fluffy head violently. "For me, yes. For you, no. You mu' have a partner. You mus' have someone to work with. I know you, Mari. Do you not know someone like that?"

"Someone to be a partner? Someone to share with?"

Mary looked through the shining window onto the boulevard when the twilight cast a violet hue and lengthened the shadows where the afternoon's snow laid a soft white blanket over the scene.

It was symbolic to her. It was the twilight and winter snow of her heart. It was the season that had closed down upon her, shutting out a springtime now nearly three years distant. Three years in which no word had opened that buried past in her. She was an ex-patriot and she had no ties in her homeland.

Only that memory that stabbed her with a swift pain when Anetka asked her question.

Anetka was right; she wanted no playboy, no dominating husband. She wanted a partner, someone to share with. She had shared with Tony.

She saw herself again, wrapped in the coppery shawl, sitting quietly on a tall chair, motionless while Tony's brush rubbed softly on the canvas, putting her there. She heard again his murmurs as the light changed, saw his dark head bent to one side while he studied his work. Heard the rising inflection in his voice when her compliments pleased him. He was like a boy, and she had his happiness to share.

"It's Sunday and our holiday..... Tired?"

His voice came back to her and once again she was in her kitchenette, packing chicken in waxed paper, packing it away in a basket carefully, so that the heat from the thermos bottle would not touch it. Her heart remembered the song that had lightened it.

Quick tears sprung to her eyes and she turned away so that Anetka would not see the loneliness that glistened in them.

But Anetka had seen and understood, little Anetka who had lost a whole world and found a new one; Anetka's whose compassion was no greater than her gratitude.

Anetka had everything she wanted; she had Bergei and, through Mary, the means to building another world. She owed everything she had to the young American, and she was generous.

The next morning she implored Mary not to come to the shop. She had a surprise, she said.

And when Mary, filled with curiosity and some misgiving, stepped from her cab, she looked toward the window and her heart skipped a beat.

The golden letters spelling ANETKA had been removed and in their place she read:

MARI BARAT
COUNTESS ANETKA ILLOVITCH.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S CURE

Oh, no, Daddy No! I don't want to take that medicine!"

Buster, the little rabbit boy who was in Uncle Wiggily's hospital tent, held his paws in front of his mouth as Mr. Longears with a bottle labeled MEDICINE, came toward him with a spoon.

"You must take it," said Buster's rabbit daddy. "I must cure you."

"But I'm not sick—truly I'm not," Buster said.

"You may not know it, but you are," said Mr. Longears. "Now take this medicine."

"Is it bitter?" asked Buster.

"Even if it was you would have to take it," his father said. "Come now, open your mouth."

Buster had been ill before and he knew if his father was going to give him medicine it must be taken willingly or his nose would have to be held closed to make him swallow. Buster didn't like that. So now he opened his mouth.

Surprise!

"There you are!" said Uncle Wiggily as he popped in a spoon and the medicine.

"Why—why it's sweet!" exclaimed Buster in delighted surprise.

"Some medicine is sweet and some is bitter," said Uncle Wiggily. "It all depends on how you take it. Now I'm going to leave you alone in my hospital tent until you get better."

"Can't anybody come to see me?" asked Buster. "I mean Custer or Jingle or Jangle or Baby Bunty or—"

"I thought you didn't like Baby Bunty," said Mr. Longears.

"Why, of course I like that little orphan rabbit," Buster said.

"Well, why dodn't you let her take your paddle ball toy when you weren't using it?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"No I think you don't like Baby Bunty. You like yourself a lot more. That's one of the reasons you are ill and must stay in my hospital tent."

"Must I stay here all alone, Daddy?"

"Yes, until you are cured," his father said.

"Well, I don't care as long as I don't have to take bitter medicine," said Buster and he laughed a little, it's sort of fun."

"I hope you find it so, said Mr. Longears as he went out.

Fun—At First.

Well, it was fun for Buster at first. He was all alone in the little tent and he had his story book with him. He tried to read but he couldnt when he neard the other animal children at Uncle Wiggily's camp playing in the woods. Buster looked from a tent window and saw his brotner Custer chasing a ball near by.

"Hi, Custer! Come on in and play with me!" called Buster.

"Nope! I can't," said Custer, picking up the ball.

"Why not?" asked Buster.

"'Cause Daddy says you're quarantined like as if you had the measles so none of us can come near you until youre cured."

Then, as he grew more and more lonely, Buster knew why he had been put in the hospital tent.

"It's 'cause I was mean to Baby Bunty and wouldn't let her take my paddle ball joy when I didn't want it myself," said Buster. He looked from the window again. He saw Bunty near the tent.

"Hi, Bunty!" he called. "You may take my paddle ball."

"Thank you, Buster," said the orphan rabbit.

And then along hopped Uncle Wiggily. His pink nose was twinkling fast.

"You are cured now, Buster," he said. "You may come out."

It was a long time before Buster had to go to the hospital again.

And if the ice cream cone will stop pricking holes in the toy balloon to hear it cry, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's giant.

CAVAN COUPLE WED 30 YEARS

MILLBROOK, Sept. 1.—Over two hundred guests were present, on Monday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Bothwell, Seventh Line, Cavan, citizens who are held in high esteem throughout the entire countryside, when they celebrated the thirtieth anniversary of their wedding-day.

From many outside points, as well as Millbrook and vicinity, the guests assembled, the warm evening making it possible to use the verandahs and lawns, which were well lighted up for the occasion. Indoors the rooms were lovely with late summer blossoms, the dining-room being done in a color scheme of pink and white, carried out in the large white wedding-bell suspended immediately over the table, with its damask linen cloth, silver basket of pink flowers, pink candles in silver holders, and pink and white streamers radiating from the bell, the bride's cake which centred the table being a feature of special interest.

Mr. J. H. McKnight filled the role of chairman for the program, inviting the bride and groom of thirty years' standing to seats on the verandah facing the assembled guests, his mother, Mrs. John Bothwell, of Cavan, and her father, Mr. Batholomew Seabrooke, of Havelock, each of whom is eighty-four years of age, being also seated with the guests of honor.

Community singing, led by Reg. McKnight and with Bill Edworthy at the piano, opened the program, beginning with "The Maple Leaf," and the National Anthem, and closing appropriately with the hymn, "Abide With Me." Recitations were given by Miss Leatha Rowland, "An Answer to a Proposal," and by Mrs. Alex Miller whose selection was "A Scotch Courtship," and songs by Mr. Richard Matchett who was accompanied by his wife, and Miss Ruth Thorndyke who chose "Harbor Lights," and "When My Dream Boat Comes Home." Donald McKnight contributed a cornet solo.

The highlight of the evening was the presentation to the guests of honor of a case containing a set of silver flatware, pieces of eight in Coronation design, the address, appreciative of the fine type of citizenship which Mr. and Mrs. Bothwell have always contributed to the life of the community, being read by Mr. Nathaniel Belch, and the gift being offered by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Armstrong, close neighbors of the "bride and groom."

Mr. Bothwell made suitable reply on behalf of his wife and himself, hospitably declaring "the house is yours for the evening" as he voiced their welcome to the many guests; others who included personal congratulations and good wishes, and emphasized the esteem and affection in which Mr. and Mrs. Bothwell and their family are held by a wide circle of relatives and friends, were James Roddy, ex-Warden Percy Stinson, and Archie Matchett, the latter speaking especially for the young people. This part of the evening concluded with all joining hands in a big circle and singing "Auld Lang Syne."

Supper was served by the committee in charge, Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Belch, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Armstrong, and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McKnight, with others helping, and afterward dancing was enjoyed until the "wee sma' hours", with William Edworthy at the piano, for the round dances, and Robert Todd for the square, Harry Green "calling off" for the later numbers.

Thirty years ago the marriage of George Bothwell and Joanna Seabrooke, took place at the home of the bride's parents in South Monaghan, the first fourteen years of their wedded life being spent in Cedar Valley, and the last sixteen on their present farm homestead, seventh concession of Cavan. The bridesmaid, Mrs. James Johnston, of Peterborough, was among the guests on Monday evening, though the groomsman, Mr. Hy. Bothwell, of Cavan, was unavoidably absent. The family of Mr. and Mrs. Bothwell are held in as high esteem as the parents themselves, and include six daughters, Mrs. Aubrey Hunter, Cavan; Misses Mildred, Roberta and Gladys, of Peterborough; Miss Jean, who will teach this year at Columbus; and one son, Laird, of Kirkland Lake, Northern Ontario.

Although the thirtieth wedding anniversary is listed as "pearl", the gifts on Monday were practically all in silver, those from the immediate family including silver basket, bread tray, casserole, butter, relish, and mayonnaise dishes, salt and pepper shakers.

Guests from outside points included Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Seabrooke, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Seabrooke, and Miss Marguerite Seabrooke, Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brisbane and family, and Mr. B. Seabrooke, of Havelock; Mr. and Mrs. William Whyte, and son, Harvard, of Smith township; Mr. and Mrs. Percy Barnard, Messrs. Harold, Carl, and Ralph Barnard, Ballieboro, and Mr. and Mrs. Barry Seabrooke, of Fraserville. Letters of regret at not being able to attend the party were read from Rev. H. R. and Mrs. Williams, Millbrook, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Leslie, of Queensville.

GLACIER PRIEST FEARS AIRMEN ARE NOT ALIVE

NOME, Alaska, Sept. 1—(AP). — Father Bernard Hubbard, S.J., the "Glacier Priest", expressed doubt today Russia's missing trans-polar airmen are alive and criticized searchers for establishing their western base at ice-bound Barrow.

He said the Barrow base should be removed to Wainwright, 80 miles to the southwest. It is free of encroaching winter ice.

The six Soviet airmen, headed by Snigismund Levanefsky, disappeared Aug. 13 on an attempted 4,000-mile flight across the North Pole from Moscow to Fairbanks.

Father Hubbard, who arrived here with an exploration party after a month's arctic cruise, said there was "very little probability," the missing fliers were alive. He blamed freakish weather conditions, borne of sunspots, for the "tragedy."

"The most serious mistake in the original rescue plans was making Barrow the centre of operations, because Barrow is often iced in, while Wainwright is free of ice," Father Hubbard told interviewers.

"After all, 30 miles in a flight of several hundred miles should not be a vital factor for success, but in the present instance, if any of the luckless airmen be alive, time is a much more critical element than miles.

Warning of impending frigid weather, Father Hubbard said:

"Unless a calm spell of Indian summer weather comes, any sort of a mass search this late probably will add more victims to the treacherous Arctic."

He said, however, the search is worth the effort, "because, in addition to the humanitarian object, the discovery of the desolate islands probably existing in this last bit of the uncharted north will add much to human knowledge."

At Fairbanks, Alaska, A. Vartanian, Soviet representative, said Sir Hubert Wilkins and pilot Herbert Hollick-Kenyon of Toronto had concluded a third flight over Polar wastes in search of the fliers and was returning south.

MILLBROOK BRIDE GUEST AT SOCIAL

MILLBROOK, Sept. 1.—A pleasant social event of Saturday afternoon was the party held at the home of Mrs. Harold Nattress, Union street, in honor of Mrs. William Cameron, who before her recent marriage which took place at Kirkland Lake, Northern Ontario, was Alice Armstrong, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Armstrong, Millbrook.

The event took place on the lawn, at three o'clock, and the hostess was assisted in receiving the twenty or more guests by her daughter, Miss Mary Nattress, and by Miss Bernice Smith. The outstanding feature of the afternoon was the presentation of a miscellaneous shower to the guest of honor, the many-shaped parcels being attractively arranged on two card tables, which at a prearranged time, were informally placed in front of the bride's chair.

The pleasant task of opening the parcels and reading the enclosed cards took up a considerable time, and afterward the hostesses served a dainty lunch, the table being lovely with lace cloth, centred with a silver basket of yellow blossoms and having yellow candles in silver holders.

The gifts 'showered' on Mrs. Cameron included crystal, silver, oven ware, linens, luncheon sets, china, etc. and the recipient expressed her thanks in a few well-chosen words. Later, in response to the laughing suggestion of her girl friends, she was given the bouquet from the central table, and after taking a raised position on the verandah of the adjoining home, she threw it among the assembled guests, Miss Ruth Thorndyke having the good fortune to catch the 'bride's bouquet.' WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

ALEX. WELCH IS FREED ON INTIMIDATION CHARGE

Alex. L. Elliott Is Nominated Liberal Candidate

Enthusiastic Rally Is Held By Liberals In The Legion Hall

Nine Are Nominated But Only Two Names Placed Before the Convention.

Peterborough Liberalism responded to Premier M. F. Hepburn's appeal to the people of Ontario for a new mandate with one of the most largely attended conventions in the party's history in the Canadian Legion Hall Wednesday afternoon at which Alex L. Elliott, barrister, was nominated in a contest with Reeve W. A. Anderson of Otonabee after seven other prominent citizens of the county and city had withdrawn from a strong and representative field.

The vote on the only division of the delegates from the four corners of the provincial riding, comprising the city and county, was not announced by Dr. Donald Munro of Warsaw, who presided.

Mr. Elliott is one of the younger Liberals of the comparatively new constituency, and is a son of the late Edward M. Elliott, for years clerk and treasurer of Peterborough county. He was proposed by Frank Breckenridge of Belmont township, a former Warden of the county council, and Colonel John A. Dewart.

Reeve Anderson was proposed by Fred Eason of Otonabee and Thomas Petrie.

The other men who were proposed were: James Hawthorne of Dummer township, Liberal candidate three years ago; Thomas J. Carley, law partner of R. R. Hall, K.C.; Hon. G. N. Gordon; Warden Roy Brown of Apsley; Everett L. Sackville former president of the Liberal Association in the local Federal riding; Dr. D. Munro, and Reeve Chas. S. Tanner of Lakefield.

In spite of the uncomfortable weather in its combination of heat and high humidity, the Legion Hall was crowded to the doors with apparently every section of the county represented. A feature of the convention was the large number of ladies who were present, many of them as delegates.

John McLaughlin of Lindsay, president of the Central Ontario Liberal Association, J. J. Duffus, M.P., Rork Ferguson, M.P. for Hastings-Peterborough, and F. D. Kerr, K.C., were among those present.

Dominant notes of the speeches were confidence in the new candidate and in the record of the Hepburn goverment, with special reference to the reduction in taxes which Warden Brown estimated at approximately six milles, including the government's refund to the municipalities, a direct assistance to the people of the city and country.

"Tell me any other government in the history of this province that handed back to the people that amount of six mills in relief from taxes." Warden Brown challenged.

Candidate's Acceptance

In accepting the nomination Mr. Elliott said: "I thank you very much for the confidence and the responsibility you have reposed in me. After listening to the kind words of my fellow nominees and of the confidence that has been expressed here this afternoon I feel we should be optimistic, but we must avoid being too confident. An election is

Tax Collections Up Fewer Are On Relief

Lindsay, Sept. 2.

APPARENTLY this town has left the depression well behind and is on its way to prosperity, judging by figures obtained at the Town Clerk's office today. Tax Collector Harry Wareham reported that approximately 66 per cent of the current year's taxes have been collected up to the end of August. This is a gain of $8,000 in collections compared with the same period last year.

Another bright spot was that during July there were only eighty persons on relief in the town, while in the same month last year there were 389 relief recipients.

JAPS ASK BRITISH TO REMOVE TROOPS FROM OUTPOSTS

SHANGHAI, Sept. 2—(AP)—Japanese naval authorities advised British troops today to evacuate outposts on the western boundary of the International Settlement as they were preparing to bomb the Chinese communication lines in the adjacent Jessfield Park district. The British did not reply.

The endangered British outposts are near the line held by United States marines. St. John's University is a few hundred yards from the Jessfield Park station and the railroad and highway bridges across Soochow Creek.

In an effort to bolster her blocked offensive on the Yangtze front 12 miles north of Shanghai Japan was attempting to land approximately 42,000 fresh troops from the homeland on the Liuho and Woosung shores.

Crack Chinese divisions were holding up the Japanese advance along the curving 20-mile battlefront from the historic Woosung forts, through Paoshan to Lotien. There was fierce fighting in every sector.

Foreign naval observers reported 14 Japanese transports off Liuho and 14 other off Woosung, endeavoring to discharge troops, tanks and heavy artillery.

It was estimated this would bring Japan's forces in the Shanghai-Woosung-Liuho sector to more than 75,000 men, opposed to a Chinese strength of some 200,000.

For day Japan has been landing reinforcements for the big push to sweep the Chinese out of the rich Shanghai commercial area; but in the mid-afternoon they were making no headway against the desperate Chinese resistance.

BRITISH FLEET IS REINFORCED OFF GIBRALTAR

LONDON, Sept. 2—(AP)—Great Britain ordered her fleet reinforced in the Western Mediterranean today to combat strange and repeated submarine assaults on British vessels.

The decision was announced after cabinet members at two sessions, attempted to shape the Empire's naval policy against the threats to her ships of war and peace.

The Spanish ambassador was summoned to the foreign office shortly before the second council adjourned.

The order, specifically ordering increased destroyer strength among the reinforcements, indicated that both capital and smaller warships would be sent into the zone.

Informed circles said the British government suspected Italy of responsibility.

Latest victim of a Mediterranean torpedo was the tanker Woodford, flying the British flag. She was sunk, her second engineer killed and six of her crew wounded, off the Spanish east coast. The submarine got away.

However, there arose the possibility the submeraible which Tuesday night fired a torpedo at H.M.S. Havock in the same general area had been destroyed by the Havock's defensive depth charges.

Members of the Havock's crew at Gibraltar said the destroyer, sighting the approaching torpedo, had zig-zagged and dropped five depth bombs.

Then the Havock signalled to other British warships and a watch was kept over a 15-mile radius. Soon oil appeared on the surface indicating, the seamen believed, that the submarine had been sunk.

Today British destroyers still were on the trail of this or other submarine aggressors, with permission to sink them if they found them.

Epidemic Is Clearing In Southern Ontario

More Than 700 Persons Have Been Attacked By Infantile Paralysis.

TORONTO, Sept. 2 — (C.P.). — While infantile paralysis seemed to be clearing slightly in southern sections of Ontario to-day, public health officials were fearful the epidemic which has attacked more than 700 persons was spreading northward. The outbreak is now in its third month.

At Temagami in Northern Ontario precautions were taken by having 153 children, eight of them infants, treated with zinc sulphate nasal sprays. Doctors said tourists going into northern regions might carry poliomyelitis germs.

The Kawartha Lakes district, Fenelon Falls reported a rush, especially of Toronto citizens back to their summer cottages with their families as school opening had been pushed back in many places. Simcoe, in Western Ontario, became a ghost town as theatres, churches, beverage rooms and all public gatherings were placed under ban.

These instances were typical of precautions being taken at all points. As a safeguard against the disease, nasal spraying has been adopted generally. 5,000 children at Toronto receiving test treatments and another 1,000 at Preston. Brantford appointed a committee to study results.

Watch Older Children

Serum for treatment of newly-diagnosed cases was being made from blood donated by ex-sufferers and was widely used. At Toronto, Dr. S. B. MacMillan, nose and throat specialist, warned that children over 10 be not neglected in precautionary treatment. He noted a tendency to care most for younger children.

The Ontario Society for Crippled Children offered the Ontario Health Department full co-operation in supplying splints and mechanical devices to crippled victims of the scourge. Needly families will be given aid in transporting their children to and from hospital to the extent the society's funds will allow.

School bells did not ring in more than a score of Ontario centres Wednesday and in others where classes were resumed reduced attendances were reported. Seventy-five per cent. of Hamilton's total roll were back at their desks. Ontario Ladies'

Cyclist Injured By Street Car

KITCHENER, Ont., Sept. 2. (CP).—Cranston Dorscht, Waterloo motorcyclist walked into a doctor's office after an accident last night but he wasn't walking today. Dorscht was "squeesed" between a street car and truck on King street, Waterloo, police reported.

He was attempting to pass a truck and saw the street car approaching. Unable to brake the motorcycle in time to get back behind the truck he chose the only alternative course to crash with the street car—going between the trolley and the truck.

His motorcycle scratched the entire length of the street car and he was picked up with clothing torn and legs, arms, head and body bruised and cut. Stitches were required to close wounds in his left leg and left ankle.

Policeman Delivers Baby In N.Y. Home

New York, Sept. 2.

PATROLMAN Louis Cicardo, 32, joined the police force to be a cop, but fate seems to want him to be an obstetrician. He delivered an eight-pound boy today, his second such emergency job in five years.

Told to go to the home of Mrs. Anna Malone, Cicardo found the stork was near with the sixth little Malone. So Cicardo put in an emergency call and had the latest Malone breathing lustily by the time a hospital surgeon arrived and commented: "I don't think I could have done better myself."

CAMPBELL SETS MARK OF 129.4164

LOCARNO, Switzerland, Sept. 2.—(AP).—Picking up where he left off yesterday, Sir Malcolm Campbell, British speed king, boosted the world's motorboat record to 129.4164 miles per hour on Lake Maggiore to-day.

Finding water conditions favorable, the sportsman, holder of the world's land speed mark of 301.12 m.p.h., sent his single-engined unlimited hydroplane, Bluebird, twice over the measured course to crack the motorboat record he had set up yesterday by a comfortable margin.

On the outward trip, Sir Malcolm travelled at 130.379 m.p.h. Coming back his pace fell off to 128.4849 M.P.H. but his average of 129.4164 was beyond the record of 123.7959 he established yesterday. Gar Wood, Detroit veteran, set the former standard of 124.86 M.P.H. at Algonac, Mich., in 1932 with his four-engined Miss America X.

Sir Malcolm's metric times today were 209.90 kilometres per hour and 206.90 K.P.H. for an average of 208.40 K.P.H.

WITH the thermometer hitting a high of 96 degrees, Peterborough was the hottest spot in Canada on Wednesday, according to official temperature recordings assembled by newspapers overnight. London, Ottawa and Toronto were the runners-up with high temperatures of 90 degrees.

The official thermometer at Peterborough stood at 91 at noon today.

SUBMARINE SINKS BRITISH STEAMER SPANISH COAST

BENICARLO, Spain, Sept. 2 (AP)—The crew of the British steamship Woodford reached this Spanish port in open boats and told a vivid story today of attack by a mystery submarine which sunk the vessel.

The captain said the tanker was torpedoed at 7 p.m. yesterday, not may hours after a submarine fired a torpedo at the British destroyer Havock.

Spanish Government officials were quoted by the government news agency as deciding the submarine was "of Italian type."

The government harbor superintendent here said the undersea attacker had its identification marks painted out and that it did not fly a flag.

"The submarine rose to the surface suddenly," crew members told the superintendent.

"It fired two torpedoes from a comparatively close range. One of them hit the Woodford square amidship. There was a terrific explosion. The second engineer was killed."

LONDON, Sept. 2 (AP). — The master of the British steamer Woodford cabled Lloyd's today the vessel had been torpedoed between Colobretes and the Spanish coast, her second engineer killed and six men wounded.

The attack occurred somewhere near a spot identified in the skipper's message as 'Colobretes,' which Lloyd's believed might be the Columbretes Islands, and Castellon, Spain, roughly 70 miles north of the position where the British destroyer Havock was torpedoed yesterday by a mysterious submarine.

Before taking any action, naval authorities here said they would wait for an official report of the attack on the Woodford.

"It looks bad," they said.

Widespread and uniform comment in informed circles indicated the Government suspects Italy of responsibility for the wave of attacks on shipping, in active assistance of the Spanish insurgent cause.

Injured Are Put Ashore.

The Woodford's commander cabled the London Maritime Underwriters from Benicario, Spain, on the Mediterranean coast between Valencia and Tarragona.

Crown Withdraws Nine Of Charges Against 7 Strikers

Welch Must Stand Trial on Charge of Obstructing Chief of Police.

A charge of intimidation against Alex Welch, United Textile Workers organizer was dismissed following preliminary hearing before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., on Wednesday afternoon when the Crown failed to establish a prima facie case.

On a further charge alleging he obstructed Chief Constable Samuel Newhall in the course of his duty, the accused was bailed for trial in the sum of $1,500. Earlier in the day Harvey Murphy, president of the Ontario Federation of Unemployment was bailed for trial on a charge of publishing false news.

Charges against the two accused were the sequel to disturbances during the recently concluded strike of textile workers at Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Limited.

Nine charges against seven other accused were withdrawn by the Crown, notwithstanding objection in certain instances from the Chief Constable, who told the Bench he did not consent to withdrawal. Two charges each against Alphonse Coughlin and Dorothy Wallwork were withdrawn as also were single charges against, Mrs. Edith Frizbelle, Michael English, former chairman of the Central Strike Committee; Gordon Dundas, Ethel Easton and Edwin Sanders.

Following preliminary hearing of the intimidation charge, J. L. Cohen, defence counsel successfully argued the Crown had failed to show Welch had "wrongfully and without lawful excuse; with a view to compel several workers from doing that what they had a lawful right to do, namely, go to their work at Bonner-Worth mill, with one or more persons followed such workers in a disorderly manner in or through McDonnel street, or beset or watched the Bonner-Worth Mill".

Shortens Proceedings

Declaring he had to catch a train at Port Hope for Montreal, counsel agreed the evidence presented by the Crown might establish a prima facie case against Welch on the other charge of obstruction, and in order to shorten up proceedings he suggested the evidence taken at the first hearing be incorporated with the evidence on the second hearing.

The suggestion was adopted and bailment for trial on the obstruction charge was made on the sole evidence of the police chief. During his cross-examination of the witness on the second charge against Welch Mr. Cohen informed the Chief Constable that Associated Screen News had filmed pictures of the riot at the Bonner-Worth plant, but that the Ontario Board of Censors had banned the pictures for public exhibition.

He suggested that in preparing his evidence in connection with the case against Welch, it was the chief's duty to produce the films in evidence at the trial.

A Refusal.

"You are Chief Constable of this city. I inform you Associated Screen News took moving pictures of the clash between police and strikers in front of Bonner-Worth Mill. The pictures have been banned by the provincial board of censors and are not available for public showing. Will you get those films to be used as evidence at the trial?" Mr. Cohen asked.

"I will not", the Chief replied with emphasis.

Looking from his office window, D. G. H. Melton, manager of the Bonner-Worth plant testified he saw Welch at 7.15 o'clock on the morning of August 10 near the intersection of Cambridge and McDonnel streets. He appeared to be instructing a rotating picket at the gates to the mill.

Mr. Melton said arrangements had previously been made for employees who wished to do so to return to work at the plant.

"What was the accused doing?" Mr. McElderry queried.

"He was assembling a number of people who were on the rotating picket. His actions appeared as if he was directing them. It was a noisy picket. There was evidence of hysteria. Pickets were holding hands and were wheeling in front of the gates", witness said.

Wild Hysteria

Around 8 o'clock as the workers appeared under police protection, Mr. Melton added, there was evidence of wild hysteria.

Witness stated he had last seen Welch around 7.40 o'clock and did not again see him until after the workers had entered the plant.

Cross-examined by Mr. Cohen as to what he meant by "arrangements" being made, witness said strikers were circularized and notified through the press that the mills were to reopen on Tuesday morning and that "adequate pro-

PUBLIC SCHOOLS WELL ATTENDED ON OPENING DAY

Although no complete attendance record will be made until after Labor Day, the infantile paralysis scare apparently had little effect on opening day attendance at the public schools here yesterday, Inspector K. S. Wightman said. He predicted that the attendance total will be around the normal for other years when the passing of Labor Day brings remaining vacationers back to the city. Public school attendance last year was around 2,800.

Initial attendance at the Collegiate was down slightly from last year's enrolment of close to 1,000. On yesterday's opening, 960 students were registered. Dr. H. R. H. Kenner said improved times would account for the decrease. A number of boys who would have been taking the training afforded in the Vocational department have been able to obtain employment.

In both the Collegiate and the Public Schools, new study programs were adopted. At the Collegiate, entering students found they must take a variety of subjects selected from all departments — academic, commercial and industrial arts or household arts. They will be allowed to specialize later.

In the public schools, principals and teachers were preparing for institution of the optional new plan of study for children up to the sixth grade. The plan is based on a number of radically-new principles calling for extensive simplification of the courses, integration of subjects and revised teaching methods.

CHILDREN SEE PARENTS DROWN

ARNPRIOR, Ont., Sept. 2 (CP)—Four young children today grieved the deaths of their parents, whom they saw drown yesterday in the swift Madawaska River.

Provincial Police recovered the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Ellard McCrea several hours after they drowned at Stewartville Bridge, eight miles from here. The tragedy occurred during a family picnic.

Mr. and Mrs. McCrea and the four children, enjoying the Wednesday half holiday, decided to go in bathing. In shallow water, the youngsters watched their father teach swimming strokes to Mrs. McCrea.

McCrea saw a wooden rail across the stream and decided to obtain it to keep his wife afloat while he instructed her. Returning, he sank from sight and his wife, wading out and grasping his hand, was dragged beneath.

Phyllis, 12, swam out to try to aid her parents and Edward, 14, oldest of the children, ran to a farm house to get help. The girl's attempts failed, however, and other assistance was too late.

Flares Are Seen By Nascopie Unfrequented Arctic Region

Might Have Come From the Six Missing Russian Flyers.

ABOARD S.S. NASCOPIE, Prince Rupert Inlet, Sept. 2 (CP by Wireless).—When the Nascopie anchored off Bellot Strait, between Somerset Island and Boothia Peninsula early today, the watchman saw what he took to be flares in the southern sky.

He called First Officer Stephen, who reported he saw lights near the horizon which burst up five times while he was watching.

The Nascopie, carrying the eastern Arctic patrol, is directly above the northern tip of Boothia Peninsula in one of the most unfrequently parts of the Arctic. There are many areas where white men have never been.

It was believed the flares might possibly be from the schooner Aklavik coming from the Western Arctic to connect with the Nascopie in opening the first communication through the northwest passage or they may be from someone lost on Boothia Peninsula who saw smoke from the Nascopie driven south by a north wind.

All hands speculated on the possibility of the flares being from the six missing Russian Polar fliers who disappeared August 1 on a flight from Moscow to Fairbanks, Alaska.

LINDSAY, Ont., Sept. 2.—At a joint meeting of the Board of Health and Town Council on Wednesday, it was decided in view of the outbreak of infantile paralysis, to close the local schools until September 13th. Children under sixteen years of age will not be permitted to attend Sunday schools and theatres during that period.

A resolution was passed asking the Provincial Board of Health to keep a supply of serum in Lindsay. Heretofore it has been necessary to send to Peterborough for serum when required.

Modern Schools Turning Out Cannon Fodder – H. G. Wells

What Is Essential in Knowledge For Normal Citizen of Modern Community Writer Asks.

NOTTINGHAM, Eng., Sept. 2. — (CP).—H. G. Wells told the British Association for the Advancement of Science to-day that modern schools are turning out "mere cannon fodder and stuff for massacres and stampedes."

In an address to the educational science section, of which he is president, the writer said: "We have no time to waste, if our schools are not to go on delivering, year by year, fresh hordes of ignorant, unbalanced, uncritical minds at once suspicious and credulous, weakly gregarious, easily baffled and easily misled, into the monstrous responsibilities of this present world, mere cannon fodder and stuff for massacres and stampedes."

After that volley of words, Wells gave his listeners his vision of the shape of things to come in the education field.

He called his address the "informative content of education." In it he set about to answer the questions "What is the irreducible minimum of knowledge for a responsible human being to-day? What is the

C. I. O. LEADERS MUST OBEY LAW HEPBURN WARNS

BRANTFORD, Ont., Sept. 2 (CP). —Ontario needs neither the power nor the transportation facilities that would be made available by the deepening of the St. Lawrence waterway, Premier Mitchell Hepburn said here last night. The waterway, he said, would increase competition for Canadian railways, canals, highways and air services. The waterway might be a lasting monument to the Provincial Government fathering it but would not be an economic project.

The Premier spoke to a meeting that renominated Mayor M. M. MacBride as an independent candidate to succeed himself as Brantford's representative in the Legislature. Arthur J. Hemmingway, president of the Brantford Trades and Labor Council, seconded the nomination of Mayor MacBride.

Calls Lewis a "Dictator."

Canadian workers would be better advised to trust their own governments rather than John L. Lewis and his committee for industrial organization, the Premier said, calling Mr. Lewis a "dictator."

C.I.O. leaders cannot be stopped from entering Ontario because the Federal Government refused co-operation to that end, Mr. Hepburn said.

"But when they get to Ontario they are going to obey the law here or be put in jail so fast it will make their hair stand on end," he said. "We have no place in Ontario for Lewis and his lawlessness and we are not going to allow his policies of seizing property and inciting to riot to displace British principles."

The Premier said Conservative Leader Earl Rowe had charged him with being a dictator. The refutation of this was the fact his government was appealing to the people for endorsation of its policies and program now instead of waiting two more years as it was entitled to do by law.

DOUBLE AIRWAYS SPEED TRAFFIC TO NEWER NORTH

By GUY E. RHOADES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON, Sept. 2 — (CP). — Three winding muddy rivers and the sky carry new life to a northland whose people look to the future with glowing optimism, confident that near the Arctic Circle lies wealth enough to build an empire.

"I believe the future of Canada lies in the north," Lord Tweedsmuir told an audience this summer at Fort Chipewyan. Ask Leigh Brintnell, a man of the new north, and he will agree. "I think there are greater possibilities up there than in any other part of Canada," says Brintnell.

At 41, Brintnell, a native of Belleville, Ont., owns his own airline, Mackenzie Air Service. Last year his company carried more express and passengers than any other operating down the watershed of the Mackenzie River. This year it adds a mail contract to boost its traffic.

In 1933 Brintnell resigned as general manager of Western Canada Airways and moved west from Winnipeg. He had seen the start of the precious metal rush for the land that extends north to the Arctic ocean and he wanted to be his own boss.

Brintnell bought an airplane. His company now owns eight and has three more on order. It operates the Eldorado Radium Express, biggest aircraft in the north, which flies from Great Bear Lake rich pitchblende concentrates to be turned at Port Hope, Ont., into life-saving radium to aid physicians in their fight against cancer.

In the countries of Lake Athabasca, Great Slave and Great Bear Lakes fly prospectors and mining engineers, backed by rich corporations, to scour the earth for new wealth.

On the great highway, the Athabasca, Slave and Mackenzie rivers, they can see crawling below on the mud-colored water the beetle-like wooden stern-wheelers and the new steel tunnel boats, pushing along barges carrying supplies to build a new Bonanza.

Waterway Great Route

The rivers are the main arteries of the north's new commerce. On them go the building materials for new towns, the machinery for new mines, the oil to turn new wheels and the gasoline to feed airplane engines.

Lake Athabasca is as far north as Churchchill, Man., on Hudson Bay, hundreds of miles north of Ontario's new mining camps, yet the costs of sinking shafts at Goldfields on its northern shore is less than the cost in Northern Ontario. The answer is the waterway that gives cheap transportation.

"There are 14 potential mines in the Mackenzie country," says Brintnell, "all giving opportunities for new settlement, new employment and new wealth that is taken from the ground and not from another person."

New Short-Wave Station Being Planned For Canada

Erected Near Ottawa Aid Dominion to Take Part in World Broadcasts.

OTTAWA, Sept. 2—(CP)—A short wave transmitter of 50 kilowatt power, to enable Canada to participate in world broadcasting, is under consideration by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

"It is under active consideration, has been for some time, but I don't know when it will be started," it was stated yesterday by Gladstone Murray, general manager of the Broadcasting Corporation, when asked about the short-wave station.

Canada is the one important world power unequipped to participate in world broadcasting on the short-wave radio band.

At the present time, two 50 kilowatt long-wave stations are under construction, one near Toronto and the other near Montreal. They are expected to be completed about October 1 and will be followed later by a similar transmitter for the Prairies and one for the Maritimes. A 50-kilowatt station already is operating in British Columbia and would complete a chain of powerful stations across the country.

Mr. Murray said he did not expect the short-wave station, which probably would be built in Ottawa, would be delayed until the last of the long-wave stations has been completed.

Dental Insurance Scheme Launched

SYDNEY, Australia, Sept. 2 (CP-Reuters). — A dental insurance scheme assuring subscribers of free dental treatments at a cost of 15 cents a week has been launched in Sydney by a private company.

It is called the Dental Benefits Friendly Society of New South Wales and will operate on the same lines as the present Hospital societies, the secretary, J. Stephen, explained.

A man or his wife, he said, will make the weekly contribution to a central organization, and be entitled to free treatment, with certain exceptions for expensive treatment. There will also be certain privileges for children.

FOUR KILLED IN CAR CRASH

REGINA, Sept. 2—(CP).— Three persons were killed and another died in hospital here on Wednesday following a head-on collision between Saskatchewan and Minnesota automobiles on the highway 22 miles east of here. Eight were injured.

In one car was a group from Neudorf, Sask., and Regina, while the other carried United States tourists from Minneapolis and St. Paul. A tire blow-out on the Saskatchewan car was reported to be the cause of the tragedy.

The dead: Mrs. F. R. Neibel, St. Paul; Eddie Urseki, Regina; Gus Banerd, Neudorf; John Adolf, Neudorf.

The injured: Mrs. John Adolf, 33, serious pelvis injuries; her 3-year-old son, Herbert, minor bruises; Jacob Adolf, 60, serious spinal injury; Mrs. Ulmer (initial unknown), serious; all of Neudorf; F. R. Neibel, prominent St. Paul Boy Scout executive, serious; Mrs. Roger Hayes, Minneapolis, serious skull injuries; Roger Jackson Hayes, Minneapolis, not serious; Dorothy Neibel, St. Paul, bad scalp wound.

WAR OVER LONDON HARD ON INVADER

LONDON, Sept. 2—(CP).—London is a tough nut for enemy planes to crack. This fact has been revealed in mock raids by Royal Air Force planes. On the basis of Air Ministry calculations 80 per cent. of the raids were intercepted. Taking into consideration the exercises were designed primarily more for unit practice than for testing defences the ministry believes in actual warfare more than half the enemy's planes would have been brought down.

Geoffrey Edwards, writing on the subject in the London News-Chonicle says: "No air commander, except as a last desperate fling, would dream of pitting his resources against London (including the docks and the Home Counties) if he thought he would experience anything like such losses. Moreover, in the past few days no records are available of the effect of anti-aircraft guns, balloon barrages and other protective devices, all of which may be expected in actual practice to hamper the raiders and shepherd them into the hands of defending fighter squadrons."

Discussing the subject editorially, The News-Chronicle declares: "It is true that even the 20 per cent. of the raiders who are estimated to have got through could, in time of war, do an uncomfortable amount of damage. But the vital point is that any aid force attacking London can expect to suffer very heavy losses. This means that even the largest air force in the world cannot continuously attack the city."

CONSULT ONTARIO ON ST. LAWRENCE

OTTAWA, Sept. 2.—Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced tonight, following a meeting of the Cabinet, that the Federal Government has no thought of proceeding with negotiations for the construction of the St. Lawrence waterway without the consent and approval of the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

The matter has been raised in recent speeches of Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario, who described himself as a stumbling block to the seaway scheme. The power development plan embraced in the waterway plan would cost Ontario more than $100,000,000.

"The Federal Government in any negotiations about the St. Lawrence would want to represent the points of view of Ontario and Quebec," said Premier King, tonight. "We would not want to create any domestic difficulty in any effort to meet an international situation. Unless the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec were agreed about the desirability of the seaway and power scheme there would be no thought on our part of putting through any agreement with the United States with respect to water powers, which can only be carried out with the consent and approval of the Provinces concerned."

8,546 School Days Lost by Neglect

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 2—(CP).—"Parental neglect" was responsible for loss of 8,546½ school days by London pupils last year. However, the situation is not quite as bad as it sounds. The neglect was neglect of duty, not neglect of children, it seems, such as sleeping in and failing to call Johnny or going downtown and letting Mary stay home.

THERE is a new, tempting deliciousness which comes to vegetables when Carnation Milk is used to make a cream sauce for them. This double-rich milk, with cream in every drop, adds smoothness, flavour, food-value. And this applies to all cooking where milk is used. Because Carnation is just pure milk with part of the water taken out, made much more digestible by homogenization, made safe by sterilization, it is a splendid food for bottle-fed babies and growing children. And it has added "sunshine" vitamin D. Carnation is the evaporated milk the Dionne Quintuplets use.

Control Of Newspapers Is Hinted As Aberhart Act

"Great Work . . . Pass Press Act" Douglas Says in Cable to Secred Chairman.

EDMONTON, Sept. 2—(CP). — Whether press legislation will be passed by the Alberta Legislature will be discussed when L. D. Byrne, Social Credit technician and temporary Commissioner to administer the Social Credit Act, meets Major C. H. Douglas in England, it was stated here to-day by G. L. MacLachlan, Chairman of the Social Credit Board.

Possibility the Government was considering legislation affecting newspapers was seen upon arrival here of a copy of "Social Credit," British publication listed as official organ of the Social Credit Secretariat Limited.

The publication printed an exchange of cablegrams between Major Douglas, father of Social Credit, and Mr. MacLachlan. Major Douglas' cablegram was quoted: "Great work. Rush appointment bank directors. Pass press act."

Mr. MacLachlan's reply read: "Audience 2,000 proclaimed your cable. Legislature prorogued previous to receipt."

When it was brought to Mr. MacLachlan's attention that at the Edmonton Prophetic Bible Conference, Aug. 8, he read Major Douglas' cable omitting the reference to "press act," the board chairman said he had no comment to make at the present time.

Mr. MacLachlan stated Mr. Byrne was called from Montreal Aug. 24 after it was announced he had completed his work in Alberta investigating the situation for Major Douglas, had discussed the Press Act "carefully" with the Alberta Government.

"One of the things Mr. Byrne will do is to go over the situation with Major Douglas as soon as he arrives," Mr. MacLachlan said.

"I suppose you have read Major Douglas's book, 'The Alberta Experiment,' and you know his views expressed there," the board chairman declared.

The book shows that among Major Douglas's recommendations in 1935 to the Alberta Government, then headed by R. G. Reid, was the following:

"The systematic provision of a news-circulating system under the unchallengeable control of the Province, particularly in regard to radio facilities of sufficient power to cover a wide geographical area."

Asked if Mr. Byrne would return to Alberta or intended to report to the Government, Mr. MacLachlan replied:

"As a temporary Commissioner, he will carry on his work in the Old Country. I cannot add to that statement."

Gunsmith Frustrates Actress's Love Designs

Lille, France, Sept. 2

GERMAINE FEVRIER, 23-year-old movie extra, drew herself up histrionically today and pointed a pistol at Jeanne Calme, 27, her love rival.

"Miserable woman!" she shrieked. "Prepare to die!"

Then she fired point blank—Bang! Bang! Bang!

Jeanne crumpled to the ground and spectators rushed up.

They stepped back, amazed, when Jeanne got up and brushed herself off.

It then became known that a Lille gunsmith had become suspicious when Germaine asked for "a loaded gun"—and had filled the pistol with blanks.

The police took Germaine away.

CONSTRUCTION UP OVER LAST YEAR

OTTAWA, Sept. 2—(CP). — The August record of contracts awarded in Canada registered an increase of 15.5 per cent over July and an increase of 60 per cent. over August of 1936. The total value of all contracts awarded in Canada for building, etc., amounted to $24,830,000 as compared with $21,485,300 for July and $15,536,100 for August, 1936.

Quebec provided the largest portion of the August total with $11,730,900 and Ontario followed with $8,348,600. The other provinces ranged from $1,316,600 for Manitoba to $66,300 in Prince Edward Island.

Nova Scotia contracts amounted to $1,130,000; British Columbia $1,048,500; Alberta, $600,000; New Brunswick $361,300; Saskatchewan, $228,300.

Contracts awarded in Toronto and district amounted to $2,542,600. For Montreal island the amount was $7,862,000.

For the eight months of the year to date contracts for all types of work throughout Canada amounted to $156,691,900, an increase of 41 per cent. over the 1936 total of $111,113,100. Contemplated new construction amounting to $304,433,500 is 58.7 per cent. higher than $191,632,500, total for the same eight months in 1936.

Joins Sensible Driving League

With His Honour, the Lieutenant-Governor the first motorist to enroll, a drive to enlist Ontario automobile owners in an informal league devoted to sensible driving is being launched in connection with the safety exposition at this year's Canadian National Exhibition Motor Show in Toronto. The emblem used is a white cross, to be carried above the motor car's rear license plate as a continuous reminder that care at the wheel will cut highway tolls. Photo shows: Hon. Dr. H. A. Bruce with G. Harrison Smith, president, Imperial Oil Limited, examining the white cross emblem.

Sells Refrigerator To An Eskimo World Said It Couldn't Be Done

TORONTO, Sept. 2—(CP).—A refrigerator salesman at the Canadian National Exhibition achieved his fondest dream today. He sold an electric ice box to an Eskimo. Philip Godsell, F.R.G.S., veteran Winnipeg explorer and trapper, vouches for the sale.

It seems the Eskimos at Exhibition Park were suffering from the intense heat of the past few days. They miss their arctic snow box outside the igloo door. One short demonstration was enough when the salesman produced his "white man's magic."

Emile St. Goddard, veteran St. Boniface musher, also with the show, said he would use the refrigerator to keep his husky pups cool when they get overheated.

WEED POLLUTES WINNIPEG CITY WATER SUPPLY

WINNIPEG, Sept. 2—(CP).—Winnipeggers were on the wagon today so far as local drinking water was concerned, and "Algy" was blamed for the abstention.

Normally excellent, Winnipeg water has tasted oily for the past few weeks due to microscopic growth known as Algae, pronounced "Algy". Considered by many citizens to be the worst drinking water in 37 years, it was being passed up for soft drinks and occasionally well water.

City officials said there was little they could do about it and city engineer W. P. Brereton indicated the only 100 per cent proof against Algae

The first reservoir built in the city in 1909 had a capacity below 18,000,000 was to build a $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 filtration plant.

000 gallons but seven years ago an additional plant increased capacity to 58,000,000 gallons. The water flows by gravity to Winnipeg from Shoal Lake, 95 miles east of here. A specially built underground channel brings the water to the reservoir on the north side of Winnipeg from where it is pumped into the city water system.

Back in 1907 when Algae first appeared here, a city engineer's report said the city was bound to have poor tasting water in future years whenever circumstances were favorable for growth of the harmless waterweed, so small one cannot see it in the water.

Despite cleaning of the reservoir and chemical treatment of the water, the oily taste presists, Mr. Brereton said.

Archibald Blackie, city chemist, said such conditions would prevail until cooler weather eliminated the Algae growth.

Two Windsor Men Held For Robbery

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 2—(CP)—A robbery reported by Adolph St. Amour, 71, Windsor, was believed solved by police today with the arrest of two men and recovery of St. Amour's watch. The victim claimed he also was deprived of $62 in cash.

Those held and under investigation for other strong-arm robberies are Lawrence McCarthy, 55, and Robert Switzer, 46, both of Windsor. Driving the men to headquarters, police noticed McCarthy place his hand outside the window. Investigation disclosed a gold watch lying on the roadway. Two lads said they had seen the timepiece fall from the car.

St. Amour failed to identify the two as the men who rode with him in a taxi Sunday and ripped the watch from his pocket.

SUDBURY, Ont., Sept. 2—(CP)—The $695,901 estate of the late Dr. William Anderson McCauley is left entirely to his sister, Miss Ina H. McCauley (566 Dufferin Ave.), London, Ont., under a will probated by Judge Edmond Proulx.

Miss McCauley, on the teaching staff of London Collegiate Institute, is also named sole executrix of her brother's will.

Dr. McCauley, chief of medical staff of International Nickel Co., left $540,676 of his estate in stocks. He left $135,409 in cash in the bank. Real estate was $4,237.

RADIO BIG BOOM FOR PILOT DATES

EDMONTON, Sept. 2 (CP) — Weather may make flying irregular in the northwest but it doesn't prevent passengers and pilots from having meals when they want them or from being sure of taxicabs at the airport and rooms at a hotel.

Arrival times are usually a little uncertain, owing to weather, but a pilot flying here can use the radio set to call his ground station, have the operator telephone his home and telephone for a taxi and hotel reservations for his passengers.

Leigh Brintnell, the boss of Mackenzie Air Service, takes his pretty little blonde wife on some of his northern flights. On the way home they call the airport to telephone their cook and tell her what they want to eat when they get home.

THIS GHASTLY TRAGEDY COULD HAVE BEEN AVOIDED!

If it hadn't been for a foolhardy, reckless, criminal driver this accident would have been avoided. As it is, one victim was taken direct to an undertaker's parlours and two to a hospital. The driver who caused it is hopelessly crippled for the rest of his life.

YOU'LL BE IN TROUBLE IF YOU DISREGARD THE LAWS

If you are a reckless driver travelling the Ontario highways, cutting in, passing on curves and hills, endangering the lives of others, you will find yourself in serious trouble. The appalling death toll must stop—and you who are responsible for it will be put off the road! A thousand eyes are watching you; so be forewarned!

Ontario Motorists Will Co-operate

When you see a motorist driving in a manner dangerous to the public, take his number, make a careful note of the actual time and place, and when you reach your destination write to the Motor Vehicles Branch, Department of Highways, Toronto, giving full details. Driving And Drinking

The car turned over in the ditch and Arvonen was pinned under it. In about five minutes it took fire and the man was burned to death. There was one hysterical woman screaming and the man who had been driving had left the scene, presumably to get help. That in brief was the evidence placed before a jury at Sault Ste. Marie, and the blame was attached to the driver of the car for the death of the passenger Arvonen.

Reading the report it looks much like one of those evenings when several people drove around town and called on places where they could drink beer and then started to drive home. The woman in the car had started to make the rounds with the man who was killed and after several visits and several drinks they fell in with the driver of the car and a friend. Then they all had a bottle of beer each. After which it was suggested that the girl and her gentleman friend be driven home. The woman in giving evidence said she was not paying much attention to the direction taken by the car. It came to a corner where there was loose gravel and from there it went to the ditch and toppled over. What happened after that has already been stated.

There was loose gravel on the road, but several other things appear to have been loose as well. Driving from one drinking place to another may be a swell way in which to spend the evening, but we do not think so. It is a waste of time, a waste of money and one sure way of inviting trouble or tragedy. And yet there is a good deal of it done, and the people who do it would probably scoff at the idea that a few beers would put them in such shape that they could not drive well. But the jury at the Sault blamed the death of this man to the poor driving of the man in charge of the car. So the result of one evening spent in driving and drinking was—one man lost his life and another man lost his car.

Where To Inquire

The Old Land can perhaps teach the rest of the world a good deal when it comes to methods for feeding and finishing live stock. They always appear to have something new on the way. The Examiner has referred to the feeding of sprouted maize for fattening cattle, and the sprouting is done in small houses under artificial conditions. More recently a writer in the Ayrshire Post tells of something else. This way:

"I have written here recently about the new mode of grass cutting and drying as something new. To me it was, and I marvelled as I saw the process being carried out at the farm beside the aeroplane hangar, out at Prestwick. But at the Fourth International Grassland Congress last week, a Mr. H. Woodman of Cambridge handed to the delegates, bricks of dried grass, harvested 30 years ago, which made the Congress members sit up. After their ten years of storage in an open box (the bricks, I mean) they are still the orginal green colour, possess the same fragrance. Put into cold water the 1927 harvest comes back visibly to life and value. This I consider one of the marvels of the day, but not so new as I thought."

So it might be well to remember when in search of something new for feeding cattle—find out what they are doing in the Old Land. Particularly Scotland.

Must Be Considered

There evidently is some difference of opinion about opening schools while the infantile paralysis epidemic is in full force. Some localities have decided on a delay, but the majority have opened.

The question has already been brought to the front—what will happen in the case of a child whose parents insist on it staying home? We believe this is a matter in which a fair degree of consideration should be given to parents holding such views. After all it is their own children they are dealing with, and if a parent is convinced there is danger in sending a child to school then that feeling is something to be reckoned with. It is not any desire on the part of the parent to flaunt the laws and customs of the community. Simply a case where a decision has been made by the parent on behalf of the child.

The Examiner does not anticipate there will be any increase in the number of infantile paralysis cases due to the opening of the schools. That has been the experience of other cities and that is why the majority of places are opening their schools on schedule. If there is any increase it will probably come from the state of the weather, which for many days has been favorable to the spread of the disease. The history of paralysis shows that it departs with the coming of cool weather.

People Vote To Win

The view has been expressed by a number of Ontario papers that in the election of October 6, there should be a sufficient scaling down of the Hepburn numerical strength in the Legislature to permit of a larger and stronger Opposition party. There seems to be a feeling that when there is something approaching equality there will be more care and caution and expenditure of money will be well dusted in the fanning mill of oratory before final decision comes.

As a theory that probably has some truth in it, but when it comes to actual day-to-day practice it does not amount to so much. Take the affairs of any corporation large or small. The man or group holding 51 per cent. of the stock is in control of the situation. It is not necessary to have from 80 to 90 per cent. of the stock holding and voting power to dictate policies and see that they are carried out. The minority block remains just that—the minority block.

Same in parliament. Mr. Hepburn returned with 66 of the 90 seats. Had he gone back with 46 instead of 66 he would have been in power just the same.

The plea about giving us a greater Opposition party is an old one; it comes bobbing up at every election and it is a harmless thing which to talk. It will hurt no feelings, neither will it swing votes one way or the other. People have never gone out to vote with the sole purpose of increasing the size of the minority group in any governing body. They have always gone to vote with the idea of winning the election by putting their own party in power. And that is why they will vote on October 6, of this year.

What A Man Believes

In a recent issue of Maclean's Magazine there was a "guest editorial" written by Frederick Philip Grove, under the heading of "A Farmer's Creed." Although the contents of the magazine are copyright, the Examiner is taking the liberty of reproducing the article elsewhere on this page.

We desired to print it because it is an example of good writing; it is plain-spoken and forthright; it arrives at conclusions bravely without going at length into an explanation of the reasons, and the conclusions have the added advantage of appearing to have taken to themselves the anchorage of convictions.

We have no idea how many folk could write a similar article. Many of us will listen to addresses in which men argue a point and produce an answer. As they proceed we are content to either agree or mentally protest. But all the time we are working on the articles of faith which some one else is propounding. We are not ourselves launching out in the presentation of the one, two, three and so on of our own convictions.

The Examiner admires the manner in which Mr. Grove addressed himself to the blank paper on which he started. His spade work and his planting were good, indicative of clean-cut workmanship, and subsequently he has kept the weeds well down in his patch. We consider Mr. Grove's contribution to Maclean's Magazine was quite well within that charmed circle of things to which it is proper to apply the word "remarkable."

Possibly You Are An Allergic

Possibly you are a nallergic and don't know it. Undoubtedly if you are allergic you are painfully or helplessly and perhaps hopelessly aware of the fact, but the word itself, emerging from the esoteric vocabulary of physicians into the pages of the daily press may elude you, even add confusion or complication to your plight.

For example if you are a so-called hay fever victim, you are not likely to feel better or alleviated if your doctor informs you that you are an allergic, although the professional term may seem to redeem, if ever so slightly, the embarrassing and weakening malady that manifests itself in prolonged spasms of sniffles and sneezes, to say nothing of diminished vitality and economic loss.

So, ellergy is just a new word for an old ill. If you eat lobsters or strawberries and break out in a rash, if the touch of silk blisters your skin, if face powders irritate you, or if you have to avoid foods or dusts, you are an allergic. You won't find the word in the ordinary dictionaries, but from other sources of lexicology it evidently means that your system reacts abnormally to exciting and irritating substances.

The present season of the ragweed's maturity is the despair of those unfortunates who are sensitive to its pollen. Doctors blame this weed for 85 or 90 per cent. of hay fever. They also say that the goldenrod is only a minor enemy of the hosts of sufferers, that the affliction is not contagious, and it does not recur on the same day year after year, according to hardy notions. However, if it does start all over again about the middle of August the reason is that the ragweed's pollen has taken to the air, and woe is on the wing for the seasonal allergics. Treatment of irritated mucous membrane is only temporary relief by the use of nasal sprays, but in more advanced methods today doctors have a way of ascertaining the causes of this pathologic condition, finding by tests to which pollen a person is susceptible, and then trying to immunize or desensitize with injections of extracts from that pollen.

And when that form of attack fails they say there isn't much that can be done by the sneezing subject except to take to the hills and wait for the frost to come. But if you can find compensation or joy or a measure of relief in informing friends and neighbors that you have been pronounced an allergic, then by all means make fullest possible use of the word. It sounds rather impressive.

50,000 Spies!

Vernon McKenzie, writing to the Mail and Globe from Vienna, tells of meeting an old friend who always passed as a free lance journalist. Mr. McKenzie has known him for at least fifteen years. The man in Vienna is actively engaged in work no longer, and is living retired. The drape of journalism was not a genuine bit of clothing, for the man has for years been working as a spy. Possibly he never gave himself that designation. He might have borne the better sounding name of free lance journalist, or a publicity man, or it may have suited his purpose and taste to have been known as a member of the intelligence branch of his country's service. But his business in life was the same—finding out what was going on in some other country and keeping his home officials informed. But he was a spy and we take it that since his retirement has come his chances of not being bumped off are brighter.

According to McKenzie's informant there are at least 50,000 professional spies active in Europe today. He believed there were 2,000 Germans in England alone who were regularly reporting to their home office in Berlin regarding all they saw and encountered. They are working in England as waiters or porters or anything else where they mix with the people. Scotland Yard, according to the man from Vienna, is in touch with a number of these spies and has them fairly well sorted. If an emergency were to arise the more important ones coud probably be gathered up readily enough.

All European nations have spies for the plain purpose of spying on each other. Fifty thousand may be too great a figure, or too small; that we do not know.

Meantime these same nations come together at Geneva. They meet by the simple method of sending their accredited delegates to these national representatives can gather and seek to avoid trouble, dispute and war. And while they may be drawn close together in that way, desk to desk, each one of them knows well enough his nation has spies working within the boundaries of the country represented by the man sitting next to him, in front of him or behind him. And yet at times we are moved to wonder why the League of Nations does not succeed!

Man was killed by a barnstorming plane near Strathroy, and of course people are asking now what sort of a plane it was, and why it was allowed to operate, etc. Such questions usually do come—after some person has been killed.

A man in Windsor says if one wants to live to be 90 years old he should smoke a pipe. The same day another man in London said the secret of old age is in walking. If one went at it either way in a vigorous manner it would result in the same thing—puffing.

Mr. Hepburn speaking at Woodstock, said that collecting succession duties did not mean he was soaking the rich. After hearing the rich were not going to be soaked Editor Elliott of the Woodstock paper heaved a sigh and felt more at ease.

BUNIONS

(By A. R. K.)

¶ I lather up my face each day, and mow the stubble all away, and nip each budding shoot; it hurts so much I often groan, I've pulled each whisker out alone, and took him by the root.

¶ The razor that I hide away, I think it goes to work each day, it cuts a piece of string; I know before the day is through, there's many jobs it has to do, it's such a handy thing.

¶ When uncle visits us in town and leaves his pants for cutting down, to fit a lad of nine; my razor comes in action then, it rips the stitches in the hem, and does it extra fine.

¶ And when the corns grow long and tall, and blossom out when comes the fall, and when they hurt the feet; I think my razor comes in there, for it can slice and trim and pare, and do it rather neat.

¶ And it nips bits of tape and thread, and sharpens pencils made of lead, whole hours the thing will save; I'm conscious of these things each day, it's awful what I start to say, when I begin to shave.

¶ I hone the thing with greatest care, and get an edge I think is rare, and then it works on bunions; another weight camps on my mind, for in the pickling days they find—it's great for peeling onions.

THIS man probably told the truth when he appeared before an Old-street magistrate in London. Alfred Taylor was up on a charge of theft. Records show he was once a member of the Metropolitan police in London, but was released because he had stolen, and he stole because he gambled. His wife made a plea for leniency, and Taylor told the magistrate: "I can be an honest man except when I am in contact with money."

645 Babies Born Every Day.

JUST a few statistics regarding our own land:

There are 645 babies born in Canada every day, and that means one every two minutes the year through.

The average death rate in the Dominion is 288 per day, or one every five minutes.

Each day sees 124 emigrants in this country.

And each day also sees 66 people leaving the Dominion.

So there is an increase in our population of one person in every three minutes and twenty-eight seconds.

There has been an increase in population of 853,000 since the last census was taken in 1931.

The Insects Were Busy.

DURING the month of August insect hordes made their annual attacks in various sections of United States. Summarized the story is something like this:

Caused the importation of turkeys into Colorado from neighboring states.

Devoured a farmer's trousers in Nebraska as he worked in the fields.

They were fought by firemen and city workers in Camden, N. J., and by children bribed by lollypops in East Orange, N. J.

The same plague caused a New York fruit farmer to ruin eight tons of cherries by spraying them with arsenate of lead.

Army worm made another appearance in New York state and Connecticut.

And the corn borer started operating once more in Connecticut.

How Many Are Unemployed.

PRESIDENT Roosevelt asked Congress to appropriate $1,500,000,000 for the relief of the unemployed. Trouble is that with all the machinery set up and at the disposal of the government no one seems to know how many unemployed there are in United States.

Published estimates—or guesses—range from three to over ten million.

Another problem is in deciding who is unemployed. A college student seeks a job to supplement the family income. Can he be counted as unemployed?

A small former or a tradesman has given up the struggle. Is he unemployed. That is one of the big questions before Washington today.

A Farmer Writes About His Creed

States In Plain Terms His Articles of Faith Applies Logic, Reason and Common Sense.

In Maclean's Magazine

I I believe in life. That is to say I believe in the thing which passes understanding and cannot be approached by the mind; it can be accepted only as a given and is therefore "sacred." Since I am a living being, myself, I believe I am one with all that lives; all joy is my joy, all pain, my pain.

✧ ✧ ✧

II I believe in the soil. That is to say I believe that not a hair from my head nor a feather from a sparrow's wing can fall without being taken account of by the soil; the soil must be served; the soil is supreme. Empires have risen and fallen according as they served the soil or neglected it. No pride in large estates avails; Rome died of it. If a given piece of soil yields better, not in exportable surplus but in human contentment, when supporting three men where it supported one, then the soil if held by one will avenge itself though it may take generations to do so.

✧ ✧ ✧

III I believe in the race. That is to say I believe that the fact of my being mortal and, therefore, unlikely to sit in the shade of the sapling I may or may not be planting, is no reason why I should not plant it. In other words, I believe that the material unattainability of an ideal is no reason why I should cease striving after it. An ideal that can be attained will be attained and will then cease to be an ideal. I also believe that this my belief may be the belief of others as well; and if a lawyer, a doctor, a merchant has it, many things will be added unto him.

✧ ✧ ✧

IV I believe in the perfectibility of the race. That is I believe in education; not in the sense of teaching the young the methods by which we do things—those they will see of their own accord and they will find better ways of their own as a matter of course—but rather in the sense of enabling them to see the invisible behind the visible, the spiritual behind the material, as only the great that have lived before us were able to do. So that when they grow up they also will stand on the little plot of land which they own, under the sun or under the stars, and reach out, with tentative mind, into the great mysteries which surround us.

✧ ✧ ✧

V I belive in knowledge. That is to say I believe it is best to leave those who strive to increase our store of knowledge entirely free.

✧ ✧ ✧

VI I believe in order. That is to say I believe in a divinely ordained sequence of things, no matter how conditioned, whether by the personal direction of an omnipotent God or by what the scientists call natural law. This implies that I believe in the seasonal arrangement of events in nature; and in taking things as they come. I do not ask my strawberry patch to yield berries at Christmas.

✧ ✧ ✧

VII I believe in justice. That is to say I believe in living and letting live. But, while I agree to any man's living as he pleases, even by buying cheap and selling dear, I protest against that perversion of justice which enables a minority to batten on the distress of the majority. I cannot forget that a thing which I produce at a loss will be handled by others at a profit, and that, therefore, it is possible for a country in which every primary producer is bankrupt to be speciously prosperous in the reports of the statistician. Any injustice, even an injustice directed against myself, is a grievance.

✧ ✧ ✧

VIII I believe in liberty. That is to say I believe in law. Which is the same thing as saying that I believe in a limitation of my freedom by that of others, and in a limitation by common consent of the freedom of others by mine. If a man's chosen activity is found to prejudice the freedom of others, he must cease that activity and in case of need be forced to cease it. Thus the man who chooses to make not only his living but his fortune by juggling the market must be restrained, in case of need by treating him as any other public enemy is treated.

✧ ✧ ✧

IX I believe in peace. That is to say I believe it is wrong for anyone to call his neighbor "fool." I am I; and my neighbor is another, if different, I. That is no reason why we should quarrel. If elsewhere man seeks salvation by communism or fascism, I am grateful to those who do so for conducting experiments which may or may not prove successful. But whoever uses their names as a term of contempt sows the seed of war; for to call your neighbor "fool" or "scoundrel" arouses anger; and anger is the root of all evil; toleration is peace.

✧ ✧ ✧

X I believe in progress. That is to say I believe that through the accumulation of knowledge we shall learn to appreciate the nature of things. For it is man's task to find his own place, his own niche in the scheme of the world. Even the machine may help us better to understand the workings of that scheme. For a part of a whole to subordinate that whole to itself is a task beyond its powers; it is a dream that is dreamt. But if man, on awaking, is better fitted to subordinate himself to nature, then he has made a step toward bringing about the kingdom of nature on earth.

✧ ✧ ✧

XI I believe in solvency. That is to say I believe in going without that for which I cannot pay. Without solvency true freedom is impossible for the individual as well as for the nation. I believe the installment plan is the curse of modern life; and the "science of salesmanship sells into slavery.

✧ ✧ ✧

XII I believe in collective responsibility. That is to say I believe that man is a product of heredity and circumstance; and that is the same thing as saying that I believe in man's fundamental innocence and equality. If my brother sin, then I sin with him because I permitted him to be born with a heredity or into an environment which made his sin a foregone conclusion. If there is smut on my oats, it is my fault, not the fault of the oats. If human plant goes wrong, nought is to gained by raging against that human plant; needs must we look to ourselves to find that which made it go wrong.

Two Nations Have Great Deal In Common

United States and Britain In Far East; Should Have Acted Together Long Ago.

Sarnia Canadian Observer

A NEW YORK woman, who has studied world affairs spoke recently at Toronto in condemnation of her own country's attitude which she blamed partially as being responsible for the universal chaos. She coupled the United States with France as the two nations that could have insured world peace. The failure of the United States to join the League of Nations and the action of France in blocking the disarmament conference were referred to as the incidents that have figured prominently in the foundation of the alarming conditions now existent.

There is a school of thought which holds that had the United States taken the bold step of entering the League of Nations, the composition of world disturbances would have been assured. It would have signified that the two great Anglo-Saxon powers with a common heritage of language and thought were working in unison on projects with the objective of a peaceful and law-abiding world. Such a combination, however, was rendered impossible by the public clamor in the United States against any "European entanglements." It seems plain that if two world powers of the standing and resources of Britain and the United States were united in enterprises for the preservation of peace, they could dictate world policies for there could be no other combination capable of opposing them with any hope of success.

These nations are today in imminent danger in the Far East because of their lack of associated solidarity and they may have to pay heavy penalties. Japan has now virtually defied them. She is organizing a blockade for the purpose of preventing China from importing goods. The blockade will stop British and United States ships in the course of legitimate business. If such a ship is stopped, searched and its cargo seized there would be grounds on which to get into a serious quarrel with Japan. If the affair between Japan and China continues, it is almost certain that British or American ships will be searched, in which case the nations whose flags such vessels carry, might be perilously near to war.

BRITISH SELF CONTROL

(Baltimore Sun)

IN DEALING with the shooting of Sir Hughe Knatchbull-Hugessen, the British Ambassador to China, the authorities in London are proceeding in a manner that is highly creditable. They do not minimize the gravity of the offence committed by the Japanese airmen and they intend to hold the Japanese Government to accountability. At the same time, London is doing nothing to magnify a situation that is bad enough as it is. For this control of natural indignation there should be gratitude everywhere....

Upon Western governments whose interests touch the Far Eastern situation, upon the British and ourselves, in particular, rests today the extremely difficult duty of finding and preserving the course that is at once firm and self-restrained in the presence of a reckless war maker. The British have done very well thus far in dealing with an offence that was peculiarly brutal and peculiarly disturbing to national self-esteem.

NO SUCH CHARGES LAID.

(Financial Post)

THE Toronto Globe and Mail prints an interview with a labor organizer who declares that average wages paid men in one textile plant in Ontario are below $15 a week for a 60-hour week. "There are a thousand men who are lucky to get $12 a week the year round," the labor man is quoted as saying.

This statement, and others referring to hours of work and plant conditions under which employees labored, were later flatly denied by the company concerned.

The Textile Enquiry took evidence for months and no such charges were laid before it.

Ontario now has an Industrial Relations Board under a former chairman. It is presumably investigating conditions in this very plant at the present time.

ALASKA

Beyond is the barren wasteland,
Where no man ever trod
The pure, unspoiled tundra
Kept pure by the hand of God.
Peopled by Nature's chosen
This bare and boundless terrain
There's the law of self-preservation
Where men have not yet left a stain.

O'erhead, the blue dome of heaven
Vast, dotted with millions of stars
Keeps watch o'er the far-reaching barrenness
Where the freedom of Life knows no bars.
This is no land for the weakling
For only the fittest survive
The wolves, the cold and the silence
Ever wage their unceasing drive.

What know ye, ye spawn of the cities
Of the battle of Nature and man
Where live and let live is a by-word
And on kill or be killed there's no ban.
The Eskimo up in God's country
Lives by his brawn and his brain
He's happy up there, cause he knows naught
Of the sinful lust for gain.

The hand of God is unchanging
He planned out these Arctic nights
Where solitude reigns on unbroken
'Neath the wing of the northern lights.

Intimidation Charge Fails Second Count Goes To Trial After Preliminary Hearings

tection" would be afforded them.

"Did you make arrangements with the police", counsel asked.

"We asked that adequate protection be afforded. We advised the police of our intention of opening the plants and we agreed with the police that the workers should assemble at given points", witness replied.

Taking witness to task for his continued use of the pronoun "we", defence counsel suggested that while witness' name might be suggestive of royalty "the use of the pronoun we in evidence is the prerogative of royalty only".

Confer With Chief.

Witness told counsel that in referring to "we" he meant himself, Mr. Leybourne, controller of Auburn mill and the Chief Constable. He said he had told police he expected between 100 and 150 workers to enter the Bonner-Worth plant in answer to notices that were given the strikers of reopening of the plant, but he had not suggested how many police would constitute "adequate protection".

He declared it was the Chief Constable who had suggested that in all probability outside police help would have to be obtained.

There had been no suggestion until two weeks previous to that time that the local police could not handle the situation themselves, Mr. Melton stated. He declared that at the time he referred to however some employees who had worked all during the strike had been denied entrance to the Bonner-Worth plant despite intervention of a squad of local police.

Mr. Cohen asked what else had been discussed at the conference between plant officials and police. He suggested they might have discussed the subject of colds, having reference to Chief Constable Newhall's previous suggestion in another case that tear gas was an excellent cold cure.

Asked by defence counsel if he recalled anything else relative to the charge of intimidation against Welch the witness said that when the Mayor and Chief Constable came up to the picket line just prior to the clash between police and strikers, "Welch had his hand on somebody's shoulder".

Like "Circus Ringmaster"

He volunteered the observation that Welch's actions on the morning in question were suggestive of "a circus ringmaster".

Reminding the witness that such an observation was out of place, defence counsel said, "You remind me of something".

Provincial Constable Albert Clark of Kitchener said that on the morning in question he observed Welch attempt to escort the Mayor through the picket line. He was unsuccessful. Welch slipped by and said, "Hold your line, don't let the police through".

"What was Welch doing", the Crown asked.

"He was talking to them. He was talking to a man named Hickey and shouted 'don't let them through'".

Relating the incident of Welch's arrest, the officer said he heard the accused ask Chief Newhall some question to which the Chief gave a refusal. He next saw Welch attempt to push the Chief Constable aside, and at that point he was placed under arrest.

Gas Issued Locally.

Witness told Mr. Cohen under cross-examination that tear gas was supplied by the Chief of Police of Peterborough. Batons were issued to the provincial police at Toronto when they were assigned to special duty here.

He agreed that he had seen newspaper pictures of a broken baton, and stated that those who intended going to work at the mill that morning were all inside the gates when the bomb was released by a city police constable.

Constable William A. Clarke of the city police force told the court he saw Welch standing in front of the pickets. He was trying apparently to prevent the breaking of the picket line judging by motions he was making with his arms. If the arm waving had been a signal, the officer observed, the pickets obeyed. They kept their arms linked. Witness at one time heard Welch tell the pickets not to break their line.

A Good Definition.

Cross-examined by defence counsel, Clarke said he was still serving a period of probation as a recent comer to the force. He defined a good police officer as "one who can keep a person out of trouble before they get into trouble".

He admitted it was he had hurled the tear gas bomb during the morning disturbance at the Bonner-Worth plant and said he had been given orders by his chief to use his own discretion as to whether or not tear gas should be discharged.

Seventeen police officers escorted workers to the plant as they marched about seventy-five strong from McDonnel and Park streets. Constable John A. Rogers testified. He said the street was crowded and Welch drove up and down the street three or four times in a car owned by Alex Townsley.

Kept Pickets Moving.

The officer stated in evidence he lost sight of Welch as the workers started to march westwards towards the mill and next saw him at the picket line after the fracas between police and strikers. He saw Welch encouraging the picket to keep moving.

Chief Samuel Newhall said he went to McDonnel street with Mayor Macdonald. He observed Welch driving up and down in a car and blowing the horn. He ran through the line of workers as they formed up to march into the mill.

Witnessed said he asked Welch to get out of the car as the Mayor wished to see him. Then Welch, the Mayor and witness walked about 350-yards to the mill gates.

Describing the scene that greeted him there the Chief testified, "I saw a disorderly rotating picket line. There were seventy-five or eighty men and women joining hands. They were yelling and singing. I went to break the line to let the Mayor through. At first I thought Welch was all right with the Mayor because he put his arms on the Mayor's shoulder to let him through. Later he encouraged the pickets to disorder and there was a small riot. The picket lines had to be broken by force. By his gestures Welch was trying to keep the picket line rotating, and on one occasion I heard him say, 'Don't let them in'. Pandemonium broke loose and there was much disorder. We had to arrest some women who were charged in this court. A little force was used and the workers went into the mill".

Welch's Arrest

Relating the incident of Welch's arrest the Chief declared that Welch came up after the fracas was over and asked to see the prisoners. He was told that he could not see them; that he would not be permitted on the company's premises and was arrested when he refused an order to "move along".

Asked by defence counsel why he had not arrested Welch before he did, Chief Newhall replied, "I could not get my hands on him".

"And yet you say you were right beside him with the mayor", counsel commented.

"Strictly Private"

Asked when he had decided to call in outside police help, Chief Newhall declared, "That is strictly private".

Relative to the discussion he had with Leybourne and Melton about the need of "adequate protection", witness believed it might have been on Friday or Saturday prior to the arrival of the provincial police squad.

To defence counsel's suggestion that he had got "hot" on the morning of the Bonner-Worth disturbance witness retored he was as cool then as he was in the witness box. He emphatically denied a further suggestion made by Mr. Cohen that he had been drinking on the morning in question.

SUBMARINE SINKS BRITISH STEAMER

where he said the six injured seamen had been put ashore. His message did not state whether the Woodford had been sunk.

The Woodford, a 6,987-ton tanker, was 18 miles off the Spanish coast on a voyage from Barcelona to Valencia when the torpedo was fired. The London manager of the Woodford said: "The telegram from the master unfortunately is not quite clear relating to detail."

An official report on his latest example of the many mysterious attacks on neutral shipping in the Mediterranean had not reached the Admiralty when members of the Cabinet at present in London met today to weigh the problem, but informed persons said it would aggravate an already serious situation.

His Majesty's Government had already placed destroyers on the trail of the unidentified submarine that tried to sink the Havock. The searchers had official permission to sink the Mediterranean marauder.

A French proposal for an Anglo-French convoy system in the Mediterranean was understood in reliable quarters to be a point for ministerial consideration.

The Earl of Perth, British Ambassador to Rome, held a surprise interview with Foreign Secretary Eden before the ministers met. The Earl, better known as Sir Eric Drummond, is an expert on Mediterranean problems.

The outlook for an Anglo-Italian rapprochment was considered gloomy in view of widespread opinion particularly in the press that the mysterious submarine that attacked the Havock was Italian.

Has Reached Crisis

The situation reached a crisis yesterday when the undersea craft fired a torpedo at the Havock off the eastern Spanish coast between Alicante and Valencia. The torpedo barely missed the destroyer. The Havock immediately dropped a depth charge, but whether it found its mark was not known.

In the background were a large number of assaults on merchant vessels by submarine and airplane. The long list of attacked vessels included at least 25 of British registry or operated by British interests.

Press comment was almost unanimously suspicious that Italy had played a large hand in the Mediterranean outrages. Premier Mussolini months ago recognized the insurgent regime as the real government of Spain and last week felicitated General Franco on the capture of Santander with the aid of 12 Italian generals.

The London News-Chronicle said bluntly: "That the pirate submarine is Italian there is little doubt. It is known in London even if proofs are hard to come by, that the pirate raiders who now roam the length and breadth of the Mediterranean are Italian, whatever false flags they may fly."

The Daily Sketch said, "The possibility the submarine is Italian is one not excluded in official circles."

War Extended

The Herald said: "Franco's airplanes and submarines—with whatever help from his Italian allies—have extended the war to the whole Mediterranean."

At least six British warships were conducting the search for the Havock's attacker. Quarters close to the Admiralty indicated the submarine would be destroyed if possible and said the government considered such a step would be "entirely justified," once the craft's crew had been removed.

Almost at the time the Havock was attacked, Franco's planes bombed the Greek freighter Tsepo, about 20 miles north of Barcelona. It was carrying a munitions cargo for the Valencia government. The vessel was reached, her helsman killed and another seaman injured.

PONTYPOOL

On Friday evening about two hundred friends and neighbors gathered in the Orange Hall, Pontypool when a miscellaneous shower was tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tiptrot (nee Gwen Gray) in honor of their recent marriage.

The evening was spent in dancing, music for round and square dancing was supplied by Percy Mantle, Wilford Lunn, Roy Porter, Mrs. Leonard Aldred and others.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Tiptrot were called to the platform by Mr. John Payne who acted as chairman. An appropriate address was read by Mr. Leonard Gilbanks and the young couple were presented with many beautiful and costly gifts which were laid out on tables.

Mr. Tiptrot on behalf of his wife thanked their friends most heartily. All sang "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows." The gifts were then unwrapped. Lunch was served and dancing continued.

Mr. and Mrs. Tiptrot will live in Toronto.

MODERN SCHOOLS ARE TURNING OUT

essential framework of knowledge that should be established in the normal citizen of our modern community?"

Wells said he realized that the "main beams and girders of the mental framework" must be set up, at the latest, by the 15th or 16th year. He sought to show how the irreducible minimum of knowledge could be imparted to students without interfering with other studies during 10 years of schooling. Better teachers would be needed, but it could be done.

The portly author of the "Outline of History" even brought forth a huge diagram illustrating the natural progression of studies he considers necessary toward building up a coherent picture of the world.

Wells based his calculations on a 30-hour school week. Most of this time would be occupied with languages, mathematics, music, manual and physical training. Of the 30 hours, Wells said it might be possible to apportion six hours weekly to essentially informative work. Figuring on a 40-weeks' school year, this allowed 240 hours a year and 2,400 hours in 10 years to supply the knowledge Wells considers utterly necessary for an understanding of life.

At the inquest in Glencoe, South Africa, on Telele Madela, who died of exposure, his wife testified that the man often got drunk and fell off his horse, and the animal always waited until he recovered sufficiently to mount again.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

BE friends with everybody. When you have friends you will know there is somebody who will stand by you. You know the old saying that if you have a single enemy you will find him everywhere. It doesn't pay to make enemies. Lead the life that will make you kindly and friendly to everyone about you, and you will be surprised what a happy life you will live.—Charles M. Schwab.

Dear Friends:

The other day a lady said to me, "Roberta, it is so very hard for me to make friends. I do not want to be aloof, but try as I like, I cannot seem to be as friendly as I would want, so my friends are mighty few. Could you tell me what to do about it?"

And so I am passing on to you my readers, the information I gave this woman. First of all, relax. Before you go out, see that everything about your person, your dress, undergarments, hair and face, are as nice as you can make them. Then forget all about yourself.

When you meet people, be as interested in them as you can, not vulgarly curious, not telling them your faults, but interested in what they say and how they say it. Look as pleasant as you can, and use your face to smile with, not for frowning.

When anyone looks at you, do not think they are criticizing or finding fault with your appearance. Remember that you attended to that before you left home, and that everything is alright. They might, you know, be admiring you. Remembering that will give you poise and self-assurance.

I would not ask you to go around with a silly grin on your face, but look as if you were thinking about something nice, not as if you had something sour in your mouth. Be a good listener, but give the other fellow something to take away with him too.

Do not make too light of other people's sufferings, else when your turn comes, as it inevitably must, you will get scant sympathy too. If you must have a listener to your troubles, (and we all need that at times) be as brief as you can, not going into all the little details.

Remember that people like to listen to funny or pleasant things, so always endeavor to make them laugh. I was a social secretary for a number of years, and it has stood me in good stead many times because I am never short for a topic of conversation. Part of my duties was to entertain the lady I worked for, so I made a practise of rememoering lots of little amusing things I had heard or read.

Another thing I try to do, and that is to leave them laughing. A simple joke or something silly I have done, anything like that will leave them smiling, then you are associated in their minds with mirth, and they are glad to see you again.

You cannot be interested in others if all your thoughts are centred on yourself entirely. Remember also, that your sicknesses or your operations may be of interest to you, but it is very boring to listen to, so don't wait until you see your friends getting restive before you let up talking about them.

Go around as if you had some secret gladness within you (you have one haven't you? so that it shines forth and illumines your face. Do not go around as if you didn't believe when people tell you they like you, for all you will do is give them the feeling you think you are superior. You have your superior points, but don't we all?

The dictionary tells us of friendliness "The state or quality of being amicable, cordial, genial, affable." So try one or all of these, and you will never be without friends. So will you be greeted with a smile, folks will b glad to see you come, and sorry to see you go. Never forget you have,

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

Heath—Betts

A pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Luke's Church at eleven o'clock this (Thursday) morning, when Florence Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Betts, was married to Norman Heath, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Heath, with the Rev. G. J. Bousfield performing the ceremony.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with gladioli blooms on the altar and tall baskets of varicolored flowers at the chancel steps. During the ceremony, Miss M. Flowers presided at the organ, playing 'O Perfect Love,' while the register was being signed.

The bride wore a charming gown of pale pink sheer patterned with silk embroidery in a green and pink flower design. Made with tiny bolero jacket, Peter Pan collar and short puffed sleeves, her gown was trimmed at the waist with narrow pink and green ribbons, falling in long streamers. She wore a small turban of white satin with nose-veil, white lace mittens, and white slippers. Her flowers were a corsage of roses.

Mrs. Heath, mother of the groom, wore a dress of pale blue triple sheer, white hat and accessories, and a corsage of pink and white carnations.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at the groom's home to the bridal party and immediate relatives and friends. Bouquets of flowers, pink and white streamers and white bells decorated the rooms, the table being arranged with vases of sweet peas and 'baby's breath,' red rose place cards, and the wedding cake as a centrepiece.

The happy couple left later for a trip to Niagara Falls, the bride travelling in a dress of navy sheer crepe, navy hat and accessories. They will reside at 191 Dalhousie Street.

Women Are Ready To Serve as Jurors

NEW YORK, Sept. 2 (AP)—Qualified to serve on juries by a new state law, women flocked by the hundreds today to register their willingness to try their fellow man—and woman.

More than 1,300, ranging from charwomen to club women, registered for jury duty yesterday. Many said they regarded it as a feminine duty. Others were frank to admit the prospect of the $3 daily pay was the attraction.

All agreed murderers of their own sex would have a tough time pulling the wool over their eyes.

"Any woman who can spank her own children can serve on a jury and mete out justice," said Mrs. Cecilia Reiser.

CAME LIFE THEN DEATH

MANCHESTER — (CP), — Mrs. Charles Leese gave birth to a girl at the same time her husband, rushing to the hospital on his motorcycle, was struck and killed. The bad news was withheld for some time.

INTERESTING WOMEN

The people who have led the fullest, most interesting lives seem to be most reticent about their experiences and achievements, and the interviewer has to work hard to get a small column of facts about a life that might fill a book.

Sixteen years in the glamorous and terrible East, with a gorgeous Maharajah and Maharani as most friendly neighbors, and a leper hospital as a sad daily care; dining with the Viceroy, and giving help to the lowly outcast—and between these extremes having friendly relations with every class of Indian and Anglo-Indian society, this has been the experience of Mrs. Charles MacDermid Scott, wife of Dr. C. M. Scott, of Stewart street.

MRS. C. M. SCOTT

Katherine Elmas MacNabb was born a daughter of the Manse at Beachburg, Ontario; her parents being the late Rev. Robert MacNabb who passed away two years ago, and Mrs. MacNabb, at present a guest at her daughter's home in Peterborough. Katherine MacNabb was educated at Public and High Schools in Beachburg, Pembroke, Powassan and Kenmore. She graduated from the Ottawa Normal School, taught for four years in her home town and on the Ottawa Public School staff, and then went as a student to Queen's University. After two years of college she left to share the life of a medical missionary with her husband, Dr. C. M. Scott, himself a graduate in Arts and Medicine of Queen's and an interne at the Kingston General Hospital. They were married in September, 1915, and went directly to India.

Every medical missionary must spend the first year learning languages and in this study Mrs. Scott joined her husband, and also passed the examinations. They studied Hindi and Urdu both in character and script; at Rutlam Central India, and in the cities of Landour and Mussoorie in the Himalaya Mountains.

Stationed at Rutlam, where Dr. Scott was in charge of the hospital for over fourteen years and for two years at Dhar, Mrs. Scott, as the wife of a busy doctor in India, made her life a continuous round of daily tasks pertaining to the hospital. Visits were made to the hospital patients—she even assisted at operations in the early days before the staff was complete— to the cholera villages and daily to the leper hospital; she made clothing for the lepers and gave them a Christmas party every year, doing all in her power to cheer the unfortunate lot of those poor stricken people.

During this time her executive abilities did not lie idle. The hot season was generally spent in the hills, and Mrs. Scott, who served on Mission Committees in the United Church Mission, was for her last three years in India, the Mission's representative on the Board of Directors of the large educational institution (Public, High School and Normal School) at "Woodstock," Mussoorie. She was president of the Parent - Teacher Association and vice-president of the Reading Club. She was a judge at school fairs. She made use of her early training and taught in the school when a teacher was needed. In Rutlam she also taught English sometimes in the Hindustani school.

Social functions of necessity had their place in the life of this busy lady. She and her husband dined often at the palace and always when the agent of the Governor-General was there. They were presented to each Viceroy by the Maharajah of Rutlam (whose name was called third in the Coronation procession) and the Maharani, living in strict seclusion within the palace, was a friend of Mrs. Scott. Very happy relationships were enjoyed with the native rulers of neighboring states. the Scotts being asked each year to visit Ballara for the gorgeous three-day birthday celebration of its ruler. They were often entertained by the Dewan of Rutlam and by European railway officials, Rutlam being a railway centre.

Three children were born in India: Anna Jean, now a student at Queen's; Norman Andrew of the Peterborough Collegiate; and Margaret Katherine, "whose little body lies beneath the palms of India, lovingly and tenderly placed there by Hindus, Mohammedans and Christians—both Roman Catholics and Protestants."

Returning to Canada in the late fall of 1931, Dr. and Mrs. Scott resided in Kingston until August, 1932 when they came to Peterborough. Though supposed to rest while in Kingston, Mrs. Scott in reality addressed several meetings a week, in churches and schools. She was the main speaker at the Queen's General Annual Alumnae gathering in 1932. She was president that same year of the W.M.S. of Chalmers United Church, Kingston.

Since coming to Peterborough Mrs. Scott has been vice-president of the Peterborough Branch of the Women's Lyceum Club Art Association for two years. She is now completing her third year as president of the Local Council of Women, and is president of the Peterborough Presbyterial of the United Church. This last spring she served on the Coronation committee and on the Housing and Town Planning committee.

Dr. and Mrs. Scott have visited most of the countries of the world. Before returning to Canada in 1931, their travels took them to Palestine and Egypt and over a good deal of Europe, four months being spent in Vienna.

Peterborough must be glad to number among its citizens this delightful, sympathetic lady, to whom Oriental rulers gave gifts in appreciation of her work. Other verbal tributes have not been lacking. Dr. Bruce Thornton, who stayed with the Scotts in India, spoke of their "ability to meet all classes, from the Viceroy to the humblest outcast." At a large farewell gathering of the citizens of Rutlam, when Dr. Scott was presented with an address—written four times on pink satin, green velvet, white satin and paper—Mrs. Scott was mentioned in these words: "That God should have rewarded you with a sweet and generous lady like Mrs. Scott, to share your burdens and brief through the long and tedious journey of Life, is but in the fitness of things."

Pickle Recipes In Demand Now Pickling Season Is Here

Mary Moore Answers Requests With Full Outline of Pickling Recipes.

IF, in one or two instances, these recipes are not exactly what you specified it is because they are choice in their field, but contain the basic ingredients you asked for.

Chili Sauce

(Contributed by Mrs. Nan S.)

Fifteen choice red tomatoes, 3 large onions, 1½ hot red peppers, 1 pint white vinegar, 2 cups brown sugar, 3 peaches, 3 pears, 1 tablespoon salt, 1 oz. whole mixed spices. Cut up tomatoes; chop onions, peaches and pears fairly finely, cut peppers very fine. Mix vinegar, salt and brown sugar, then stir the mixture into the fruits and vegetables, add the whole spices (which must be tied loosely in a cheesecloth bag or piece of muslin—leave a long piece of string on bag for easy removal). Remove spice bag when spiced to taste. All tastes differ; use your own judgment for spiciness. Cook mixture for about 2¼ hours in large kettle (preferably enamel) then pour into sterilized jars and seal at once with hot paraffin, cover again when cool. Store in cool, dry place. This quantity makes 4 one-lb. jars and is a real "party" relish.

Sweet Pickled Green Tomatoes

Four quarts small green tomatoes, 4 small onions, 4 green peppers, 1 quart vinegar, 1 teaspoon each black pepper, mustard seed, celery seed, cloves, allspices, cinnamon, and 2 cups sugar. Cut the small tomatoes in halves crosswise, and slice the onions very thinly and over the mixed tomatoes and onions sprinkle ½ cup salt and let stand overnight in a crock or enamel pan. Next morning drain off the brine. Put all the remaining ingredients except the peppers in an enamel preserving kettle to bring to boiling point, add the tomatoes, onions and pepper and boil gently for 30 minutes. Fill into sterile jars and seal.

Chowchow (Green Tomato Relish)

Three quarts small green tomatoes, 12 small cucumbers, 3 red peppers, 1 cauliflower, 2 bunches celery, 1 pint small onions, 1 quart string beans, ½-lb. mustard seed, 2-oz. tumeric, ½-oz. each allspice, pepper, cloves, 1 cup salt, 1 gallon vinegar. Prepare the vegetables by peeling or chopping finely, and cover with the salt and let stand 24 hours—then drain. Heat the vinegar and spices to boiling point, add vegetables and cook until soft and of thick consistency (if you wish it thin do not boil so long). Pour into sterile jars and seal.

Tomato Catsup

Three dozen medium sized very red tomatoes, one pint cider vinegar, 1-oz. garlic, 1-oz. shallots (or mild green onions), 2-oz. salt, 1 teaspoon cayenne pepper, 5-oz. lemon juice, 1 teaspoon paprika. Dip the tomatoes in boiling water to peel them, then force them through the food chopper to break them up, then strain them. Mix together all the remaining ingredients but the lemon juice and bring to boiling point and boil until chopped shallots and garlic are tender—about 15 minutes—strain. To the strained and spiced vinegar add the tomato pulp, and lemon juice, bring to boiling point quickly—boil hard 2 minutes, then pour into sterile bottles and seal with wax. Very good color.

Sweet Pickles

Please note: the following method is for gherkins and cauliflower flowerets—but can be used for small onions too or for the three of them mixed—if the onions are to be added add 2 quarts, peel them and increase the other ingredients by one-third—treat the onions as directed for the cucumber and cauliflowers.)

Two quarts 2-inch or 2¼-inch gherkins, 2 quarts cauliflower flowerets from 3 rather large cauliflowers, 1-3 cup salt, 2 quarters water, 2 quarts good cider vinegar, 2 lbs. sugar, 1-oz. mixed cinnamon sticks, allspice berries and whole cloves, 1-oz. each mustard seed and celery seeds. Prepare the vegetables by washing well—separating the cauliflower into flowerets. Dissolve the salt in the water and put the vegetables in this brine to stand overnight. In the morning drain. Rinse off with clear cold water.

Cook the cucumber and cauliflowers in boiling water to cover for 3 minutes, then rinse well with cold water. Tie the spices in a bag and boil them with the sugar and vinegar for 10 minutes, remove spice bag, pour vinegar syrup over the vegetables and let stand until cold. Pour off the liquid, let it come to boiling point and again pour over the vegetables, after they have been packed in sterile jars, to overflowing, and seal.

Mustard Pickles

(Highly Recommended)

Wipe four quarts small cucumbers, put in preserving kettle and add 3 large cucumbers cut in pieces, 1 quart small onions, peeled, 4 green peppers wiped and cut in slices, 1 bunch celery, chopped rather fine, and one cauliflower cut into flowerets.

To these add 1 gallon boiling water in which has been dissolved 1 pint of salt (2 cups). Cover all and let stand overnight. In the morning bring to boiling point and let simmer gently until vegetables are about half tender—(if they are boiled longer they are soft instead of being crisp). Drain. Then make

Dressing (For Mustard Pickles)

Mix together 1 cup flower, 1 cup sugar, 6 tablespoons mustard, 1 tablespoon tumeric powder, then add slowly while stirring constantly, 1 cup vinegar and enough more to make a smooth paste. Using 2 quarts of vinegar in all stir the paste into the remaining vinegar and bring to boiling point, then add the drained vegetables and 2 tablespoons celery seed, and let boil 10 minutes. Pour into sterile jars and seal.

Favorite Corn Relish

(I am not alone in thinking this almost rivals the mint flavor when served with their hot or cold lamb.)

One and one-half dozen ears tender corn, 1 small cabbage, 1 bunch celery, 4 onions, 1 red pepper, 1 green pepper, 2 quarts vinegar, 2 cups sugar, ¼ cup flour, ¼ cup salt, ½ teaspoon each, mustard, cayenne, tumeric. Cut the corn from the cobs. Force the cabbage through the meat chopper. Separate the celery stalks, remove leaves, and chop. Peel the onions and cut in thin slices. Wipe peppers and chop into long thin strips. Put vegetables into preserving kettle and pour over them one-half the vinegar. Mix sugar, salt, mustard, cayenne and tumeric and add to remaining vinegar. Combine mixtures bring to boiling point, let simmer 40 minutes. Fill sterile jars and seal.

QUESTION: Some time ago in the section where the recipes are printed you had a recipe for Russian Borsch soup. I wonder if you could let me have this recipe?—F. E. K.

ANSWER:

Borsch (Russian Beet Soup)

There are several variations of Borsch but the following method is the most common.

At least 1 quart of good stock (beef, veal, or chicken), 5 medium sized, uncooked beets, butter, salt, pepper, sour cream.

Wash and clean the beets, paring off the skin, root and stems, and shred them finely. Melt the butter (about 3 tablespoons) in a saucepan and when hot add the beets and cook stirring for about 20 minutes. Then stir in a little hot stock and when this is absorbed, stir in more stock and repeat the process till the beets are quite tender—if they are fresh this does not take long. Pour the contents of the pan into a larger vessel containing the hot stock, cover, and simmer gently for ½ hour, then strain. Three or four tablespoons sour cream are stirred in just before serving, or it can be served in a small pitcher and passed at table. Add pepper and salt to your individual taste when the beets are added to the stock.

QUESTION: Will you please explain for me the meaning of the term "Marinate" as used in so many recipes. Also must mayonnaise dressing be used soon after being made or will it keep for some time? Would it be possible for you to tell me which dressings are to be used for different kinds of salads, e.g. French dressing, mayonnaise, boiled salad dressing. I shall appreciate any help you may give me. M. B.

ANSWER: Thank you for your letter.

Marinate means to steep food in either oil or vinegar or a mixture of both to improve the flavor before the food is incorporated in the finished dish. Sometime true mayonnaise is used as a marinate—or variations of French dressing.

French dressing is usually used for salad greens, and is liked by many epicures for all types of fresh vegetable salads. Mayonnaise is a good blender—used to best advantage with chopped salads—however it is largely a matter of taste—we use mayonnaise exclusively in our household. I like it on fruit salads, however other members in our household prefer the usual sweet fruit dressings containing whipped cream for fruit.

Mayonnaise will keep well if covered tightly for a week. I have never tried to keep it longer than this—of course it must be kept in the ice box at all times. If left uncovered oil will come to the top.

If you will notice the Dinners of the Week I often specify the type of dressing to use with salads—when a salad is best with a special kind.

Hoping these general rules help you and that we can be of service in the future.

QUESTION: As you are so kind to answer all kinds of questions I am giving you a question too. How should a white satin wedding dress be treated when it is laid away to keep it white? It is now in layers of white tissue in a box. Thanking you.—E. R. P.

ANSWER: Thank you for your letter.

You probably have taken all the necessary precautions to store the dress properly. Clean white tissue paper should be folded inside the dress and between all the folds to prevent the dress from creasing unduly. Then the whole should be loosely wrapped in white tissue and placed in a capacious box. The box should be wrapped to exclude dust. It is no longer essential to wrap white silks in blue paper for so very few of them are genuine silk worm silk any more—the white silks of modern times stay white.

There will be no sense in even mumbling to yourself that such a dish as follows is out of season—for none knows it better than I, but it is so good, and can be prepared ahead of time, the temptation to give it to you was too strong for me.

Apricot Custard Sponge

Boiled Custard: To 2 cups hot milk add 3 egg yolks beaten light and ½ cup sugar. Stir this over the double boiler until the mixture coats the spoon, being careful to remove it immediately at this point.

Soak in the meantime 2 tablespoons gelatin in ½ cup orange juice. Add this soaked gelatin to the made custard, add also the juice from 1 can of apricots. When cool add the beaten whites of 2 eggs. Fill a mould about half full of the mixture and let almost congeal in ice box. Then arrange the drained canned apricots on the sponge, sprinkling walnuts in the spaces between the fruit, then carefully pour over the remaining custard, and chill. When ready unmould and serve with beaten raspberry jelly or raspberry sauce.
